COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Session 1962. 146th of the General Assembly.

Vol. 39. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, JANUARY 2, 1962. No. 1.

SENATE

TUESDAY, JANUARY 2, 1962

This being the day and hour fixed by the Constitution for the meeting of the 146th Regular Session of the General Assembly, the Members of the Senate assembled in the Senate Chamber.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor John Morgan Davis) called the Senate to order at 12:00 m., Eastern Standard Time.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. KIRK HUDSON, Pastor of Highland Presbyterian Church, Lancaster, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

O God, as we enter into another year and carry the responsibilities of our office, be with and remain with us.

"Dear Lord and Father of Mankind,
Forgive our feverish ways;
Reclothe us in our rightful mind,
In purer lives Thy service find,
In deeper reverence praise.
"Take from our souls the strain and stress,
And let our ordered lives confess
The beauty of Thy peace."

Use us, O God, as Thou wilt and give us patience to realize that all we do in this place will bear fruit in our Commonwealth. Let our concerns be centered not so much in ourselves as in those we represent. Give us the courage of our convictions and allow us the strength to use the intelligence that makes us a little higher than the animal.

These are our prayers, O God. Amen.

ELECTION OF PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

The PRESIDENT. The next order of business before the Senate is the election of the President pro tempore.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I would like to place in nomination for the office of President pro tempore of the Senate the name of the Honorable Anthony J. DiSilvestro.

Senator DiSilvestro has served in this position and I think he has shown in the office that he has risen above partisanship and that he has risen above the usual person who has held this office in the sense that they have been concerned about how everything is going to be, so far as the Party is concerned. I believe he has not only been a true President pro tempore in that he has been interested in the Members of the Senate, but he has shown himself to have possessed tact, to have been fair and to have dealt with every Member of this Senate justly, regardless of Party affiliation or previous conditions as he has found them to be.

Senator DiSilvestro has served a long time in this Senate. He has an enviable record that any Legislator in this Body could well repair to. He also has integrity, and he is well-known in the community and in the Commonwealth.

Therefore, Mr. President, it is with great pleasure that I rise to nominate the Honorable Anthony J. DiSilvestro for the office of President pro tempore of the Senate.

Mr. MURRAY. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, it is a great privilege and an honor for me to second the nomination of the distinguished gentleman from Philadelphia, the Honorable Anthony J. DiSilvestro.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. President, I would like to have the honor of also seconding the nomination of the Honorable Anthony J. DiSilvestro. He has done a good job. However, this will be his last year because I will get it back next year, but I do want to second the nomination of Senator DiSilvestro.

NOMINATIONS CLOSED

Mr. ROONEY. Mr. President, I move that the nominations for the office of President pro tempore of the Senate be closed.

Mr. DEVLIN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

Mr. KALMAN. Mr. President, I also second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The PRESIDENT. On the election of the President pro tempore, the Chief Clerk will call the roll, and the Clerks of the Senate will act as tellers. The candidate is the Honorable Anthony J. DiSilvestro, of Philadelphia County.

The roll was called and resulted as follows:

ADMINISTRATION OF OATH OF OFFICE TO PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE-ELECT

The PRESIDENT. The oath of office will now be administered to the newly elected President pro tempore of the Senate by the Honorable Joseph Sloane, President Judge of Court of Common Pleas No. 7, of Philadelphia County.

(The oath of office was administered accordingly.)

REMARKS BY THE HONORABLE JOSEPH SLOANE, PRESIDENT JUDGE, COURT OF COMMON PLEAS NO. 7, PHILADELPHIA

JUDGE SLOANE. They say that Judges are better when they speak less, but I cannot refrain from expressing my appreciation for this privilege of swearing in the Honorable Anthony J. DiSilvestro.

If you will excuse the personal reminiscence, I would like to say that in 1936 I was a freshman in the office of the Attorney General. Tony was a freshman in this great Senate and we worked together. The memories are deep and long. I congratulate him and I wish his well.

The PRESIDENT. Thank you, Judge Sloane.

Nothing has given me a greater thrill than to see this very dear, devoted friend of mine again assume the office of President pro tempore of the Senate. I think all of you would want to hear from the new President pro-tempore, the Honorable Anthony J. DiSilvestro.

I now present the President pro tempore of the Senate, our friend, the Honorable Anthony J. DiSilvestro.

REMARKS BY THE PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, Members of the Senate, Employees of the Senate and Friends, telegraphically, as I usually do, I thank you from the bottom of my heart for the support you have given me and for the faith that you repose in me. I tried—and, in fact, there was no difficulty—to conduct the Senate in a nonpartisan fashion. I hope to do the same, and I am sure that you will have enough confidence in me to know that I will always try and endeavor to do the right thing by all of you.

Thank you.

This union was blessed with the birth of one son, John Morgan Davis, whose achievements and success were a source of satisfaction and pride to them.

RESOLVED, That the Members of the Senate hereby express their sorrow at the death of Sara R. Jones Davis and extend their sympathy and condolences to her son, Lieutenant Governor and President of the Senate, John Morgan Davis; and be it further

COUNCILMAN-AT-LARGE PAUL D'ORTONA PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to interrupt the order of business for just one moment to introduce a gentleman who is a very close friend of the President pro tempore. Politically speaking, this gentleman grew up with Senator DiSilvestro.

BIRTHDAY FELICITATIONS EXTENDED TO SENATOR JAMES S. BERGER

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I believe the Members of the Senate will forgive me for again breaking the procedure which is before us, but one of the Members of the Senate has a birthday occurring tomorrow. There is a possibility that we may not be here to wish him well on this coming event.

Therefore, Mr. President, I would like to have it noted on the record and have the Members take cognizance of the fact that Senator James Berger, the Minority Leader of the Senate and a good friend of all the Members, is celebrating his birthday tomorrow. I believe that the singing of "Happy Birthday" would not be out of order at this time.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I would like to note that Senator Berger's wife is here. She came here to help celebrate his birthday. I would like for Georgianna Berger to take a bow.

We, on this side, wish Jimmie a very happy birthday.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I certainly appreciate the sentiment offered. I want to say that for the beginning of the new year, the Members of the Senate appear to be in very fine voice. They are not husky. Thank you very much.

The PRESIDENT. Senator Berger, that was due to the spirit.

RECEIPT OF BUDGET MESSAGE TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF PENNSYLVANIA BY DAVID L. LAWRENCE, GOVERNOR, TOGETHER WITH 1962-1963 GENERAL FUND AND SPECIAL FUNDS BUDGETS

The PRESIDENT. The Chair wishes to state that the Budget Message to the General Assembly by the Governor, together with the 1962-1963 General Fund and Special Funds Budgets for the fiscal period July 1, 1962 to June 30, 1963, have been received and will be noted in the Legislative Journal.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, Governor Lawrence has now unveiled for us the final figures of his budget. I want to personally congratulate him on his promptness in preparing this and having it for our consideration.

However, I suppose from what he has said to us in his Budget Message about keeping pledges to end deficits, we are all supposed to bow down and do an obeisance before this pillar of financial and fiscal responsibility. Before we go too far out in our praise and our smugness at this time, I think we should examine this budget and see how it is put together and at what cost. The Governor, for the first time since the Democrats took over, in 1955, has not requested new taxes.

First of all, we find in it a little item of some $9,000,000 marked "surplus." We are told that this represents the results of rigid economies practiced by the Lawrence Administration since the Legislature last adjourned, after granting the Governor every dollar for the regular budget that he requested; that is, practically every dollar. The changes were so few that they were hardly noticeable. I wonder whether this surplus is the result of economical government. Any reasonable person has a right to ask this at a time when we find the State's payroll mushrooming until now we have over 80,000 State employees providing the services and performing the functions, with few exceptions, that were formerly provided by 60,000 employees in Republican Administrations. That does not sound like contraction; that sounds like expansion.

Then we are told that there was not any increase in revenues over estimates. However, I want to sound a word of caution on that. Remember, my friends on the opposite side, we have not yet reached the end of the current fiscal period. In fact, we have not yet received the sales tax collections for the Christmas retail business which, we are told on very good authority, was nationally the best ever experienced and much, much better than in 1960. Then, too, we learn that new car sales are up substantially over 1960. So that, again, should be reflected in higher collections of the sales tax. Of course, we do not yet know what the final effect will be of taking away the commissions that were formerly paid to our retailers for collecting this sales tax for the Commonwealth. We do not know whether these now unpaid tax collectors are doing as good a job as they did when they received some small compensation for their efforts and expenses.

At this time, I merely wish to point out that the surplus, as shown in the Governor's Budget Message, does not reflect higher tax collections, although this dare not be ruled out.

Then where did this money come from? I think I know. I think it was there all the time. As I stated earlier, we gave the Governor virtually every dollar he requested in his 1961 Budget Message, with each department and agency of State Government receiving substantial increases in their appropriations, with one exception, that being the Department of Labor and Industry. Incidentally, I am told that the comptroller of that department was summarily dismissed shortly after it was discovered that no increase was requested in the Governor's Budget for that department.

Now we who have been around State Government for years are well aware that it is customary for each agency of the State Government to request more than it needs, so that when cuts are made, what is left will be just about what the department really required. This did not happen in 1961 because the Administration was firmly in control of all the legislative machinery affecting appropriations, and the Governor's Party had seen to it that the Legislature's own Budget and Finance Committee—that is, our Watchdog Committee—remained unstaffed and, therefore, completely ineffective until after the end of the regular 1961 Session.

So what did we have? We had a situation in which department after department and agency after agency of the State Government had more money appropriated to them than ever before in the 1961-1962 fiscal period. They were simply unable to spend it all. What is more, the Governor's Office, through its system of allocations and allotments, made sure they did not. The Governor had other plans for this money. He wanted to provide a surplus which could be applied to the next year to balance the General Fund Budget without new taxes in an election year. In other words, we see unfolding here a far-reaching plan of the Governor's to build for himself a monument, a monument of fiscal responsibility, but at whose expense? First of all, at the expense of the taxpayers who had to pay some $82,000,000 in taxes in advance last year. Thus, these taxpayers paid two taxes in one year.

Look over this year's budget and see how much of it represents two years' taxes collected in one year. Remember how taxes were accelerated on business, when business itself sorely needed the funds to overcome the effects of the recession and provide job opportunities. Remember how the sales tax collections were accelerated so that we will be collecting in the current fiscal period taxes for two months which normally would have fallen due in the next fiscal period.

Is it any wonder that the Governor can now report a surplus? Is it any wonder that he can claim that his budget-balancing feat is unique? Of course it is, because acceleration, as everybody knows, is a one-time job that can never be repeated. You can never do this again nor can you return to the old way. If you do, the treasury will soon be bare, and we would have the biggest deficit ever, thanks to the present Administration.

Second, and most important, this procedure was done at the expense of education. Last summer, during the Regular Session, the Legislature was trying to find $21,120,000 to implement a new educational program for Pennsylvania. We needed $400,000 to launch a program of community colleges; we needed $1,500,000 to continue the expansion of The Pennsylvania State University; we needed $620,000 to improve salaries of the faculties of our other State Colleges, and we needed $18,600,000 to help local school districts meet increased costs and improve their education programs.

The Administration said we must pass a new tax; namely, the infamous dividend tax. We said: "No, there should be money from existing revenues available." That was repeated by a number of my colleagues on this side of the Senate. We refused to vote for the dividend tax because we believed it was discriminatory and would discourage, rather than encourage, badly needed investment capital in Pennsylvania industry and because we were convinced there were other funds available.

When we voted against the dividend tax, the Governor promptly killed the education program. There was no discussion or no attempt to work out a compromise. The program was killed and the Legislature was adjourned.

Now, everybody knows we were right. There were sufficient funds. This surplus shows it. The money was available to launch the education program without the dividend tax.

Will those who supported education now insist that the Governor call a Special Session immediately so that the program can be passed and the money now available be used to implement it? Or, are we going to allow ourselves again to be bamboozled into appropriating this surplus to the departments, where it will be used in this election year in a great splurge of activity to check the tide that is now running against this Administration?

It would be fruitless for us Republicans to demand this Special Session even though we are anxious to help the schools. The Governor would ignore us, just as he ignored us last year.

The demand for action on education must come from the people and it must be so strong that he dare not refuse to consider it. We call on those who are sincerely interested in education, and the proposals to improve it, to make their votes heard promptly and loudly on Capitol Hill.

The following is a brief review of the budget just presented to us:

It calls for expenditures, as the Governor said, in excess of one billion dollars. One year ago, the budget was $990,000,000, leaving an increase of $10,000,000. Of course, the budget for last year of $990,000,000 was for a period of thirteen months, or some $76,000,000 for each month. It would hardly be fair to compare that because the budget for the thirteen months did cover only one year's expenditures for education. Since the budget for education in Pennsylvania is approximately one-half of the General Fund Budget, we could only rightfully divide the $76,000,000—the monthly appropriation—in two, leaving approximately $50,000,000. This, together with the $10,000,000 increase, leaves almost a $45,000,000 to $50,000,000 increase in this year's budget over last year's budget.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I had hoped that today we would not get into any political issues. However, I feel we cannot leave these copious notes, made by the Senator while the Governor was speaking, go unanswered. It is unfortunate that the gentleman spent his time making these notes rather than listening to the Governor's Message. I believe he would have found that he had made a number of errors. I know that the Senator is an exact gentleman and that he would like to have the facts. I am going to take a minute or two in order to review them. However, I do not want to interrupt the gentleman while he is occupied with some other business. I would like to have his close attention.

If I am incorrect, I wish the gentleman would correct me. However, I believe he has stated that balancing the budget seems to be some sort of a crime or error. I believe I was in this Body when we were $177,000,000 in the red. This also became a tremendous problem. Now that this problem has been solved, we are now back where this is also a problem. I would like to know just which days we are calling these plays so that we can follow them through. I do not have that kind of a program and I cannot, therefore, follow the players without it.

One of the problems which I presented to this Body during the last Session of the Legislature—I believe I called upon the gentleman from Cumberland and I believe he was one of the speakers on that day—was that this was the last opportunity to vote for education. We presented a program. We pleaded with you that if you did not like this program,—I served on the committee and I believe a number of the Members on the other side also served—please present a program of your own. We even had a bipartisan committee, with an equal number of representation for both sides of the aisle, in order that no one would have any advantage over the other. There was no program forthcoming from the other side. There were no tax programs coming from the other side. They would merely say that they were against this program and against the type of a tax situation which would provide the money to do the kind of a job that should be done.

I pleaded with you here twice. We brought the bill up once and it went down in defeat. I then pleaded with you and said that we would take and drop every single bill which was a part of this program unless the money was forthcoming. I said that we would not vote for the programs unless there would be money for them. You again persisted in voting "no." We then removed every one of those bill from the Calendar.

Even though it comes belatedly, I am happy to see that you now have a concern for community colleges. We told you this two years ago. We told it to you again last year. Finally, we are getting through to you to see the light. However, it is a little bit late.

If we did fail the taxpayer—and I fail to see how that happened—by having him pay the money which was due the Commonwealth a little beforehand, I do not see where this proved a hardship to the people who were concerned. To help the Commonwealth balance its budget so that the State can continue to operate its business in a proper businesslike manner, I see nothing wrong with that. It certainly did not inconvenience anyone.

Now that you are so concerned about everyone involved, it seems to me to be quite an odd coincidence that it comes in the same year as an election year. It might be that this is politics at its worst, when you are playing with education and things of that nature and using this as a means for condemning the Administration by saying that they are going ahead and balancing the budget because they want to appear to be something that they are not, number one, and, number two, that they have hurt the taxpayers in order to do this. The two things are inconsistent. If we have hurt the taxpayers by balancing the budget so that we can run a businesslike Administration, I do not think anybody has been hurt, including the taxpayer, because it will mean less money in interest that he is going to have to pay for money that the Commonwealth is going to have to borrow to continue to carry out its affairs and conduct its business.

If there is no drop in education—as a matter of fact, there is now extra money being given to education across-the-board. There is an additional sum being given to all the large universities which we want to encourage, in this sense, to be community colleges. We want to encourage them because the people who go to them have no economic status in order to be able to afford education. Slowly, but surely, most of the universities are pricing themselves out of the field of education because the people who are going to attend them can no longer afford to do so. If you are condemning this, then the only thing I can say, Mr. President, is that the gentleman's motives are not that of interest for the people who want to be educated in this Commonwealth. They are also not then on behalf of all the taxpayers.

As the gentleman well knows, in the battle of the minds which is going on today, and the battle for the conquering of people's minds that is going on not only in Pennsylvania, but all over the world today, if we do not do anything to strengthen this area and we do nothing to move along in this area, in which nothing has been done up until this time, I think we are operating on some very, very weak ground. This would not inure to any of our benefit and I think, if anything, it would not only hurt the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, but the United States as well.

As I stated earlier, I had hoped that we would not get into this. However, I further want to close by saying to the gentleman that the Governor invited you. I also want to take this opportunity to invite every Member of this Senate, whether he be a Member of the Appropriations Committee or not, to attend the hearings which I am informed will begin to take place on Monday, January 8, 1962.

We will follow the Governor's Budget, as it is set up here, department by department. I hope that all of you will attend and ask searching questions. If you feel that you cannot be present, if you will then present those questions to one of the Members of the Appropriations Committee, I am sure he will obtain an answer for you. I think there is no one in this room who if he is not present at these hearings and does not get the answers, he has no one to blame except himself.

If there are cuts to be made in the budget, I would like to know about them, just as would everybody else here. I think if we find some money, there are other places to use it. I am inviting everybody, and the Governor has done likewise. If you do not attend, I think you will have no one to blame but yourselves.

I am looking forward to Senator Wade being present at these hearings. After they are concluded, I am also looking forward to him taking this floor and telling us exactly where the cuts can be made and how he would do this if he had the power to do so.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I very much appreciate the comments of the Majority Leader. However, I think there is one thing which should be put on the record.

In the Governor's printed Budget Message, on pages 1 and 9, the deficit was referred to on two separate occasions as being over $177,000,000. I think for the benefit of the record, this should be corrected. As we proceeded in that Session, we learned that the deficit was not $177,000,000, but $36,000,000 less. In round figures, it would be about $141,000,000.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I believe the gentleman would want the record to be set straight. It was $177,000,000 when we came into Session. With the return, by some of the departments, of some of the unused funds, it was reduced down by that amount. In other words, the return of the surpluses or the amounts which could not be used caused a downward grade. That is how we arrived at the figure of $36,000,000 less than the $177,000,000.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, it came as a surprise to me —although I should have known better, because apparently the newspapers were told about this last week—that the very heart of these Appropriations Committee Hearings are to be held during next week, when there are no hotel rooms available to the Members of the House and Senate.

I am one of those people who often, in the past, when I was a Member of the House, sat in on some of the Appropriation Hearings. I, as an elected representative, feel that I have a right to know how our money is being spent. When I saw the budget today, and read about it last week, I was very interested in the fact that it looks as though there is an eight or ten per cent increase in State expenditures. I am not equipped with a high-priced, high-pressured, learned staff. The only staff I have to look into these things is what I possess in my own person. I would like to know what is going on. I would like to know where all this money is being spent. I do not think it is fair to the Members of the General Assembly to hold these sessions when there are no hotel rooms available for those of us who might want to come up and listen in.

I do not know what the haste is all about. This is a deliberate Body and I am very suspicious of anybody trying to push something through so fast when they are holding hearings that are so important. Senator Weiner just told us how important they were. He told us that if we are not present, the guilt is on our own heads. I do not like that kind of thing. Secondly, I was in a pretty good cat fight with Senator Weiner on this floor on, I think, August 14, 1961, and August 28, 1961, concerning revenue estimates. I was than told that I was making things up when I forecast that many millions of dollars would be available if we used accurate and current revenue estimates. Again, gentlemen, I caution this Chamber to be careful on how they proceed.

All right, this is January. We have in our possession possibly five or six months' figures of this fiscal year. However, they are not the most prosperous months of this fiscal year. I refer to a statement which I heard on the radio yesterday from the Chairman of the Board of the United States Steel Corporation. He stated that steel production will be up thirty per cent this year over last year. Again, gentlemen, I call your attention to the fact that Pennsylvania makes twenty per cent of the Nation's steel. I just beg that this Chamber proceed calmly, without being pushed by anybody, whether within the Senate or without, study these figures and all of us be given the opportunity to know what we are voting on.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, the inviting of people to attend a meeting has inherent in it the ability to provide the adequate space for them. If Senator Bell and other Senators have difficulty in obtaining any place to stay, I will see that that is taken care of for them. I will also provide transportation for them to and from the hearings, if that becomes necessary. If anybody wants to attend these hearings and has trouble in getting hotel space, if they will see me, I will be glad to arrange accommodations for them if that is important.

The PRESIDENT. At this time, the Chair turns the gavel over to the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Ripp, to preside.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Joseph D. Ripp) in the Chair.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I fear the Majority Leader has misinterpreted my remarks. I will make them much clearer.

First, I do not need a Dutch uncle to find me accommodations in the Harrisburg area.

Secondly, what I resent is the fact that these very important hearings are being held at a time when all the Members of the General Assembly will not have the opportunity to be here.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would just like to request the Members of the Senate to take the General Fund Budget of the Commonwealth—that is the blue book, with the yellow binding—and turn to the first pages which show the contrast in the money expended, on page 1, entitled "Comparative Financial Statement," and they will see strictly at a glance, without going into any detail, what the appropriations are, what has been spent and what is being done. You will see that there is no great variation between what was done in 1959-1961 and what is being done in 1962-1963. One increase is mandated by the Legislature, where there must be an increase every year regardless of what the Administration is or who is running the Administration.

If you turn to page 2, you will see the summary. On page 3, you will see the actual estimated revenues, and on page 4, they discuss deficiency and additional appropriations for 1961-1962.

I think if all of us would take some time and study these four pages, we will begin with a base from which to discuss these matters intelligently. I am not asking everybody to be here every day. However, I am inviting them to do so. If there is some area in which you are interested, then you can come up on that day. If there is some question which you would like answered and you do not want to be here for the entire meeting, if you will submit your question to the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee, myself or one of the Members of the Appropriations Committee, we will get you an answer to your question.

The gentleman tells us that we should not make haste. Today is Tuesday, January 2. We are starting the hearings six days later, on January 8. How much longer do we have to delay them? We have no other business before us except the problem of the budget, the appropriations and the other matters that are inherent in that. That is all these even numbered Sessions take cognizance of and that is all they are concerned with. How much longer are we supposed to delay them? Should we wait until next month or next year? We cannot do that. It is all very clear.

The Governor has gotten his message to us very early. Let us look into it and if he is incorrect, let us correct him. If he is correct, let us go ahead with that and let us get the business of the Commonwealth underway so that all of us can go about our regular business without wasting the Commonwealth's money by being in a long, drawn out Session.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I do not have the slightest intention of getting into any discussion on a budget which is of such a magnitude as the one which has just been submitted to the new Legislature at this time. However, I must say that I agree with Senator Bell in his objection to starting these budget hearings at a time when it is impossible and when the Legislature cannot be in Session. However, Mr. President, that is a decision which we cannot alter, although we can object to it.

I do want to make one observation which I am sure is of a nonpolitical nature at this time.

Last year, as I recall it, there was a House and Senate combined committee to study the subject of the reapportionment of the Congressional Districts in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. To date, as I understand it and from all that I can gather, that committee has not been summoned together to work with this problem.

I had hoped, Mr. President, that the Governor would see fit to accelerate the solution of this very difficult problem and this very important problem. We do not want the Congressmen of Pennsylvania to be elected at-large, which would be the result if this problem is not solved. I am sure that if a real effort is made to get out of this bogged-down situation, in which the Democratic Party apparently finds itself in the matter of reapportionment of the Congressional Districts of Pennsylvania, the problem can be solved. We stand ready to meet at the call of the State Chairman of that Reapportionment Committee and to assist in any way in solving this problem to the best interest of the people of Pennsylvania.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I wish to advise the gentleman who just spoke, and all the Members of the Senate, that there have been numerous meetings on both sides. Some were attended by myself and also by some of the gentlemen on the other side.

The biggest problem to the reapportionment seems to be that there is only one plan put forth by one of the spokesmen for the gentlemen on the other side and he will not adhere to any other type of plan. The Democratic position has been—and I want to state it so that no one will be able to misunderstand it—that we are in favor of a fair and equitable reapportionment. We are entitled to twenty-seven Congressmen and there are approximately 11,000,000 people in this Commonwealth. Let us divide twenty-seven by 11,000,000 and let us arrive at the right number of districts. If that happens to mean an extra Congressman or so in Delaware County, where they need two, or where they need two in Montgomery County, let us have them. If we need an extra one up in Venango County, let us have it.

The only position that has been taken by the spokesman for the gentlemen on the other side has been that unless you lose a Congressman from Philadelphia, there is nothing left to talk about. I do not know whether we are entitled to another Congressman from Philadelphia or two less Congressmen from Philadelphia. I have no idea about that at all. What I am saying and what the Democratic Party has been saying right along is that we are in favor of a fair and equitable reapportionment. Wherever these gentlemen happen to fall, that is where they will go. I believe that that problem is now in the process of being resolved by some of the other people who represent both Parties. I feel that there should be some sort of an answer or solution to this if both Parties have a meeting of the minds by about the fifteenth of January or perhaps a little beyond that date, if they cannot come to an automatic understanding. Some of these people are busy and are away at the moment. However, I believe that about that time we should have some sort of an answer to this perplexing problem.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I devoutly hope that the gentleman is correct and there will be some meeting of the minds in the very near future. However, I do not see how minds can meet too well unless they sit down together somewhere and get at it.

I only know what I have read in the newspapers because there certainly has not been any meeting. As far as I can see, there apparently has been a great reluctance to get the committee together and get down to work on this problem.

Mr. MULLIN. Mr. President, over the week end, I read in the Philadelphia newspapers that a group of Republican leaders from the counties of Delaware, Montgomery, Bucks, Chester, Lancaster and Lehigh met and stated that they did not want reapportionment in the districts of these counties. They want things to remain the way they are. These gentlemen were recently acting in the capacity of pious frauds and self-righteous hypocrits, holding meetings against the plan of district realignment submitted by the Democratic leader of Philadelphia County which, at that time, was the only plan advanced by anybody.

Now these political phonies have revealed themselves in their true light. These little, would-be Caesars have told the people that they do not want any reapportionment, although their districts are grossly oversized and the people are underrepresented. They do not want to expand even into the districts of the other strongly Republican areas adjoining them. They do not even trust each other. Perhaps, the people would be justified in not putting any trust in them. We are all bound by law to reapportion the districts in accordance with the Constitution of Pennsylvania and also the laws of the United States.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I am going to pull a Senator Weiner at this time and say that I was not aware that this subject would come up this afternoon.

However, when the gentleman from Philadelphia County called all those fancy names—I do not think I would use that kind of language and perhaps I can be censured for making that statement on the floor of the Senate. You know, down our way, in southeastern Pennsylvania, they had a thing called the "Green Grab." There was an election last fall and the people spoke. In my county, we had hoped to turn out a 35,000 majority for my Party. We turned out between a 51,000 and a 58,000 majority for my Party. That is the people speaking.

Mr. President, in the future, I am going to present to the Senate—I am not going to take up too much time this afternoon—resolutions passed by the County Commissioners of the County of Delaware, by many, many townships, boroughs, and the city of Chester, to the effect that Delaware County does not want any part of a "Green Grab" of 1961 or a "Green Grab" of 1962.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to ask the gentleman whether "Green Grab" is some kind of grass that grows in Delaware or Montgomery Counties. Is that different from crab grass?

The SPEAKER. This being the day and the hour required by Article II, Section 4, of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the annual meeting of the General Assembly, the members of the House of Representatives will come to order, for the convening of the 1962 Regular Session.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend David R. Hoover, offered the following prayer:

O God, our Father, as the strains of "Auld Lang Syne" still linger on our lips and the memories of the past year flood in upon us, we humbly pray that at the beginning of this New Year and at the start of a new legislative session Thou wilt bless this august body with Thy presence; inspire them with Thy truth; and challenge them to plan, undertake, and complete the work which Thou wouldst have them do to the honor and glory of Thy blest name. Amen.

The SPEAKER. The next order of business would be the obtaining of a quorum. The Chair will delay several minutes and the Whips will try to convey the information to any such absentees as may be in the Capitol to report to the House for the quorum call. The Chair will delay for, say, five or ten minutes.

REMARKS BY SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. Under the provisions of Article II, section 11, of the Constitution of the Commonwealth, this House in 1961 adopted rules to govern its proceedings. These rules will continue to be the rules for this session unless otherwise ordered by the House.

The Standing Committees and members thereof, as constituted by the House in the 1961 regular session, will remain the same for this 1962 session unless otherwise ordered by the House.

The probabilities are that in the regular session days to come the Chair will have little opportunity to address the House. I imagine there will be plenty of discussion on pending matters in the days to come, and it is to be hoped that that discussion will be informed discussion.

It would be the hope of the Chair that when the meetings of the Appropriations Committee begin, not only that we have a creditable attendance of members of that committee, but the Chair has always been of the opinion that for members who insist upon becoming members of a committee and thereafter never show their faces, there should be some way of substituting someone who will serve. Every chairman of this House, particularly, is interested in some phase of the budget which will come before us. Every chairman deals with measures affecting a particular constituency. The chairman of the Education Committee is interested, and properly so, in education and in the allocation of funds.

The Chair would like to see the chairmen of the committees in regular attendance at committee meetings, particularly when the matter concerns the region over which they have legislative jurisdiction.

I do not imagine it would be feasible at this session to increase overall allocations, but our budget committee not only allocates funds, but, in many instances, determines function. How does it determine function? By allotting so much to this activity and so much to that activity and so much to another activity. And so, the budget office frames the framework of operation. In a very real sense it determines overall operating policy. And so I say that I have very little hope that the total overall allocation of any department can be increased at this session because I agree with His Excellency, the Governor, that if there is to be any increase in overall appropriations that there be established a tax basis upon which they can stand.

But we do have the privilege and, indeed, if we are so convinced that we are right, the obligation to shift amounts within the framework of the total appropriation. If we think that one activity has been overemphasized, we can take remedial action. But we cannot do that sort of thing unless we know what we are doing.

I would like to see committee hearings that were not just a travesty, a matter of form, but committee meetings so large it would be necessary to have a caucus room. I would like to see members of this House—they are privileged to do so, particularly the chairmen—study the budget and show up at budget hearings so that if they have any doubt about any particular appropriations they may require the department head to justify the overall allocation within the department.

I have seen and you have seen much uninformed discussion regarding budgets. The budget office has a very distinct responsibility, executive responsibility, and because there is executive responsibility, we cannot abdicate legislative responsibility, and we cannot exercise legislative responsibility unless we know what we are talking about.

If you will then study anew various provisions in this budget, you owe it to yourself that you know why and that you are in a position to tell the members of this House why.

Do you know why we have the present setup of this budget office, revenue department, determining revenues and the Department of Administration in the picture? Because experience shows that in order to have a budget you have to have an agreed-upon tax base. In the past when it was a matter of concern directly to the Legislature, there was great difficulty in determining a tax base.

I have heard and you have heard arguments upon the floor where one aisle said so and so and the other aisle differed $125 million in tax estimates which made an executive budget an inevitable outcome.

You know it isn't so, the idea that the budget officer—it just isn't so—retires into a high mountain and there receives a communication from an angel on high and comes down with a sacred setup which he reduces to a book of numbers, and then that turns into a budget which is sacrosanct and cannot be changed.

The Governor himself cannot spend a single penny unless we authorize it. That is a terrific responsibility because, as I say, if we are going to get into this thing, we must know what we are talking about. And so the Chair would like to see budget hearings that are budget hearings, at which every department head is required to justify the budget to which he had subscribed.

NOTIFICATION SENATE IS ORGANIZED

The SERGEANT-AT-ARMS. Mr. Speaker, the chairman of the Committee on the part of the Senate to wait upon the House.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the Committee on the part of the Senate.

The CHAIRMAN. Mr. Speaker, we are a Committee on the part of the Senate to inform the House that the Senate is now organized and ready to proceed with the business of the session.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the Committee on the part of the Senate.

RESOLUTION

COMMITTEE TO NOTIFY SENATE HOUSE IS CONVENED

Mr. MUSTO offered a resolution which was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives. Tuesday, January 2, 1962.

Resolved, That a committee of three members be appointed by the Speaker to wait upon the Senate and inform that body that the 1962 Regular Session of the House of Representatives is convened and read to proceed with the business of the Session.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED

The SPEAKER. The Chair appoints as a committee to wait upon the Senate and inform that body that the House is organized and ready to proceed with business, Messrs. Musto, Filo and Tompkins.

The committee will proceed in the performance if its duties.

STATEMENT BY MINORITY LEADER

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like unanimous consent to make a few remarks especially in reply to the remarks of the Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is priveleged to range wide and handsome. Go ahead.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Thank you.

Mr. Speaker, we are starting a new session. This session, of course, is essentially to be based on nothing but examining the budget and also the revenues for the current year. We are very, very limited in what we are going to be able to do.

The Speaker opened the question of how we can best audit, analyze and examine this budget. I read in the paper and I believe Mr. Polen—I don't want to preempt his remarks—is going to announce that he is starting his budget hearings on Monday, January 8, at 9:30, I believe.

Here is our position on that matter as the minority. We will today get the Governor's budget, and it is a budget over $1 billion. We do not know what hearings are going to be held next Monday, which department is going to be called in.

We know we are going to spend over $1 billion, and the estimates of revenue are fairly fixed and may or may not reflect the tremendous increase in the gross national product this year. We feel that starting these budget hearings on Monday, January 8, is just a week too soon. We would like a little more time to examine the budget and to find out to what extent we want to cross-examine witnesses. We may have some interrogatories that we want to submit in advance as to whom we would like to see present at these hearings, because if this is just a separate session and a revenue session, I believe that the people want us as a minority to give a thorough examination of that budget.

We are just getting the budget today. And I believe this, as the Speaker, that the members of this House should attend these budget hearings whenever possible. If we start them next week, with the farm show here, you will absolutely nullify the opportunity of any members to be here next week to start these hearings. And you may start important hearings next week. I do not know.

But I say this on the part of the minority: We will lend every aid to getting this session over with, as the Governor suggests in the newspapers, on March 1st. I do not say that is now a target we cannot reach, but we certainly are not going to sit by here and permit assembly-line, streamlined appropriation hearings to get this budget analyzed and out of the way quickly so that we can go back home. That is not what the people want us to do.

Therefore, I feel that starting these budget hearings next week is just another example of steamrollering around here and I object to it strenuously. Start them on the 15th, have them down in the caucus room so all the members can come and give us a chance to bring in the witnesses that we want, and let us find out whether the State needs a billion dollars to run it in the next year or not. That is an awful lot of money. When Governor Fine went out in 1952 his budget was $1.014 billion in two years. Now you have a budget of $1 billion in one year. The Governor is going to read his message, and all he does in that message is praise the fact that he is spending so much money. You will find his budget says, I am so pleased I am spending "X" number of dollars today, and that was three times what you people spent in 1953. That is nothing to brag about, but that is the inference.

I feel that we should have time to look into this budget and examine the revenue. Have you overstated the revenue or understated it? Naturally, we want to do something for the schools this session. It is one of the paramount interests. We want to be able to do it within the confines of existing taxes, if possible.

Therefore I am giving Dean Polen and you people the admonition that I think you are violating the precept that you are starting on by starting these hearings next Monday when nobody can be here to even take part in them or get a hotel room.

BUDGET MESSAGE OF GOVERNOR DAVID L. LAWRENCE

Mr. Lieutenant Governor, Mr. Speaker, Members of the General Assembly:

We are establishing a record of a sort—you and I—in our meeting here this afternoon. Never before has a General Assembly received the Commonwealth's budget at an earlier time in a session. I might add that the documents I am presenting include not only the General Fund budget, but the budgets for the Motor License Fund, the Game Fund, the Fish Fund and the various other special funds, which, collectively, cover all operations of the State government.

Being on time, according to our standards, is a virtue and I am happy that we in the executive branch of the government have been able to compile these voluminous presentations for you according to the schedule we set for ourselves early last year.

I am happier still to report that Pennsylvania's financial ledgers, at long last, are in balance. For the 1961-62 fiscal period, as a matter of fact, we estimate a closing surplus of $8.9 million. That surplus, when added to estimated revenues for the 1962-63 fiscal year, permits us to balance the budget for that period also.

I cannot help but recall my first appearance as Governor before the General Assembly, 34 months ago today, when I submitted the budget for the 1959-61 biennium. At that time, I had the unpleasant duty to report a deficit of over $177 million, which had accumulated over the previous decade. That deficit has now been wiped out and, for the first time in recent history, Pennsylvania's budget is in balance—honest balance.

It is hardly necessary for me to tell you how difficult this achievement has been to come by. It has taken hard decisions and hard, unrelenting work. It has required the most painstaking regulation of departmental spending and it has meant pacing out improvements in service to our ability to find the money to pay for them.

A balanced budget in Pennsylvania is something more than a desirable goal—it is a constitutional mandate. To meet that mandate on paper is a relatively easy challenge; to meet it in fact is a difficult matter indeed. I have been insistent that we do it the right way, with honest estimates of expenditures and realistic estimates of the revenue we will receive. Today's pleasant news is proof to me of the wisdom of that course.

Fiscal responsibility, the father of the balanced budget, has very real meaning in Pennsylvania's battle for economic development and growth. It is an imperative part of the overall community climate which can attract industry and business to this State and encourage existing Pennsylvania firms to stay here and expand here. Therefore, I do not consider budget balancing to be an end to itself; rather it is part of the overall effort to build the kind of community which can grow and prosper and compete, the kind of community which can offer hope and confidence to its citizens, the kind of community which reflects the very best in our way of life and in our way of government.

Pennsylvania's budget, this budget I am submitting for your consideration this afternoon, is not, however, content with the status quo in State services or in State contributions to local governmental bodies. This is no crotchety document which has been brought into balance by striking out existing programs or resisting needed improvements and advances. Indeed, the 1962-63 General Fund budget is $887,457 greater than a billion dollars. It is important to point out, however, that less than a tenth of this amount goes to general government—that is, to the operation of the various State departments. On the other hand, close to 70 per cent of the money will be paid out in grants and subsidies to county assistance boards, to local governments and to various non-State organizations and institutions. The bulk of the remaining 20 per cent of the 1962-63 requirements will be spent to operate the numerous State institutions—the general, tuberculosis and mental hospitals, State colleges, correctional institutions, youth development centers, and various other State facilities. Close to $60 million is needed for interest and the sinking fund, for authority rentals, and for refunds.

I have said that a balanced State budget is an important asset in Pennsylvania's determined fight for fuller economic growth and development. Never has that fight been waged more intensively or more effectively than in the past several years.

Pennsylvania's industrial development program is recognized as the best in the Nation, serving as a pattern for the efforts of numerous other states. But appropriations to the industrial development program, in themselves, cannot bring new industries into the State. That requires a number of conditions, not the least of which is the competence of government to handle its affairs in an efficient and business-like way. Another important factor is the tax climate, which is judged by the relative tax incidence on industrial operations. In this field, also, Pennsylvania has made measurable progress over the past seven years, in a constant determination to provide a tax climate that compares favorably with our competing states. The success of that effort is known to you all, because this General Assembly, in its session last year, contributed to it with further industrial concessions in the sales and capital stock taxes.

There is still another facet of the business climate in which State government has a direct responsibility, and that is the kind and calibre of governmental services that are provided.

This covers a whole spectrum of activities from highways to public schools, from the availability of clean water supply to the scope of slum clearance program, from the kind of treatment provided the mentally ill to the number of parks and recreation facilities which are provided. Library services, higher educational programs, conservation of natural resources, protection of civil rights —these and dozens of other governmental functions are of keen interest to businessmen looking for new plants and new plant sites, as well as to the citizenry as a whole.

And in these areas, Pennsylvania has kept pace and, in many instances, has actually set the pace. This budget provides for continued progress in all these fields, because it recognizes that in today's world a static society is a dying society.

I will not take your time this afternoon to digest all of the service improvements which the budget, if adopted, will bring about. You will want to review the documents yourselves and to gather more extensive information from the hearings which, I hope, will be scheduled promptly.

But there are several observations I would like to make and several service areas I would like to dwell upon for a few minutes.

This budget provides for continuation of the industrial development program at its present level, although the appropriation request is lower than last year's. This is attributable to two factors: first the industrial development fund is a revolving fund, as you know, and more money is being returned each year from past investments, which can be put back to work through new loans. Secondly, the Federal Area Redevelopment Act now has been implemented with appropriations making Federal moneys available to work in partnership with State, local and private funds. The appropriation requested, though smaller in amount, will permit PIDA to operate at the same level as it has during this current fiscal year.

In State grants for urban redevelopment, in which Pennsylvania has pioneered, the amount requested is the same as last year, while modest increases are being asked in grants for the industrial development assistance and tourist promotion assistance programs. Similarly, an increase is requested in the program to promote Pennsylvania agricultural products whose variety and high quality have never been properly exploited.

More funds—approximately a tripling of last year's allocation—are being sought for the library assistance program, which was enacted into law last year, and additional money is needed to carry out the program of human relations, including enforcement of the fair housing and fair education laws which were two more accomplishments of the last legislative session.

In the Public Assistance program, the requested appropriation will pay for operation of the Kerr-Mills medical care for the aging program on a full year basis, as well as provide moneys to pay the full year's cost of a two dollar a month increase in food allowance for public assistance recipients between the ages of 18 and 64. Even these improvements, I must add, leave our public assistance standards too low. I hope—and I am sure you share that hope—that economic conditions will improve sufficiently to permit a further upgrading of those standards next year.

In our youth program, this budget asks for money to operate six youth development centers, compared to the one which was the State's complement at the beginning of last year. And the program of assistance to local communities for juvenile police and probation officers is maintained at the same level as before.

The mental health program, which is such a pressing responsibility, will require the expenditure of more than $113 million for the twelve months of the 1962-63 fiscal period. Looking back a decade, the appropriation in the 1951-53 biennum for mental health was $86,830,000. This year's 12-month request is more than two and a half times as great as the 12-month appropriation ten years ago. There is good reason for the increase. In this upcoming fiscal period, for example, we will provide 2,000 more beds for patients who are mentally ill or emotionally retarded. Our program of community sheltered workshops will be doubled, and we will increase the number of beds provided for mental patients in private hospitals throughout the Commonwealth. More funds will be invested in training, and additional money will be allocated to expand our diagnostic and evaluation clinics.

No one can question that this is money well spent. No obligation is more squarely upon the State than the treatment and care—and cure—of the mentally ill and the emotionally disturbed. We have converted a program, which was the shame of us all, into one which provides modern treatment and good hope for recovery. But this work is not over, far from it. The report of the Joint Commission on Mental Illness and Health, submitted to the Congress a year ago, says that national expenditures for mental patient services should be doubled in the next five years—and tripled in the next ten. Obviously, much more remains to be done, but Pennsylvania can be proud of the progress it has already made, and confident that the work so well done thus far will not be neglected or abandoned in the years ahead.

And, of course, it is not in mental health alone that vast new sums of money must be spent in the decade ahead. The Governor's Committee on Education, in its excellent report issued last Spring, recommended that public expenditures for education in Pennsylvania practically be doubled by 1970. There can be disagreement with portions of the Committee's many recommendations, but no one has yet to dispute the contention that the amount of State and local money spent on education must be increased by a considerable amount, if we are to attain the excellence of instruction which is an imperative need in today's world.

Interestingly enough, the State's contribution to education has more than doubled in the past decade. School subsidies, for example, will require $422 million for this fiscal year, while the appropriation for the 1951-53 biennium—for 24 months—was slightly less than $363 million. In other words, the amount of State money to be sent to school districts in the form of subsidies in the twelve months of the 1962-63 fiscal period is 132 per cent larger—nearly two and a half times the amount the State spent for the same number of months a decade ago.

The same comparisons generally hold true in the State's participation in higher education, where this year's requests for the State colleges, for Penn State, and for State-aided colleges and universities are more than twice the appropriations of a decade ago. Of course, much of this is due to increased enrollments, particularly at the State colleges, where the number of students is two and a half times as large as ten years ago. Penn State also has had a healthy increase in its enrollment and its appropriations reflect that growth. In this budget, I am asking that $20 million be provided for Penn State for the next twelve months' operations, which compares with $17,637,500 appropriated for twenty-four months ten years ago. In other words, this year's allocation is almost two and a half times as large as a decade ago.

Pennsylvania's program for higher education is a unique one, giving support as it does, not only to its 14 state-owned colleges and Penn State, but to other private colleges and universities as well. While the program is good, it lacks three essentials, it seems to me. The first is a system of State scholarships and loans, for which a Constitutional amendment was passed last session and which will require approval by the 1963 Legislature before being voted upon in referendum. Obviously, such a program will be of great assistance to able and needy students, as well as to the private colleges and universities of the State. The second serious lack in our program of higher education is a system of community colleges. Funds requested in the General Government section of the Department of Public Instruction include provision for development of a complete program for community colleges which can be put into operation as soon as enabling legislation, together with the necessary appropriation, is enacted in the 1963 session. Finally, of course, higher education needs more money generally. While the scope of Pennsylvania's program has much merit, the degree of support which we have provided, although improving, is still inadequate.

Consequently, in this budget, as restricted as it is, an effort has been made to give additional funds to the colleges and universities, both state-owned and state-supported. I have already mentioned the request for Penn State. For the State colleges, the appropriation asked for is one and a quarter million dollars greater than that provided in the 13 months of the 1961-62 fiscal period. In the instances of the University of Pennsylvania and the University of Pittsburgh, the request is 15 per cent larger than a twelve month proration of last year's appropriation.

The appropriation for Drexel Institute, which first received State support in 1959, is being increased to make its grants more in keeping with the per student appropriations to other state-supported colleges, and an appropriation is asked for its library school just as we have provided assistance for the University of Pittsburgh library school, beginning the current fiscal year.

The most significant change in the State's assistance for higher education in this budget involves Temple University. Of all the state-aided schools, other than Penn State, Temple has attempted to keep its tuition low and to expand its enrollment, 82 per cent of which consists of Pennsylvanians.

After consultation with the University's trustees, I am recommending that Temple University be brought more closely into the Commonwealth higher educational system, making it more comparable to Penn State than to the other state-supported schools. Accordingly, the appropriation suggested for Temple for 1962-63 is 74 per cent greater than that legislated for 1961-62. Actually, in terms of money, this year's request is for $4,209,395 which compares with the appropriation of $2,418,215 for the current fiscal year. Temple has agreed, under this new relationship, to reduce its tuition for Pennsylvania undergraduate students by $100 effective the Fall term of this year and also to increase its enrollment by 900 undergraduate students in the next academic year.

Thus, State funds will accomplish two highly desirable purposes: provide for lower tuition costs for Pennsylvania students and open the doors to higher education for more Pennsylvanians, particularly in the southeastern portion of the State. Essentially, Temple, whose board will be expanded to provide for nine Commonwealth trustees, will serve the same purpose as Penn State in our most populous area, where college training can be achieved by many without the additional expense of food and lodging. It is equally essential that a similar program be worked out for a comparable facility in Western Pennsylvania to provide the same attractions of low tuition and larger enrollment.

And while I am discussing the State's program for higher education, I should point out that the total State support for this function is not reflected in the figures I have just mentioned. Since 1949, for example, the Commonwealth, through the General State Authority, has constructed or authorized projects totalling more than $246 million at the State Colleges, Penn State and the state-aided colleges and universities. Of the total amount, almost $120 million has gone to the state colleges, more than $50 million to Penn State and something over $77 million to the state-aided schools. This year, alone, the budget calls for rental payments of almost $5 million out of the General Fund for these projects.

The State's role in education, obviously, is a massive one. Every cent of the Sales Tax goes to pay for education, and it still falls $83 million short of meeting the appropriations requested for the Department of Public Instruction in this budget.

While the pennies and nickles and dollars paid in the sales tax are allocated to education, we know that the pennies and nickles and dollars paid in gasoline taxes go for the construction and maintenance of one of the Nation's most extensive highway systems. Portions of those funds also pay a large share of the cost of the State Police, who, under this budget, will be brought up to a full legal complement of 2,100 uniformed men.

The highway department itself is adequately funded to move forward with the greatest construction and maintenance program in the Commonwealth's history, in which federally-aided projects and those which are 100 per cent State obligations can be carried on concurrently, without one robbing the other. I am sure you will be interested to know that in the 1961 calendar year, the State Highways Department let 402 separate construction jobs, the largest total in history. And that pace of construction will quicken in the weeks and months ahead.

Fortunately, we have been able to carry out the interstate construction program thus far without having to resort to the borrowing authorization given to the Highway and Bridge Authority last year. The reason for this is quite simple: the Federal Highway Trust fund has been replenished by Congressional action so that adequate Federal funds will be available this year and next to construct the planned miles of interstate highways without borrowing funds from the Authority. We were wise, in my opinion, to ask for the increased borrowing capacity, as a safeguard. As a matter of fact, it may be drawn upon in future years, if Federal funds are depleted. But since we do not need to use it now, we can do the same amount of work without paying for borrowed money. Once again, prudent management—aided by a responsible Congress—will permit us to get the job done at less cost to the taxpayers.

Along this same line, I want to point out that the revision of investment policies for the State's two retirement funds, inaugurated by this Administration, has been so successful that no appropriation is needed for interest deficiency in either of these funds nor is an appropriation necessary for administration of the public school employees' retirement fund.

Summing up, the budgets herewith presented have much to commend them.

First, they are balanced—which is to say that the revenues we will receive will pay for the expenditures requested.

Secondly, they are balanced without the need for any additional taxes. No revenue legislation is being asked of this session.

Third, they provide funds to carry forward programs which are the State's obligation and, in many instances, to improve upon those programs within the framework of previous legislative authorization.

Fourth, they are submitted to the General Assembly in the opening hours of the opening day of the session.

These, I firmly believe, are major achievements. They are achievements which should not and cannot be sacrificed by any effort, legislative or executive, to fake revenue estimates or to deliberately under-appropriate. Such foolhardy action would only start us again on the rocky road of deficits and fiscal self-deception from which we have just, so painfully, extricated ourselves.

The Legislature has the right and the obligation to review the budget documents with searching scrutiny, which I hope it will begin to do promptly. There is no reason on earth why these deliberations cannot be conducted and the necessary decisions made within the next two months. By doing that, this session can be concluded by March 1st.

If there are reductions which legitimately can be made, they should be made. However, if there are additional appropriations, they must be matched by the money to pay for them. That means simply, ladies and gentlemen, that I have not deviated from my position, which is fixed and inviolate, that I will not approve appropriation measures, however worthy the cause, unless the revenue is provided to pay for those measures.

Recalling the dark days of 1959, with a deficit of $177 million facing the Governor and the General Assembly, I cannot feel anything but a sense of genuine pride in the accomplishments which these budgets represent. But let me sound a word of caution to future governors and future legislatures: the task of bringing Pennsylvania's budget into balance has been one of the most difficult in my long career of public service. No one in the years ahead should knowingly let the deficit-pattern become re-established in Pennsylvania.

The slate has been wiped clean. And in so doing, we have brought sense and reason to the State's fiscal affairs and have demonstrated, for all to see, that Pennsylvania is able and competent to conduct its affairs efficiently and effectively. The benefits of this action can be far-reaching. Now it is your responsibility, and that of future governors and future assemblies, to make certain this accomplishment is respected and maintained in the years ahead.

The LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR. Governor Lawrence, on behalf of the members of the General Assembly I want to thank you for your message.

The Committees on the part of the Senate and the House will now escort His Excellency, the Governor, to his Chambers.

The Chair asks that the members of the House and visitors remain seated for just a moment while the members of the Senate leave the hall of the House.

Members of the Senate will please reassemble immediately in the Senate Chamber.

The business for which the joint session was assembled having been transacted, the session is now adjourned.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) IN THE CHAIR

PRINTING PROCEEDINGS OF JOINT SESSION

Mr. KAMYK. Mr. Speaker, I move that the proceedings of the Senate and the House of Representatives be printed in full in this day's Legislative Journal.

The motion was agreed to.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF BUDGET HEARINGS

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I am about to introduce 65 bills to carry out the budget for the 1962-63 fiscal year.

Mr. Speaker, it is our intention to start the budget hearings on Monday, January 8, at 9:30 a. m., and work continuously until we have completed the hearings. I want to assure all the members of the House that each and every member who wants to be heard can and will be heard. This is the policy we have followed in the past. We expect the members of the Appropriations Committee, the joint committees of the House and Senate, as this will be a joint hearing, to be present and participate. We invite any member of this House to be present. To those who cannot be present I extend the same invitation as I did in 1961, that they give me any questions to be asked or any information that they would like to have discussed. This can be given to me or to some other member. If it is given to me I can assure you the questions will be asked and answered, as we did in the past.

Mr. Speaker, during the years that I have been chairman of the Appropriations Committee we have never rushed things through. Every person present has had a full opportunity to ask any question, discuss any matter, pertinent to the budget, and I want to assure the membership of this House that will prevail at the hearings we are going to start next Monday.

Mr. Speaker, this is an historic budget. I just want to give you a couple of figures in connection with it.

The first budget was presented by Governor Pinchot for the 1923-25 biennium. It called for the expenditure for the 24-month, or two-year period, of $89,731,115, and that included the administration of the highway department, and if you break it down to a one-year basis, or 12 months, we would have an expenditure of $44,865,557 to compare against the budget of today for 12 months of $1,000,887,457.

Mr. Speaker, these are large sums of money. They deserve the scrutiny of the members of this House who provide the revenue to pay for these expenditures. Fortunately, if we follow a wise policy, a sound fiscal policy, we will limit our expenditures as we did in the past to the realistically estimated tax revenues.

I believe in this budget more work, more sound policy has gone into its making than in any budget in history.

I want to say to the minority leader, Mr. Johnson, when he thought we should postpone the start of the hearings, that I believe we have a job to be done and the quicker we start on it and the harder we work on it, the sooner it will be finished.

I will send each member of the Appropriations Committee of the House, and Senator McGinnis will do the same in the Senate, a written notice advising them of the meetings, of our plans, which, as they presently stand, will call for budget hearings to begin at 9:30 a. m., January 8, and we will take the budget and we will start with the first offices as listed and we will go right down the line in order.

So, each and every member of House committees will receive that written notice from me, and I again extend to all members of the House, particularly to committee chairmen who have an interest in certain programs, to be present and participate fully in these hearings. Thank you.

STATEMENT BY MAJORITY LEADER

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the chairman of the Appropriations Committee has made the official announcement of the scheduling of the hearings of the joint Appropriations Committee, beginning with Monday, January 8.

If the records are correct, in the past the minority leader has always stated, give us something to do, some work we can put our teeth into. I know of nothing better, or nothing that could be more important than the proper work on the budget in the budget hearings in the Appropriations Committee in a fiscal-year session of the General Assembly. We are saying to you, and we say to our members, the budget is here on the opening day, in the opening hours. The chairman of the Appropriations Committee has introduced 65 appropriations bills covering that budget.

On Monday, January 8, in order, as the budget appears on your desk, the hearings will be held. I assume that the Chief Clerk's office will distribute the budget to all the members of this House in a few minutes, or in a few minutes following our statements here on the floor at the present time.

May I say to the members whose excuse will be that there will be no place to be housed, we will guarantee that we will house every single member of this House for every single day the Farm Show is on, though you would not have your regular hotel room where you normally live while in the city of Harrisburg. Therefore, we will eliminate that excuse.

Then in addition, I would say to our own members that I hope they will participate in the hearings day in and day out and ask all the questions they feel proper, and answers will be forthcoming.

I hope the hearings will be of such importance that they will not be able to be held in the Appropriation room but in the New House Caucus Room. This, I think, is what we should do.

Other than that, I would say there is a considerable amount of information behind this budget, concerning which some of us and some of you desire full information. There is no other possible way than in the budget hearings to secure this information and in your own mind get the proper answers regarding the proposed legislation.

Another change in the policy which has occurred is that as of today the appropriation bills are introduced exactly as the budget has been submitted to you. There have been no changes whatsoever. Any changes that occur will occur either in the Committee on Appropriations or on the floor of this House, or through similar action in the Senate.

So I say to my colleagues, and particularly to the minority leader, a healthy, happy New Year, and I want us all to work because it is cut out for all of us.

The SPEAKER. There is one member who has a birthday, and at what time would the majority leader desire that we sing?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. You had better wait until I get through.

The SPEAKER. Well, I did not know. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

INTERROGATION

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON asked and obtained unanimous consent to interrogate the chairman of the Appropriations Committee, Mr. Polen.

Mr. Speaker, you have just introduced, you say, 65 bills. Is that correct?

Mr. POLEN. I introduced 65 bills that were budget bills. I introduced one bill which was not a budget bill.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. These bills follow the Governor's budget right to the penny, is that right?

Mr. POLEN. The 65 bills carry out and follow to the exact amount.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Who are the sponsors of these bills?

Mr. POLEN. The chairman of the Appropriations Committee.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. You alone are the sponsor of each one of the bills?

Mr. POLEN. That is correct.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Will there be a like number of similar bills introduced in the Senate?

Mr. POLEN. I believe not, sir.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. In other words, the appropriation bills will start in the House and move to the Senate, is that correct?

Mr. POLEN. That is correct.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. These hearings which you are going to have, I believe you stated that they are to be joint hearings of the combined Senate and House?

Mr. POLEN. That is correct.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. On these hearings you say you are going to give notice to members of the Appropriations Committee. Did I hear you say that the entire House membership is invited to attend these hearings?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I extended the same invitation this year as we always have, that any member of the House who is interested in any particular program, or in all of them, we would invite to be present and we would permit them to ask questions.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, in that respect should not the entire membership receive a notice of the time and place of the hearings and what departments are to be called in?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, it was my thought that practically all the members of the House are present here and we were giving them the notice now. The purpose in giving the committee members the notice was because they have an obligation and duty, as I stated, to be present. If it were necessary to give the members additional notice, we could. However, we are going to start out by setting specific times, in order to expedite it, and not be held up by possibly waiting two or three hours. We are going to take the budget in order, starting with the first office, the Governor's office, and agriculture. We will from day to day make tentative schedules as to what we expect to cover the next day. It might be possible that we would cover everything we attempted to do or we set out to do. It might be possible we would only cover one or two, which would mean that the next day there would be a revised schedule. I do not think it would be possible to get that to the membership. However, for those in attendance we will, each day before we adjourn, line the schedule up as to the number or names of the departments or bureaus that will be called. I assure you we are going to give every amount of publicity we can to let the people know what we are going to do, but I do not believe it will be possible to give in advance a schedule, a rigid schedule, we can follow. I think it would delay us.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Now, another question, Mr. Speaker. You say you will schedule the hearings in the order in which they are in the budget. I believe I have the schedule here called the "Highlights of the Budget," and the first one would be for the Governor's office, is that right?

Mr. POLEN. Yes, the "Highlights" do not have all the departments in, Mr. Speaker. It would be better to follow the index in the budget itself. For instance, you will find some departments are not mentioned in the "Highlights," but if you will follow the budget and start with the Governor's office, I believe the next is agriculture, and then follow right down the line. I might state that we have already alerted all the departments and bureaus that we expect them to be ready at any time, starting with January 8th, when we call on them, so there will be no excuses for not being ready. We have also notified the Governor's office that they are the first order of business, that they should have everything in readiness and hold themselves ready for the call.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. If what you say follows, then alphabetically the Department of Agriculture, Department of Commerce, Department of Forests and Waters and Department of Health would follow in that order, and it is conceivable that next week on the budget inasmuch as these big departments alphabetically come first, you could have them in for their hearings, is that right?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I expect to cover much more ground than that next week.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. In other words, next week you would go on and have hearings on the Historical Commission, Justice and Labor and Industry, et cetera?

Mr. POLEN. We would work as far as we could, yes. I believe, possibly, they are not in the order you state. It would go according to the budget. However, the principle would be the same. We would follow the budget, we would call as many as we could. As I say, if it is going to take maybe a whole day for one, certainly the tentative schedule we set up would be out of focus, but then we will start where we left off and each day we will announce what the tentative schedule is. The reason for doing that is, even with the budget hearings as we had them, we often had lapses of two hours where there was not anyone to be heard and we were simply marking time because we had set up a rigid schedule.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to conclude my remarks.

We certainly do not want to create the impression that we are trying to delay the session, delay these budget hearings. As Mr. McCann says, next week there will be hotel rooms for everybody, you are going to embark upon this important analysis of the budget, which is really the meat of the session. If it is conceivable that next week Forests and Waters and the big departments, where the biggest amount of money is being spent, can be brought in for hearings, certainly we should be in session then next week and provide rooms for everybody so the members can be here. I think it is terrible to have these hearings next week with the General Assembly not in session, with us in adjournment, and about two or three weeks from now these members here on the Democratic side will be called upon to vote for the Department of Forests and Waters' budget and they will not know anything about it. They will go back home to their people and they will say, how about this money for the Mall in Philadelphia, or something like that, and they will not know anything about it. We are not trying to hinder you, or anything, but it seems to me that if we can get back here on January 15th and have a regular session, get the members in, we can have our hearings in the big caucus room and then do it in an orderly fashion.

Now you are running a steamroller here just like you did in the last session. You are taking the bills, the appropriation bills, and they have the indelible stamp of Governor Lawrence on them. They are exactly the way he wants them. You have followed him meticulously and are handing them to the committee and saying, here are the Governor's bills. You might as well have a picture of Governor Lawrence put on each one of them, because they are exactly what he wants. In that respect you are making yourselves a rubber stamp around here. You are saying, we are having our hearings on the 8th, you can come if you can. You are being arrogant, and that arrogance is going to cost you people the next election. I think it hurt you terribly last year, being arrogant that way. Your business of sending those school bills back to committee last year, not giving us another tax program to vote on, and all of that showed itself up in the vote last fall.

You are starting out right now saying, all right, meet here on January 8th, you come if you can, you can stay all over town, we are not going to have a session and we are going to audit the most important, the biggest, most gigantic annual budget in the history of Pennsylvania, and we are going to ram it through and get out of here by the 1st of March. Go ahead and do it, break your necks in doing it, but there are the people back home, there are other parties to answer to besides the people on the floor of this House. If you want to have them next week, we will have as many members here as we can, and in our haste, just getting the budget today, we will try to do a job to find out whether Pennsylvania needs a billion dollars to run the State next year. So go ahead and have the hearings, but we are on record in expressing ourselves that we think you are doing an injustice to the rest of the membership here by having these hearings next Monday, when a lot of people would like to come here and find out what is going on.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I have listened to what the minority leader has said and I want to say this, most of the hearings in the past have been held when the legislature, or after the legislature, was in session. Now it is practically impossible to conduct hearings when the legislature is in session because the members are in attendance. We tried it and it did not work out at all. We had hearings days after and evenings after the session and before the session started, and one of the purposes we had in mind was to utilize the time that was available when the legislature was not in session so we could give full consideration to these matters.

Now, as to these bills carrying the stamp of the Governor, every time, to the best of my knowledge, and if I am incorrect I wish somebody would correct me, the bills have always been introduced as they appeared in the budget. But, I want to state that in the years I have been chairman of the Appropriations Committee, and I believe it was true also when Mr. Wood was chairman, that we made many, many changes when we reported those bills out of committee. And I want to assure the members of the House that so far as I am concerned and I think that I could speak for the Appropriations Committee, there is not going to be any steam-rolling at all. I thought that I had assured the gentleman he would have every opportunity to discuss fully anything that is pertinent to the budget. And I recall that last year, toward the end of the session, Mr. A. W. Johnson complimented me on the time that I gave everybody; everyone had full opportunity. And I want to assure him and all the members that if we are here until next Christmas, all the time that is necessary will be given. And I think we can say this, as the minority leader used to say, let us have a short, business-like session, let us do this in a business-like way. Let us consider these matters for what they are, financial matters, let us determine whether we need to spend this money or not. I do not see any reason to delay it and I hope that Mr. Johnson and as many of you as possible will be here on January 8th.

INTERROGATION

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. So that we can complete this discussion and the members will know what to expect, I would like to further interrogate the majority leader on the same subject that we are on.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will proceed with the interrogation.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, you plan on being in session tomorrow, is that right?

Mr. McCANN. That is correct.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. What is the purpose of the session tomorrow?

Mr. McCANN. At the session tomorrow the Speaker, of course, will send across all the bills, I assume, that had been introduced, not knowing what other ones have been introduced, but the 66 bills that are there going to the Appropriations Committee, plus whatever other bills or resolutions members have introduced.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Then the session tomorrow will be perfunctory?

Mr. McCANN. Yes.

The SPEAKER. It would be a good time to make a speech.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. We will probably do so.

Another question: We are coming back then on the 15th of January, Monday?

Mr. McCANN. Monday, January 15th, at our regular time, 3:30 p. m. eastern standard time.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Do you plan on being in session more than one day of that week?

The SPEAKER. You know that he cannot answer that just now.

Mr. McCANN. You are aware of the situation. I think before that time the proper notice, if it occurs, will go to your office with plans for your members and they will have sufficient time to plan accordingly. At the present time the call is for Monday, January 15th, only.

The SPEAKER. The members will be notified as to whether or not it will simply be a session in which a few members gather and they have recess until such a time as the Appropriations Committee is ready to report or whether it will be a session in which action will be taken.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, a further question of the majority leader.

If you start these hearings next Monday and you progress very rapidly during the week and accomplish a great deal, if the bills are in, when would the chairman of the Appropriations Committee plan on calling the bills up for consideration in committee with a view of reaching the floor? Will he wait until the entire budget has been audited and then put all 65 bills on the calendar at once, or just what are your plans?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I do not believe I can answer that question but I can this, Mr. Speaker, if there are any prior hearings held on the budget it surely will not be done the week of January 8th. Then the following week, the chairman and the Appropriations Committee will be able to answer the question about whether they will be finished in two weeks or two and a half weeks to release the bills, and it would be the intention and recommendation, when the time comes, to start to release the bills very steadily section after section, or department after department or perhaps, if possible, all of them at one given time. I cannot answer that at this point until the hearings move along.

1962-63 BUDGET

The SPEAKER. The Chair has copies of the budget which will be noted in the journal and printed in full in the appendix.

(For Budget, see Appendix)

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS

The SPEAKER. Now have we arrived at the point where we can sing. One birthday; the Honorable Edward W. McNally of Cambria County, is a year older in years, several years younger in temperament, and Dr. Dengler will perform his usual function.

Mr. DENGLER. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Let us all sing "Happy Birthday, dear Mac." Now sing it real well because he is a pretty good singer himself. Here we go.

(Members joined in singing "Happy Birthday," led by Mr. Dengler).

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cambria, the Honorable Edward W. McNally.

Mr. McNALLY. Mr. Speaker, I am not used to these things. I have heard sung "Happy Birthday" a great many times, ladies and gentlemen, but this is a great honor. Usually on the 2nd of January, if it happens on Sunday or following a holiday, nobody gives gifts. I shall remember this always, although age is creeping up on me, as the Honorable Speaker has said. Thanks so much.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. POLASKI. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Wednesday, January 3, 1962, at 11:00 a. m., e. s. t.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 2:06 p. m., e. s. t.) the House adjourned.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. DAVIS, GRAMLICH, MAGEE and MERRY. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 1.

In the House of Representatives, January 2, 1962.

The vision and intrepidity of Colonel Edwin S. Drake, a century and three years ago, blazed a trail in extracting one of the earth's great natural resources. Near Titusville, Pennsylvania, Colonel Drake "brought in" the world's first oil well.

From this epochal milestone, the world was changed in a fundamental way. The then dawning industrial age was framed against vastly wider horizons, and from there onwards it was transformed largely into its present pattern.

Colonel Drake's far-reaching achievement has received concrete recognition in that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has created the Drake Memorial Park and founded the Drake Museum, both at the site of the original Drake Well, close to the City of Titusville.

Further recognition was accorded Colonel Drake when the General Assembly, in 1956, caused State Highway Route Number 36 to be known thereafter, and officially, as "The Colonel Drake Highway," with signs erected at appropriate spots making known the fact to travellers upon the highway.

Now the northwestern terminal point of the highway, and of Route Number 36, presently, is the Borough of Pleasantville, some six miles short of Titusville and the Drake Well.

Clearly then, logic and a just recognition of the historical importance of Titusville and the Drake Memorial Park would be served, if the northwestern terminal point of "The Colonel Drake Highway" were to be extended from the Borough of Pleasantville to the Drake Memorial Park, utilizing State Highway Route Number 27; therefore be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That "The Colonel Drake Highway" be extended beyond the Borough of Pleasantville so that its northwestern terminal point shall be the Drake Memorial Park; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of Highways be authorized to have erected at appropriate points, along the extension of The Colonel Drake Highway to the Drake Memorial Park, suitable roadside signs, the one at the terminal point in the park, stating that it is the initial point of the highway, and mounted upon a durable stone and concrete base in keeping with the dignity of its function.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. DAVIS, GRAMLICH, MAGEE and MERRY. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 2.

In the House of Representatives, January 2, 1962.

In the event that the General Assembly, by concurrent resolution, authorizes the extension of "The Colonel Drake Highway" from the Borough of Pleasantville to the Drake Memorial Park, utilizing State Highway Route Number 27, it would be in keeping with the historical importance of the events, personality and region memorialized by the highway and park, if the final approaches of the highway, to its northwestern terminal point be dignified by construction in the nature of a mall and boulevard; therefore be it

Resolved, (the Senate concurring), That the Secretary of Highways be authorized to have studies made of the feasibility of constructing an inter-connecting highway and a final approach to the Drake Memorial Park, joining State Highway Route Number 27; and be it further

Resolved, That in the event that the Secretary of Highways establishes the feasibility of such an approach from Route Number 27 to the park, he is hereby requested to submit recommendations, together with drafted versions of legislation deemed necessary to carry out the approach project, to the General Assembly upon its convening in 1963.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. WORLEY. RESOLUTION No. 3.

In the House of Representatives, January 2, 1962.

The United States has refused to submit to the jurisdiction of the World Court, by reason of the reservation of the right to determine, in its discretion, what is or is not a domestic question. This has placed the United States at a decided disadvantage in that even when the United States obtains a favorable decision, other nations are reluctant to abide by it. We cannot expect other nations to accept terms which our Nation is not willing to accept; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania recommends that the Government of the United States submit to the jurisdiction of the World Court without reservation; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the President of the United States, to the two United States Senators from Pennsylvania, and to the Secretary of State of the United States.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. WORLEY. RESOLUTION No. 4.

In the House of Representatives, January 2, 1962.

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania recommends that the General Assembly of the United Nations should be permitted to enact World Law on strictly international problems involving world peace including disarmament, nuclear weapons and other international matters which may prevent war and which will not interfere in the home rule or domestic jurisdiction of individual nations; and, be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the President of the United States, the two United States Senators from Pennsylvania, and to the United States Ambassador to the United Nations.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. WORLEY. RESOLUTION No. 5.

In the House of Representatives, January 2, 1962.

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pensylvania recommends that the United Nations General Assembly be developed into a parliament of the world in order to effectively act upon questions which endanger peace, including nuclear weapons, disarmament, and other matters which will prevent war and will not interfere with the home rule or domestic jurisdiction of nations; and, be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the President of the United States, the two United States Senators from Pennsylvania, and to the United States Ambassador to the United Nations.

In the House of Representatives, January 3, 1962.

Wilbur F. Barkdoll, a former member of this House of Representatives, passed away on October 30, 1961, at the age of eighty-one. Mr. Barkdoll served three terms as Representative of Franklin County. First elected in 1948 and reelected in 1950 and 1952, he conscientiously and capably served the interests of his constituents and the Commonwealth throughout that period.

A well-known dairy farmer in Quincy Township, Franklin County, Mr. Barkdoll was long active in numerous agricultural organizations. He was elected a director of the Franklin County Agricultural Extension Association when it was organized in 1917 and served continuously until his death. TENTATIVE SCHEDULE OF APPROPRIATIONS COMMITTEE HEARINGS

The SPEAKER. Both the minority leader and the chairman of the Appropriations Committee have asked for recognition. The chairman of the Appropriations Committee desires recognition to make some announcements regarding the meetings of that committee, and the Chair recognizes the chairman of the Appropriations Committee.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, we are now preparing some of the schedules of the joint Senate-House Appropriations Committee hearings which will begin next Monday, January 8, at 9:30 a.m. A copy of this schedule will be mailed to each member of the House and Senate today, but in case some of you might be interested in knowing what the schedule is, I am going to give you the tentative schedule that we have worked up which allocates, purely on a tentative basis, time in excess of what has been used at the last two hearings. But as I stated before, all hearings will continue until all the members have had the opportunity to inquire into any matters that they think important to the appropriations at issue.

I also want to say that the furthest point of the amount carried in the budget is contained in House bill No. 1 which is the general appropriations bill. House bill No. 1 is in print and will be distributed to all the members of the House immediately after I have finished. So the members will be able to take home with them a copy of House bill No. 1 which covers the great bulk of this budget.

On Monday, starting at 9:30 on January 8, we will follow the budget, and the first office to be heard will be the Governor's office, followed by the Lieutenant-Governor's, followed by the Auditor General's. Then the Treasury, Department of Internal Affairs, the Department of Agriculture, the Department of Banking and the Securities Commission, the Department of Civil Defense and the Civil Service Commission.

Now, they will start at 9:30 a.m. and I plan to continue until noon, break one hour for lunch, and resume hearings at 1 o'clock and continue through until 6 o'clock. It is not our intention at this time to hold any hearings in the evenings, but we believe a full day put in will adequately take care of the situation.

Now after I have read the balance, if there is anyone who wants to ask a question as to any particular time, if I talk too fast or you did not get it, I will be glad to answer.

On Tuesday, January 9, starting at 9:30 a.m., we will have the Department of Commerce, the Department of Forests and Waters and the Department of Health.

On Wednesday, January 10, starting at 9:30 a.m., the Historical and Museum Commission, the Insurance Department, the Department of Justice, the Department of Labor and Industry, the Department of Military Affairs, the Milk Control Commission, Department of Mines and Mineral Industries and the State Parole Board.

On Thursday, January 11, starting at 9:30 a.m., the Department of Property and Supplies, and the final for the week, the Department of Public Instruction.

The SPEAKER. The schedule will be sent out by the Chief Clerk to all members of the House.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I will not read the schedules for the following week, starting on January 15, because it will be available to all the members.

Then after the completion of the General Fund budget hearing, we will schedule the special funds hearings, and also at the close of these hearings, if there is any interest or any desire on the part of the members that we have a re-hearing or an additional hearing for any department, we will be glad to so schedule that department.

If there are any questions anyone would like to ask, I will be very happy to answer them.

STATEMENT BY MINORITY LEADER

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the minority leader, Mr. Johnson.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, the purpose of my appearance before the membership today is to point out just one or two things in the Governor's budget.

I want the membership to realize that we just received the budget yesterday and, naturally, we have not been able to determine the veracity or the accuracy of any of the figures, but there are some things that appear on the face of the budget which I believe should be pointed out at the outset so the members will know exactly what is taking place.

We will hearken back now to last fall, before we adjourned sine die, and we were locked in the grips of a contest as to whether the local schools would get any appropriation or not, and you all recall that the vehicle by which we were to finance $18 million to the schools was a 2 percent tax on dividends, royalties and capital gains. That bill and the education bills were all sent back to committee when the tax bill failed in the Senate. We were not given an opportunity to vote for another tax bill. Even though we were on record saying that we would be glad to consider other tax measures, we were not given that opportunity. It was felt, I know, by the Democratic side that they had scored a tremendous political victory in being able to scuttle the school program under the guise of the Republican killing a 2 percent tax on dividends, and so forth.

What happened in September before we adjourned sine die? In order to balance the budget the budget office had to increase revenues and the increase in revenue estimates was accordingly made, and my figure is that it was about $30 million that was added to a previous estimate of revenues so that the budget could be balanced, and the legislature adjourned sine die.

For instance, as to the increases, you take Governor Lawrence's original budget and the final figures that were certified for budget balancing purposes, the CNI tax was raised $16.7 million, capital stock tax $3.5 million, gross receipts tax $1 million, insurance premiums $1.4 million, sales and use tax $17.5 million and the cigarette tax $3.1 million. Those figures are in the budget and are a matter of public record.

Now, what has happened in this particular budget? You must remember that in order to get out of town we had to up the revenues thirty-some million dollars. I was asked during the fall, "Well, what do you think of the announcement of the Governor that he has balanced his budget?" I said, "It is a contrivance. It was done before by upping revenues and he has resorted to that fiction and is doing it again, and there is nothing new or novel about it."

Of course, in order to balance his budget, he made industry pay twice in one year and robbed Peter to pay Paul and reached into later years for taxes in order to wipe out the deficit. In other words, industry in this State, which had no part in creating the deficit, was asked to double up and pay for it. It is a clever and unique way of balancing the budget by doing to industry, which is captive and cannot leave the State—but some of them are by reason of it—and saying, "Here you dig down twice and give us the money and we will present the people a balanced budget by borrowing into the future."

But that is not the purpose of my remarks. What should have happened last fall? It was all right for you to up revenues $30 million. You did that in order to balance the budget, but you should not have sent the school appropriation bill back to committee. Why? Because the budget bureau knew at that time that they had $16 million in lapse and they should have come before us and said, or had Mr. McCann say, we do not need the 2 percent tax on dividends, and so forth. There is $16 million going to be lapsed in that budget. We are going to up revenues $30 million and that will leave $16 million to play with. We can pass this school appropriation bill and we do not need the tax on dividends.

That is proven by this budget right now. Here is $16 million worth of lapses that we were not told about in September, but you upped the revenues $30 million. The Governor's budget bureau signed a certificate that the budget was balanced and we left town. Now they say we have $16 million. I say it was a cruel hoax that was committed on the school districts of Pennsylvania when you sent that bill back to committee when you had the money all the time and you should have given it to the schools instead of saying, "You Republicans scuttled the schools of Pennsylvania by not voting for the 2 percent tax on dividends." It is as plain as the nose on your face in this budget. It is on page 1 and I ask you all to refer to it respectively.

Now, where do we go from here? We asked that the freeze clause be put in the bill and give the schools that $8 million. If my information is correct, and I am sure it is, the payments to the schools last fall did not deduct the losses they will incur by reason of the freeze clause being declared unconstitutional. When are the schools going to take their licking? They are going to take it now in March and April. The $8 million will be deducted from their payments that they will get this spring. What does this budget show? It shows an $8.9 million surplus. What should Governor Lawrence have done with that? He should have said, "Now, you school districts, I have $8.9 million for you in the surplus; it is just what you are going to lose." He ought to have stated yesterday, "Instead of spending that $8.9 million next year, I want to return the appropriation bill with 2,000 appropriations in it and give that to the schools right now, because they must have this money."

Any of you who walk the streets of your local communities know that the schools are desperately in need of some help. They want to get it from the State Capitol, and they look to us to do it. The least we can do right now is to put in an appropriation bill for some $8 million or $9 million and use up this surplus, give it to the schools now in March and April so that many of them will not have to dig down and borrow money and end the year in the red.

Here is another thing we should try to do this session. The reason we want to look at this budget, look at the amount of revenue that is available, is because there is no question that you can lapse $16 million in this budget. With a billion-dollar budget facing us next year, it seems to me we could squeeze $16 million or $18 million out of this budget the Governor is presenting and give that to the schools by an omnibus appropriation bill, 2,000 items to the schools of this State, give them $16 or $18 million, which will go a long way towards balancing and helping them to balance their budgets.

Now, Governor Lawrence brags about the amount of money he is giving them in this budget. He is not giving the local schools one dime extra in this budget. All he is giving them is what they need for increasing teaching units. He is giving them a matching amount on the mandated items that they would get anyhow. He is not giving them a penny. The schools of this State have not had an increase since we Republicans in 1957 raised the reimbursement base from 5,200 to 5,800. It was done in 1957. My school principal at home tells me, "Albert, we are still working on the old 5,800." I said, "That is right. Leader did not give it to you and Lawrence is not giving it to you. You are still laboring under that same ceiling." We did it over Governor Leader's dead body, as you know, and he even vetoed the $30 million appropriation that went with it. That is all a matter of history and is in the Journal.

So we should strive this session, right now, to give the schools this $8 million surplus and try to some way find another $16 million, of $17 million, or $18 million for our schools before we leave in this short session.

Now, I want to comment on these hearings. It is unbelievable, it seems incredible to us, that you can schedule them for next week. We just got the budget yesterday. The ink is hardly dry on it. You are going to start your budget hearings next Monday, and on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday you are going to audit the entire General Fund budget for this State, Public Instruction, Health and Welfare. How in the world are we Republicans on this side, who would like to do something for the schools, maybe squeeze some fat out of the budget, if there is any, maybe find some new revenue that you have understated, going to do that next week, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday?

As I said yesterday, I think it is arrogance on your part. In your ambition you are overreaching yourselves, and I do not think the people are going to like it that you are going to run so hurriedly and so fast through this thing.

I am going to be here next week and Mr. Tompkins will be here and as many members of the appropriations committee as possible. I am hoping this week I can draft a series of interrogatories to serve on you as you would in a civil suit, such as, tell us how many employes you have, whether you need them or not, how much pay they are getting, how this compares with 1953, what functions are overlapping, how many departments are doing the same thing around this Capitol Hill? Is there some way we can get $20 million for the schools? That is what we want to do. I would like to be able to leave here and say, "We did not have to put out any new taxes. We found $8 million for the freeze clause and we found you $20 million more, or $16 million or $17 million more."

You do that and you can go back home and face the people with a job very well done. But if we are going to rush into this thing next week, on Monday, for instance, there are 10 departments involving a lot of money that you want to hear. It will just be a cursory, perfunctory thing. All you can say is, "Good morning" to them, and "How is your mother? Is your father working?" That is about all you will be able to say to them in that short period of time.

But we will do our best. We will be there on the job and we will try to see that the people of this State get a square deal in this budget, that no money is wasted, and maybe we can get something for the schools.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, next week when we start the hearings, we are not going to rush things through so that nothing can be done, nothing can be learned. Actually we have allocated, on a tentative schedule, more time than was consumed by each department and bureau in either 1957, 1959, or 1961. The only thing we are really doing is that instead of stretching it out we are going to take advantage of a week that we are in recess where we can hold continuous hearings.

I want to assure the gentleman from McKean, the minority leader, Mr. Johnson, as I have before, that he will have every opportunity to inquire into any matter that is pertinent to this budget; and if we follow past procedures, we are going to inquire into quite a few matters that are not exactly pertinent to the budget.

He mentioned he wanted to know how many are employed. He has not served that paper on me yet that he was talking about yesterday. He used a fine legal term when he talked to me on the phone, so I took it from what he said, reduced to a layman's language, that he wants to ask a lot of questions. I want to say, Mr. Speaker, that we are going to be happy to answer them. If we do not have answers right away, we will be happy to get them for him.

He mentioned the number of state employes he wanted to know about. We have that information already available. I would welcome any additional information that he thinks he should have. If he will let me know what it is, I will assure him that we will have it made available for him.

Mr. Speaker, I believe that the gentleman was critical of the Governor having lapsed $16 million-plus. He says that we should have spent it. Well, Mr. Speaker, if he had not lapsed that money, we would be faced with a deficit. And if we did not have a surplus to carry over into the 1962-1963 fiscal year, we would have to have additional taxes.

Mr. Speaker, I am not going to prolong this, but I want to assure the gentleman from McKean and all the members of this House that this is going to be a full and complete hearing. All the time that is necessary will be allocated to it. The time that is shown on the schedule is tentative. If we only reach two or three departments, the others will follow in order. I did not give the schedule he referred to regarding weeks, but actually it is going to be about three weeks that we will conduct these hearings. It is my opinion that we should treat this matter as a business matter and not as a political matter; we are dealing with questions of dollars and cents for the people of this Commonwealth. I believe, as Mr. Johnson believes, that we should scrutinize this budget and every budget. We should develop whether we need more money or less money; and after we have arrived at our proper conclusions, we should provide the funds that are necessary to pay for it.

I believe that if we have done nothing else in this Commonwealth in the last 34 months, if we have done nothing else for which we should receive congratulations, we should receive congratulations for the policy of fiscal responsibility and leadership that has been given by this administration and by this House. We did not send to the Governor, bills in excess of the estimated revenues. We are going to follow that policy, I hope, in the future. As for me, I am dedicated to it. I follow the same policy in my private and business life that I am going to follow here in the conduct of the Commonwealth's business. Let us treat this matter as a business of a great corporation that is going to spend in the general fund alone over one thousand million dollars and in the special funds over five hundred million dollars. I pledge myself to conduct these hearings in a business-like manner for a business-like purpose for all the people of this Commonwealth.

BIRTHDAY

The SPEAKER. This is the natal day of the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Trusio. Will Doctor Dengler please perform his usual function?

Mr. DENGLER. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. How about "Happy Birthday, dear Pat."

(Members joined in singing "Happy Birthday," led by Mr. Dengler.)

The SPEAKER. I think probably Mr. Trusio is bursting with a few words of appreciation or something. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Fayette.

Mr. TRUSIO. Mr. Speaker, it is a pleasure to be here celebrating my twenty-ninth birthday. Thank you.

The SPEAKER. The Chair welcomes him into the 63 club.

RESOLUTION

CONDOLENCE

Mr. PIPER asked and obtained unanimous consent to offer a resolution and for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read by the clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, January 3rd, 1962.

The recent death of Mrs. A. Lorraine Weidner, wife of the Honorable Leroy A. Weidner, has left a void in the lives of her husband, children and close friends.

Mrs. Weidner's kindly attitude to all people and her sincere interest in her family and friends left an imprint on their daily lives which they will long cherish. Her immediate family will long remember her as a beloved companion who inspired them in all their efforts and activities; therefore be it Resolved, That this House of Representatives hereby extends the heartfelt sympathy of each of its members to the Honorable Leroy A. Weidner on the death of his wife.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was unanimously adopted by a rising vote.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, first I want to say to the minority leader that we are starting out the session in a very nice humorous attitude and good feeling in the new year. I hope that he will not in future occasions get wound up so fast that it is difficult for us statisticians and accountants, who are as capable as he is, to follow his speeches on the floor. But I think the proper answer to the whole situation would be as it appeared in the Sunday Patriot News of December 31st, of which I am sure he has received many copies. It is more political than fiscal.

The SPEAKER. The Chair, of course, wants to re-echo the New Year sentiment. In the course of a brief radio broadcast last Saturday night in my hometown in extending New Year wishes, I said, "I earnestly hope that all during the new year everybody will get exactly what they deserve. After the broadcast a gentleman called up and he said, "Hi, you did not wish us very damn much."

And so I hope that we get all that we deserve and that the people of the Commonwealth get all that they deserve, and more than that no one can properly wish.

Does the majority leader have any further business to bring before the House?

Mr. McCANN. I do, Mr. Speaker.

STATEMENT BY MAJORITY LEADER

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, we have sent telegrams to all the members of the House Appropriations Committee and the officers of the House, both Republican and Democrat members, regarding hotel space at the respective hotels where they may stay normally, the Penn-Harris or the Harrisburger. And I would like at this time to publicly thank the Harrisburger Hotel, who first offered the guarantee of hotel space for every member of the House and Senate Appropriations Committee during the entire Farm Show week, and then the Penn-Harris Hotel did the same. Therefore, we will have space for all the members of the House and Senate Appropriations Committee and we still have space for all other members who are going to attend this hearing and need this space even though it will be not in the city hotels here in town.

STATEMENT BY MINORITY LEADER

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank Mr. McCann for this. I am sorry that he presented it. And the resolutions that are mentioned in this article as prepared will be presented and we will ask the Rules Committee to act on it.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. If the minority leader desires, he may insert it into the House record.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. This?

Mr. McCANN. Yes.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Oh, not necessarily. It spells my name correctly.

The SPEAKER. Anything that the majority leader desires to insert into the record please send it up. You know the fellow said that all of my enemies may write a book. Maybe in this case, the majority leader is hoping that the minority leader will insert a lot of things in the record that he may regret.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. If the membership will permit, I have no objection to this going into the record, because it very directly sets forth some things that we have in mind; and if it is left to the House, I hope it is for the record.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON submitted the following for the record:

SUNDAY PATRIOT NEWS
December 31, 1961

ON THE HILL
It's More Political Than Fiscal

By John Scotzin
Of The Sunday Patriot-News

It is now evident that the annual sessions amendment of 1959 has spawned the "political" legislative session every even-numbered year in Pennsylvania.

An appropriate designation for this new biennial battleground in the fiscal-limited session is this: "At the sign of the shield and sword"—the shield symbolizing the defensive position of the administration in power against the political onslaughts of the opposition party.

Politics, of course, has been known to rear its ugly head on both sides during the serious business of full-fledged legislating in the unrestricted sessions of odd-years.

With virtually the entire tax structure now on a permanent basis, the spending enactments are the primary issues in the budget-making agenda of the even-year session, at least within the hold-the-line limits this time of Governor Lawrence.

The old saw about idle hands being free for mischief probably was in mind when House Speaker Hiram G. Andrews made his suggestion that unless congressional reapportionment has been introduced in an acceptable bill by Jan. 15, the legislature take an indefinite recess until the Appropriations Committee is ready to report the budget package.

Already the Republican minority leader Rep. Albert W. Johnson, has made clear that harassment and embarrassment of the Lawrence Administration will be his guideposts—and not just attempts to take the budget apart.

Johnson has readied a series of proposed investigative resolutions, reportedly about a dozen, for introduction during slack-time periods in the Democratic-controlled House.

Allegations of political pressures in administration of state colleges, the state of the State Police under Commissioner Frank G. McCartney, closed-door operations in state professional licensing boards, are among subjects for legislative airing which Johnson will demand.

Johnson is realistically aware that it is extremely doubtful any such investigations will gain Democratic sanction in the Democratic-controlled House. But it is his obvious hope that the Democratic turn down will pay off with the voters with this campaign cry—"See! it must be so or why would they hide it?"

With a few emergency exceptions, Governors have avoided special session calls in even-numbered years when the State's general elections for Governor and President alternate.

In each of the even-year balloting, all the State's congressmen also are elected and control of the Legislature itself is at stake with the full 210-member House and half of the 50-Senate up for election at the same time. Municipal elections are held in odd-years, when the unrestricted legislative session is held.

The gubernatorial reasoning against extraordinary convenings in general election years when they could be avoided:

Why give the "outs" the opportunity to use the Legislature as a sounding board for prime electioneering issues against the "ins?" Let the controversial matters come to a head in the off-year sessions, and depend on time during the intervening year to ease the pain before Pennsylvanians go to the general election polls.

On the face of the annual sessions amendment, the even-year session is limited to revenue and appropriation matters. The straight-jacket language of the fiscal session is keyed to "laws" raising revenue and "laws" making appropriations.

Laws are enactments which require the Governor's signature. Resolutions for legislative investigations or to propose amendment of the State Constitution are not laws and do not reach the Governor.

In fact, all the legislative prerequisites except general legislation continue in an even-year session. And herein is Johnson's opportunity, as well as for the future "outs," to make hay on the seasonal political scene.

In the first annual session of 1960 Presidential year, Governor Lawrence had nothing for the Legislature to do. The last biennial budget had been enacted at the previous session, carrying over, and the politically astute Governor proposed no new programs that could be assaulted during the Presidential electioneering.

Even with no business at hand the then Republican-controlled Senate kept the Legislature in being nearly the full year through a series of extended recesses. The legislature actually was in session only 16 days. There are GOPsters who regret the prolonged stall, acknowledging the "do-nothing" character of the session backfired on them in 1960's elections.

Perhaps the same recollection may warn the GOP against needlessly stretching out this session, which Governor Lawrence says could be wound up inside of two months.

On the eve of the 1962 Governorship campaign, Lawrence again is steering clear of new tax and other controversial matters which could serve the GOP vote-pitch.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. MULLIN, RIPP, SARRAF and STAISEY presented to the Chair SB 1, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 6, 1956 (P. L. 1228), entitled, as amended, "Selective Sales and Use Tax Act," exempting certain textbooks from the tax.

Which was committed to the Committee on Legislation.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BELL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, on behalf of Senator Ware and myself, I am introducing a bill at this time which would correct something that happened last summer. This bill is an amendment to one of the revenue acts, and I believe it is constitutional.

When we passed one of the revenue acts last year, we froze all safe deposit boxes where there was a decendent who was a co-owner. This bill would unfreeze safe deposit boxes which would be in the name of husband and wife, in the case where one of the spouses died. Items appearing in both names would not be taxable for State purposes.

Therefore, Mr. President, I think this bill would correct a very glaring injustice of last summer.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. BELL and WARE presented to the Chair SB 2, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 15, 1961 (P. L. 373), entitled "Inheritance and Estate Tax Act of 1961," exempting from the provisions relating to entry into safe deposit boxes those safe deposit boxes held in the names of the decedent and his or her spouse.

Which was committed to the Committee on Legislation.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. LANE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, quite a number of years ago, the citizens of Richhill Township, in Greene County, constructed and financed, through local government finances, the construction of an eight-mile piece of road. Later on, the Department of Highways decided to take over this road and make it a Legislative Route. The result is that the bond indebtedness of Richhill Township is such that they are confronted with paying off the bonds before the construction of this—

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the Senate please come to order while Senator Lane is speaking?

Mr. LANE. The citizens of Richhill Township now have the problem of retiring the bonds for the construction of the road and it is now a Legislative Route. As a matter of fact, the Township Commissioners of this township have actually lost a great portion of the Liquid Fuels Tax. It seems to me that this is quite unfair. I talked with the Secretary of Highways who did not either approve or disapprove this piece of legislation.

I have before me a three-page letter from the attorneys who are representing this particular township. Therefore, Mr. President, I would like to have this letter made a part of the record, together with my letter to the Secretary of Highways.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. At the request of the gentleman from Washington, Senator Lane, the above letters will be made a part of the record.

SAYERS, KING & KEENER
ATTORNEYS AT LAW
55 East High Street
Waynesburg, Pennsylvania

November 6, 1961.

The Honorable William J. Lane
Room 536 East Floor
Main Capitol Building
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania

Dear Senator Lane:

I am writing the following letter in order to supply you with certain basic information at the request of the Road Supervisors of Richhill Township, Greene County, Pennsylvania.

At a recent meeting at which they had the privilege of talking to you, you showed an interest in the bonded debt situation of Richhill Township. This file is many years old but I believe I have the information which you require. If you require further and more detailed information please let me know.

This road through Richhill Township for a distance of approximately eight miles was built in 1929. It is a concrete road, was well built and is still in good operating condition. Almost immediately after it was built, about 1929, it was taken over by the State Highway Department and has been since then operated as a part of the State Highway system and known as Legislative Route 256, State Route 21. The road in general leads from Waynesburg to the West Virginia State Line where it connects with other improved roads which go respectively to Moundsville, Cameron and Wheeling, West Virginia. It is interesting to note that this road is the only concrete road which operates as a feeder for the State Park in which the State has recently invested thousands of dollars.

It may also be that when the new Federal Highway is completed North and South through the County immediately East of Waynesburg there will be an interchange which will add to the traffic on Route 21 for interstate purposes from Greene County to West Virginia. There is every reason to believe that the traffic on this road will increase and no reason to believe that it will diminish.

When the road was first built under the then existing law the road was built by a bond issue which should have been paid off about 1953 and in the amount of around $125,000.00. At current prices, the road was well built for the money. Since then the entire traveling public of the Commonwealth and also of the State of West Virginia has used the road. You will recall that our County is bounded both on the West and South by the State of West Virginia.

The residents and taxpayers of Richhill Township committed themselves to pay for all of this road. The assessed valuation of Richhill Township dropped from three million to approximately one million in 1929 and the Supervisors and taxpayers of Richhill Township found themselves in great difficulty. By 1947, the bonds had been taken over by the State Teachers Retirement Fund and were in default both as to delinquent interest and unpaid bonds. Repeated efforts were made prior to that time and since to have the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania take over the bonded indebtedness, as they had already taken over the road. Since then it has always appeared to the Supervisors and the residents of the Township that at their own personal expense they are supplying part of both the State and Interstate Highway System.

About 1947 or 1948, we were able to refinance the bonds with the State Teachers Retirement Fund and to diminish the annual payment and extend the term of payment. At the present time, the Township owes a little less than $40,000.00 as will appear by reference to the Annual Township Report of Richhill Township.

These figures are available to me with some difficulty but they are readily available to you by contacting the State Teachers Retirement Fund who has the original of the contract and all of the information as to money due and when it should be paid.

I do not know whether the State Teachers Retirement Fund would accept an anticipated payment from the State or not, or whether some other arrangement would have to be worked out with them. After all they are "in the driver's seat."

In the meantime the Supervisors of Richhill Township have done everything that they can possibly do up to date to cooperate with the State in the successful installation and operation of the new State Park which is largely served by this road. They will continue to do so in so far as they can justly do it without injury to the taxpayers of the Township.

I am sure that the Supervisors and the undersigned, as their Attorney, will do everything to supply you with information which you require and I am pleased that someone has again shown an interest.

We have one industrial installation in the Township which is the Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation and their assessment has declined considerably due to changes in the law as it effects assessed property of Interstate Gas Transmission Companies.

Mr. Parson and Mr. Day, of the Richhill Township Supervisors, are present while I write this letter and I believe subscribe to the statements I have made herein.

For the year 1960, the Township was compelled to levy a total of 19 mills of which the proceeds largely went to pay for a road that has been for many years and is still being used by the general traveling public.

On behalf of the Supervisors of Richhill Township, may I extend our regards.

Very truly yours,

SENATE OF PENNSYLVANIA

November 9, 1961

Honorable Park H. Martin
Secretary
Department of Highways
Room 501
North Office Building
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania

Dear Secretary Martin:

Enclosed you will find a letter from Sayers, King and Keener, Attorneys At Law of Waynesburg, Pennsylvania. I believe that Mr. Sayers is the solicitor for Richhill Township which is located in Greene County.

You will note that the township road in question was taken over by the Department of Highways in 1929 and is now a part of the State Highways system and is known as Legislative Route 256, State Route 21. You will also note that due to a drastic decrease in assessed valuation, the taxpayers of Richhill Township are being penalized financially due to the expenditures which are necessary in order to amortize the capital improvement which was made on this road prior to 1929 by the township of Richhill. They are additionally penalized as far as liquid fuel tax contributions are concerned due to the fact that since this legislative route is now part of the State Highways system, the decreased mileage of the township naturally reduces moneys that they have used for highway construction and they are, of course, confronted with the problem of retiring the bonds with a greatly reduced income.

I am wondering if there is any action which can be taken to assist this township in retiring their financial obligation. I believe you can readily see that this is certainly unfair. Number one, the township built the road with its own funds and immedaitely thereafter the road was taken over by the State in 1929. Since it is now a part of the State Highways system, I am of the opinion that the township is certainly entitled to some financial assistance in retiring their obligation covering the construction of this road.

Thanking you for your consideration and with warmest personal regards,

Sincerely yours,

William J. Lane.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. LANE and KALMAN presented to the Chair SB 3, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation for the payment of moneys due on bonds issued by Richhill Township, Greene County, for the construction of a road taken over by the State as part of the State highway system.

Which was committed to the Committee on Legislation.

Mr. MAHADY presented to the Chair SB 4, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 6, 1956 (P. L. 1228), entitled, as amended, "Selective Sales and Use Tax Act," excluding from the tax, materials and supplies used or consumed in the repairing of shoes.

Which was committed to the Committee on Legislation.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. MAHADY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, the history shows that the number of doctors in the United States who are in the general practice of medicine has become sparse. In addition to that, the military forces of the United States and the public health agencies have a constant demand for more and more doctors.

In connection therewith, we feel there is a need for a Federal school of Medicine, particularly to satisfy the needs of the military forces, the public health agencies on the Federal level, the various welfare and health agencies on the State and local levels, and in connection with our lend-lease and the aid to undeveloped nations. Such an institution would be desirable at this time. I am, therefore, Mr. President, presenting this resolution.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

MEMORIALIZING CONGRESS TO ESTABLISH A FEDERAL MEDICAL SCHOOL IN THE CITY OF PITTSBURGH

Mr. MAHADY offered the following resolution (Serial No. 100), which was read as follows:

In the Senate, January 15, 1962.

The military forces and public health agencies of our nation have a vital and continuous need for medical services. Difficulty has long been experienced in obtaining a sufficient number of medical men to administer proper care to military personnel and their dependents, and to efficiently carry on essential public health services.

It is therefore deemed highly desirable that a Federal Service School be established in the field of medicine patterned after West Point in the field of army training, Annapolis in the field of naval training, and the Air Force Academy in the field of aviation, which school would supply a steady flow of trained medical personnel for all of the branches of the service and for conducting our important public health service.

It is also deemed desirable that such a school be established in a conveniently located medical and hospital center. No better location could possibly be found than Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, which in recent years has become one of the leading medical centers of the United States, and which has a readily accessible central location; therefore be it

RESOLVED (the House of Representatives concurring), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memorialize the Congress of the United States to establish a Federal Medical School in the City of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; and be it further

RESOLVED, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the presiding officers of each house of the Congress of the United States and to each Senator and Representative from Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States.

Mr. MAHADY asked and obtained unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of this resolution.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

The resolution was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WEINER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, one of the serious problems that affects us today—and we hear a great deal about it in connection with radio activity and the atomic age that we live in—is the problem of fall-out.

However, I think as serious as this problem is, and it is a serious one, there is one that is even more serious. That is the amount of pollution that is in the air and is being put into the air daily by the increase in the number of automobiles that we have on our streets and the numbers and varied industries that exist today in our communities.

I do not know for a fact—because it is a medical fact and someone who is trained in the field of medicine would have to make this decision—whether this is one of the casual connections between lung cancer and the difficulties that people have had in recent years from the irritant that find their way into the body or into the system and cause cancer or cancerous cells to exist.

We have had many tragedies in the world as recently as 1952 in London and more recently in some of the other areas of the world. Right here in our own State of Pennsylvania, in Donora, Pennsylvania, in 1948, we had this kind of a problem.

There is today a product on the market—as a matter of fact, it is manufactured right here in our own State in the Montgomery County area, in Berwyn—and a man who has been a leader in this field and has spent almost fifteen years of his life in this field, a Mr. Houdry. I do not know whether he has the answer. I have no idea of what his process can do. However, apparently he has patented a process which, if put on automobiles, would be effective against releasing these hydrocarbons into the air. His process is known as the oxycatallsyc. I do not know if this will solve the problem. I do not even know that it can do what he says it can do.

However, as long as we have an Air Pollution Commission in this State and as long as we have the Joint State Government Commission in this State, both of which can make tests, set criteria and combat and inform us of what this problem is, I think we might well be on the path toward finding a solution to a very serious problem.

I am certain that the automobile industry, which is directly effected, with the know-how they have,—such as sealed beam lights that appear on every automobile today and some of the other aids to driving, such as power brakes, power steering and things in that area, and as long as they are now working with modifying the gasoline engine as we have known it for years and changing it—would do very well to look into this area and get a solution for us.

It might very well be that we ought to say to the automobile manufacturers who sell automobiles in our State,—if the commission proves that our position is correct and tests out a number of these products and finds them to be the kind of products we think they are, and they can do an effective job from a health point of view—"You must put these gadgets on your automobiles and buses which are filling the air with these harmful hydrocarbons and other kinds of polluted material."

We have seen, Mr. President, what this same pollution does when it goes into a stream; the number of fish that die and the number of animals who drink from the stream who suffer either disease or die very shortly thereafter.

I feel, Mr. President, that we ought to not only concern ourselves with this problem, but ask these two agencies, either independently or working together, to come to some conclusion, and advise the General Assembly of Pennsylvania so it can take the appropriate legislative action.

I, therefore, ask, Mr. President, that this resolution be considered and adopted.

SENATE RESOLUTION

REQUESTING THE JOINT STATE GOVERNMENT COMMISSION TO MAKE A STUDY OF THE RELATIONSHIP OF MOTOR VEHICLE EXHAUST FUMES TO AIR POLLUTION

Messrs. WEINER, BELL, BERGER, MULLIN and PECHAN offered the following resolution (Serial No. 2), which was read as follows:

In the Senate, January 15, 1962.

The menace of growing air pollution, commonly referred to as "smog," is now under massive attack by the industrial and civic leaders and State and Government agencies.

Various devices have been introduced to remove the contamination in the air. However, many of them have proved to be less than half effective.

The muffler device, which removed the exhaust gases from the combustion engine, has proven to be the most effective in removing the greatest quantity of these poisonous fumes.

It is a known fact that air pollution causes eye, nose and and throat irritations, limited visibility, soiling and deterioration of clothing, vegetable damage and animal losses.

Air pollution can strike with sudden and deadly effectiveness.

On December 5, 1952, a thick fog descended on the city of London, leaving an estimated 4000 persons dead, and additional thousands ill. This strikingly illustrated to all the world the most serious consequences of uncontrolled air pollution.

Even in Pennsylvania major disasters, as a result of the pollution problems, occurred in 1948 in Donora, Pennsylvania. Increasing medical evidence suggests, as given by some of the most eminent cancer research analysists, that air pollution may be a major contributor to lung cancer.

The increase in lung cancer among the American males has almost paralleled the increase in gas consumption far more closely than it has paralleled cigarette sales.

In 1915, the United States consumed about two billion gallons of gas; in 1955, almost fifty billion gallons of gas—approximately a twenty-five fold increase. During the same forty-year period, the lung cancer death lead jumped from one death per 100,000 males to twenty-five deaths per 100,000 males, another twenty-five fold increase.

Even in the City of Philadelphia, Managing Director Wagner is quoted as saying in the Philadelphia Bulletin of August 1, 1961 that he would favor a State law requiring motorists to have a device on their automobiles to cut air pollution from exhaust fumes. Mr. Wagner said that the city is keeping an eye on tests being conducted in California to select a device that will be mandatory for all cars under their new State law.

It is universally recognized that automobile exhaust fumes are a major contributant to air pollution.

It has been suggested by responsible parties, including legislative bodies, air pollution and medical authorities, automobile and petroleum industries and other agencies, that a muffler device on automobiles is an effective means of removing the greatest quantity of poisonous gases through automobile exhausts.

The need for Pennsylvania to act is important since the number of cars expected by 1970 will be nearly 90,000,000 throughout the United States, as compared with 70,000,000 today; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Joint State Government Commission make an investigation and study of the relationship of motor vehicle exhaust fumes to air pollution, smog, lung cancer and damage to health and property; to study the imminency of the danger of automobile exhaust fumes and to advise on the necessity of enacting legislation to require the mandatory use of a type of muffler device to remove poisonous gases escaping from motor vehicle exhausts; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Joint State Government Commission make a report of its findings and recommendations to the General Assembly by January 15, 1963.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I know that my request was for the immediate adoption of this resolution. I would like to amend that request to do two things. First, I inadvertently forgot to add Senator Pechan's name to the resolution, which I would like to do. I would also like to request that the resolution be sent to the Rules Committee.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, Senator Weiner said that he forgot to put my name on the resolution. I wholeheartedly agree with what has been done, and I would like to say this. About two months ago, I bought an automobile, and this new automobile is equipped with exactly that type of muffler. The State of California has made it mandatory that every new automobile, I think, in the next two or three years be equipped with that type of muffler.

I do think this is a very fine resolution, and I think we should enact some legislation similar to that in the State of California.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The resolution is, accordingly, referred to the Committee on Rules.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WADE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I am sure that every Member of this Body has at one time or another had complaints from residents of their areas about the snowplows of the State Highway Department plowing closed their driveways after they have been properly cleaned by the owners of the land or by the residents. I am sure at this time of year that it creates an additional hazard.

Mr. President, this resolution can best be explained by reading the last paragraph of it which, in substance, says this:

> ". . . That the Senate of Pennsylvania hereby respectfully requests the Department of Highways to have their snowplows followed by jeeps or other vehicles equipped to open driveways and lanes closed by the snowplows; . . ."

Again, Mr. President, I know that every Member on each side of this Body has had complaints from citizens in their areas, who have gone to considerable expense or considerable labor on their part to clear their driveways in order to go to work, only to find when they have returned home in the evening that the State's snowplow has come along and refilled their driveways. Perhaps it is frozen by that time, so that it is impossible for them to park at their homes.

In one instance, not many days ago, a property owner called me and explained his situation. He had cleared his driveway. During the time he was at work, the State's snowplow came along and filled his driveway, and it froze before he got home that evening. He was unable to bring his car into his driveway and to park it at his home. He was obliged to park it on a principal highway. If he had left his lights on, undoubtedly it would have exhausted his battery in the meantime. If he did not leave his lights on, he would certainly create a hazard on the main traveled highway.

Mr. President, I am sure there is not a gentleman within the range of my hearing that would think of cleaning out his walkway and shoveling the snow over on his neighbor's walkway, or to clear his driveway and shovel or see that the snow is placed on his neighbor's driveway. Certainly, if that were done by any individual, his neighbor would likely bring suit against him because of this action.

It would be only common courtesy on the part of our Highways Department to clean out the refilled driveways after they have been cleared by the property owners.

Therefore, Mr. President, this resolution simply requests the Highways Department to do this. This is not a big task for the Highways Department at all. They have much equipment and can hire much equipment to follow their heavy snowplows and clean the driveways after they have been cleaned by the owners when the residue from the road has been thrown into that driveway.

Therefore, Mr. President, on behalf of Senator Stevenson, Senator Kromer and myself, I present this resolution and respectfully request that it be given immediate consideration.

SENATE RESOLUTION

REQUESTING THE DEPARTMENT OF HIGHWAYS TO OPEN DRIVEWAYS AND LANES CLOSED BY SNOWPLOWS

Messrs. WADE, STEVENSON and KROMER offered the following resolution (Serial No. 3), which was read as follows:

In the Senate, January 15, 1962.

Many of us have experienced the feeling of frustration which occurs when, after having gone to the effort of clearing the snow out of our driveways, or to the expense of having someone else do it for us, the Highway Department snowplow comes along and again blocks the driveway. Numerous complaints from constituents verify the fact that this is a frequent occurrence with a common reaction. We all realize that this is not a malicious practice but it is one which does cause widespread resentment. Particularly is this antagonizing if, after clearing the driveway, the breadwinner leaves for his employment, only to return in the evening and find he cannot re-enter his driveway because the Highway Department's snowplow has blockaded his return and forced him to leave his auto or truck parked on the narrow plowed area to the jeopardy of the traveling public as well as to his own vehicle.

We believe the Department of Highways could inaugurate a practice of following their snowplows with jeeps or other light vehicles with a snowplow or frontend loader attached; such vehicles could reopen the driveways or lanes closed by the main snowplow. Thus, by a comparatively small expenditure, this feeling of resentment and the additional labor and expense to which many citizens are subjected could be prevented; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Senate of Pennsylvania hereby respectfully requests the Department of Highways to have their snowplows followed by jeeps or other vehicles equipped to open driveways and lanes closed by the snowplows; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Honorable Park H. Martin, Secretary of Highways.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I listened to Senator Wade's resolution and, of course, it has considerable merit. However, we have a number of problems with reference to such actions by the Department of Highways.

First, Mr. President, let me say to you that I live in a rural area and I have a private driveway. The Department of Highways comes along and they generally fill up the front portion of my driveway, and there is not too much that I can do about it.

Mr. President, if the Department of Highways were to adopt the policy of cleaning out the driveways which they might have filled up while they were plowing, the ultimate result would be that the general public would accuse the Department of Highways of improving private property. I do not feel that this is a function of the Department of Highways and I doubt very much whether such an action would be legal.

When I speak of improving, the mere fact that they use their equipment on private highways would, of course, be subject to surcharges. The same would apply to township commissioners or borough officials in the rural areas. They just cannot do those things.

Therefore, Mr. President, I am very sorry, but I am going to oppose this resolution.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I want to point out to the gentleman the old cliche which is often used in this connection: "Many are called, but few are frozen."

In this situation, I believe that the gentleman is unduly concerned about a problem that I do not think is that universal or that troublesome to most people. I am sure that had this been the general rule, the "Letters to the Editors' Columns" would carry a great deal of this information, number one. Number two, I do not think we have had that many snows this year, thereby making this a universal problem and making us bring it to the attention of the Secretary of Highways. This is a problem where they dump a lot of snow, but I think the general good of all the people is what is really involved. Some individual's driveway may be blocked as a result of this, but I think the general good of all is best served by keeping the highways open for people to be able to travel back and forth to their daily tasks and for emergency vehicles to pass. I think this is very little and I am not so sure that the Department of Highways can take care of everyone who has a problem.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, as explained before, this would not be a heavy duty on the Department of Highways. I am sure that neither Senator Lane nor Senator Weiner would permit themselves or anyone in their employ to take the snow off of their walkway or driveway and shovel it onto someone else's. Further, I do not think it is necessary for the Department of Highways to leave their right-of-way. They have plenty of right-of-way on every road in Pennsylvania to move the snow back and still stay on their right-of-way. Certainly, they would raise a lot of fuss if the snow plows of the township, borough or other municipalities would come along and ruthlessly shovel the snow in their clearing out onto the State Highways.

Mr. President, I repeat what I said a little while ago. I think this is common decency on behalf of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, through the Highways Department. I think they could easily render this service. It is not a mammoth problem at all. However, it is a matter of common decency that they treat their citizens as citizens. As I said a while ago, I am sure that if any individual here would have the snow from their neighbor's property plowed onto their driveway, they would raise a fuss about it, and perhaps if the neighbor would persist in doing that, they would bring suit against him for doing it.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I object to the immediate consideration of this resolution.

Mr. President, if the Highways Department were confronted with the problem of staying on their right-of-way along private property, it would appear to me that every time they plowed snow, they would have to have an engineer along with them to determine whether or not they were on their right-of-way or on private property. I do not think we can do it.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. In view of the fact that there has been objection to the immediate consideration of this resolution, it will be referred to the Rules Committee.

SENATE RESOLUTION

AUTHORIZING THE SENATE BANKING COMMITTEE TO MAKE A STUDY OF THE CONSUMERS CREDIT PRACTICES

Messrs. DONOLOW, MAHADY and McCREESH offered the following resolution (Serial No. 4), which was read and referred to the Committee on Banking:

In the Senate, January 15, 1962.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has been confronted recently with a $3,500,000 swindle involving lending institutions located in Pennsylvania.

It has been further pointed out to us that consumers credit practices and sources of consumers credit are unregulated in many phases in the Commonwealth. Since 1945, consumers credit institutions in the United States have increased in volume to about $50,000,000,000.

In the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, there have been no new credit laws regulating consumers credit practices since 1945, although the volume of business and the number of consumers credit outlets have increased tremendously. It has become apparent that legislation is greatly needed to more efficiently regulate the consumers credit field both for the purpose of protecting the borrower as well as the individuals who advance funds and institutions who are investing moneys in consumers credit corporations.

The need for a comprehensive study so that proper laws may be drawn up for the consumers credit field is imperative; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Senate Banking Committee of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania make an intensive and comprehensive study of the entire consumers credit practices and to secure such information which would assist the General Assembly in enacting necessary and adequate laws relating to the consumers credit field; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the committee may hold hearings, take testimony and make its investigations at such places as it shall deem necessary within this Commonwealth. It may issue subpoenas commanding any person to appear before it and to answer questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee, and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee deems necessary. Such subpoenas shall have the force and effect of subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth. Any person who wilfully neglects or refuses to testify before the committee or to produce any books, papers, records or documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases. Each member of the committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the committee shall report back to the Senate its findings and recommendations as soon as possible.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

WEEKLY ADJOURNMENT

Mr. MULLIN offered the following resolution, which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, January 15, 1962.

RESOLVED (the House of Representatives concurring), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene Monday, January 22, 1962 at a time to be fixed by the Senate; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene Monday, January 22, 1962 at a time to be fixed by the House of Representatives.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. MALLERY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, on behalf of almost all of the Members of the Senate, I am glad to introduce the following resolution eulogizing Galen Hall, who is a resident of Williamsburg, in Blair County.

In order not to be charged with plagiarism, I am proud to admit that the resolution is almost entirely copied from an editorial in one of Pennsylvania's best newspapers, The Hollidaysburg Register.

Mr. President, I might add that I would like to have all of the Members of the Senate sign this resolution, but I did not want to interrupt the proceedings of the Senate. However, I would be pleased to have any Members of the Senate who have not already signed this resolution to do so.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The comment made by Senator Mallery in the event some Members of the Senate did not hear it, was that regarding this resolution, any Senator who desires to join therein may come forth and sign it.

SENATE RESOLUTION

TRIBUTE TO GALEN HALL

Messrs. MALLERY, MADIGAN, TAYLOR, WAGNER, CHAPMAN, PECHAN, LANE, SCOTT, HAYS, ROONEY, HALUSKA, CONFAIR, BERGER, FLEMING, SHAFER, STROUP, MULLIN, MAHADY, RIPP, SEYLER, WEINER, McCREESH, STAISEY, DiSILVERSTRO, STEVENSON, SARRAF and KESSLER offered the following resolution (Serial No. 5), which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, January 15, 1962.

Football season is ended, even after extending through that unusual month of December and into January of the present year, but its memory lingers on, and most pleasantly too, for all residents of Blair County and especially of the Borough of Williamsburg.

The past gridiron season brought recognition galore to Blair County and the credit belongs to modest, well-liked, and usually silent in speech, Galen (Butch) Hall, a Williamsburg native, who sparked the Penn State University team to a grand season as the quarterback, the player long being complimented as "a football student who calls the plays as good as any coach."

Hall, who was an all-around athletic star at Williamsburg High School, is a two-sports man at State, being the catcher on the baseball team. He can do a pretty good job on the basketball court too, as his record at Williamsburg will show.

In football, for the 1961-plus season, he attracted national attention and drew pageline notices, with, of course, Williamsburg, as his native town, being prominently mentioned. Twice he was awarded "the player of the day" in the Penn State post-season game at Jacksonville and the Pro-league East-West extra game at Washington, D. C.

Praises galore have been heaped upon the broad shoulders of the Blair product, who has been classified as "too small' for the professionals, but who can really play rings around a lot of big fellows. It is noted that Hall is listed at 5 feet 9 inches tall, weighing 190 pounds, but latest "insider" reports from State College announced the figures as 5 feet, 7½ inches, weight 209 pounds. One thing all agree upon, as regards Galen's features and statistics, is that he is "balding" and only 23 years old.

His future is exceptionally bright and no decision as to his life career will be made until he graduates. He has had numerous grid offers. He may win a Penn State yearly scholarship and stick to the campus. No matter what comes, he's the national sensation on the gridirons for 1961, a great honor appreciated by Blair Countians, and the cheerful, applauding Williamsburgers. His home town was never more proud, and deservingly so.

Williamsburg has produced outstanding sons in the past who have gained wide acclaim, but the name "Hall" outshines all records; therefore, be it

Resolved, That this Senate of Pennsylvania hereby extends its congratulations to Galen Hall on his outstanding accomplishments on the football gridiron during the past season, and on the fine example of good sportsmanship he has exhibited in attaining his outstanding record.

HOUSE MESSAGE

HOUSE CONCURS IN SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, informed the Senate that the House has concurred in resolution from the Senate, entitled:

Weekly Adjournment

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, during the 1961 Session of the Legislature, Senator Kromer and myself offered a resolution. It was Serial No. 86. This resolution asked for the appointment of a Senate Committee to investigate the sale of land to the Curtiss-Wright Corporation, as authorized by the Act of June 3, 1955.

Mr. President, after I introduced that resolution, I was told by the Administration and I was told by our leadership that Governor Lawrence was sparing no effort in trying to get the Federal Government to give some orders to Curtiss-Wright in order that they not abondon Quehanna.

I think I said at that time, and I say again, that I think a tremendous fraud was perpetrated on the people of Pennsylvania, and not only on a particular group of sportsmen who had to surrender their land by eminent domain in order to give this land to Curtiss-Wright. We here in the Senate were made to believe that Curtiss-Wright was going to bring in some 8,000 to 10,000 employees. You will recall, during 1955, industry was hurting in Pennsylvania. We had a tremendous number of people who were unemployed, and if we could get employment for 1,000, 2,000 or 10,000 people, we thought we would be doing something for our people in Pennsylvania.

In turn, the Curtiss-Wright Corporation went into Quehanna and encouraged some of their young engineers, who were young people beginning to raise families, to construct new homes or buy homes, incidentally, that were built by Curtiss-Wright and sold to these people for as much as $35,000. Those homes are now practically worthless, because in that particular area there is no industry and there is no demand for engineers.

We were told that one of the reasons why they wanted to build at Quehanna was because in and around Chicago and around Los Angeless where the jet planes were being tested, the people were complaining because of the noise, and they wanted to get out into the wilds somewhere. We fell for their story, and sold and leased them all of this property.

I did not no anything about the resolution, as I said a while ago, because I was made to understand that the Administration here was going to get some government orders for these people and keep Curtiss-Wright moving.

I saw in the papers the other day that on June 1st or June 30th—I do not recall which—Curtiss-Wright has decided to leave Pennsylvania. I think it is our duty and I am going to, next Monday, introduce a resolution to either make a study or else have the State Government try to reclaim that land before Curtiss-Wright does something else about it.

As I understand it, they have made for themselves a private fishing and hunting grounds for their officials. Their officials have come from all over the United States and used this for a private hunting and fishing ground.

We were made to understand that they had at one time 1,500 employees, when the most that were ever employed were 500.

I want to tell you some of the stories that I have gotten from some of their employees. I am talking about young engineers who went ahead and built these homes, thinking that they had a great future with the Curtiss-Wright Corporation. It makes you sick, because a great many of them have put all of their eggs in one basket. They continued to believe that Curtiss-Wright was going to expand and that they were going to do this and that.

One of the things that made me suspicious of Curtiss-Wright was that a company as large as they are purported to be would come to this Legislature and ask for $150,000 to do research or to build a plant which would use a lot of coal to make a black top for our roads. They felt that the State Government should do it. We have found out since that there is no such thing. It was an old patent that existed in Germany many, many years ago, and they resurrected it for no other reason than to use it for publicity purposes. They claimed that they were going down into Kentucky and that we were going to lose some revenue. However, we found out that all of this has been falsehoods.

I believe if there was any time that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania had a fraud perpetrated on it, it was when we, here in the Legislature, sold and leased this land to Curtiss-Wright. I want to put the Legislature on guard that next Monday, I am going to introduce a resolution. I hope Senator Kromer and all of the other forty-eight Senators will go along to do something about finding out what actually has happened.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, during the previous Session, I introduced a resolution which was unanimously adopted by the Senate of Pennsylvania. It is my opinion and I believe under the Constitution, the Senate of Pennsylvania is an august Body which harbors no indifference. That resolution called upon the committee which is supposed to bolster the Gettysburg celebration to file a report, stating to the people of Pennsylvania what has been accomplished.

We are only within a year and some months from the celebration of the Centennial of the Gettysburg Battle. It is a great event. People from all over the Nation will be coming to this sacred place—this hallowed ground—to celebrate this event.

That resolution called upon the committee which is in charge of that celebration to file a report, stating how far they have advanced, what they are doing and what has been accomplished. To the best of my knowledge, disregarding the dictates of the Senate of Pennsylvania, nothing has been filed and we do not know what we are doing.

For this reason, Mr. President, I am simply saying the Roman words: "Caveat consules! Beware, we will get after them." I will spend plenty of time on the floor of the Senate, constantly criticizing those people who neglected the request of the Senate of Pennsylvania. Let them file that report so we will not have any quarrels.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I believe the Senator is not only speaking about a serious problem, but also is talking to one of the Commissioners.

Originally, I was appointed to the Commission and I am probably the only one who is still left of the original Commission which is still serving. The gentleman will not only receive a report, but he will also have an opportunity to vote for an appropriation for this Commission. I hope he will be as vociferous and flowery as he was here today in helping us to get this appropriation through.

We have not only negotiated with a number of persons, but we intend to put on not only a dignified event, but one which all of us in Pennsylvania can be proud of in order to commemorate this celebration, not only of the One Hundredth Anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg but also of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, which took place a few months later in the very same year. We have already contracted with one or two organizations. We do not feel that this will cost the Commonwealth a great deal of money in the sense that we are putting out some of this money. However, we will get some of it back after the event goes on for some time. We also feel that the tourism in Pennsylvania will also benefit us.

Probably the reason why the Senator has not received a report is because we have not completed all of our plans. We do not want to give them to him until they have been put into final form. My own thought is that the gentleman will probably receive a report within the next month or so. I believe the Senator who represents the Gettysburg area has been close to the situation and has taken a very active part in it. He has been very active in presenting names to us of people to serve, all of whom have been considered and many of whom are serving on this Commission now. Therefore, I, alone, am not the only person who knows all the plans.

We have also had some problems with the Federal Government which owns the area as a Federal Park. We have had to obtain clearance from them in order that we do not run into the fiasco they have had in other parts of this Country by putting on these skirmishes and other things of this nature which have caused difficulty and embarrassment in some of the communities.

This event does take place in the height of the summer, July 1, 2, and 3 being the dates of the battle, and then again in November, when the Address was given. Therefore, all of these things are being taken into consideration and elaborate plans are being made for a successful and dignified celebration of this event.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, it is a known fact that history could have been written differently if the Battle of Gettysburg would not have been fought on a terrain favorable to the Union. As a matter of fact, General Lee intended to fight about twelve miles southeast of Gettysburg. However, a lowly lieutenant found a lot of shoes in a basement in the city of Gettysburg. In trying to remove the shoes to the camp of General Lee, he engaged in battle with the Union Forces and so the battle developed.

I am now worried that we will have to fight a new battle; not about shoes, but about hot dogs. The hot dogs will invade the periphery of the battlefield and that will be a scandalous situation. That is the reason why I am insisting on the final report at this time. I am glad that Senator Weiner is on the job and I know that something is being done. However, we should hear about it from time to time so that this matter, which will be sacred to the entire Nation, should not become a fizzle.

Mr. SESLER. Mr. President, as Chairman of the Committee on Military Affairs and Aeronautics and as the Senator from Erie County, I feel it behooves me to make a few remarks in regard to an incident that occurred last week during the Joint Session of the House and Senate Appropriations Committees. These remarks, in discussion, were made pertaining to the consideration of the allocation for the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home in Erie, Pennsylvania. I would venture to say that I am probably more familiar with the home than any of the Senators here. Accordingly, I would like to make some comments about this Home and about the problems.

Before I do so, I would like to clear the air in regard to the accounts that I have read in the Erie Times of statements made by Representative Blaine C. Hocker, Representative Robert S. Ogilvie and Representative Richard L. Adams. According to the newspaper, they fired a barrage of criticism at the Home.

Representative Ogilvie is quoted as saying: "I would not put a dog in that institution." Representative Hocker said that he blew his stack at the hearing. He said: "It is the best flop joint I have ever seen." Furthermore, he said: "If that is the best we can offer our disabled veterans, we would be better off to give them nothing." Finally, Representative Hocker is supposed to have said: "Everybody knows the conditions of the place, but no one has the guts or courage to do anything about it."

These types of remarks, of course, are the types which are guaranteed to receive some press coverage and I think that is their primary design.

First of all, for the record, I would like to make it very clear that I consider such remarks not only unjustified, but also irresponsible. I think these remarks were made, primarily, for the purpose of creating publicity and represent a crude attempt to create a possible campaign issue, at the expense of the reputations of some excellent public servants and also at the expense of the Home and the veterans therein who, evidently, are being turned into a political football. Most importantly of all, it clouds the issues; the legitimate, valid issues regarding this Home and its future. I think that anyone can recognize that this is no way to approach a problem.

For example, Senator Berger and I toured the Male Geriatric Building at Warren, Pennsylvania last year, in the company of a number of other representatives. Because of the nature and condition of the patients, and the old doting therein, it was a rather unpleasant experience. However, we were not shouting it from the housetops. Rather, we saw that the General State Authority, last year, saw fit to provide funds for the erection of a new Male Geriatric Building at Warren.

With this understand,—I shall point out to you why these remarks are unqualified—I would like to give you a little of the background in regard to this. Moreover, may I say that it is impossible for me to give you all the facts about the home today. However, I feel certain that when the subcommittee visits this Home on a proposed visit on January 27, 1962, if any man can come away from there and say honestly and fairly that it is a flop house, then I am afraid he is erroneous in his thinking. I feel sure that the committee can visit it tonight, tomorrow or anytime, as I have occasion to do because of my interest there, and they are not going to find that it is a flop house.

Briefly, Mr. President, I would like to review what the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home is.

This was originally conceived as a Marine Hospital for old sailors. The bill was passed here in 1881 and it was never opened as such. It sat for a number of years until February 22, 1886, when the Home was opened for all indigent and disabled veterans of Pennsylvania. It has operated as such ever since. I might mention that during the course of this time, the Home has had enter its gates some 12,743 veterans, over 900 of whom are buried in a cemetery behind the Home.

The main building is very old. As I said, it will be seventy-six years old next February. The building is three stories high, it has nine wards and 138 rooms which can accommodate approximately 400 veterans. There is a two-story infirmary building, consisting of four wards, two of which are now in operation.

I would like to first point out to you that the Home was in a very, very deplorable condition. The National Field Representative of the American Legion made a report, in 1957, in which he considered it to be terrible, and it was. I knew about this from my own personal experience. I can say that for many years this Home was operated and the neglect was terrible. I cannot understand how it was allowed to disintegrate as it did. This was during a period, Mr. President, during a certain number of those years, when money was allowed to lapse in regard to the Home. I have checked the records. There were certain years in which the Commandant managed to turn back somewhere between $30,000 and $50,000. However, I can say that as of 1957, certain wings had not been painted since 1932, due to W.P.A. Others had not been painted since 1944.

In May of 1958, a new Commander took over; namely, Arthur Jackson. I think we can say, in all fairness, that since that time, he has worked most diligently to improve the conditions of this Home and to provide better facilities for the veterans. This report is borne out. If anyone should care,—and I think these committees should be interested—there is an excellent study prepared by Mr. Cohen, who is head of the Office for the Aging, in the Department of Public Welfare, and Miss Metz, who is head of the Convalescent Home Division. If Senator Stiefel were here, I think he would agree with me that these people are not the type of people who would write reports lightly. This is a critical report, consisting of some thirty or forty pages. It makes an interesting contrast with the intensive report which was written in 1957. This report is critical. It recommends that many things should be done, and I shall not talk about all of them.

In this report, for example, they say the following:

> "The home administration should be commended for the preventive maintenance program which has been established. Provision of an additional plasterer and mechanic should be considered in development of new budgets.
> "The recreation program of the home has been greatly improved and reflects imagination and concern of the Commandant.
> "Special comment should be made on the fine condition of the general stores and the kitchen. . .
> "The administration of the home should be commended for the development of good accounting controls.
> "The overall dietary program is excellent. The quality, quantity and cost controls are among the finest we have ever seen. . ."

I would like to say to you that this gentleman came into this Home and, working against drastic odds, undertook to improve many facets of the Home's program. As of now, I can tell you that many of the sections have been repainted. New floors have been installed. It has a brand-new, immaculate infirmary kitchen. Some of the improvements which have been made since 1958 include the following:

Painted and revamped exterior entrances of the Administration Building; complete rewiring of the Infirmary and Commander's residence; complete renovation—plastering painting and repairing—of the interior of the Recreation Building, storeroom, hospital wards, private rooms and hospital kitchen.

The floor covering of the Administrative Offices, the hospital ward and private rooms, and a large portion of the main hallways were replaced with new asphalt tile. All new fire doors were repaired and renovated. When they came in, they had to knock them in order to get them apart. Today, all the fire doors operate with fusible cables. New fire hoses and nozzle were purchased for the entire institution.

The institution, for example, has a recreation room. You can go into the library where you will find a couple of thousand books. There are about forty new, leather chairs in there The adjacent recreation room has three billiard tables and a television set. There are five television rooms throughout the institution, with comfortable chairs.

These are an example of the things that have been done under the present Commander. It is not perfect. For example, I think they should institure better medical care and a more strict control. If you were to go through this institution with me, however, I am sure you would agree that it is not a flop house. To criticize it as such is an unjust reflection on the people, particularly the present Administration which has striven to improve it and which definitely has improved it.

There is a basic problem to consider in the future of this home. Incidentally, I might add, they say that all the veterans' groups are against it. I have a letter here from the Pennsylvania Department Commander of the VFW, dated May 23, 1961, which reads as follows:

> ". . . I personally visited this Home a few months ago and agree that there is much to be desired at this installation. However, in comparing the condition of the Home presently against its condition a few years ago, I find that improvements have been made which have been beneficial to the guests residing at the Home.
> "As you know, this Home is maintained by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania with appropriations which are made by the State Legislature. I was informed by the Manager during my visit to the Home that, as money is available, the needed repairs, painting, etc., are being done. The same condition exists with regard to the second floor which has been remodeled. The reason it is not being used is because of lack of funds."

Questions were raised regarding the domiciliary costs. Among these programs, I would like to point out to you that I have reviewed the records of the Office of the Director of Domiciliaries of the Veterans Administration. There are thirty-three State Veterans' Homes in the United States, run by twenty-eight States. It is interesting to note that in the accounting figures, given for the fiscal year 1960-1961, we have the following:

Of the thirty-three homes, six homes operated at less per capita cost than Pennsylvania, and twenty-six homes operated at a greater expense. The average per capita cost listed there—this is a complicated matter and it is difficult for me to tell you. However, briefly, their average per capita cost for the six homes was less. The twenty-six homes which cost more were $2,209. Our total was $1,446. In other words, there was a difference of $763 in the average cost per capita, in 1960.

In 1961, out of the thirty-three homes, eleven homes ran their per capita cost less than Pennsylvania; twenty-two homes ran it for more.

This is an indication that the per capita costs in Pennsylvania have not been out of line in comparison to the other thirty-three State Veterans' Homes in the United States. However, the basic question is this: There are three possible alternatives to be considered in this Home. As you know, depending on how you compare your estimates, this budget includes anywhere from $101,000 to $191,000 for major improvements. Therefore, someone could say that this is $2,400 per man, and we could put him in the Penn Harris. Let me say to you that this cost includes a great deal of money for repairs on the exterior of this Home which have not been done for years. I will admit that there is a basic question; that being whether or not these funds should be put into an old home or whether a new home should be built, or whether we should discontinue our program entirely.

Regarding the discontinuance of the program, let me say that this is a serious question and it is difficult to find an answer. There are seventeen Federal VA homes, and nine of them are in States which also have State Homes. Here, in Pennsylvania, we have no Federal VA Home. There is a VA Home in Bath, New York; there is one in Martinsburg, West Virginia; and the biggest one, consisting of 1,600 beds, is located in Dayton, Ohio. These are the closest homes and, at the present time, there are waiting lists. Admission is considered indefinite. This is according to a letter which was received by each of these homes, in answer to a request made on October 23, 1961.

If we were to entirely discontinue the Home in Pennsylvania, this means that we would have to face the fact that a good many of the men whom we now take care of may have difficulty in getting taken care of elsewhere.

Now we ask this question: Will we have any need in the future? This is a serious thing which requires analysis in terms of what are our needs going to be. This is determined by two factors; one, the number of veterans; and, two, economic conditions.

It is interesting to note that during 1932, there were twice as many veterans in the homes as there were in 1942, ten years later. This was because of economic conditions. Remember, they must be indigent. Therefore, we have to recognize this fact. We had twelve World War II veterans in the Home in 1952. Today, we have fifty World War II veterans and two Korean veterans. The number of World War II veterans is much greater than the number of World War I veterans. We are going to have to consider the question of whether we are going to take care of the World War II veterans and on what basis.

The VA has announced the following:

> "At a meeting of the National Association of State Veterans Homes in August 1961, it was stated that the VA Department of Medicine and Surgery had recommended a program for their Domiciliaries wherein they hope to develope a concept of changing from their present pure Domiciliary Care Program to a program of Restoration and Rehabilitation with all admissions to VA Domiciliaries going through the hospital to the Domiciliary and with no admission to the Domiciliary for an extended period beyond one or two years."

This means that if the Federal Government takes on this program, there will be no permanent domiciliary care of aged veterans. This is one of the questions we must consider. We also have to consider the cost of a new home.

I am not going to go into these factors; I just want to raise them. I am concerned with them and we are studying them. I hope the decision will be made. It is questionable whether it shall be made. However, I would like to point out that when these fellows come on the floor and, for political purposes, are willing to make these statements, in view of the fine administration that has been brought about in this Home in the past two years, I consider it unjustified. By these remarks, Mr. President, I hope that we can take away the publicity and determine those facts. This is the only intelligent way to make an intelligent decision.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, two years ago, I visited the Veterans' Home up in Erie County and, at that time, I was not too enthusiastic about the conditions that existed there.

I understand from Senator Sesler that improvements have been made. However, not too long ago, the American Legion held their convention in the city of Erie. At that time, quite a number of the membership came to me and talked with me about the conditions of the Veterans' Home at Erie.

As you know, Mr. President, under the Act of 1881, the veterans must be aged, indigent or disabled.

My position I wish to make clear. The home actually has a capacity of 450. At the present time, there are 225 in the home, as of last week.

All of us know, Mr. President, that we have fixed costs in the operation of any institution. I feel this way. I feel that, number one, there must be something wrong or we would have a larger population, because we have the veterans who need to be placed in homes.

Number two, Mr. President, if we are going to take care of our veterans, they should be taken care of in the proper manner.

I understand there is difficulty in regard to hospitalization and medication in that particular area. I feel that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania should either rebuild this Home, modernize this institution or abandon it and place the institution in some other locality, because as of the present time, a great percentage of the Legionnaires are not satisfied with the over-all operation.

I repeat; there may have been some improvements because I have not been up there for several years. However, I am taking the word of quite a number of Legionnaires who visited the institution during the convention.

It seems to to me that we have a responsibility to our veterans, whether they be aged, or indigent or persons who are not too well along as far as finances are concerned. I think that what we should do is maintain them in the proper dignity and we should do this because of the fact that they are former members of our armed forces.

This is limited, Mr. President, to residents of Pennsylvania. That is my understanding under the Act, and Pennsylvania has this responsibility.

I say again that it would be silly, to my way of thinking, to spend $16,000 to repair a boiler when the Home itself is seventy-six years old. I think that is just throwing good money after bad. We should either rebuild the Home from top to bottom or abandon it altogether, and make sure that our veterans live in a place that is proper for them; a place where they can receive proper medication and proper hospitalization, because, after all, they are the persons who went out and fought for their Country, and I do not believe we can do too much for them.

Mr. MULLIN. Mr. President, I was present at the Appropriations Committee Hearing where this matter was discussed, and I noticed that two of the outstanding critics of this institution were Representatives from Dauphin County, who made some suggestions that the place be discontinued and rebuilt in Dauphin County, which, of course, gave them some logic in their attack.

Unfortunately, in their attack, while seemingly on the administration of the Home, they were unable to point out any deficiency in the administration. The manager of the Home was present at the hearing, and he testified that the men there were very much satisfied and they were happy in this place.

The veterans in the Home, however, were attacked. They were called drunks, they were called bums, and they were called another name. I think that anybody who is a veteran ought to take offense at what these men said in their talks. These were not just ordinary men. These were men of standing in the Republican Party and, in addition to that, they were men whose statements are usually made with a little bit of authority. Therefore, it seemed to me that this was an attack deliberately made by the organization of which they are voting members. I think that they certainly owe an apology to the veterans of Pennsylvania, who are the men who fought for their Country and who are being called names which are undignified. They are above any such names as they are being called. I thought that the men were acting very much out of place and out of time.

Almost every family in this Country has members in the armed forces of the United States, and I am certain that they should take offense. I think these men owe an apology to every family in Pennsylvania.

I hope that the veterans of Pennsylvania will also take offense and call this to the attention of the Party which made this unkind attack on veterans.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. A. W. JOHNSON, ASHTON, HORST and SLACK. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 6.

In the House of Representatives,
January 3, 1962

On September 13, 1961, Dr. T. Noel Stern was dismissed as President of West Chester State College for what the College's Board of Trustees called "a lack of confidence in his administrative performance."

On September 17, Dr. Stern issued a statement which he forwarded to the Department of Public Instruction calling upon the department to conduct an inquiry into the real causes of his dismissal as President of West Chester State College.

Later, in a letter to the editor of a Harrisburg newspaper publisher November 18, Dr. Stern made the following charge:

"The Lawrence administration has loaded the Board of Trustees of West Chester State College with politicians. Five of the nine trustees are now active politicians. One is the vice-chairman of the Democrat State Committee.

"Political board members at West Chester State College have concentrated on getting jobs for themselves, their nephews or friends. They have not concentrated on improving educational standards at a college of the common people. . .

"The Lawrence administration had concentrated too heavily on patronage and machine organization. . . The Education program of the administration is getting nowhere."

In his first statement, Dr. Stern stated that he incurred the wrath of the trustees when he refused a request by trustee Mrs. Alice Chambers, also a State Democratic committee member, that she be made dean of administration and public relations director. Stern said that the positions would have "given her patronage over 160 jobs."

Dr. Stern further stated that he had clashed with the trustees because he had refused to admit academically unqualified athletes to the college, and because he had fired politically sponsored college employes for cause.

Stern stated that he had inherited many employes sponsored by the Democratic organization of Chester County, some of whom had criminal records.

These indeed are serious charges and deserve an impartial investigation, not an inquiry conducted by the Department of Public Instruction, which is part of the Lawrence administration, and is therefore sensitive to political pressures.

Dr. Stern's charge of political debasement of one of our tax-supported institutions of higher learning is an ominous sign and it bodes ill for the future of education in Pennsylvania. It is also ironic that the administration of Governor Lawrence, who sets himself up as a champion of progress in the educational field, should itself be the target of such a scathing indictment as that leveled against it by Dr. T. Noel Stern; therefore, be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That the Speaker of the House of Representatives appoint six members of the House, and the President Pro Tempore of the Senate appoint six members of the Senate, with equal representation of both parties, who, together, shall constitute a joint committee to conduct an investigation of alleged political pressures exerted upon the administrators and faculties of our fourteen State colleges and to determine the extent of such pressures and any consequent debasement of educational standards and administrative practices; and, be it further

Resolved, That the committee make an extensive inquiry into conditions at West Chester State College to determine whether the partisan political manipulation of that institution has existed and still does exist; and, be it further

Resolved, That the committee shall elect a chairman and such additional officers as it may deem necessary, that the committee may hold hearings, take testimony and make its investigations at such places as it shall deem necessary within this Commonwealth. It may issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman, commanding any person to appear before it and to answer questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee deems necessary. Such subpoenas may be served upon any person and shall have the force and effect of subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth. Any person who wilfully neglects or refuses to testify before the committee or to produce any books, papers, records or documents, shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such case. Each member of the committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee; and, be it further

Resolved, That the committee make a report and recommendations to the General Assembly not later than September 1, 1962.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. GALLAGHER, PRENDERGAST and KRAMER. RESOLUTION No. 7.

January 3, 1962

The laws relating to commercial business, amusement or entertainment activities on Sunday, usually referred to as "The Blue Laws," have through the years grown into a hopeless state of confusion. Some of them have been in effect since revolutionary times and are now either obsolete or obsolescent. Others of more recent enactment have fallen short of their purpose for reasons that may be guessed at but not easily determined.

It is important now that an attempt be made to bring order to this entire area of law and to give to the people the most desirable beneficial laws possible; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission be directed to make a thorough and complete study of all existing laws relating to secular activities on Sunday, other than the provisions of the Liquor Code, giving particular attention to their present need, their obsolescence, the penalties provided and their uniformity, the enforcement problems involved, including the responsibility for enforcement and the success and desirability of referenda in local communities, including the possibility of extension thereof; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission make a report of its study to the next General Assembly together with its recommendations for appropriate legislation.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. WORLEY. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 8.

In the House of Representatives
January 15, 1962

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is sorely in need of a new Constitution; therefore, be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That the Speaker of the House appoint twelve members of the House, with equal representation from each political party, and that the President Pro Tempore of the Senate appoint twelve members of the Senate, with equal representation from each political party, which members together shall constitute a special committee to draft a new Constitution for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; and, be it further

Resolved, That the special committee so appointed shall submit a draft of a new Constitution for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to the 1963 Session of the General Assembly for appropriate action.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE

By unanimous consent leaves of absence were granted as follows:

Mr. Dougherty for Mr. McKEEVER for the week because of illness.

Mr. Lippincott for Mr. WILLAREDT for today.

Mr. Lippincott for Mr. UJOBAI for today.

Mr. Lippincott for Mr. TOMPKINS for today.

RESOLUTION

CONDOLENCE

Mr. POLEN asked and obtained unanimous consent to offer a resolution and for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and unanimously adopted as follows:

January 15, 1962

The House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, notes with deepest regrets, the untimely passing of William R. Davlin, Secretary of Commerce for the Commonwealth, on October 23, 1961. Mr. Davlin was born in Berlin, Wisconsin, June 23, 1911 and is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin. He specialized in industrial economics, and early in life became associated with the United States Department of Commerce as a chief consultant and research aid to the then United States Secretary of Commerce, Charles Sawyer.

Mr. Davlin, at various times, became Area Development Consultant to the United States Department of Commerce; he organized and then directed this Department for the Department of Commerce; he became consultant on Industrial and Market Development to the United States Department of Commerce, Delta Air Lines, Inc., and the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

During the years 1942-1944 he served with distinction in the Quartermaster Corps of the United States Army.

He was married to Linda Miller Davlin. They have one daughter, Elizabeth Theresa, who resides at 2900 Green Street, Harrisburg.

Mr. Davlin became associated with the Department of Commerce of Pennsylvania in 1955. Later in the same year he was appointed Secretary of Commerce by Governor Leader and in 1959 was reappointed by Governor Lawrence.

His death marks the passing of a great leader. His ability and aggressiveness was recognized not only in this, his adopted State, but throughout the entire nation. In the Department of Commerce and in Pennsylvania's Industrial Development Authority he was known by his fellow workers and associates as a capable, industrious and conscientious public servant. Much of Pennsylvania's industrial development and progress, within recent years, is directly attributable to his foresight and planning in this his chosen field of endeavor.

The House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby extends to his surviving wife and daughter most sincere and deepest condolences in the loss of a faithful husband and father; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of this Commonwealth hereby marks the passing of William R. Davlin, as a great loss to the people of this Commonwealth and posthumously commends him for the indelible mark he has left on the pages of history of our State and Nation; and be it further

Resolved, That the House of Representatives hereby extends deepest condolences to Mrs. Linda Miller Davlin and Elizabeth Theresa Davlin on the great loss which they have suffered by the untimely death of a husband and father; and be it further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to Mrs. Davlin at her residence, 2900 Green Street, Harrisburg, Pa.

The SPEAKER. The Chair requests the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen, to preside temporarily.

Mr. POLEN IN THE CHAIR

RESOLUTION

CONDOLENCE

Mr. HOLMAN. Mr. Speaker, it is with deep regret that I offer the following resolution of condolence and ask for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and unanimously adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, January 15, 1962.

Thomas J. Donaghy, publisher and former State official, died suddenly on Tuesday, January 2, 1962, enroute from a physician's office in Harrisburg to the Polyclinic Hospital.

Mr. Donaghy was born on April 29, 1900 in Germantown, Philadelphia County. His parents were the late Thomas and Elizabeth Soule Donaghy. After attending the Germantown Public Schools, he graduated from Perkiomen Preparatory School, Pennsburg, where he starred in athletics. Mr. Donaghy enrolled in Lafayette College, Easton, and after two years transferred to Franklin and Marshall College, Lancaster, where he completed his college education and received Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts degrees.

In 1925 Mr. Donaghy went to Newport, Perry County, as a teacher of history and science at the Newport High School. It was there that he met Isabelle Deckard, a native of Newport, whom he married on December 5, 1936. While employed at Newport High School, he coached the basketball and baseball teams. His enthusiasm for sports remained, and, when he later returned to Newport permanently, he was influential as a member of the Newport Lions Club in securing for the youth of the community a public park supervised by recreational directors. This effort was recognized by Lions International.

Moving to Philadelphia in 1927, he became associated with his brother, G. Herbert Donaghy, in the B. R. Murphy Company, an insurance firm.

Subsequently, Mr. Donaghy came to Harrisburg where he entered State Government as Sergeant at arms of the Senate, during the 1935 session. From 1935 through 1939, he was active in the Republican State Committee.

In 1939 Mr. Donaghy became administrative assistant to Senator George Woodward of Philadelphia. From this post, he was appointed Administrative Assistant to the Secretary of Labor and Industry, which capacity he filled from 1943 to 1951.

During this time, Mr. Donaghy was active in the drafting of the Pennsylvania Civil Service Act. His name also was associated prominently with the Pennsylvania Unemployment Compensation Act.

Mr. Donaghy's vast understanding and knowledge of government resulted in his appointment to the position of legislative representative of the Anthracite Institute, which position he had held for the past ten years. Since 1958, he had also served as Executive Secretary of the Pennsylvania Self-Insurers' Association.

Returning permanently to Newport in 1936, he became owner and publisher of the Newport "News-Sun" in 1945, and shared with his wife the duties of management of this Perry County weekly. He was a director of the Pennsylvania Newspapers Publishers Association, and served as a member of the executive and legislative committees from 1954 to 1961.

He served also as a director and Vice President of the Citizens National Bank, Newport, Pa.

Mr. Donaghy was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Newport; Newport Lions Club; Newport Lodge F & AM No. 381; Tall Cedars of Lebanon, Juniata Valley Valley Chapter; Harrisburg Consistory; the Zembo Shrine; The Country Club of Harrisburg; the Union League of Philadelphia; the Pennsylvania Scotch-Irish Society; Perry-Juniata Luncheon Club; Shrine Luncheon Club of Harrisburg; Lafayette Alumni Association and the National Society of Chi Phi Fraternity. Active in community affairs, municipal, civic and industrial, his dream for an industrial rebirth of Newport was culminated shortly before his death with the location of a major industry in the Borough, to which effort he gave his supreme energies the last three months of his life.

A friend of all who knew him and a personal advisor to many, Mr. Donaghy's vast knowledge of the legislative process, law and human relations will always live in their memories. His untiring efforts on behalf of community progress in Newport, his unselfish contributions to the welfare of this Commonwealth and his devotion to the principals he fought so hard to advance in the Halls of Pennsylvania's General Assembly will never be replaced. Mr. Donaghy's passing is a personal loss to many members of this legislative body and to the Community; therefore be it

Resolved, That the members of the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania extend their sympathy to his widow, Isabelle Deckard Donaghy; to his brothers, G. Herbert Donaghy and Major William Donaghy and to his niece and nephew, in their hour of loss, and bid them take solace in the knowledge that their loved one has fulfilled his destiny, and has received the promised reward of a life well lived.

The resolution was read, considered and unanimously adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, January 15, 1962.

Charles W. Ettinger of Allentown, Pennsylvania, who for a number of years has served among us as a legislative correspondent, was recently appointed as information specialist for the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

The presence of Charlie Ettinger and his outstanding and conscientious reporting of legislative activities will be missed by all of us. We are, however, happy in the fact that he can continue the practice of his skill as a reporter and writer in his new capacity.

Mr. Ettinger has been a journalist and reporter for over fifty years and has been the recipient of numerous award itations for newspaper excellence, including awards from the Pennsylvania Newspapers Publishers' Association, the Pennsylvania Society of Newspaper Editors, Pennsylvania State University, the American Newspaper Guild, Muhlenberg College and a special certificate from Governor Leader in 1958 for outstanding work in farm and home safety education.

We are proud to have had Charlie Ettinger as one of our legislative correspondents and thankful that the Commonwealth has the benefit of his proven ability; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania extends its heartfelt thanks and deep appreciation for a job well done by Charles W. Ettinger as legislative correspondent; and be it further

Resolved, That we wish him the best of luck and continued success in his new position; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Charles W. Ettinger.

RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATIONS

Mr. SHUPNIK offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration. The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows

In the House of Representatives, January 15, 1962.

On March 13, 1961, a violent explosion occurred at the Schuyler Manufacturing Plant in the Borough of Luzerne, Luzerne County. Timothy Connolly and John Connolly, Luzerne brothers who were nearby at the time, rushed into the burning debris in complete disregard of their personal safety in order to assist the survivors. In the face of searing flames and the threat of additional explosions, Timothy and John made repeated trips far into the debris carrying or otherwise assisting five trapped women to safety.

As a result of their brave and daring actions, Timothy Connolly and John Connolly were selected for the receipt of bronze medals of heroisum by the Carnegie Hero Fund Committee which were awarded to them of October 9, 1961; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby expresses its pride in the exemplary manner in which Timothy Connolly and John Connolly reacted in this time of disaster and extends to them its congratulations upon their receipt of the well-deserved medals for heroism presented to them by the Carnegie Hero Fund Committee; and be it further Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to Timothy J. Connolly, 458 Union Street, Luzerne, Pennsylvania and to John A. Connolly, Jr., 23 Tener Street, Luzerne, Pennsylvania.

RESOLUTION

COMMENDATION

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, January 15, 1962.

In one spontaneous burst of community spirit, scores of resolute citizens of Kane, Pennsylvania, recently paved the way for the coming of a new industry that will mean 150 anticipated job openings for their town.

The word came down to the Kane Area Industrial Development Corporation that Western Kane Products, Inc., appeared interested in the possibilities of acquiring a vacated, weed-overgrown industrial plant.

The woodworking company's representatives had surveyed Kane and its environs at the instigation of the West Penn Power Company's area development specialists.

Location needs were sufficient as to nearness of raw materials, available labor, transportation, community and cultural facilities, and manufacturing space. The available plant, however, required extensive repairs which Western Kane indicated it was not prepared to undertake.

The community leaders decided on a bold plan: Call for voluntary contributions to raise $7,000—the estimated cost of the repair work—and organize an old-fashioned "work-bee" in a manner reminiscent of the "barn raising" endeavors of by-gone years.

The fund-raising goal of $7,000 in seven days, was duly announced in the town's newspaper, The Kane Republican, calling for all-out community support of the "win an industry" drive.

Overnight Kane's citizens responded. Donations poured in at such a rate that the fund was over-subscribed by Friday with two days left to go.

It was the response of volunteers to participate in the "work-bee," however, that brought expressions of surprise and gratitude from the industrial development group.

Men from every occupation and profession signed up. Carpenters, painters, masons, merchants, managers, clergymen, power company linemen and welders turned out en masse.

Retired businessmen showed up to "lend a hand" and young men, without steady jobs or proven skills but with energy and will, offered their services.

In an incredibly short time, the citizen-workers applied 60 gallons of paint to the plant; restored the plant roof by putting down 250 rolls of material; replaced 600 panes of window glass, and performed countless other renovation jobs—including elimination of the weeds on the plant grounds.

Caught up in the spirit of the campaign, Kane business establishments donated materials and equipment.

The spirit of the project became even more infectious. Housewives and other ladies began by serving coffee and cookies, and then launched their own phase of the "work-bee" by swinging into an "Operation Housecleaning."

Wielding brooms, mops and rags, they attacked the office quarters, clearing and cleaning the space and polishing the insides of the windows; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the citizens of Kane, in McKean County, Pennsylvania, are hereby wholeheartedly commended for their community spirit and their tireless efforts in bringing new industry and jobs to their area; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to R. J. Hetznecker, Esquire, President of the Kane Area Industrial Development Corporation.

PERMISSION TO ADD ADDITIONAL SPONSORS

Mr. GRAMLICH asked and obtained unanimous consent to add additional sponsors to a resolution to be introduced by him.

Mr. GRAMLICH. I would like also, Mr. Speaker, to have the resolution given immediate consideration.

The SPEAKER. This is a resolution that contemplates specific official action and should be filed by the clerk and cleared with a committee.

(The resolution was filed with the clerk under the rules)

BIRTHDAY CONGRATULATIONS

The SPEAKER. The Chair understands there are two gentlemen from Berks celebrating birthdays. One had a birthday on Sunday and one on Monday. The Sunday birthday is the gentleman from Berks, Richard Adams; and the Monday birthday is of the gentleman from Berks, Mr. McDevitt.

Mr. DENGLER. Mr. Speaker, inasmuch as we have two gentlemen from the "swing district," I think we ought to sing "Happy Birthday Dick and Mac," together.

(Members joined in singing "Happy Birthday", led by Mr. Dengler.)

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Adams.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I thank my colleagues on both sides of the aisle for the wonderful serenade which they gave me. Thank you.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Berks, Mr. McDevitt, desire to be recognized?

Mr. McDEVITT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to thank the members of the House for their birthday greeting, and to my friends on both sides of the aisle, as soon as I get around to pulling the corks from the many bottles that came with the greetings, they are welcome to participate. Thank you.

STATEMENT BY MAJORITY LEADER

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, we have requested the Governor to call a special session of the General Assembly effective Monday, January 22nd, for the purpose of dealing with reapportionment of the Congressional Districts of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

It has been tentatively agreed that the introduction of such reapportionment bill shall be presented in the House of Representatives, and the House will be in session on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, handling the reapportionment problem. We hope that it will be passed and will go to the Senate, to be handled there on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week, the week of January 22nd.

We have agreed upon, as I understand it, the time for the special session as 12 o'clock and we must go through the official formalities of informing the Governor and the Senate. The Senate must inform us that they have convened and are ready to operate a special session dealing with what is contained in the proclamation presented by the Governor.

We will continue the appropriations hearings that are scheduled for now, tomorrow and tomorrow evening, that is, Tuesday night, Wednesday, Wednesday night and Thursday of this week.

This covers the entire fiscal session of this House for today, Monday, January 15th. On Monday, January 22nd, we will have the special session of the General Assembly beginning at 12 o'clock noon.

INTERROGATION

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Kramer.

Mr. KRAMER. Mr. Speaker, on July 26, 1961, this House adopted Resolution No. 86, Serial No. 97, Printer's No. 2393.

This resolution called for the Joint State Government Commission to study and determine the present need for the legislation applying to the Milk Control Commission, about which our Pittsburgh area is very much interested. That resolution stated that the report of the committee would be submitted to this House on January 15, 1962.

Mr. Speaker, I rise to question whether such a report has been filed. If it has, where I can see it; and if it has not been presented, when I may see it?

The SPEAKER. So far as the Chair knows the report has not been filed with the Chair. Whether it has been filed with the chief clerk I would not know.

Mr. KRAMER. Mr. Speaker, is there any way that I, as a legislator, can find out when such a report will be filed?

The SPEAKER. The Chair does not recollect who was chairman of that committee.

Mr. KRAMER. May I inquire of the Chair who was the chairman of the committee preparing this report?

The SPEAKER. The Chair thinks the Joint State Government Commission, but the chairman is not on the floor.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, if I may, the report that the gentleman is speaking about will be presented to the House by the chairman of the Joint State Government Commission, who now is the Honorable Harris G. Breth of Clearfield County.

Mr. KRAMER. Will the gentleman from Clearfield County, Mr. Breth, submit to interrogation if he is in the hall of the House?

The SPEAKER. He is not in the hall of the House.

Mr. KRAMER. Mr. Speaker, we have a situation in the Pittsburgh area which directly affects all the milk consumers in that area. There are certain of us legislators from the Pittsburgh area who believe that we would like to delve into all of the matters of the Milk Control Commission, even though this is a revenue session.

Therefore, I call on the Chair to find out for me when and where we can see this report.

The SPEAKER. The majority leader will correct me if I am wrong, but, as I understand, the Joint State Government Commission now has a task force studying the entire milk situation. Of course, that task force is not yet ready to report.

In the opinion of the Chair, the report of the chairman of that committee might properly be filed with the task force that is now preparing a comprehensive study.

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein, rise?

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. For the purpose of giving some enlightenment to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Kramer.

I would like to remind the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Kramer, that in 1954 the Democratic Party platform made the solemn pledge on milk control as follows:

> To end the dealer domination of the Milk Control Board by giving adequate representation to producers and consumers; to close the gap between the low prices paid the farmer and the high prices paid by the housewife.

It is almost seven years since that pledge was made. I have been in the House of Representatives during that time and, to my recollection, no bill has appeared in the House in the three terms during which the Democrats have been in control, to implement that pledge.

So all I can say to the gentleman from Allegheny is, when you discuss a platform pledge in Harrisburg, things move very slowly.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. WALSH and FILO. RESOLUTION No. 9.

In the House of Representatives, January 15, 1952.

Senate resolution, Serial No. 60 of the 1959 Session read as follows:

"In many instances the assessment of real estate for taxation in counties of the second class is unjust and inequitable.

"Many of these injustices are the result of the inconsistency of the local government in interpreting and applying the numerous and broad terms contained in the tax laws.

"Among the terms which have been applied to a variety of factual situations and which have not been clearly and definitely defined is the term 'machinery' when assessed as real estate.

"As a result of this inconsistency in interpreting and applying the term 'machinery,' it has become increasingly difficult to determine when the machinery used in a particular factory or industry is assessable as real estate, and when it is not; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission be directed to study and define the term 'machinery' with relation to assessment of real estate in counties of the second class, and report to the next regular session of the General Assembly as to its findings and recommendations."

Pursuant to this resolution, the Joint State Government Commission appointed a task force and some hearings were held. The study was not completed prior to the close of the 1961 Session of the General Assembly and nothing has been done since then.

The need for the study continues to be urgent; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission be directed to continue and complete the study directed by 1959 Senate resolution Serial No. 60 and a report of its finding be made to the next General Assembly.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. GRAMLICH, FULMER, WILT, KISTLER, BUSH and DAVIS. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 10.

In the House of Representatives, January 15, 1962.

On July 10, 1961, Republican House members introduced House Resolution No. 89 calling for a special bipartisan legislative commission "to conduct forthwith a full investigation of the licensing activities of the Department of Public Instruction to determine the extent of political influence upon licensing boards and what effect such political influence and pressure has had upon the granting of licenses."

The reason for the investigation, in the words of House Resolution No. 89, was that "the dismissal of July 6, 1961 of William J. Kilroy of Philadelphia as administrative officer of the Bureau of Professional Licensing for interference with the procedures of the licensing board has cast doubt upon the integrity of that Bureau."

The Lawrence administration turned thumbs down on a bipartisan legislative investigation of the Bureau of Professional Licensing, and House Resolution No. 89 died in the Democrat controlled House Rules Committee.

While there was more than sufficient reason for a legislative investigation of the Bureau of Professional Licensing in 1961, there is even more reason for such an investigation in 1962, because there is evidence that the Governor's office directly intervened to pressure the State Board of Pharmacy into granting a mail-order license to the International Ladies Garment Workers Union at the board's meeting on October 23, 1961.

According to DRUG TOPICS, a trade publication, in its November 20, 1961 issue, "The board acted on the ILGWU request, one board member told DRUG TOPICS, after receiving a visit from a personal representative of Governor David L. Lawrence. He reportedly told board members that 'the Governor wants this license granted and he wants it okayed by 5 o'clock today.'"

On November 22, 1961, the Harrisburg Patriot reported that "Walter W. Geisey, executive secretary to the Governor, said he met with three board members prior to their October 23 meeting and urged them to grant the permit to the International Ladies Garment Workers Union."

With two of its five members absent, the State Pharmacy Board, under extreme pressure from the Governor's office, granted the mail-order pharmacy permit to the ILGWU on October 23, two weeks before the November 7 election.

This was the first time the Pharmacy Board had granted such a permit. The State Senate, during the closing days of the 1961 session, voted 48-1 against a bill to allow mail-order pharmacies.

As soon as the ILGWU received its permit, David Gingold, chairman of the Union's Health and Welfare Fund, sent a letter to all the union's members giving a large share of credit for the union's obtaining the permit to Anne X. Alpern, former Attorney General and the Democratic party's candidate for Justice of the Supreme Court. Gingold urged ILGWU members to vote for Miss Alpern in the November 7 election.

Furthermore, the campaign expense report filed by the people for Justice Anne X. Alpern Committee with the Department of State shows that the International Ladies Garment Workers Union contributed $500 to that committee on October 27, four days after the mail-order drug permit was issued.

When the Governor was caught red-handed in engaging directly in political manipulation, he attacked the members of the State Board of Pharmacy and called for an investigation, in order to throw up a smokescreen.

What the public has a right to know is to what extent the 16 licensing boards have been debased and subverted by political pressures.

The public must be protected from unscrupulous men in positions of political influence who have held up or pushed through State licenses either for monetary gain or the desire to win elections.

The only guarantee that the public will get all the facts is a legislative investigation of the Bureau of Professional Licensing; therefore be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That the Speaker of the House of Representatives appoint six members of the House, three from the majority party and three from the minority party, and the President Pro Tempore of the Senate appoint six members of the Senate, three from the majority party and three from the minority party, who shall constitute a joint commission to conduct forthwith a full investigation of the licensing activities of the Department of Public Instruction to determine the extent of political influence upon licensing boards and what effect such political influence and pressure has had upon the granting of licenses; and be it further

Resolved, That the commission may meet, hold hearings, take testimony and make its investigations whether the General Assembly is in session or in adjournment. It may issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman, commanding any person to appear before it and to answer questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the commission and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the commission deems necessary. Any person who wilfully neglects or refuses to testify before this commission or to produce any books, papers, records or documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases. Each member of the commission shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the commission; and be it further

Resolved, That the commission make a report of its findings to the General Assembly on or before September 1, 1962, together with its recommendations for appropriate legislation or administrative procedures, or both, or any other action necessary to insure the future integrity of the Bureau of Professional Licensing.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows:

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA
Governor's Office, Harrisburg

January 16, 1962

Mr. Lieutenant Governor, Mr. Speaker, and Members of the General Assembly:

I place before you for consideration today a plan with profound implications for the future of the Commonwealth.

Shaped in the traditions of William Penn, who prized the beauty of his province highly, it will mean a richer life for all citizens.

It provides for the conservation and development of our magnificent scenic and natural resources.

It aims for a healthier, more pleasant, more prosperous Pennsylvania.

It does so in many ways:

First, it will enhance the livability of every section of the State—a critical matter in these times when more and more Americans insist upon attractive surroundings and opportunities for creative family leisure near their place of work.

Second, these proposals, if realized, will stimulate new business and industrial investment—and thus new jobs—by establishing an atmosphere attractive to high wage, fast growth industry.

Third, this plan lays the foundation for a mammoth new tourist industry in Pennsylvania.

Fourth, the conservation of such vital natural resources as water—so essential for future economic expansion—is implicit in this proposal.

Finally—and most important of all—we have a plan that looks to the future. It can preserve for our children and our children's children the precious beauty of Pennsylvania. It will help guarantee them a community rich in promise, rich in opportunity, rich in the livability of its communities and its landscape.

The plan is called PROJECT 70.

The name was selected for several reasons.

First, 1970 is the target year. This is the year when the new Interstate Highway System will be nearing completion and Pennsylvania can begin to realize the full economic impact of her superb new highways.

The year 1970 also is the end of a decade—a critical decade in the life of urban areas. Each year, thousands of acres around our cities are being plowed up for housing developments, shopping centers, highways, and factories. In southeastern Pennsylvania alone, in the counties of the Delaware Basin, an additional million and a half acres will be lost to urban growth during the next 50 years.

Clearly we must act now in the heavily populated counties if we are to provide succeeding generations with the reservoir sites for water supply, the areas for play and relaxation, the scenic open space which will be essential for the full economic vitality of these urban areas in the Pennsylvania of tomorrow.

With the promise of our new highways and the probelms in our metropolitan areas in mind, therefore, PROJECT 70 proposes four significant goals for Pennsylvania in 1970:

First, we shall establish three giant Federal parks based upon three great multiple-purpose reservoirs.

Second, we will lay the foundation for a new year-round recreation industry in our mountain counties, making them a potential new American vacationland easily accessible by the Interstate Highway network.

Third, vital fish and wildlife areas now threatened with obliteration by increasing private development, will be preserved for public use.

Finally, the major population centers will be ringed with parks, reservoirs, and open space thus giving them the recreational and scenic advantages which can spell prosperity in the mid-20th century.

These are the goals of PROJECT 70. They are not Utopian. They are hard, realizable proposals and we are already on the way to making some of them realities.

They have been prepared after close scrutiny and study by the State Planning Board, which, as you know, is comprised of 15 distinguished Pennsylvanians from all walks of Pennsylvania life and of both political parties.

Obviously, however, a program this far-seeing and ambitious must be financed. It will require the investment of public money—investments which will generate many times their value in new business and vitality.

PROJECT 70 will require prudent expenditures at all levels of government.

The Federal parks and many of the reservoirs will be financed by Congress through regular Federal appropriations.

Local programs must be paid for out of community funds.

At the State level, two kinds of expenditure are called for.

Development costs will come from the Capital Budget of the Commonwealth and will be spread over the coming biennia in keeping with the overall fiscal capabilities of the Commonwealth.

The acquisition of critical lands—lands which will be lost in a few short years to public use unless we act now—should be financed, however, by a $70,000,000 general obligation bond issue.

Such a step requires a Constitutional Amendment and, therefore, the approval of the voters of Pennsylvania.

It is my hope that, in your present session, you will take the first legislative action to place the question on the ballot.

Then, in the General Assembly convening in 1963, with, I hope, the full support of the next Governor, similar action may be taken to place the matter before the electorate in November, 1963.

In examining this matter you should know that, at the present time, the debt service which the Commonwealth is now paying on general obligation bonds is about $30,000,000 each year. In 1967, however, these obligations will decrease to less than $2,000,000. Obviously, by the time the necessary borrowing for PROJECT 70 is in full force, the Commonwealth's debt service payments on general obligation bonds will be many times less than it is today.

This is how the State Planning Board proposes that allocations from the bond issue would be made:

Of the $70,000,000 in bond issue money, $20,000,000 would be available to communities in all parts of the State on a matching basis for use in their efforts to improve their general community livability through park, open space, and other conservation programs.

There is a deep need for programs of this kind. Generally speaking local communities have not done enough, compared to those in other states, in providing local scenic and recreational opportunities.

We should keep in mind that additional aid is available to these same communities from the Federal Government and that the State, through the State Planning Board and the Department of Commerce, will encourage communities to take full advantage of this assistance.

Another $10,000,000 of the bond issue will be earmarked for the acquisition of vital fish or wildlife areas, or boating sites, which are imperiled by other developments. These programs would be executed by the Pennsylvania Fish and Game Commissions.

The remaining $40,000,000, to be supplemented with up to 30 per cent in Federal funds, would be utilized by the Commonwealth, through the Department of Forests and Waters, to acquire lands, regional parks and reservoirs around our population centers.

No task in the conservation field is more urgent. Pennsylvania contains more population centers of over 10,000 people than any other state in the Nation. For most of our history, these have been the workshops of the Country.

For too long, however, we have neglected their general surroundings and opportunities for healthful outdoor leisure which have assumed major economic importance in a world of high wages and shorter working hours.

If we do not correct this imbalance in our urban communities now, the opportunity will be lost to us forever because the necessary areas are fast disappearing. Under pressures of an expanding population, the lands essential for future public use will never be as abundant, or as reasonable as they are today. To a large degree, it is a case of now or never.

Under PROJECT 70, the Department of Forests and Waters would be directed to concentrate its land acquisition efforts in 43 counties where 10,165,000 Pennsylvanians live—90 per cent of our population.

The 24 remaining non-urban counties have been classified as "tourist destination" counties under PROJECT 70. In most of them, acquisition of public lands is not the critical problem, because the Commonwealth already owns a vast acreage awaiting full vacation development. These are the beautiful mountain forest counties spread north and south through the Appalachian Mountains and east and west across the northern half of the State from Warren County on the west to Monroe and Pike Counties on the east. These are the counties with the brooks and the rivers, the mountains and the forests, the fishing and the hunting which are the prime requisites for any outdoor recreation area.

Until now, this great region lacked but one fundamental requisite for full realization of its vacation potential: accessibility. But by 1970, the Keystone Shortway and other Interstate Highways will be approaching completion and these counties will suddenly find themselves on the front doorstep of millions from the cities of the Midwest and the Atlantic Seaboard, not to mention our citizens. We must prepare to take advantage of the great economic boon this represents to Pennsylvania.

To achieve this end, three great Federal Recreation areas will be established in this region, each of them based upon multiple-purpose reservoirs more than thirty miles long.

The first of these reservoirs—at the Allegheny River above Warren—is already under construction. The U. S. Forest Service has in hand a $15,000,000 recreational development plan for the area.

At the opposite end of the State—on the eastern boundary of this same great 24-county vacation region—is the proposed Tock's Island Reservoir on the Delaware River in Monroe and Wayne Counties. As Chairman of the Delaware River Basin Commission, I expect my colleagues on the Commission will join me in pressing for authorization of this reservoir this year in Congress. We shall also begin the necessary negotiations to have the National Park Service establish Tock's Island as the first National Recreation Area in the eastern United States. Secretary Udall has already publicly announced his willingness to participate in such an effort.

Finally, in the heart of the Allegheny Mountains in southcentral Pennsylvania, we shall urge establishment of a third great man-made lake on the Raystown Branch of the Juniata River in Huntingdon County. I shall request the necessary authorization for the project this year in Congress. We shall then strive to have the National Park Service develop this site also as a National Recreation Area.

This, then, is the foundation upon which we shall build a new vacation industry in rural Pennsylvania. But we must do more. Through the capital budget of the Commonwealth for the coming biennia, it is proposed that intensive recreational development of existing State lands in the 24 tourist destination counties be carried out.

We should take advantage of such Federal projects as those reservoirs proposed for construction on the tributaries of the Potomac in Franklin County, the new reservoir nearing completion on Kettle Creek in Clinton County, and the reservoir about to be placed under construction on the West Branch of the Susquehanna in Clearfield County.

I have no doubt that the studies of the Susquehanna Basin—for which we are seeking appropriations in this Session of Congress—will produce still more opportunities of this kind.

We must continue on an expanded scale the diversification of recreational opportunitiese in this same mountain area, in the manner of the new Denton Hill State Winter Sports Area in Potter County.

This is no idle fancy. It is bedrock economics, an investment in the future of our State.

Such a program can stimulate new business, new industry, new jobs.

It will create new opportunities for healthful and creative living.

It will give us the amenities so essential today to attract high-wage, fast growth industry.

It will preserve the precious beauties of Pennsylvania for posterity.

It is a plan we cannot afford to be without.

In today's world, when the competition for prosperity is high, the race belongs to the foresighted.

In this race to create communities attractive to growth, many of the more progressive states—states with which we must compete—have adopted proposals similar to the one which I have just outlined by overwhelming votes of the electorate.

The voters of New York approved a $75,000,000 bond issue for open space in 1960. New Jersey's citizens by almost two to one, have authorized $60,000,000 for the same purpose. California and Wisconsin have moved in this same direction.

I am convinced, however, that in its vision, in its comprehensivenesss, in its benefits, Pennsylvania's PROJECT 70 is unsurpassed in the Nation.

You have given your support in recent years to a number of measures which have helped correct this long-standing shortage of public recreational opportunities in Pennsylvania. The Oil and Gas Act of 1956, the increased allocations to park development in both the General Fund and Capital Budgets have enabled us to undertake an ambitious park program—one that has received National recognition. Under these programs we have been able to develop 16 major new recreation areas—such new parks as Gifford Pinchot State Park between Harrisburg and York or the Prince Gallitzin State Park still under construction in Cambria County, or the Denton Hill State Ski Area in Potter County. These have been notable achievements.

Nevertheless, it has been impossible to keep pace with the mushrooming recreational needs of our people. The use of the State Parks has tripled in eight years, reaching an all-time high last year of 25,000,000 visits.

Obviously, our people are hungry for the recreational opportuniites it is our responsibility to provide.

Project 70 favors no single geographic area. It is a program as vital to the rural citizens as to the city dweller. It is an investment in our future. It is an enterprise already well on the way to realization. We must see that it is brought to completion.

This great, good land of Pennsylvania is ours—ours to till and mine, to build upon and use. But it is God-given. We are here in stewardship. It is as stewards that I ask you to consider this plan, for man as laborer thinks of his bread but for today. A steward thinks of his children tomorrow.

That must be our guide and our goal. Project 70 will give us the implements to follow that guide and achieve the goal.

I urge the General Assembly to get us under way in this vital work by giving this proposal its overwhelming approval.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Copies of this communication from the Governor have been made available to all Members of the Senate.

GENERAL COMMUNICATION

SUPPLEMENTAL REPORT OF THE DELAWARE RIVER PORT AUTHORITY TO THE GOVERNORS AND LEGISLATURES OF PENNSYLVANIA AND NEW JERSEY

The PRESIDING OFFICER laid before the Senate the following communication, which was read by the Clerk as follows:

DELAWARE RIVER PORT AUTHORITY OF PENNSYLVANIA AND NEW JERSEY ADMINISTRATION BUILDING
P. O. BOX NO. 1949
CAMDEN 1, N. J.

January 11, 1962.

The Honorable Dennis T. Mulvihill
Chief Clerk
Senate
Commonwealth of Pennsylvania
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania

Dear Mr. Mulvihill:

I have the honor to hand you herewith an official copy for the Legislatures of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the State of New Jersey of the supplemental report made by the Delaware River Port Authority to the Governors and Legislatures of Pennsylvania and New Jersey, under the terms of the Compact creating the Delaware River Port Authority.

This supplemental report was adopted by the Port Authority at a meeting held on January 10, 1962, and is a supplement to and part of the report on the Southern New Jersey Rapid Transit System made to the Governors and Legislatures of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the State of New Jersey under date of April 19, 1961.

Very respectfully yours,
/s/ C. H. McWilliams,
SECRETARY

CHMcW: dkv
Enc.

THE PRESIDING OFFICER. This communication will be noted in the Journal and the Supplemental Report will appear in the Appendix thereto.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. VAN SANT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, during the past session of the General Assembly last year, there was much discussion on the floor of the Senate about the reduction of the aviation gas tax which was designed to benefit out-of-State business.

At the recent Appropriation Hearings being conducted jointly by the Appropriations Committees of the Senate and the House, it has been revealed that the promised reduction in the cost of aviation gas and jet fuel was not as realistic as had been planned by the Members of the General Assembly when they voted to reduce this gas tax.

Unfortunately, I do not have a copy of the newspaper article that appeared in the papers across the State at the time when Mr. MacFarlane, the Executive Secretary of the Aeronautics Commission, appeared before the Appropriations Committees.

However, it was inferred by Mr. MacFarlane that there was no gas tax reduction in so far as aviation is concerned and that the tax reduction that we afforded was being absorbed as profit by those who are selling aviation gas and jet fuel.

For that reason, Senator Bell and myself are introducing these bills restoring the tax to what it had been, with the hope that the moneys received will be used to further construction of airports in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. VAN SANT and BELL presented to the Chair SB 5, entitled:

An Act amending the act of January 14, 1952 (P. L. 1965), entitled, as amended "Fuel Use Tax Act," increasing the tax rate of fuels used in turbine propeller, turbo-jet or jet driven aircraft and aircraft engines.

Which was committed to the Committee on Legislation.

They also presented to the Chair SB 6, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 21, 1931 (P. L. 149), entitled, as amended, "The Liquid Fuels Tax Act," increasing the tax rate of fuels used in turbine propeller jet, turbo-jet or jet driven aircraft and aircraft engines.

Which was committed to the Committee on Legislation.

Mr. VAN SANT presented to the Chair SB 7, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission to aid in the maintenance and operation of a shrine to house the replica of the Liberty Bell.

Which was committed to the Committee on Legislation.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WEINER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, at this time I would like to introduce a Joint Resolution to amend the Constitution of the State of Pennsylvania on a plan that will be known as Project 70. The purpose of this measure is to make available the conservation and development of our natural resources.

As we all know, there is a tremendous amount of building going on all over the United States,—all over the world, as a matter of fact—and many of the areas that are available to us now will not be available within a year or so, because of developers, because of urban redevelopment in some areas, and because of other activities that are going on.

The purpose of this plan is to create not only recreation areas, but to beautify and enhance the natural scenic beauty of the State of Pennsylvania. There are many reasons for having this program, and it is our hope that by 1970, we will be able to carry out the entire program.

This is first and primarily one of conservation of our natural resources and of our water resources. There has beeen a great deal said about it, and I do not want to take up additional time and clutter the record. There was a great deal said about this during the last Session, and we have discussed this matter. It is in connection with the Delaware Basin in the southeastern section of Pennsylvania, and also the conservation of one of our priceless treasures, which is water.

As you all know, there are many States—primarily in the West—that today have waterless days, and are having great problems not only with water but sanitation as well. We, in this part of the Country, have been very fortunate in this natural heritage that we have had.

The purpose of this Joint Resolution is to amend the Constitution so that we can acquire the necessary funds and the ability to spend these funds in order to acquire the parks, reservoirs and recreation areas that we need.

It is our hope that by the time this is completed, there will be a recreation area as well as a conservation area and water available within twenty miles of the home of every Pennsylvanian and, at the same time, conserving to ourselves the natural beauties and the fish and other animals and game that are in those areas for all of us.

I have placed on this Resolution my own name, along with the names of Senator Lane, Senator Seyler and Senator Berger. I understand Senator Stevenson is quite interested in this problem, but he is not in the Chamber. I ask leave that when he is in the Chamber, if he wishes to add his name he might do so, as might any Member who is present.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. WEINER, LANE, SEYLER, BERGER, ROONEY, STEVENSON and MALLERY presented to the Chair SB 8, entitled:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to article nine of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, authorizing the Commonwealth to create additional debt and to issue bonds for the acquisition of land for parks, reservoirs and other conservation and recreation purposes.

Which was committed to the Committee on Legislation.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, January 22, 1962.

Once again the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania have been reminded in gruesome fashion of the dangers attending abandoned and open mines. The need for factual information and a comprehensive study of this problem is keenly felt in view of what has transpired in Clearfield County within the past week. This is not an isolated occurrence but one that happens every year on the average.

It is, therefore, the consensus of the House of Representatives that a full and complete study be made by the Joint State Government Commission of this problem; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission be instructed to make a factual and comprehensive study of abandoned mines of all kinds; also make recommendation of any legislation which might be of aid and assistance in forestalling any further serious incidents in connection with abandoned projects of this nature; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission report back to the House of Representatives the results of its study together with recommendation for any legislation to aid in the solution of this problem, at the earliest possible time.

BIRTHDAY

The SPEAKER. The Chair has been informed that today is the birthday of the gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. George.

Mr. DENGLER. Mr. Speaker, let's all sing "Happy Birthday, dear Art."

(Members joined in singing "Happy Birthday")

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cumberland.

Mr. GEORGE. It is quite a surprise to be here and have a special session called in honor of my birthday. But I do appreciate it on my 39th birthday. Thank you very much.

JUDGE PALMER AND FORMER MEMBER WELCOMED

The SPEAKER. The Chair notes the presence in the House of Judge Clinton Palmer, Northampton County, and of Joseph Paccioli, a former member of this House, now clerk of the orphans' court in that county. Will those gentlemen please rise if they are still in the hall of the House?

RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATIONS

Messrs. DOUGHTEN and GIBBONS offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, January 22, 1962.

The football and basketball teams of Villanova University have recently come forth with fine efforts which extend the long tradition of great athletic teams from that university.

By defeating the University of Wichita at El Paso, Texas, the football team from Villanova won the Sun Bowl game and proved its right to be classed as one of the great teams of the nation.

The basketball team from Villanova won the Quaker City Basketball Tournament by defeating Iowa in the final game. To reach the final game of the tournament, Villanova defeated other leading college basketball teams which were entered in the tournament.

The fine football team which represented Villanova in 1961, and the basketball team representing the school during the 1961-62 season, and their coaches are to be highly commended for their athletic accomplishments and for the high degree of sportsmanship which they have displayed in reaching the high status which they have achieved in the field of college sports; therefore be it

Resolved, That this House of Representatives hereby offers its sincere congratulations to the football and basketball teams of Villanova University and the fine coaching staffs which have trained these great teams; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to Villanova University.

COMMUNICATION FROM GOVERNOR

The SPEAKER. Communications from His Excellency, the Governor, which have already been distributed to the members, will be spread upon the record.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg
January 16, 1962.

Mr. Lieutenant Governor, Mr. Speaker, and Members of the General Assembly:

I place before you for consideration today a plan with profound implications for the future of the Commonwealth.

Shaped in the traditions of William Penn, who prized the beauty of his province highly, it will mean a richer life for all citizens.

It provides for the conservation and development of our magnificent scenic and natural resources.

It aims for a healthier, more pleasant, more prosperous Pennsylvania.

It does so in many ways:

First, it will enhance the livability of every section of the State—a critical matter in these times when more and more Americans insist upon attractive surroundings and opportunities for creative family leisure near their place of work.

Second, these proposals, if realized, will stimulate new business and industrial investment—and thus new jobs—by establishing an atmosphere attractive to high wage, fast growth industry.

Third, this plan lays the foundation for a mammoth new tourist industry in Pennsylvania.

Fourth, the conservation of such vital natural resources as water—so essential for future economic expansion—is implicit in this proposal.

Finally—and most important of all—we have a plan that looks to the future. It can preserve for our children and our children's children the precious beauty of Pennsylvania. It will help guarantee them a community rich in promise, rich in opportunity, rich in the livability of its communities and its landscape.

The plan is called PROJECT 70.

The name was selected for several reasons.

First, 1970 is the target year. This is the year when the new Interstate Highway System will be nearing completion and Pennsylvania can begin to realize the full economic impact of her superb new highways.

The year 1970 also is the end of a decade—a critical decade in the life of urban areas. Each year, thousands of acres around our cities are being plowed up for housing developments, shopping centers, highways, and factories. In southeastern Pennsylvania alone, in the counties of the Delaware Basin, an additional million and a half acres will be lost to urban growth during the next 50 years.

Clearly we must act now in the heavily populated counties if we are to provide succeeding generations with the reservoir sites for water supply, the areas for play and relaxation, the scenic open space which will be essential for the full economic vitality of these urban areas in the Pennsylvania of tomorrow.

With the promise of our new highways and the problems in our metropolitan areas in mind, therefore, PROJECT 70 proposes four significant goals for Pennsylvania in 1970:

First, we shall establish three giant Federal parks based upon three great multiple-purpose reservoirs.

Second, we will lay the foundation for a new year-round recreation industry in our mountain counties, making them a potential new American vacationland easily accessible by the Interstate Highway network.

Third, vital fish and wildlife areas now threatened with obliteration by increasing private development, will be preserved for public use.

Finally, the major population centers will be ringed with parks, reservoirs, and open space thus giving them the recreational and scenic advantages which can spell prosperity in the mid-20th century.

These are the goals of PROJECT 70. They are not Utopian. They are hard, realizable proposals and we are already on the way to making some of them realities.

They have been prepared after close scrutiny and study by the State Planning Board, which, as you know, is comprised of 15 distinguished Pennsylvanians from all walks of Pennsylvania life and of both political parties.

Obviously, however, a program this far-seeing and ambitious must be financed. It will require the investment of public money — investments which will generate many times their value in new business and vitality.

PROJECT 70 will require prudent expenditures at all levels of government.

The Federal parks and many of the reservoirs will be financed by Congress through regular Federal appropriations.

Local programs must be paid for out of community funds.

At the State level, two kinds of expenditure are called for.

Development costs will come from the Capital Budget of the Commonwealth and will be spread over the coming biennia in keeping with the overall fiscal capabilities of the Commonwealth.

The acquisition of critical lands—lands which will be lost in a few short years to public use unless we act now—should be financed, however, by a $70,000,000 general obligation bond issue.

Such a step requires a Constitutional Amendment and, therefore, the approval of the voters of Pennsylvania.

It is my hope that, in your present session, you will take the first legislative action to place the question on the ballot.

Then, in the General Assembly convening in 1963, with, I hope, the full support of the next Governor, similar action may be taken to place the matter before the electorate in November, 1963.

In examining this matter you should know that, at the present time, the debt service which the Commonwealth is now paying on general obligation bonds is about $30,000,000 each year. In 1967, however, these obligations will decrease to less than $2,000,000. Obviously, by the time the necessary borrowing for PROJECT 70 is in full force, the Commonwealth's debt service payments on general obligation bonds will be many times less than it is today.

This is how the State Planning Board proposes that allocations from the bond issue would be made:

Of the $70,000,000 in bond issue money, $20,000,000 would be available to communities in all parts of the State on a matching basis for use in their efforts to improve their general community livability through park, open space, and other conservation programs.

There is a deep need for programs of this kind. Generally speaking local communities have not done enough, compared to those in other states, in providing local scenic and recreational opportunities.

We should keep in mind that additional aid is available to these same communities from the Federal Government and that the State, through the State Planning Board and the Department of Commerce, will encourage communities to take full advantage of this assistance.

Another $10,000,000 of the bond issue will be earmarked for the acquisition of vital fish or wildlife areas, or boating sites, which are imperiled by other developments. These programs would be executed by the Pennsylvania Fish and Game Commissions.

The remaining $40,000,000, to be supplemented with up to 30 per cent in Federal funds, would utilized by the Commonwealth, through the Department of Forests and Waters, to acquire lands, regional parks and reservoirs around our population centers.

No task in the conservation field is more urgent. Pennsylvania contains more population centers of over 10,000 people than any other state in the Nation. For most of our history, these have been the workshops of the Country.

For too long, however, we have neglected their general surroundings and opportunities for healthful outdoor leisure which have assumed major economic importance in a world of high wages and shorter working hours.

If we do not correct this imbalance in our urban communities now, the opportunity will be lost to us forever because the necessary areas are fast disappearing. Under pressures of an expanding population, the lands essential for future public use will never be as abundant, or as reasonable as they are today. To a large degree, it is a case of now or never.

Under PROJECT 70, the Department of Forests and Waters would be directed to concentrate its land acquisition efforts in 43 counties where 10,165,000 Pennsylvanians live—90 per cent of our population.

The 24 remaining non-urban counties have been classified as "tourist destination" counties under PROJECT 70. In most of them, acquisition of public lands is not the critical problem, because the Commonwealth already owns a vast acreage awaiting full vacation development. These are the beautiful mountain forest counties spread north and south through the Appalachian Mountains and east and west across the northern half of the State from Warren County on the west to Monroe and Pike Counties on the east. These are the counties with the brooks and the rivers, the mountains and the forests, the fishing and the hunting which are the prime requisites for any outdoor recreation area.

Until now, this great region lacked but one fundamental requisite for full realization of its vacation potential: accessibility. But by 1970, the Keystone Shortway and other Interstate Highways will be approaching completion and these counties will suddenly find themselves on the front doorstep of millions from the cities of the Midwest and the Atlantic Seaboard, not to mention our citizens. We must prepare to take advantage of the great economic boon this represents to Pennsylvania.

To achieve this end, three great Federal Recreation areas will be established in this region, each of them based upon multiple-purpose reservoirs more than thirty miles long.

The first of these reservoirs—at the Allegheny River above Warren—is already under construction. The U. S. Forest Service has in hand a $15,000,000 recreational development plan for the area.

At the opposite end of the State—on the eastern boundary of this same great 24-county vacation region—is the proposed Tock's Island Reservoir on the Delaware River in Monroe and Wayne Counties. As Chairman of the Delaware River Basin Commission, I expect my colleagues on the Commission will join me in pressing for authorization of this reservoir this year in Congress. We shall also begin the necessary negotiations to have the National Park Service establish Tock's Island as the first National Recreation Area in the eastern United States. Secretary Udall has already publicly announced his willingness to participate in such an effort.

Finally, in the heart of the Allegheny Mountains in southcentral Pennsylvania, we shall urge establishment of a third great man-made lake on the Raystown Branch of the Juniata River in Huntingdon County. I shall request the necessary authorization for the project this year in Congress. We shall then strive to have the National Park Service develop this site also as a National Recreation Area.

This, then, is the foundation upon which we shall build a new vacation industry in rural Pennsylvania. But we must do more. Through the capital budget of the Commonwealth for the coming biennia, it is proposed that intensive recreational development of existing State lands in the 24 tourist destination counties be carried out.

We should take advantage of such Federal projects as those reservoirs proposed for construction on the tributaries of the Potomac in Franklin County, the new reservoirs nearing completion on Kettle Creek in Clinton County, and the reservoir about to be placed under construction on the West Branch of the Susquehanna in Clearfield County.

I have no doubt that the studies of the Susquehanna Basin—for which we are seeking appropriations in this Session of Congress—will produce still more opportunities of this kind.

We must continue on an expanded scale the diversification of recreational opportunities in this same mountain area, in the manner of the new Denton Hill State Winter Sports Area in Potter County.

This is no idle fancy. It is bedrock economics, an investment in the future of our State.

Such a program can stimulate new business, new industry, new jobs.

It will create new opportunities for healthful and creative living.

It will give us the amenities so essential today to attract high-wage, fast growth industry.

It will preserve the precious beauties of Pennsylvania for posterity.

It is a plan we cannot afford to be without.

In today's world, when the competition for prosperity is high, the race belongs to the foresighted.

In this race to create communities attractive to growth, many of the more progressive states—states with which we must compete—have adopted proposals similar to the one which I have just outlined by overwhelming votes of the electorate.

The voters of New York approved a $75,000,000 bond issue for open space in 1960. New Jersey's citizens by almost two to one, have authorized $60,000,000 for the same purpose. California and Wisconsin have moved in this same direction.

I am convinced, however, that in its vision, in its comprehensiveness, in its benefits, Pennsylvania's PROJECT 70 is unsurpassed in the Nation.

You have given your support in recent years to a number of measures which have helped correct this long-standing shortage of public recreational opportunities in Pennsylvania. The Oil and Gas Act of 1956, the increased allocations to park development in both the General Fund and Capital Budgets have enabled us to undertake an ambitious park program—one that has received National recognition. Under these programs we have been able to develop 16 major new recreation areas—such new parks as Gifford Pinchot State Park between Harrisburg and York or the Prince Gallitzin State Park still under construction in Cambria County, or the Denton Hill State Ski Area in Potter County. These have been notable achievements.

Nevertheless, it has been impossible to keep pace with the mushrooming recreational needs of our people. The use of the State Parks has tripled in eight years, reaching an all-time high last year of 25,000,000 visits.

Obviously, our people are hungry for the recreational opportunities it is our responsibility to provide.

PROJECT 70 favors no single geographic area. It is a program as vital to the rural citizens as to the city dweller. It is an investment in our future. It is an enterprise already well on the way to realization. We must see that it is brought to completion.

This great, good land of Pennsylvania is ours—ours to till and mine, to build upon and use. But it is God-given. We are here in stewardship. It is as stewards that I ask you to consider this plan, for man as laborer thinks of his bread but for today. A stewart thinks of his children tomorrow.

That must be our guide and our goal. PROJECT 70 will give us the implements to follow that guide and achieve the goal.

I urge the General Assembly to get us under way in this vital work by giving this proposal its overwhelming approval.

DAVID L. LAWRENCE.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. WORLEY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. WORLEY. Mr. Speaker, I urge the adoption of the House Resolution to investigate the West Chester State College. I am not for guilt by accusation, but I believe a public office carries a public duty and that where there are sufficient accusations, we, as State Representatives of the people, should clear up what are the facts where the matter is directly or indirectly affecting public funds or public administration. As I told the Governor in my telegram to him last week, "Our system of higher education must be only for the best interests of the people," and I repeat this to the members of the House today.

Just to show you a very small sample of what is in issue and why the resolution should be adopted, I state the following: At West Chester State College there are no records of football and athletic contest gate receipts, which were discarded prior to the audit of certified public accounting. There is no accounting for $12,504.29. The question is, were the gate receipts $20,000 or more in 1960 and who got the money? There is $2,190.50 in student loans given to students in 1960-61. The question here is, did students get it or did someone else get it or were these illegal athletic scholarships?

At the press conference of Wednesday, January 10, 1962, the Governor said that there is no politics in the state colleges. Does the Governor know that Louise John, vice-chairman of the Democratic State Committee, is a member of the board of trustees of West Chester State College? Does he know that Alice Chambers, member of the Democratic State Committee, is also a member of the Board of Trustees at West Chester, and does his Excellency know that Alice Chambers' niece's husband, Joseph Joyce, is also a member of the same board of trustees? In other words, five of the nine board members are very active politicians.

Now at Mansfield State College, Lewis Rathgaber is the president of the college and he is the former Democratic State Committeeman from Clinton County and calls himself the "Kingfish" of the state college presidents. Well, the "Kingfish" became so bold that he agreed with the five finger lake colleges of New York State to purchase in common. The question here is, is it illegal for a state college president to execute such an agreement with the colleges of another jurisdiction beyond the borders of this Commonwealth?

I believe his Excellency, the Governor, will want to know these facts, or if he once knew these facts, he will want to have his recollection refreshed so that he can help us to get this resolution adopted. The press statement of January 10th impliedly infers that the Governor does not want pressure politics in any of the state colleges. I have not pointed these facts out to ridicule or harass the Democratic Party. I know that governments are like clocks, it depends upon the individual who makes it run. It is not the political party. It is the character of the leadership of the party that will make or break any political party. The Governor has a great opportunity here to build his political party. He should not sleep on his leadership. We need his leadership to get this resolution adopted now so that we can have a good higher educational system in the best interests of the people of this Commonwealth and indirectly for the people of the Nation and the world.

RESOLUTION

WISHING GODSPEED TO FORMER MEMBER

Mr. McCORMACK asked and obtained unanimous consent to offer a resolution and for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, January 22, 1952.

Whereas, James H. J. Tate, a former member of this House from 1941 to 1946 will become Acting Mayor of Philadelphia on February 13, 1962; and

Whereas, Jim Tate began his political career as law clerk in Common Pleas Court No. 7 of Philadelphia in 1939. The following year he was elected to this House where through subsequent elections he served until 1946. He decided not to run for reelection as a House member and was appointed a Philadelphia real estate appraiser in which position he continued until he was elected in 1951 as a member of the City Council under the New Philadelphia City Charter. He immediately took a very active part in the affairs of City Council and became responsible for the development and adoption of the rules and procedure under which the City Council functioned. In 1955 he was unanimously elected President of City Council in which position he distinguished himself as a fearless civic leader; and

Whereas, To members of this House, it is always of great interest to follow the careers of its former members and to note that the steps to distinction as a leader in public affairs are usually the same, namely, the ability to find new and alternate solutions of public problems and the further ability to make the final selection as to the solution to be adopted on the basis of that solution, meeting certain moral standards, which ability can only be attained by a leader who is fully conscious of the virtues and vices of man and man's struggle against those vices, and finally, that such a leader must have the courage to fight for that solution which he has accepted as meeting the requirements above set forth; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby wishes Godspeed to its former member in his new office as Acting Mayor of the City of Philadelphia.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I am just wondering whether this resolution is permissible under the Philadelphia City Charter. Is this an announcement of this gentleman's campaign for mayor or is it merely a friendly gesture?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia refuses to be interrogated.

Mr. McCORMACK. Just a friendly gesture, Mr. Speaker.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE LEGISLATIVE BUDGET AND FINANCE COMMITTEE PRESENTED

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I present the annual report of the Legislative Budget and Finance Committee for the calendar year 1961.

The SPEAKER. The report will be noted in the Journal and printed in full in the appendix.

(For report, see appendix).

STATEMENT BY SPEAKER

The Speaker. The Chair would like just about three or four minutes.

Sometime back, as you know, the legislature created an advisory council, a legislative advisory council, composed of members of the House and of the Senate. It happens that the Speaker is chairman of that council. The Chair simply wants to report that as of this time a committee is conferring with the Office of Administration in the matter of space allocation. The committee's job is to pursue the problem of additional space for the members of the General Assembly.

Another committee is busy studying the entire printing situation. Why do we not get our Journals sooner? Why do we not get the loose-leaf pamphlet laws sooner? There are a great many angles to the printing situation that need looking into and we have a very able committee that is looking into that. It is trying to examine the printing situation on the entire Hill.

Then we have another committee that is busy determining the proper functions of the Legislative Reference Bureau. Should that be a full-time body? Should it do all the codifying? There is a great need for the codification of the innumerable rules promulgated by the various departments. We codify laws, statutes; then departments create what, in effect, are rules and regulations which have the effect of law. They are getting so many of them that even the departments are not familiar with their own rules and regulations. Should they be codified?

What should be done about giving the members a copy, a summary, a synopsis, of every important bill so that it is in the hands of the members when it is introduced? There are a great many problems and that committee is studying them.

Then pre-filing. Another committee is studying the matter of pre-filing. How should we handle that problem? Will it be to our advantage? Should we, in the months preceding a session, have the bills pre-filed so the committees can study them and so the members will know what they are?

And, finally, another committee is investigating the possibilities of regional offices for legislators, a regional office where copies of bills and histories would be filed, where members of the General Assembly could on stated days meet with their constituents. To start out, the committee is studying the Philadelphia situation and we have been assured there is space in that building for a legislative headquarters. Is the idea sound? Do legislators want it?

The next matter that will be taken under consideration is the situation in Pittsburgh. Is there space in that building for a legislative headquarters? Do the members of the legislature from that part of the State desire that sort of thing? Then the study would be continued as to whether there was any place for regional legislative headquarters in other parts of the Commonwealth.

The Chair simply wanted to report that the committee that was created has not been idle and to report the things we are trying to do. Here is what we are trying to do: We are trying to help the General Assembly be in a position to qualify as a coodinate branch of our government. With our inadequate facilities, the way we are organized, the way we are doing, we are actually, I say it sadly, not equipped to handle all of the matters on a coordinate basis with the Chief Executive, and the time must come when we turn over all the powers to the Executive or equip ourselves so that we are able to bear our part as a coordinate branch of Pennsylvania State government.

The majority leader did not know how long I was going to talk, so he wanted to play it safe and went out to get a sandwich so he would not have to listen, but he is coming back and he asks the House to be at ease because there are some things he wants to call to the attention of the House. I think he will not be gone more than a couple minutes.

The House will be at ease.

STATEMENT BY MAJORITY LEADER

Mr. McCann. Mr. Speaker, we desire to place into the record of the House here the position taken by many newspapers across Pennsylvania regarding the budget that was submitted and their respective editorials as they appear in the papers. There are no editorials here in which excerpts from the editorials were taken out. These are the same editorials delivered in full to Mr. Johnson's office that we wish to present here as to the position taken by the paper in its editorial policy. We start out with the New Castle News of January 4th, the Norristown Times-Herald of January 6th, the West Chester Daily Local News of January 4th, the Lancaster Intelligencer—Journal of January 4th, the Johnstown Tribune Democrat of January 4th, the Meadville Tribune of January 4th, the Sharon-Herald of January 8th, the Uniontown Evening Standard of January 4th, the Pittsburgh Progress of December 27th, the Coatesville Record of January 3rd, the Bedford Gazette of January 9th, the Altoona Mirror of January 4th, the Bethlehem Daily Times of January 5th, the Somerset American of December 21, the Allentown Cronicle, January 6th, Pittsburgh Post-Gazette of January 2nd, the Shamokin News Dispatch of January 6th the Jeannette News Dispatch of January 3rd, the Easton Express of January 3rd, the Philadelphia Inquirer January 3rd, the Stroudsburg—East Stroudsburg Daily Record of January 4th, the Easton Express of January 3rd, the Bristol Daily Courier, the Levittown Times, the Times Leader Evening News, the Harrisburg Patriot, "The Governor's New Budget Raises Some Old Questions," the Evening News of Uniontown, Wednesday, January 3rd, the Valley Independent of Wednesday, January 3rd, the Leader-Times of Kittanning, Pennsylvania, January 3rd, the Butler Eagle of January 3rd, the Reading Eagle of January 3rd, the Wilkes-Barre Times Evening of January 3rd, the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette of January 5, the Daily Local News, West Chester, Pennsylvania, of Wednesday, January 3rd, the Intelligencer Journal of Wednesday, January 3rd, the Pittsburgh Press of January 3rd, the Morning Call-Cronicle of January 4th, the Scranton Times of January 3rd, the Scranton Times of January 3rd, an additional editorial, the Erie Daily Times, January 3rd, the Williamsport Sun Gazette of January 2nd, the Eevening Croncile Allentown of January 2nd, the Evening Bulletin of Tuesday, January 2nd, and the Intelligencer Journal editorial of Thursday, January 4th, each of these editorials speaking on the budget as submitted to this General Assembly. We ask that they be incorporated into the House record and printed in full so that all the membership would have the same editorials at their disposal in the debate which will take place on the budget as the budget is presented here in the hall of the House in final action.

Mr. Speaker, I present these completed editorials to be inserted into the record.

The SPEAKER. Submitted for the record.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. A word from the Speaker first. The Speaker is humiliated, he is distressed, he is grieved of heart—they do not even mention "Dispelling the Fog."

STATEMENT BY THE MINORITY LEADER

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I take that what the majority leader wants inserted in the record are laudatory editorials praising the Governor's budget and the fact that he has presented a so-called balanced budget. I do not know what it will cost the Commonwealth to print those in the record, but I imagine it will be quite a considerable sum of money. I notice that our rule 35 says that the House should keep a journal of its proceedings, which shall be printed and placed on the desks of the members. Now, I wonder whether cluttering up our journal with a lot of newspaper editorials en masse this way is keeping a record of our proceedings. I grant you at times we do submit for the record an editorial which is pertinent at the moment to a bill or something, but it is the first time that I have ever seen a wholesale attempt to insert into the record numerous and voluminous editorials praising the Governor of this Commonwealth.

On behalf of the minority, I really must object to this procedure. I do not mind him noting in the record that these editorials were published and that they were laudatory, but as to printing them in full in the journal, I think it is a waste of the taxpayers' money.

Let me say something about these editorials. I grant you that the press is sitting in on these budget hearings. We on the Republican side are trying to find out all we can about this billion-dollar budget, and I will say that Mr. Polen is giving us every opportunity that we possibly can think of to try and ask questions that will throw some light on whether we need a billion dollars to run the Commonwealth during this coming fiscal year and whether it is necessary that we increase the budget by $52 million. In other words, if you take the comparable 12-month period in this fiscal year and compare it with the coming 12-month period, the budget increases are $52 million. I think all of these editors that have written these laudatory editorials about this particular budget are just as much at sea as we are. They are just taking at full face and credit the statements that have come out of the Governor's office, that here is a budget and it is a balanced budget. We ourselves cannot tell from sitting in on these budget hearings. For instance, some department head comes in, like the Department of Health, and says, "Our complement of employes is 3,950, we have maybe 18 or 20 vacancies." We on the Republican side cross-examine the head of the health department all we can. We do not know whether they need 3,950 employes to run the Health Department and need eighty-some more to do a good job or whether they do not.

Likewise, today, the Department of Revenue was in and I think they have 1,900-and-some employes. Maybe they need that many people to run their department, I do not know. We cannot tell from our examination of the budget. We do not know whether some of the other departments are going to need this money or not. We hope that by the time the general appropriation bill hits the calendar we will have some sort of sensible argument that we can make either in justification of the proposed expenditure or in justification of reducing the expenditure.

I wonder if these editorials that you are trying to submit give the plight of the schools back home. Do the editors realize that the $274 million appropriation to our schools back home is not a dime of increase for them, and that this coming year some of the various school districts are going to go to 90 mills local school tax in order to keep the doors of the schools open and not go for any expansion, or provide for any repairs, or anything.

I mean there are so many things in this budget that if these newspaper men were to come down here and listen meticulously to everything that is going on and come in for a while and see what the revenue is going to be when we call in the experts from the Department of Revenue on the estimation of the revenue for the current year, maybe they might sing a different tune than they have in these editorials. I believe if the facts were known maybe we could squeeze this $52 million out of the budget, because in this one year alone you are lapsing $16 million. Since September, to repeat what I said on the floor the other day, you have found $16 million in this budget which you did not need. In this budget which we are working on now for the fiscal year, which is $52 million higher, I venture to say has probably $25 million in there that is unnecessary and would not have to be spent and you could go for this appropriation that I am talking about to relieve the poor school districts this spring when the effect of the freeze clause is going to cause great consternation all over this Commonwealth.

Therefore, I do not think it is appropriate, I do not think it is right, to put these editorials in the record of this House and I object to it.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to ask the minority leader, does he object in principle or is he filing a formal parliamentary objection?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, at this time I am filing a formal objection and, if the Speaker wants to submit it to a vote of this chamber, it is all right with me. But on behalf of the minority, we object to this as a bad principle, as needless expense. If they want to mimeograph them and hand them out to us, on cheap paper, it is all right with me, but I do not think it ought to be printed in the Journal at the expense of the taxpayers.

The SPEAKER. The question would be on the matter proposed by the majority leader, that the editorials submitted for the record be printed notwithstanding the formal objection filed by the minority leader. The House would decide that question itself because the House is the sole judge of those things. So if the majority leader desires to make it, the Chair will entertain a motion that the material submitted for the record be printed in the record, notwithstanding the objection so far filed.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I presented the editorials requesting that they be submitted and printed in the record. And I believe it is most proper that the information contained in these editorials should be printed in the Journal, and if Mr. Johnson would have taken time to read them, he would have found out that they are not all complimentary in behalf of the budget, but they are complimentary as to sections of the budget and as to the promptness, or the fact that it is a balanced budget. I believe they should be submitted in the record and the membership should have an opportunity to read these editorials. There is nothing before this session but fiscal matters; these editorials pertain to fiscal matters. For that reason I believe it is proper. I have submitted same and requested that it be incorporated into the record, and I accept his statement that he objects. Let the membership of the House decide if they do not want the editorial of their paper submitted in the House records.

The SPEAKER. The motion would be, notwithstanding the objection, that the material submitted be printed in full in the record.

Does the majority leader make that as a motion?

MOTION TO PRINT MATERIAL SUBMITTED IN RECORD

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the material submitted for the record be printed in full in the record, notwithstanding the objection filed.

The SPEAKER. The question is, shall the material as submitted come under leave to print. Leave to print is a prerogative that is within the jurisdiction of the House. What a member says is recorded. Then he asks leave to print something that he has not said. The majority leader is asking for leave to print. The question is being submitted to the House. Those who vote "aye" would vote that the material submitted be printed in full in the record; those who vote "no" would be refusing leave to print.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the majority leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the majority leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, what is the cost of one page in the Legislative Journal?

Mr. McCANN. I do not know that answer. The cost of printing, you mean, of one page?

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. That is correct.

Mr. McCANN. I do not know.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. How many pages are involved in printing this series of editorials?

Mr. McCANN. I would not be able to tell the gentleman how many pages it will be. When it goes into the Journal, it is printed on both sides of the page. There is an editorial on a sheet of paper, there is blank space on many, some are three-quarters full, some are half full, some are completely full, depending upon the size of the editorial in the newspaper. When you put them in the Journal, of course, they follow each other as it goes through the Journal. I would not know the cost.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. That is all, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, speaking on the motion, the issue in principle is this, whether we should spend money which may run into thousands of dollars when we are trying to have a balanced budget. If we follow this principle of spelling out scores of editorials, each and every one of us may from time to time insert into the record, with the approval of the House, items which will cost the taxpayers money.

We recognize, of course, we are politicians on the floor. We feel that from time to time reasonable amounts of space should be allocated in the Legislative Journal to guide the people of Pennsylvania, but let us not kid ourselves, there is not one-tenth of one percent of the people in Pennsylvania who read the Legislative Journal. We feel the taxpayers should not be compelled to pay for this waste of money. Thank you.

Mr. McCANN. It seems very odd, Mr. Speaker, that all of a sudden today there is objection to submitting these editorials. Editorials were submitted in the last session. Editorials have been submitted before by various members on some particular subject, or incorporated into their speeches, the editorials in full. I can understand that you would say there would be objection, depending upon your viewpoint of the editorials, but they represent the thinking of the editorial writers in the newspapers mentioned. I believe the membership of this House should have an opportunity to read it in the legislative record.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, we have no objection to the use of Legislative Journals for the retail dispensing of information, but the wholesale dispensing of information is unreasonable. I do not care whether the editorials are laudatory or critical, I am entitled to know whether these editorials cost $5,000 or $10,000. If they cost that much money, then we had items in the budget last year for hospitals which were eliminated because they amounted to $5,000.

The appropriation to the Albert Einstein Hospital in Philadelphia was eliminated because it cost the taxpayers $5,000. If this item costs $5,000, then we ought to resubmit the appropriation for the Albert Einstein Hospital. Thank you.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Are we, in effect, suspending our rules and therefore will this require 106 votes?

The SPEAKER. We are not suspending the rules; we are ascertaining the will of the House in regard to a particular matter.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Then the ruling of the Chair is that it requires a simple majority, a quorum being present.

The SPEAKER. That is right. Of course, the Chair notes that the material can be woven into speeches and actually recited on the floor of the House, and there would not be any way of stopping it unless you placed a time limit upon the speeches.

The question is on the motion. Those voting "aye" vote to place the material submitted by the majority leader in the Legislative Journal; those voting "no" vote to place the material in the Legislative Journal.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Doctor Boies.

Mr. BOIES. Mr. Speaker, I think that the question is rather useless and foolish because, if the majority leader wants to force the issue and wants this entered in the Legislative Journal, what is to prevent him from having it read or reading it himself, the whole thing? If the members on the other side of the House would prefer to sit and listen while somebody reads all of these things into the record, that is all right, but I think it is very foolish, and the objection is entirely out of order.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. McCANN and DOUGHERTY and were as follows:

Mr. McCANN submitted the following material for the record:

IT'S BIG BUSINESS

Anyone who harbors the delusion that government at the state level is not big business should take a look at the budget presented to the General Assembly by Governor David L. Lawrence Tuesday.

It calls for an expenditure of $1,000,887,457 and this is but the general budget and does not include the expenditure for highways.

The new budget is somewhat larger than the one for the current fiscal year, which in reality is thirteen months. This one is for $990,557,820.

There is one encouraging note about the budget the governor has proposed, he says it can be operated without any new taxes. This of course is subject to the decision of the General Assembly which could pass new taxes over a gubernatorial veto if it so desired. But being an election year such an eventuality is not likely.

A number of increases in appropriations are included in the new budget. Increases are provided for all 14 state colleges, a slight increase is provided for the State University, and larger increases precentage wise, to the state aided colleges and universities.

One innovation is proposed, that of making Temple University a state university with about the same status as Penn State. This would mean a sizable increase in appropriations to Temple.

In the field of public welfare Governor Lawrence proposes a $2 per month increase to welfare recipients to cover mounting food costs.

Other increases described as "modest" are asked for in the state's industrial assistance and tourist promotion, while library assistance appropriations are tripled.

It is likely the budget will go through about as requested. Proposals to increase taxes usually meet with opposition, but for appropriations the opposition is seldom heated at the state level. A $7 million to $8 million surplus is prophesied.

There appears to be a possibility that the General Assembly will not need to be in session for any protracted time.

The special concurrent session which must be called if the congressional districts of the commonwealth are to be reapportioned can't last too long, for action must be had by February 20.

Failing to pass a reapportionment bill the congressional elections this year will be held "at-large."

RECORD STATE BUDGET

The announcement of Governor Lawrence that the Pennsylvania budget for the new fiscal year will be balanced is heartening. Elimination of a multi-million dollar deficit that has faced the commonwealth for more than a decade is a step in the right direction. The Governor's assurance that he will need no new taxes to attain his goals is downright relieving.

But principles still deserve equal consideration with statistics when one is measuring good government. Consequently, more important than a budget balance or a recess from tax increases is Mr. Lawrence's sharp warning that no government dare spend more than the governed are able and willing to pay.

"No one in the years ahead," he continued, "should knowingly let the deficit pattern become re-established in Pennsylvania."

Reduced to simple language that means that nobody should spend more than he can afford. It is a principle that is applicable in the kitchen, in business, industry and in any hall of government. Violation of that prime principle of economics is bound to be disastrous in time.

The Commonwealth deficit is part of history. Ex-Governor Leader inherited some of it from the Republicans. It was greater when Leader turned the gubernatorial job over to Governor Lawrence. There was fear among economists that the Lawrence administration, with its new 1961 taxes, borrowing and spending, would increase it.

But. Mr. Lawrence appears to have attained some sort of balance. His announcement that in his three years in office he has wiped out all deficit indicates the turning point may have been reached.

Nothing could be more important than that. Certainly, business and industry are helping him clean up the record by accelerating their corporate tax payments. Certainly everybody spending a dollar—and paying four cents tax for the privilege—is helping. There is still room to include in the pretty picture a critical notation that no retrenchments have been planned in Harrisburg. But these are details.

What counts is that, at long last, we seem to be steering away from the tortuous, economically hazardous road of deficit spending . . . of having a state government spend more than the people can or want to pay.

POTSHOTS AT BUDGETS

This is the open season on budgets at all levels. Set one up and the welkin will ring with potshots in every direction.

Governor David L. Lawrence took pride in the fact that his billion-dollar plus budget was in the hands of the legislators at an earlier date than ever before in the history of the Commonwealth. But he had no sooner turned it over to the lawmakers than the political skies over Harrisburg lighted up in a manner reminiscent of a July 4 celebration. The budget "specialists" had gone to work.

"For the first time in recent history," the Governor told the legislators, "Pennsylvania's budget is in balance—honest balance." That would imply that there are other kinds. Touching further on the subject of balancing budgets, Mr. Lawrence said: "I have been insistent that we do it the right way, with honest estimates of expenditures and realistic estimates of the revenue we will receive."

But despite his painstaking attempts to achieve a degree of fiscal responsibility now and in the future, the Governor has run into a fusillade of criticism from the Republican ranks that would indicate he is wide of the mark when it comes to "honest" balances.

The heaviest volley came from the direction of Rep. W. Stuart Helm, head of the House Republican Policy Committee and, by occupation, a salesman. He charged that the Lawrence budget "was not arrived at on the basis of sound business principles" because it is bigger than ever before and twice as big as the last Republican budget.

Without any attempt to defend the Governor's budget, we would remind Mr. Stuart that it has been quite a spell since the Legislature has been handed what he calls a "Republican budget." History shows that a gentleman by the name of John S. Fine who came from Wilkes-Barre was the last Republican to take the Governor's oath at Harrisburg. That was back in 1951. There has been a lot of water over the dam since then, and it would seem a bit incongruous to compare today's budget with one of seven, eight, nine and ten years ago.

Since the Governor has produced what he feels is an "honest" budget, it is only fair to assume that he expects "honest" criticism. Rep. Stuart has fired the opening round, even though it did bark back to days long past. Mr. Lawrence's budget must be analyzed and criticized in the light of today's needs, not jeopardized by examining it in the light of conditions as they existed a decade ago.

THE GOP REACTION TO STATE'S
$8.9 MILLION SURPLUS — SPEND IT

One of the points Gov. Lawrence stressed repeatedly in his stirring budget message to the General Assembly was that for the first time in many years the Commonwealth has achieved a balanced budget.

He recalled the $177 million deficit he faced when he assumed office 34 months ago. He said it had taken "hard decisions and hard unrelenting work," along with "painstaking regulation of departmental spending . . . (and) . . . pacing out improvements in service to our ability to find the money to pay for them" in order to assure that income would exceed outgo, not only in this fiscal year but in the 1962-63 fiscal year.

He was careful to point out that while the state will close the year with a surplus of $8.9 million that this nest egg is vital to a balanced budget next year. It was evident he regarded his feat in reaching a balanced budget without additional taxes as one of the outstanding accomplishments in his administration. He said it "is an important asset in Pennsylvania's determined fight for fuller economic growth and development."

He coupled all this with a stern warning to the legislators against "foolhardy action (that) would only start us again on the rocky road of deficits and fiscal self-deception from which we have just, so painfully, extricated ourselves."

The wisdom of the governor's words was so self-evident that it comes as something of a surprise to read the reaction from the governor's political opposition. The ink was hardly dry on the newspaper stories before some of the legislators were issuing statements.

Sen. George Wade, Cumberland County Republican, belabored the governor for killing $2.1 million in educational appropriation bills in the 1961 session. The surplus shows there was sufficient money funds, he declared.

Sen. Wagner, Schuylkill County Republican, was caustic in asserting that the surplus shows liberalized subsidies for local school districts would have been possible.

Even Sen. Kessler, Lancaster County Republican who has long proclaimed his dedication to fiscal responsibility, got into the act. He was quoted as saying he questioned the need for wiping out the two per cent commission formerly paid to retailers for collecting the sales tax in view of the $8.9 million surplus.

And Minority Leader Johnson pointed to the surplus as a good reason for adding $16 to $18 million to the budget for schools.

There is, of course, nothing sacred about the governor's budget. The Republicans have a duty to examine it carefully, to determine if the proposed appropriations are in the best interests of the citizens of the Commonwealth, if the services contemplated are in line with citizen needs, and if state government is facing up to needs and responsibilities the complex society demands.

But, with this sort of carping criticism, the Republicans assuredly are lessening their reputation for fiscal probity and responsibility—unless they are willing to accept the responsibility for the necessary taxes to finance the spending they suggest.

As we said before, it came as a bit of a surprise to see how quickly they smelled out the $8.9 million surplus and with what eagerness they were proposing ways to spend it.

But recalling how, in the years they were in control at Harrisburg, they consistently over-estimated revenues and underestimated spending, to contribute to the state's deficit, their actions become understandable.

GOVERNOR URGES BALANCED BUDGET

Lake all budgets, the one Gov. Lawrence presented Tuesday to the General Assembly for the fiscal year that begins next July 1 is based on an educated guess as to revenues and expenditures from six to 18 months in the future. A great many things impossible to anticipate now could throw it out of balance. But, in so far as events can be foreseen, it is in balance at this moment, and that is all that can be expected.

Gov. Lawrence takes justifiable pride in that fact. He dwelt upon it at some length in his budget message. A balanced budget is, he said, more than a desirable goal; it is a constitutional mandate. Fiscal responsibility, the Governor said, has "very real meaning" in the state's struggle for economic development and growth. It contributes to a financial climate that attracts industry and business, and encourages them to stay in Pennsylvania and expand here.

We could wish that Gov. Lawrence were equally insistent upon fiscal responsibility and balanced budgets in the federal government, for these also have their effect on the state's economic welfare. Inflationary deficits in Washington cheapen the dollars the state government has to spend, and throw the state's calculations out of kilter; as they do also for every county, every municipality, every school board and every family. The principle that is sound for Pennsylvania is equally sound for the nation.

The rising trend of governmental expenditures is visible in the new state budget, as it is in national and local affairs. This is the first budget for a 12-month period, as the state moves into financing on an annual basis. It calls for just over $1 billion for the General Fund in the next fiscal year, with another half-billion to be raised and spent through the Motor Fund.

Nearly 50 per cent of the General Fund will go for public education; nearly 30 per cent for health and public welfare. That leaves about one-fifth of the billion-dollar General Fund for all the other costs of government. The amount is not excessive for a state as large as this one. Some months ago the Commerce Clearing House estimated per capita taxes in Pennsylvania at slightly below the average for all states, though substantially higher than adjoining New Jersey and Ohio.

The development of the sales tax some years ago has reduced the proportion of state costs borne by industry, which now carries directly only about one-fourth of the load. We do not think the state's present taxation, which is not raised for the new year, dissuades industry from coming into Pennsylvania; though unemployment compensation, paid exclusively by business and industry and not reflected in the budget, is at the highest rate in the country and may have such a deterrent effect.

There is room for economy in the new budget, as there is in all budgets. The tendency to add to the bureaucracy is always strong, in government at any level; and the Republican minority will be thoroughly justified in asking whether a more efficient use of manpower could prevent the addition of new employes, and even bring some reduction in the number of present employes. The payroll has gone up steadily over the years.

These and other details of the budget will be explored by the Legislature during the coming months, with possible adjustments. That, as Gov. Lawrence has said, is the obligation of the General Assembly. It should be performed with as little partisanship as the nature of a Legislature will permit, and as much concern for the taxpayers as the legislators can manage.

Johnstown Tribune-Democrat

STATE ACCOUNTS ALL EVEN

Whatever argument may be raised against Gov. Lawrence's proposed record budget for the 1962-63 fiscal year, the central fact is that it is in balance without the need for new taxes. While it may be revised by the General Assembly, legislators should guard against adopting any change that might throw it out of balance.

With presentation of the budget, Pennsylvania is embarking on a new road of fiscal responsibility. For the first time since the early part of the Duff administration, there is no general fund deficit to be made up in the new budget. The commonwealth will start its new fiscal year with the books all even, achieving a long-sought goal that sets a desirable objective for future administrations.

The fiscal balance probably is the most significant aspect of the proposed budget, although record expenditures merit concern. The billion-dollar budget exceeds appropriations for the 1961-62 fiscal period by only three million dollars. But the latter covered a 13-month period in the transition from a biennial to an annual budget. On a monthly basis, the proposed budget calls for a higher rate of spending which the governor believes may be financed by an anticipated $8.9 million surplus and increased tax revenue resulting from improved economic conditions.

The heaviest spending increases are allocated to education, which accounts for about 48 per cent of the total budget, and for health and public welfare to finance, principally, improved mental health services, operation of a medical care plan for the aging and increased food allowances for recipients of public assistance. Only a small portion of the increased educational expenditure is earmarked for public schools, much of it going to state colleges and state-supported colleges and universities. Among the welcome increases is one for expanded public library service.

Legislators, particularly those on the Republican side, have indicated that they intend to take a close look at the budget. This they should do. The budget is subject to revision, and if legislators can find ways of saving money without impairing services then they will be doing a great service for the commonwealth. Perhaps they may want to increase educational expenditures even more than the governor plans or shift some of the proposed allocations from one category to another. If programs are expanded they should be offset by reductions in other expenditures or accompanied by revenue-raising measures.

The governor set another precedent, presenting general fund, motor license fund and other special fund budgets on the opening day of the new legislature session. Given a full load of work at the outset, the General Assembly should waste no time getting on with the job. The size of the budget demands that controversial parts of it be carefully scrutinized, but much of the spending is mandated by law, requiring no special study. Instead of charging that they are being "rushed" into approval, Republican legislators should join in careful and immediate deliberations leading to early agreement on fiscal matters.

Bringing financial stability to the commonwealth's government has been a joint effort of the Democratic administration and of Democrats and Republicans in the General Assembly. Their fine work should not now be undone by irresponsible action either in the legislative or executive branch. Fiscal responsibility offers a message that both parties may take to the voters with pride in this gubernatorial election year if it is maintained.

BALANCED BUDGET

Despite the criticism of the administration, Gov. David Lawrence has accomplished one matter for certain which even his assailants cannot condemn—he has a balanced budget without added taxes.

Year after year, governmental services increase. With the increase the administration in control raises taxes to balance budgets.

You can start with our own Fayette County if you want an example of taxes being increased to maintain services.

Townships, boroughs and cities have such things as "tax anything" laws which have helped them. The state uses the sales tax, smaller municipalities use the wage tax. And some cities get around a tax millage boost by increasing the assessed property valuations. Uniontown did this last year, from $21 million to $24 million.

True the fiscal 1962 budget in the state is a record one calling for general fund expenditures of $1,000,887,457 between July 1, 1962 and June 30, 1963. The proposed budget also calls for $482,057,046 in highway expenditures. The combined figure is $1,482,944,503.

The general fund budget in 1961 was for $997,639,210 carried out over a 13-month period. So the increase is not too much. Excessive new expenditures are not sought.

—o—

The budget calls for a tidy surplus at the end of the fiscal year. It means that the state's financial house finally is in order. The 1959-1961 budget deficit of $177 million which had been accumulated over the past decade has been wiped out.

As anticipated the Republican minority reacted critically charging the administration is rushing the legislature into approving the huge spending program. It would not be political tradition if the party, out of power, accepted what the reigning chiefs endorse.

There is no question that every agency should be made to present facts and figures on its own requests. There must be some justification for each departmental or agency expenditure.

The budget breakdown shows where most of the money is going.

Public education will receive almost 50 per cent of that $1 billion or specifically $486 million.

Health and public welfare will be given almost 30 per cent or $296 million.

These two agencies actually have been budgeted for 78.2 per cent of the state's expenditures or $783 million.

There have been steady demands from every department for increased appropriations. This will give the legislature a chance to do some expanding if they have the necessary votes for passage.

The budget is balanced. It does not seem too high.

With this session, an annual one, limited by the constitution to budget and finance matters, it appears there is no reason for the legislature to be in a politicking mood. Get the job finished.

POLITICS WILL BE INEVITABLE IN HEARINGS ON NEW BUDGET

As joint House and Senate Appropriations Committee hearings on Gov. David L. Lawrence's proposed $1.5 billion budget get underway in Harrisburg, the commonwealth unfortunately is likely to be treated to as much politics—partisan variety—as fiscal information.

This, after all, is an election year in which key state offices are up for grabs, and it would be too much to expect the politicians to overlook this simple fact during the dissection of the budget.

Indeed, both parties already have telegraphed their strategies, the Democrats loudly hailing the accomplishment of a balanced budget with no request for new or additional taxes, and the Republicans glowering angrily at its record total and vowing to give Mr. Lawrence not one cent more than they think he needs.

We will have more to say about the budget, but for the moment we will confine ourselves to the observation that the Republicans likely will be fighting an uphill battle in attacking the proposed budget.

For even though the budget proposes to spend $52 million more in the next 12 months than is being spent in the current 13 month period, it contains several built in features which can be easily understood (as contrasted to the usual unintelligibility of government finances) and unquestionably will favor the Democrats.

The budget is balanced and for the first time since the days of Governor Martin contains no deficit from previous years, the latter an accomplishment which reflects considerable credit to Mr. Lawrence.

Moreover, estimates of revenue appear to be realistic and unless the legislature tosses Mr. Lawrence's words of caution to the wind and proposes unsupported appropriation increases of its own or the state is struck by a steel strike this summer, it should stand. There is even a slight surplus from this year's operations to attest to the governor's economy in running his administration.

But most importantly, the budget asks for no new taxes or increases in old levies and does so without any major cuts in state services. As a matter of fact, increases are proposed in such areas as mental health and welfare where the emotional appeal is likely to be greatest.

These are the factors of the new budget which the public will remember, the partisan nature of the question to be asked at the hearings notwithstanding.

FISCAL RESPONSIBILITY RETURNS

We'll leave it up to Governor Lawrence to select what he thinks is the highlight of his four years in the Governor's office. Last week's news that the state budget has been balanced for the first time since 1949, however, must surely rate near the top of the list of his accomplishments.

We hear a lot these days about fiscal responsibility and how best to achieve it. The views on government spending that come out of Washington, particularly Congress, are as varied as they have ever been. We like to think, however, that the manner in which Governor Lawrence brought Pennsylvania's fiscal affairs back into the black is the way to go about it.

He didn't cut state expenditures to the bone and vital state services along with it. He didn't stop the progress that has been made in recent years in highway construction and state mental hospitals. He didn't borrow money from the future to pay today's freight, and he didn't cut down on expenses by refusing to fill vacancies in vital government positions caused by state employee retirements.

When Governor Lawrence assumed the duties of Governor he inherited a $177,000,000 deficit from his predecessor, Governor Leader. The debt wasn't all the responsibility of Leader, for part of it had been passed onto him by former Governors Fine and Duff. Nevertheless, Leader aded to it and handed Lawrence a red-inked ledger in 1959.

In the three years he has been in Harrisburg Governor Lawrence has continued many of the much needed—but costly—state programs originated by Governor Leader. At the same time he has insisted that state revenues match the expenditures and quite properly increased the sales tax to four per cent to pay the bills and erase the state debt.

This balanced budget, as we head into Lawrence's last year in office, is all the more amazing when one recalls that state revenues fell off considerably during the 1960-61 business recession. Had he been less determined to wipe out the State debt, the recession was all the excuse he needed to continue in the red.

Pennsylvania's present chief executive is no fiscal wizard and he didn't apply some magic formula to accomplish a balanced budget. In his 1958 campaign, however, he insisted taxes would have to be increased and the State put on a sound fiscal basis. He made good on both promises, raising taxes and eliminating the accumulated debt of 12 years.

To be sure, there are those in Pennsylvania who aren't at all satisfied with what Governor Lawrence did with the State's revenues. These are the groups (more commonly identified as lobbyists) who think they should have received a greater share of Pennsylvania's income. We don't suppose, however, that any governor of any state at any time ever satisfied everyone.

With his goal of a Pennsylvania government free of debt realized, Lawrence heads into his last year in office with an opportunity to write a happy ending to his many years of service as a city and state administrator. In this new year of 1962, therefore, the Progress wishes him continued success.

MESSAGE OF GOOD CHEER

Governor Lawrence delivered a message of good cheer to state legislators yesterday when he told them the budget for 1962 would not call for no new tax increases, would provide more state services, and that his adminiffistration would close out the fiscal year with a surplus of $8.9 million.

It was also good news for many a tax-weary Pennsylvanian.

So good that it's difficult to believe, and many keep waiting to discover if there isn't some part of the budget story that remains to be told—one that calls for higher old taxes to support new and different programs.

If such events do not come to pass, everyone will breathe a sigh of relief. If the budget is held within its present limits, Gov. Lawrence and all concerned are to be congratulated.

However, it might be well to point out that a balanced budget is something that should be expected of our state administration. We would suggest the matter not be disregarded at this point. Instead, every effort should be made to seek ways and means of reducing the budget from its current high level.

A surplus of $8.9 million is a lot of extra dollars to be piling up in the state treasury. Why not apply it to meeting costs in other areas? When that happens, it might not be too long before we hear even more joyous news—concerning a cut in taxes for Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Taxpayer.

OLD MAN ON THE MONUMENT

Statistics of Sorts—The first days of the new year afford a fine time for statistics, and our mail is filled with annual reports, summaries, fiscal reviews and a wide range of facts and figures. On a dull winter's day, we have assembled a few that may have more than passing interest.

Balancing the Budget—For example, now that Governor Lawrence has achieved a balanced budget for Pennsylvania, let's hope that President Kennedy and Congress try a little harder to do something about the federal budget. Mr. Lawrence's accomplishment is commendable, and has generally won praise from newspapers across the state. We do not intend to enter into any partisan debate on the matter, but the fact remains that with Pennsylvania's return to fiscal responsibility, the state offers greater attraction to industry and business, among other things.

Yet our state government is a piker compared with the federal government, when it comes to dipping into our pockets for taxes. The U. S. Chamber of Commerce, in a plaintive article, points out that the first child born in 1962 started life owing $1,603. So will every other child born during the year. That figure is the per capita share of the public debt.

The dollar, which had 100 cents purchasing power at the beginning of this century, has 28 cents today. We'll soon be down to the "two-bit buck." The federal debt, fast approaching $300 billion, surpasses by $42 billion all the debt of all the other countries in the world. That's a sobering thought, when we remember that Uncle Sam's load is really our load.

Mounting Taxes—No alarm bells rang at 2 o'clock Thursday morning, January 4—but at that hour, Pennsylvania's motorists had already paid out as much gasoline tax as was once collected in this state in a whole year. With a 7-cent state gas tax and the 4-cent federal tax, Pennsylvania highway users are paying an average of $1,010,413 gas tax each day, or $368.8 million during the year. In comparison, $3,112,000 was the amount of gas tax revenue collected in Pennsylvania in 1922, the first full year of motor fuel taxation in this state.

The Associated Petroleum Industries of Pennsylvania point out that the 11-cent gas tax now adds 55 percent to the selling price of gasoline, and costs car owners an average of more than $83 a year per vehicle.

Auto Statistics—Leaving such cheerless thoughts for a moment, but remaining with autos, we can report that of the 39,500,000 households now owning 47,300,000 vehicles, more than 7 million own two or more cars. About 41% of the passenger cars in the United States are four-door sedans. Nearly half of the nation's cars are kept outdoors overnight. Their average age is six years. And if you believe you've been seeing lots of station wagons lately, you have; the number has risen seven-fold from 159,000 in 1950 to 1,104,197 in 1960.

Oh, yes—one more point. We'd better stop joking about women drivers; 39% of all licensed drivers, a total of 28,250,000, are women.

WHAT WE'LL PAY

Revenues and spending are supposed to balance at the end of every year, in business, in industry, in well-managed homes and also in government, but in the latter category budgets hardly ever do balance. However, Gov. David L. Lawrence promises that his 1962 budget for Pennsylvania is "balanced."

The governor further went over-board Tuesday in his address before the joint sesison of the legislature and promised that there would be no new taxes.

Just to stagger the citizens somewhat, income for 1962 is estimated at $992,000,000 and the state has a present balance of $8,911,929 and that is something unusual as the spenders just neglected to toss away what was in the treasury waiting to be spent.

Income will be spelled out as "one billion, 911 thousand and 929 dollars." That is the same as $1,000,911,929. No matter how you look at 'em they're enormous. Of course the state intends to spend all but $24,472 of that amount so the total is "in budget."

Let's look at the expected and proposed income. The sales and use tax compiled from pennies from everybody will amount to $404 million in 1962. Corporations will hand the state almost $239 million. The drinking population will bring in a profit of over $100 million, cigarets $72 million, inheritance taxes $49 million, gross receipts and insurance business $50 million, and about $75 million from institutional revenues, realty transfers and other revenues. All the citizens of the state will donate to pay this big sum.

In the spending line education takes 48 per cent of the revenue or a total of $486 million and public welfare and health require $296 million. They're both record-breaking expenditures. Other government service will spend only less than 25 per cent of the billion in revenues. Just two items take 78.21 per cent.

The governor, with "general pride," entertained the senators and representatives with the great mass of figures. In fact, the governor used the word "happy" on several occasions. First he was happy to give the legislature the budget at its earliest time ever. He was "happier still" to report the financial ledgers, at long last, "are in balance."

"The task of bringing the budget into balance has been one of the most difficult in my long career of public service. No one in the years ahead," warned the governor, "should knowingly let the deficit-pattern become reestablished. I cannot feel anything but a sense of genuine pride in the accomplishments which these budgets represent," he concluded.

However, the legislature was given a warning. He'll not sign any measures for additional revenue in 1962 unless taxes to finance them are enacted. Presently he sees no need for new taxes. So increased appropriation measures are out. That's definite.

GOVERNOR'S FISCAL CHALLENGE

An avalanche of favorable newspaper editorials across the state has greeted Governor Lawrence's new budget. So rare is a Pennsylvania message which calls for record spending without a tax increase that even the most cynical editor was forced to reach for adjectives which newspapers seldom apply to spending administrations.

If the Governor's budget is not a miracle of the times, it certainly is unusual. For the first time since the Duff administration immediately after World War II, the state does not have to begin the budget year with a deficit. The happy circumstance is that the Lawrence administration can anticipate a $8.9 million surplus come June 30. This added to the $42 million additional revenue expected from a revived economy gives the administration about $50 million extra to meet the mandated grants and other increased commitments without raising taxes.

The governor's program contains very little in new spending. Despite the lip-service he has given to pushing the badly-needed education program, Lawrence has made no provision for it in his message. He reasons, apparently, that if the schools package was defeated last year for failure to appropriate taxes to pay for it, the legislature is hardly likely to change its mind this year when all 210 members of the House and half of the 50 state senators are up for election. Few can criticize him for this reasoning.

If there is one cloud that stands to mar the sunny prospect of a balanced budget, it is the impending steel contract deadline in June. With its balance so closely tied to the anticipated $42 million more revenue from a booming economy, the budget cannot afford to take the losses of a strike in steel, the state's major industry. Yet in looking ahead the administration must assume that reasonable common sense will prevail and chances are against a protracted strike for two contract signings in a row.

The governor's program installs austerity as the keynote of administration policy. He stands to end his term with an achievement that is rare in recent Pennsylvania history. How well he fares at the hands of the legislature is something that remains to be seen, but anyone who attempts to shake this financial blueprint for stability will be tackling an unpopular cause.

NO DEFICIT

According to administration reports, Pennsylvania will wind up its fiscal year without a deficit. This is good news to a state which only three years ago was told by the incoming administration that a deficit of more than $170 million had to be made up.

According to the then new governor, the way to correct the situation was the levying of new taxes, and to achieve that end, Gov.-elect David L. Lawrence set up a committee to study the situation and make its recommendations.

It should be remembered that partly responsible for the deficit was the recession of 1957-58 and in its planning the committee was basing its estimates on a continuation of that recession.

The other part of the deficit was caused by the excessive spending of the Leader administration without making provision for income. The two factors combined, hit the state's population for a heavy take.

Improved business combined with low tax etsimates have helped the present administration to be able to make the no deficit prediction.

So when passing around the bouquets let us not forget that the Lawrence administration didn't do the job alone. Whether the governor likes to admit or not, even the Republicans deserve some of the credit.

Adding $2,400,000 a year to Pennsylvania's outlay for public assistance, as proposed by Governor Lawrence, may bring forth criticsm, but dissenters should look at the facts.

It is true that the appropriation for this purpose in the 13-month period that began last June is $224,786,552. However, the additional $2.4 million outlay for the purpose of increasing food allowances $2 a month must be considered in the light of existing rates. The present allotment to an individual in the 18-65 age group is $26.20 monthly, or an average of approximately 87 cents a day. Where the grant is for two persons, the combined rate is $44 monthly, or little more than $1.46 per day, and so on. It must be agreed that those on public assistance rolls are not living high. Indeed, there is reason for concern over possible dietary deficiencies, also the growth in relief rolls. Pennsylvania in November had 416,915 recipients, a gain of 2,272 over October. In November, 1960 the total was 380,-363.

In Fayette County, one of eight areas across the nation in which a pilot food stamp plan has been in effect, more than $2.5 million of federal and state funds has been spent during the past six months to provide the necessities of life for public assistance recipients. Fayette County, an area of chronic unemployment and diminishing population has about 175,000 residents. However, Fayette is not among the Pennsylvania counties included in the first allocation of funds for retraining workers under the area redevelopment act. This probably is due to the fact that employment possibilities in the county are non-existent.

Adequate sustenance for the unemployable and those who for any reason are jobless through no fault of their own is a public obligation. Eliminating relief chiseling and other abuses is a responsibility of the Department of Public Assistance. Most important of all, a combination of government and public efforts to provide jobs offers the only hope of abolishing government subsidization of entire areas of Pennsylvania in which abject dependence upon government has been the rule for a shockingly long time.

USE SCALPEL INSTEAD OF MEAT AX

Pennsylvania Gov. David L. Lawrence submitted a $1 billion budget to the General Assembly this week.

President John F. Kennedy will present one of over $90 billion to Congress in the near future.

In Harrisburg and Washington talk already is being heard about reducing appropriations and exercising economies.

The principal source of these remarks in Harrisburg is the Republican legislative delegation.

The Republicans also have been heard in Washington, although the most outspoken comment to date has come from Rep. Clarence Cannon, D-Mo., chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, who has promised to cut the Kennedy budget although he hasn't seen it yet.

Economy in government operations is a commendable objective. It should be encouraged, regardless of the source of the demands for lower operating costs.

But, in approaching this question, it should be prepared to deal with specifics.

This means the fiscal program should be approached with the scalpel, rather than the meat ax, so the fat can be neatly trimmed away and the water can be drained off without harming the whole fiscal body.

Demagogues will be satisfied to merely stand up and demand that the executive reduce its spending proposals by a specific figure. A true statesman may make a similar demand. But he also will try to show how it can be done.

It will be interesting to see how many statesmen there are in Harrisburg and Washington when the General Assembly and the Congress tackle their budgetary problems.

A REAL ACHIEVEMENT

In submitting to the legislature a budget which he claims is honestly balanced as to revenues and expenditures, Gov. David L. Lawrence has met one of the most important goals which he set for his now-waning administration.

Not since the administration of former Gov. Edward Martin has the state government had a balanced budget—honestly balanced, that is. The only balances that were achieved were achieved by dishonest manipulation of revenue estimates to make them match estimates of expenditures. And every time this was done, whether by the legislature or by the governor or both, the facts caught up with the manipulation, and the deficits kept accumulating.

By the time Gov. Lawrence took office in 1959, the deficit had grown to $177 million. And this in a state whose constitution specifically forbids deficits!

Ending this practice and the fiscal dishonesty it involved (by both Democrats and Republicans, let's not forget) was, said Mr. Lawrence yesterday, "one of the most difficult (tasks) of my long career in public service" in which he "cannot feel anything but a sense of genuine pride."

In the matter of the budget, of course, the Governor only proposes. It is the legislature which disposes and in whose hands the fiscal integrity of Pennsylvania's government now rests.

But on the basis of a quick scanning of Mr. Lawrence's recommendations, we congratulate him and his associates. If his figures hold up through the legislative session now beginning, he will have rendered a fine service which has been long overdue and which the people and taxpayers of Pennsylvania should appreciate.

MAKE IT SHORT, SNAPPY

When Pennsylvania's General Assembly convenes today, Governor Lawrence will put before it a balanced budget, Since this session in an even-numbered year is confined to fiscal affairs, this should mean that the Legislature will have very little to do. If it foregoes the temptation to play politics with the budget and performs in a business-like manner, it should be out of Harrisburg by March 1.

The Legislature could, if it so desired, play hob with the budget by over-estimating revenues as an excuse for appropriating more funds than are asked for in the budget. That could be a means of forcing the Lawrence Administration into a deficit for whatever political effect it would have in next fall's election. But if the Democratic majority holds together, that can be prevented.

A complicating factor that might interfere with this session is the problem of congressional reapportionment. Sometime this month the Governor is expected to issue a call for a special session, to run concurrently with the regular session, to reapportion congressional districts in accord with the last Federal census. If the Legislature gets tied into knots over that, it could neglect and delay the regular session. But the Legislature has to get the reapportionment issue out of the way by February 20 or all of the state's 27 congressmen must be elected at large next fall.

We urge the Legislature to make both sessions short and snappy. Since there will be no revenue measure to be enacted, there is no real reason for tarrying in Harrisburg this year.

STATE'S FINANCES

Governor David L. Lawrence has caused much comment, much of it favorable, for his balanced budget message to the General Assembly. His warning on the need for fiscal responsibility and the admonition that budget items should be increased only when provision is made to obtain the necessary additional revenue have been well received by most observers of the state political scene.

Shamokin area residents, like those throughout the state, might note the importance of the fiscal picture and might note the importance of the fiscal picture and might watch to see if legislators keep the Commonwealth's finances on an even keel.

The governor has pointed out that the proposed budget is based on current tax provisions and will not require new taxes. This is good news—if the budget is adequate! If more money is needed for important state services, it will be up to the Legislature to find new revenues. The public is likely to accept new tax burdens when the lawmakers show that new expenditures are justified and that the money-raising process is fair.

One editor has pointed out that the pork barrel will be rolling, politics being what it is and legislators being primarily partisan politicians. He added that it will take a mighty man and an unusual session to keep that barrel where it belongs. Another observer says it's easy to vote new expenditures in an election year withoutproviding the tax revenue to pay for them, adding that a healthy financial condition migh be frittered away by election year largesse.

One other observer pointed out, "At any rate, the Republican members of the Legislature will most certainly put the budget item under a microscope to ascertain if savings may be effected."

Obviously, both parties will be kept busy watching the new budget. And all Pennsylvanians, regardless of party affiliation, should make plenty of noise at the first sign that the balanced budget will not be achieved.

HOPE IT STICKS:

They're just a little proud . . . and bragging about it, as they well have every right to . . . in Harrisburg, as predicted with the advent of the new year, the Lawrence Administration that is. And we've an idea that the Republicans will have to do some tall stepping to top the accomplishment about which there is all this pride and bragging, except the Lawrence estimates don't work out as predicted, or the General Assembly finds flaws in them, which would seem unlikely, after examination and review.

The accomplishment of pride is, of course, the balanced state budget estimates which Governor David L. Lawrence proposed yesterday before the state legislature. And to boot, no revenue legislation is being requested plus the fact that a healthy fiscal year of tax payments is expected to run up a surplus income of about $8.9 million by the end of June 1962.

Comparing circumstances under which he presented his first budget as the state's chief executive nearly three years ago for the 1959-61 biennium, Governor Lawrence noted with genuine pride that "for the first time in recent history, Pennsylvania's budget is in balance . . . honest balance." Those circumstances included a deficit of over $177 million which had accumulated over several administrations previous, including that of his immediate predecessor, Governor George M. Leader.

Giving the Governor and his administration just due for this accomplishment, providing it shows prospects of being borne out as estimated, after review, his own summation of the fiscal situation in his budget message yesterday suffices well to that end. Said the Governor of the various budgets submitted . . . including the General Fund, the Motor License, Fish, and Game Funds and several special funds:

"First, they are balanced . . . which is to say that the revenues we will receive will pay for the expenditures requested.

"Secondly, they are balanced without the need for any additional taxes . . .

"Third, they provide funds to carry forward programs which are the State's obligation, and, in many instances, to improve upon those programs within the framework of previous legislative authorization.

"Fourth, they are submitted to the General Assembly in the opening hours of the opening day of the session."

Not unaware, of course, is the Governor also that political opponents may seek means to disagree with his estimates in way to make his Administration and yea, his Democratic party, look bad, when he said also: "These . . . are achievements which should not and cannot be sacrificed by any effort, legislative or executive, to fake revenue estimates or to deliberately under-appropriate. Such foolhardy action would only start us again on the rocky road of deficits and fiscal self-deception from which we have just, so painfully, extricated ourselves."

Agreeing however, that the legislature should review the budget documents, but promptly, he added that "if there are reductions legitimately to be made, they should be made. However, if there are additional appropriations, they must be matched by the money to pay for them . . ."

And there's no arguing with those sentiments, to be sure. What will happen to these predictions and estimates between now and not only the close of the legislative sessions this year, which certainly cannot be long for lack of a terribly lot to be done . . . but between now and the changeover to another fiscal year, remains to be seen.

But it would seem that the Lawrence Administration probably has taken into consideration all possibilities, short of drastic economic changes or upheavals, to the end that their fiscal predictions will hold fairly true.

No matter one's political feelings or beliefs, it's no ordinary accomplishment to have wiped the slate clean, as the Governor put it in conclusion of his remarks. It's quite a feat, these days. Let's hope it sticks. Whoever is to be the Governor's successor next year, be that successor Democrat or Republican, will find it difficult to fill his shoes in this respect.

OUR VIEWS ON THE NEWS—NEW STATE FISCAL STABILITY?

Pennsylvania taxpayers can find some encouragement in Gov. David Lawrence's 1962-63 Budget Message. The governor foresees a moderate surplus for the current fiscal year ending June 30. And although he proposes a record 1962-63 spending program, the first annual state government expenditure in excess of a billion dollars ($1,000,887,457), he thinks it can be done without raising taxes.

politically this is disturbing news for the Republicans, who might have to abandon their campaign characterization of state Democratic administrations as "tax-and-spend" machines. Indeed, the GOP legislative leadership at Harrisburg have indicated that they are dissatisfied with the governor's projected appropriations for education. They reportedly will ask for more, although the Lawrence budget proposes to increase spending for public schools and higher education by more than $13.5 million during the new fiscal year. Taxpayers might be treated to the interesting phenomenon of Republicans winning the hand of the education lobby.

As usual education, public assistance and highways will be the most demanding areas of state tax expenditure, although highways operations and associated functions do not depend upon the general fund, but rather on the motor license fund, which is financed by fees and motor fuel taxation. This department of government, principally due to demands of the interstate highway construction program would spend $490 million in the new fiscal year, up $32.2 million.

Under the Governor's proposed spending measure public assistance expenditures would decrease more than $33 million, from $405.0 million to $372.4 million. This decrease doesn't reflect any "reforms" evolving from the "Newburg pattern," but rather the general economic improvement in the state and the nation, and increased federal assistance.

But the big argument will center upon education, and efforts to gear expenditures to the general education "master plan" which has been developed roughly by the Lawrence administration. Some non-economic phases of this program, the core of which was developed by the Governor's Education Study Commission (State Rep. Jeanette Reibman of Easton was a prominent member), were enacted into law by the last session of the General Assembly, notably the law which will force reorganization of school districts into larger administrative units.

In the Lawrence budget higher education would get an increase of about $4.25 million. An extra outlay of approximately $1.8 is provided for public school transportation subsidies; an increase of $3.5 million under the subsidy formula to joint and union districts as added incentive for establishment of larger units, and special education would get an additional $1.1 million.

None of these appropriations increases measures up to the level of demand—but the governor says, in effect, that new needs must be met within the limits of revenue realities, and this is no more than fiscal common sense.

And it is certainly a more encouraging governmental fiscal image for the state's taxpayers than that of 1959, when, at the end of the fiscal year, the state was encumbered by a $177 million deficit.

The Lawrence administration has moved state fiscal affairs toward stability, toward a solid revenue foundation from which need can be projected and met on an orderly basis. One can only hope that the inherent partisan political orientations of the General Assembly's membership will do nothing to disturb this trend.

BALANCING A BIG STATE BUDGET

Governor Lawrence gave Pennsylvania legislators some good advice on fiscal responsibility along with his record-breaking one-and-a-half-billion-dollar balanced budget for the year beginning next July 1.

The Governor got the new session of the Legislature off on the right foot by announcing formally the existence of a moderate and highly welcome surplus—in excess of $8,000,000 in the General Fund and about $19,000,000 in the Highway Fund. This means, the Governor said, that no new taxes are in prospect this year.

Taxpayers will agree this is an admirable way to begin 1962—with books in balance and "money in the bank." However, some may wonder whether expecting a balanced budget in the year ahead is being too optimistic.

Proposed expenditures in the Governor's new budget—over a billion dollars in the General Fund and nearly a half-billion for highways—should be given "searching scrutiny" by the Legislature, as the Governor said. He pointed out—and properly so—that it is the "right and obligation" of legislators to review the budget, item by item, and make reductions where reasonable and advisable. This should be done to save money wherever practicable.

Mr. Lawrence's balanced budget should be kept that way. We agree with his admonition that the Legislature should increase budget items only when willing to provide necessary additional revenue.

There is no doubt about the truth of the Governor's comment citing the close relationship between fiscal responsibility and economic development. Balancing the budget and holding the line on taxes, while providing services necessary for the welfare of the people and the progress of the State, are not easy achievements. Sound governmental management is needed to attract new industy and more jobs.

We hope that the Governor's predictions of increased revenue, to offset increased spending, come true. Legislators with a well-earned reputation for skepticism presumably will give close attention to revenue estimates.

Several items in the Governor's program—most notably in the fields of education and health—should get detailed study by the Legislature in the months ahead. They are matters of vital importance.

Some time soon the Governor will call the Legislature to a special session concurrent with the present one to enact a plan of Congressional reapportionment required by population shifts in the 1960 census. Specifically, the task is to redraw the State's 30 Congressional districts into 27. This difficult assignment ought to be handled with dispatch, in a fair and just manner, in accordance with both the letter and the spirit of Constitutional provisions regarding equal representation for all Americans in the U. S. House of Representatives.

Although the need for decision on reapportionment is becoming increasingly urgent as time passes—and will necessarily take precedence over final action on fiscal matters—the Legislature should begin promptly the hearings preliminary to enactment of a sound budget.

As finally approved, it should be a budget not only in balance but adequate to keep Pennsylvania moving forward with the rest of the Nation.

REALISTIC PROGRESS

In an era which seems to thrive on deficit spending, the budget submitted by Governor David L. Lawrence to the General Assembly on Tuesday is indeed heartwarming. If all things hold true, the new budget will take the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania into a new fiscal year with a surplus and its budget in balance for the first time in fourteen years.

The pattern set down by the Governor is indeed realistic progress, and it would be well if our legislators and government officials at all levels would take a lesson from it. The most interesting part of the whole situation is the object lesson that deficits can be cleared up and that deficit-spending can be eliminated.

When Governor Lawrence took office, the Commonwealth had an accumulated deficit of $177 million according to the records. As he leaves the gubernatorial chair, from present indications, he will have our state finances back in the black for the first time in many years.

The feelings of the citizens of Pennsylvania could be expressed in no better way than the words of Governor Lawrence in his budget message: "No one in the years ahead should knowingly let the deficit system be re-established in Pennsylvania." We would add a solemn "Amen!"

The presentation of a balanced budget for the coming fiscal year is by no means a matter of luck or chance. It represents untiring efforts on the part of the Governor to curb spending for unnecessary things and yet to add to essential services for the benefit of all of the people. It represents a close guard on the purse-strings of the public.

All through his administration, Lawrence flatly refused to approve any financial measure over and above his recommendations, unless provision to raise the funds needed were included in the legislation.

A balanced budget and the probability of no new taxes certainly deserve the plaudit, "Well Done," from the people to their Governor!

ROLL OUT THE BARREL?

A considerable edge of pride was apparent in both the words and the tone with which Governor Lawrence addressed the state legislature yesterday on the opening of its 1962 fiscal session, and at the same time the Governor sounded a note of caution.

Both were called for, the caution perhaps more than the pride although the Governor well can be happy with the deficit which has been wiped out and the surplus anticipated by the end of the fiscal year. Two years ago he faced the enormous total of $177 million in red ink, inherited from his predecessor. He expects to leave to his successor a surplus of $8.9 million despite a budget of more than $1 billion.

And all this, he says, is to be accomplished with no increase in taxation—no tax rise and no new taxes.

Here is where the caution should be sounded.

"If there are additional appropriations, they must be matched by the money to pay for them," the Governor said. "That means simply, ladies and gentlemen, that I have not deviated from my position, which is fixed and inviolate, that I will not approve appropriation measures, however worthy the cause, unless the revenue is provided to pay for those measures."

Brave words, these, and we can only pray that with the end of this session, which Lawrence expects by March 1, they will not prove to be empty words.

This is a brand new year and hope springs eternal but we are skeptical. Those words, with the promise of no increase in taxes, were spoken in a state capital, before a state legislature. The pork barrel will be rolling, politics being what it is and legislators being primarily partisan politicians. It will take a mighty man and an unusual session to keep that barrel where it belongs.

NEW HIGH IN HARRISBURG SPENDING

In the normal course of events, as the General Assembly opened its 146th session, the news from Harrisburg that the State's financial house was in order would be a cause for cheering.

But, in the light of the staggering burdens Pennsylvania taxpayers are shouldering as a result of previous enactments, today's announcement that no new taxes would be needed, that a deficit had been liquidated and the budget was expected to be in balance on June 30 with a possible surplus of some $8,000,000 does not evoke wild enthusiasm, especially when it is disclosed that the spending proposals in the $1,000,887,457 budget for 1962-63 establishes a new record for one year, being up $19,000,000 over the 1961-62 fiscal period.

What would impress the public at this time would be a reduction in the tax burdens and a cut in spending. But economy is a word that has little meaning in Harrisburg or in Washington, for that matter. And it is unthinkable for government to give the taxpayers a break by reducing their burdens. The latter are supposed to be grateful if no new levies are saddled on top of the record highs they are bearing.

This being an election year, there will be all sorts of talk about efficiency in government and a balanced budget, but the spending program and the taxes on the books tell their own story. They speak louder than any words.

It is high time taxpayers are considered. Spending cannot mount indefinitely, for taxes must keep pace. And there can be no relief when millions are ladled out as though they were dimes.

While it is true subsidies to local governments account for a great deal of the spending, there is plenty of room in the State government for savings. One of the obvious would be to halt additions to the payrolls and utilize present work forces to full advantage.

THE GOVERNOR'S NEW BUDGET RAISES SOME OLD QUESTIONS

Throughout much of his budget presentation before the Legislature, the oratory of our Democratic Governor had the ring of a political prophet out of the Republican Party's old testiment. You could tick it off throughout his half-hour Budget Message:

. . . A balanced budget . . . Fiscal responsibility . . . No new taxes . . . A good tax climate for business . . . Absolutely no new spending unless the Legislature provides the revenue to pay for it.

. . . And a stern warning against any foolhardy action which would only start us again on the rocky road of deficits and fiscal self-deception from which we have just, so painfully, extricated ourselves.

Some who are the Governor's political opposition don't make it sound that way at all. They point at the first General Fund budget to go past $1 billion annually in Pennsylvania's history, an increase of more than $50 million, and they add on the nearly half-a-billion-dollar budget for highways to proclaim record spending. And they're right.

But Pennsylvania, just the same, has its financial affairs in balanced order for the first time since the World War II administration of conservative Republican Edward Martin. Governor Lawrence can point to a possible $8.9 million surplus when the current budget year ends on June 30 instead of the $141.9 million deficit with which his administration was saddled in its first year.

This is a tremendous achievement, and it was brought to pass only because a Pennsylvania Governor—for the first time in all these recent years—stood up to the Democratic and Republican legislators, refusing to kite revenue estimates, stopping new spending proposals by insisting on accompanying new taxes and item-vetoing still other extra spending which the General Assembly voted.

Although the $8.9 million surplus projected for the present budget period can be accepted with reasonable certainty, there remain big questions on the 1962-63 finances just proposed by the Governor.

The balanced budget is projected on $42 million more in revenue from the same taxes because of a rising economy. This is forecasting a year and a half ahead, and the Governor and his budget advisers could turn out to be poor prophets. If they do, they'll have plenty of company —but it's a possibility just the same.

And all the more so for Pennsylvania, which will begin its new budget year on the stroke of midnight June 30, the exact moment that the steel contract runs out. A protracted steel strike, in the pattern of the 1959 shambles, would make a multi-million-dollar deficit inevitable in soaring public assistance costs and depleted corporate income tax revenues.

With these reservations, the Governor's proposals for a step-up in State spending with no new taxes and no deficit are reasonable and acceptable. There is no "fiscal fakery" here.

This does not mean that the Governor's spending proposals must be accepted without challenge or change. They are wide-open to both, especially in the realm of higher education.

In the very budget in which he asks for money to continue a study to arrive at a "master plan" for higher education in Pennsylvania, the Governor calls for creation of a second quasi-state university by raising Temple to the public support status of Penn State.

At the same time he flags the future necessity for a third such heavily State-supported university to serve Western Pennsylvania, and spokesmen for the University of Pittsburgh, say that while they have been approached they aren't interested.

What is going on here is simply that the Lawrence Administration—without public discussion or debate—is attempting to lay down the main boundary lines of a "master plan" which, once started, would commit the next Governor and succeeding Administrations to tremendous new public support for what are now predominantly private institutions. And this comes at a time when neither Penn State nor the 14 state colleges are receiving the fuller measure of State support which should be theirs.

Within the boundaries of the present tax structure, the Governor has decided wisely, it seems to us, to earmark most of the new education spending for the colleges and universities instead of launching a new subsidy program for the public schools.

Until Pennsylvanians are ready to accept expansion of their big sales tax to food or clothing or both, or an income tax, the local communities must assume responsibility for the lion's share of new spending for the public schools. The colleges and universities need and should get first call on any additional State aid that will become available right now and in the years immediately ahead.

It well may be that Temple should become a second Penn State in the best interests of the heavily populated Philadelphia area which it now serves, but this proposal deserves a lot more discussion and understanding before the course is set. This is a good time for a full-fledged debate on just how public our institutions of higher education have to become in Pennsylvania to continue to receive public funds and to get even more dollars from the State Treasury.

A Bit of Political Legerdemain

A RECORD HIGH STATE BUDGET ON A HOLD-THE-LINE TAX PLAN

The pattern of major controversey and debate over Governor Lawrence's proposed budget is clear enough.

—It'll array Republicans against Democrats in the flamboyant and familiar disarray of a full-scale statewide campaign year, which this is.

—It'll array the public schools against the colleges and universities.

—It'll array the colleges and universities against each other.

—And it very likely will array a majority of the legislators, Republicans and Democrats alike, against the Governor in pressuring for new spending that would considerably outstrip available taxes.

The Lawrence Administration has proposed to hold the line against major new spending which would require new taxes. And it is difficult to fault the political realism of the Governor on this point. Here, after all, is the same General Assembly which refused to enact new taxes last year for education. It is hardly likely to change its mind at the very time that all 210 members of the House and one-half of the 50 State Senators are up for reelection.

Perhaps it is not absolutely accurate to say that the final Lawrence budget "holds the line" because no new taxes are proposed. When some $50 million in new General Fund spending is outlined, one well may wonder where the line has been drawn.

This happy circumstance comes to pass for the Administration—and in this banner election year, too—because the soaring economy is counted upon to bring in $42 million more with the same taxes, because there will be an anticipated $8.9 million surplus to start off the new budget year at midnight June 30 and because, for the first time since the first Duff budget which followed the World War II years of Governor Martin, Pennsylvania does not have to begin its budget-making by paying for a dead horse. In a notable achievement, Governor Lawrence has balanced State Government spending with its tax resources. There's a big "if" on this, of course. The 1962-'63 budget, as proposed by the Governor, will wind up in balance a year and a half away only if Pennsylvania is spared a repeat of the costly steel strike of 1959. The steel contract runs out on the very day that the new State budget period begins.

But this is an "if" that any Administration would have to accept at this time. The Lawrence Administration's projection of taxes and spending appears reasonable, even conservative, in the light of the golden economic forecasts now being issued on every side.

The Governor's insistence that the hard-won budget balance be maintained deserves the support of every Pennsylvanian. The Commonwealth's citizens and voters should recognize the inevitable new spending-no new tax oratory for the campaign year hot air that it is.

Yet there remains plenty of room for disagreement and debate over the Governor's spending proposals.

In choosing the course of no new taxes, the Governor also has chosen to allot most of the new money available for education to the colleges and universities instead of the public schools.

This is, it seems to us, the only possible decision at this time. Until Pennsylvanians are willing to accept and legislators are willing to vote for extension of the sales tax to clothing or food or both, or for a state income tax, the local schools should look to the local communities for their major new spending needs. The colleges and universities have no place else to turn but State Government, and the simple reality is that State Government has been short-changing public higher education for years.

But just how "public" do Pennsylvania's colleges and universities have to become to share, heavily, in public funds? In a surprise decision, the Lawrence Administration advocates a major buildup of subsidies to make Philadelphia's Temple University comparable to Penn State. And the Governor flags still another state-aided university, a la Penn State, in Western Pennsylvania sometime in the future. Meanwhile, Penn State and the 14 state colleges are not receiving the State support which should be theirs.

In the absence of any master plan for higher education in Pennsylvania—a plan, incidentally, for which the Governor asks money in this very same budget—the Lawrence Administration's proposal to make Temple a second Penn State with a priority call on State tax funds is a little premature, to say the least.

PROBLEMS ARE OPPORTUNITIES

The municipal governments in the Mon Valley area are being reorganized this week to reflect the decisions made by the voters in the 1961 elections. In this recurring turnover, we find some officials being replaced by newcomers on the various councils, and in some cases the replacements are extensive enough to produce significant charges of policy.

This is expected to be true in the Monessen City Hall where Mayor Hugo Parente for the past two years has been in the unaccustomed—for him—role of a minority member of the Council. Although re-elected to a fifth term by an overwhelming majority, it is not known as yet whether he will have the kind of authority over the new Council that he once was able to assert.

But this is not as important, so far as the progress of Monessen is concerned, as that a constructive relationship should be developed in the City Council. Factionalism does not make for the best government, no matter who runs the factions. And in a small city with big problems and big ambitions, the ups-and-downs and ins-and-outs of factional vendettas can be a serious obstacle to progress and accomplishment.

Changes have been made in the composition of the Charleroi Borough Council, too, and these may produce some changes in policy—for the better, we hope. The local government in Charleroi has been characterized by a lack of progressiveness, an inability or unwillingness on the part of the Council to think and act in large terms about the future of the community.

The Mon Valley area, of which Charleroi is so important a factor, can no longer afford this kind of complacent coasting by its local government officials, comfortable though coasting may seem. The area's problems and needs have caught up with it and if aggressive measures are not taken, will overwhelm it.

These observations apply with no less force to Donora, where no changes are occurring in the makeup of the Borough Council, four members having been re-elected. Donora today is in a trough of civic and economic discouragement created largely by a sharp decline in operations and employment in its principal industrial plant.

But again, does this not mean that the community must have leadership, including political leadership, which is as big and broad and bold as its problems are deep? It is not enough now for local government just to keep taxes down and try to make ends meet until, as Wilkins Micawber put it in "David Copperfield," something turns up. Something will turn up in this Valley when we start trying to make it turn up and probably not before.

We have mentioned Monessen, Charleroi and Donora specifically because in the nature of this area, as these three towns go, so will go the Valley—up, down or sidewise. And this paper is convinced that the direction will surely be down if our local political leaders do not furnish the positive action that the times and the problems are calling for so loudly.

In this comment we are not forgetting the smaller boroughs and the townships which surround the larger towns. In them, too, and perhaps especially in the townships, we need vision and the courage to act as we have not needed them before.

So if anybody is asking us, at the beginning of 1962, what kind of future we think the Mon Valley has, our answer is that it has the kind of future its people, their leaders and its economic and civic interests have the gumption to make for it—nothing more and nothing less.

Our problems are, in a very read sense, our opportunities. And they are knocking insistently at our door.

TAX BREATHER

Gov. David L. Lawrence's 1962 budget message, revealing administration willingness to get along without any new taxes this year, comes as good news to all Pennsylvanians, Armstrong Countians included.

Some such marking time is sorely needed, if only to permit the weary taxpayer to catch up with what his government has him already committed to.

The calendar has brought government—local, state and federal—back again to a time of tax decision. The men and women who make these decisions for us are, admittedly, up against some sticky going, as they try to compromise our demands for government services with our willingness to pay the bill.

What makes the tax treadmil doubly wearisome is the natural tendency of each level of government to assume that its needs for tax money, and the services this money provides transcend those of any other level of government.

There is the complication, always, that the money all comes ultimately from the same pocket. This regardless of where the levy is imposed or the branch of government that imposes it.

What we have come through now is almost 25 unbroken years of tax increase. The taxpayer has been unable to win, except as the services he has hoped for or demanded have increased.

There has been little surcease. If the taxpayer was not paying more in federal taxes to meet national defense needs, he was taking it on the chin in gasoline taxes to finance more and better roads.

The year that the bill for educating his children did not go up, there was a sewage disposal plant to build or more streets to be paved.

It is little wonder then that Gov. Lawrence's new budget lights off some random huzzahs.

Most of us have long since given up dreaming of tax cuts. It is to be hoped that the General Assembly will go along with the governor, in enactment of a financial program that will keep the Commonwealth going on the income from last year's tax rates.

BALANCED STATE BUDGET HAS ITS BENEFITS

A balanced budget with no tax increases is the satisfying fiscal proposal revealed yesterday by Governor Lawrence.

Amounting to just over $1 billion, the general budget was announced, amid administration joy, that a $177-million deficit left by Governor Leader will have been wiped out by June, 34 months after Lawrence took office. What's more, state services will average 5.5 per cent higher allocations in the new fiscal plan, and the separate highways budget will be raised to $490 million.

For the past 14 years, Pennsylvania has run up deficits. The change to fiscal responsibility should be cheered by voters of both parties.

Administration sources are currently indicating they think the state's improved business climate has been given another boost by the no-deficit plan. We would agree that Pennsylvania's sales tax and fiscal responsibility help to make this state much more attractive to industrial growth than it had been for a long time. State industrial-development loans, making factory mortgage money available at a 4 per cent interest rate, are also a strong attraction.

If the Butler area is any gauge, it appears industrial development is one of the state's definite benefits of current tax and fiscal policies.

THE STATE BUDGET

Hold your hats!

There's something new in Harrisburg.

Unless an unforeseen emergency turns up between now and the end of June, Pennsylvania will wind up a fiscal year with a surplus—a surplus, mind you—of nearly nine million dollars.

Now, nine million dollars isn't much in total state spending of a billion dollars or so. But any surplus in Harrisburg is so novel in recent Pennsylvania practice that any amount, however small, is worth crowing about.

And that's just what Gov. David L. Lawrence did in his budget message yesterday. It was with understandable pride that Gov. Lawrence pointed to the currently anticipated surplus and to yet another innovation—a new budget that is balanced in fact, not just on paper.

The twin developments mark a mile-stone in management of the state's money. Heretofore, for far too many years, the state government has been saddled with the uncomfortable burden of chronic "deficiencies."

Those deficiencies stemmed from a curious gimmick devised by politicians of both political hues who inhabited the state capital over the years.

The state constitution provides that only balanced budgets may be approved by the General Assembly. But the balanced budgets of the recent past were frequently master-pieces of fiction.

They achieved their balance through inflation of the revenue that taxes might reasonably be expected to yield and deflation of the cost that various state programs might reasonably be expected to entail.

The end product was the custom, at the opening of each legislative session, to make up the difference through deficiency appropriations of gradually larger amounts. When Gov. Lawrence took over a little less than three years ago, the accumulated deficits amounted to 177 million dollars. They have now been wiped out.

All this spells out a bright prospect for Pennsylvanians this year: We shall have available to us modestly expanded state services withou' having to lay out more state taxes to pay for them.

"It is hardly necessary," the governor told the joint session of the Assembly yesterday, "for me to tell you how difficult this achievement has been to come by. It has taken hard decisions and hard, unrelenting work. It has required the most painstaking regulation of departmental spending and has meant pacing out improvements in service to our ability to find the money to pay for them.

"A balanced budget in Pennsylvania is something more than a desirable goal—it is a constitutional mandate. To meet that mandate on paper is a relatively easy challenge; to meet it in fact is a different matter indeed. I have been insistent that we do it the right way, with honest estimates of expenditures and realistic estimates of the revenue we will receive. Today's pleasant news is proof to me of the wisdom of that course."

To which a grateful state will add a rousing cheer.

Nor did Gov. Lawrence let the matter rest on that happy note. "Let me," he concluded, "sound a word of caution to future governors and future legislatures: The task of bringing Pennsylvania's budget into balance has been one of the most difficult of my long career of public service. No one in the years ahead should knowingly let the defiicit pattern become re-established . . .

"The slate has been wiped clean. And in so doing, we have brought sense and reason to the state's fiscal affairs and have demonstrated, for all to see, that Pennsylvania is able and competent to conduct its affairs efficiently and effectively . . . It is your responsibility, and that of future governors and future Assemblies, to make certain this accomplishment is respected and maintained in the years ahead."

To that, we might add that the accomplishment has been posted by a politically divided state government, offering evidence of the prudence of the electorate in splitting responsibility for management of our collective state affairs between Democrats and Republicans.

STEAMROLLER TACTICS ON RECORD PA. BUDGET

Republican members of the General Assembly have a legitimate complaint in their protest against the opening of hearings on Governor Lawrence's record high budget on Monday before they have time to examine it thoroughly. The plans to dispose of the budget speedily give the impression that the administration wants to rush it through before it can be scrutinized closely. This is an old technique and is entirely out of order in so vital a matter under existing circumstances.

The items in the budget should be weighed carefully before action is taken in the hope that some may be reduced or even eliminated. There is no justification for a stampede. It is a case of making haste slowly.

The Governor himself admitted the right and obligation of the legislature to examine his proposals. But even if the members of the General Assembly work Sunday, they will have only five days for the task. Such a brief period would permit only a cursory check instead of a careful investigation in the public interest.

The people of Pennsylvania have no objection to provisions for the legitimate functions of government. But in view of the tremendous tax load they are carrying in the Commonwealth, as well as nationally and locally, they are entitled, personally and through their representatives at Harrisburg, to the facts. Steamroller tactics inevitably will lead to suspicion and anger, and not without justification. The public interest will be served by painstaking analysis of the new budget.

KEEP BUDGET BALANCED

Governor Lawrence has presented to the Legislature a record budget that he says can be balanced without additional taxation. The state is now on a pay-as-you-go basis for the first time in many years and he proposes to keep it that way. In that commendable endeavor he deserves the support of both parties.

For the fiscal year starting next July 1, the Governor proposes to spend $1,000,887,000 from the General Fund and $490,000,000 for highway purposes. That compares with a request this time last year for a General Fund budget of $991,126,372 and a highways budget of $475,-192,419, both covering a 13-month transitional period in a change-over from biennial to annual budgeting.

It is thus evident that the Governor is not calling for excessive new expenditures. He feels that the additional General Fund spending—a relatively modest $19 million over the preesnt fiscal period—can be financed with the help of a $8.9 million surplus for 1961-62 and increased revenues anticipated as the result of an improving economy.

The Republican minority, in line with political tradition, takes a skeptical view of the Governor's budget. The party caucus leader, Sen. Robert D. Fleming, of Allegheny County, says that simply because there will be new money without additional taxation, there is no reason why it should be wasted. He declared that every agency will be required to justify its budget requests or appropriations will be cut.

There can be no quarrel with that. If the Legislature can reduce spending without crippling vital services, and can prevent waste, then it will be performing as it should. On the contrary, the Republican minority will be wholly irresponsible if it inflates revenue estimates to justify over-appropriations to unbalance the budget for political effect in next fall's election.

Fiscal prudence does not come easily in the face of steady demands for more state spending. Agencies and individuals of all sorts look to Harrisburg each year for more money. The state's teachers, for example, want larger subsidies for the public schools so they can get higher pay. Public assistance grants in Pennsylvania have long been below national standards and the usual effort will be made to improve them at heavy cost.

So the Legislature will find plenty of worthwhile programs to expand if it is in a spending mood. It would be a grave mistake, however, to hike appropriations above the Governor's requests unless the Legislature is prepared to produce a compensating tax program of its own. The Governor is fully justified in warning the Legislature that he will refuse to spend more than it provides.

For this budget, the first balanced one in 14 years, should stay balanced. The Governor has worked hard to erase the $177 million deficit he inherited and to bring the budget under control. Fiscal responsibility is the hallmark of the Lawrence Administration. It would be the height of irresponsibility to destroy it in this last year of his service.

THANK YOU, GOVERNOR

Governor David L. Lawrence made history yesterday in his appearance before the Pennsylvania Legislature.

He laid before the legislators the Commonwealth's budget on the second day of January, something which, according to Mr. Lawrence, had never before been done at so early a date. Promptness, it is reassuring to know, is still a virtue.

Why was the Governor so prompt? It must have been because he had good news for the lawmakers and for the taxpayers. He told them that the State's financial ledgers are in balance, that the current fiscal year will end with a surplus, and that there will be no need, as he sees it, for additional taxes.

That is not only good news, but also rare news in these days of unbalanced budgets, deficits and new taxation. No wonder that the Governor greeted the Legislature with the broadest smile of his three years in office.

We hope and certainly every taxpayer in Pennsylvania hopes that Mr. Lawrence's expectations as to revenues will be realized. If they are, things will be looking up for Pennsylvania in the years ahead.

LAUDABLE AIMS!

Four years ago when Thomas J. Monaghan took the oath of office as Mayor of Lancaster he outlined his administrations' aim in these words:

"It is the duty of government to provide leadership—the kind of leadership that looks ahead and seeks to anticipate problems before they arise."

He did not intend, he said on that inaugural day, to preside over an administration that "responds belatedly to overwhelming pressure from citizens more enlightened than their government."

There are many things worthy of praise in the record of the Monaghan administration which ended yesterday. And the days to come will show, we think, the wisdom of many of its decisions.

The outstanding accomplishment, however, can be found in the success with which Lancaster's Democratic Mayor and his administration provided leadership.

It was an essential part of the dynamism of Tom Monaghan's character that problems be met head-on, as he said yesterday, "regardless of political consequences." Time after time, in those four years when there were tough decisions to be made, they were made on the basis of what was best for Lancaster rather than on narrow partisanship or political opportunism.

For far too many years prior to the Monaghan administration, the principal objective of the city government was one of survival. Those Republicans who attempted, in the years prior to 1958, to move ahead found their efforts thwarted far too often by conservative and reactionary influences within their own party.

It was a concern that a Republican victory might mean a return to the old time apathy and creeping progressivism that probably was responsible for the extremely narrow victory margin for the new mayor and his team in this community of overwhelming Republican registration.

It is encouraging to note that in his inaugural address, Lancaster's new Mayor, George B. Coe, recognizes his "responsibility to guide and direct the city on a true course of progress."

He pledges "a good, progressive, business-like administration."

He recognizes that a government "can be only as good as the people in it," and he declares that "the best qualified people" will be appointed to all positions. Also, he is on record as being opposed to 'political hirelings.'

He asserts that "Lancaster must grow, both physically and in population."

His pledges include the revitalization of its "declining areas," and maintenance of "essential services at the highest level of efficiency."

All this must be done, he says, "with economy" and within the city's financial means.

These are laudable aims with which to start an administration and ones with which all who are devoted to the future of Lancaster will concur. And if Mayor Coe demonstrates in the days to come that his administration's decisions are made objectively, without partisanship, as he pledges, he can be assured of the cooperation which he seeks.

HARRISBURG MIRACLE

DAVID L. LAWRENCE, the governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, is a great governor. But of the many accomplishments that have distinguished his long career in public service, none, we suspect, has given him more pleasure than the one of Tuesday, January 2.

For not only did he present to the General Assembly, on the first day of its session, a General Fund budget but the budgets for the Motor License Fund, the Game Fund, the Fish Fund, and the various other special funds, which cover all operations of the State Government.

And to put the frosting on the cake, as it were, was the fact that he could report that he expects the state to wind up its fiscal year with an $8.9 million surplus, and that the budget for the following 12 months is in balance. This all without any new taxes.

Surely, the day of miracles is not past.

Intelligences Journal.

BUDGETS AND TAXES

GOVERNOR LAWRENCE has presented the Legislature with a new State budget which is, of all things, balanced. It has been a long time—15 years, by our reckoning—since that unwieldy document of Pennsylvania's taxing and spending has been in any kind of equilibrium.

We can be properly grateful for this fact, and for the fact that it was done without any requests for new taxes —also a rarity in Harrisburg.

But before we start dancing in the streets, let's reflect that the reason the budget is in balance is that we—the tax-payers—put up the wherewithal to make it that way. And that the reason we're not being asked to pay any new taxes this year is because we got a rash of new taxes in the past three years—enough to balance the budget, at any rate.

Back in 1959, the State sales tax went from three per cent to three and one-half per cent, and then to four per cent. By Mr. Lawrence's account it now comes pretty close to paying the State's huge bill for education, which is nearly half the General Fund budget. We also got another one-cent tax per pack on cigarets to pay for the veterans' bonus, plus some assorted business taxes.

Last year we got an additional two-cents-a-gallon tax on gasoline to help finance a greatly expanded highway program, plus a few more business taxes, plus accelerated collection of corporation taxes. The temporary tax on real estate transfers was made permmanent. But for the Legislature we might have gotten the first installment of a classified income tax, to help pay our school bills.

So, while we're congratulating ourselves, let's remember that we're paying enough in taxes to keep the State government solvent, including one of the nation's highest sales taxes. And since the 177-million-dollar deficit which Mr. Lawrence inherited and paid off is a non-recurring item, the Governor has that much more to spend. The new budget is the highest the State's history, being nearly as large, for a one-year period, as the two-year budget of 1953-55.

This is not to minimize Mr. Lawrence's financial achievements. He has steadfastly refused to approve spending bills unless revenues were available to finance them, thus avoiding the pitfall that trapped other governors. He has had the courage to propose the new taxes he believed necessary for the proper conduct of State services—and the skill to get them approved by a sometimes reluctant Legislature.

On balance, he has done a good job—always remembering that it's us taxpayers who pay the bill.

The Pittsburgh Press.

A RECORD BUDGET

If his figures hold up, Gov. Lawrence will have reason to be pleased with the budget he presented to the legislature yesterday at the beginning of one of Pennsylvania's important election years.

They indicate that during the first three years of his single term, the governor has been able to wipe out the accumulated deficit of $177 million he reported when he took office. For the first time in 14 years they would take the commonwealth into a new fiscal year with a surplus and with its budget in balance.

The $1,000,887,457 general budget and the $513,270,563 called for in supplementary budgets also leave to his administration the record of taking the cost of operating state government to another all-time high. To balance these costs will take the highest tax payments ever, even though the governor makes a point he is asking no new levies.

Several items in both the records and the forecasts are significant.

In the first place, responsibility for past deficits must be shared by both Republicans and Democrats. A major part was accumulated under the administration of Gov. Lawrence's Democratic predecessor, Gov. George M. Leader, prominently mentioned in some quarters as a likely candidate for another term.

The deficit mounted in spite of tax increases. Most familiar of these is the three per cent the Leader and Lawrence administrations added to the one per cent sales tax originally imposed by the preceding Republican regime.

Business and industry are playing the major role in wiping out the deficit by accelerating their corporate tax payments during the current fiscal year, extended to 13 months to give the governor the opportunity to reach his coveted objective. To arrive at the balanced figure he calls for next year, he anticipates they will pay $10 million more in the 12 months ahead than they are in the current 13-month period.

There are no retrenchments or other economies in the first Pennsylvania general fund budget ever to exceed $1 billion. On a 12-month basis the costs for the new year will be about $80 million higher than they are in the current 13-month fiscal period with a budget of $997,639,-210.

Part of the additional money to support this increased spending will come from the $8.9 million surplus the governor forecasts for the year ending next June 30. The balance will come from higher tax yields, including something like $2 million a month more from the present sales tax.

More important than the governor's politically appealing figures, many of which are estimates based on projections of an expanding economy, is his sharp warning against spending more than the people of the commonwealth are either willing or able to pay.

"No one in the years ahead," he said "should knowingly let the deficit pattern become re-established in Pennsylvania."

This is sound advice to all who are a part of government. It would be even more to the point to urge that future governors and future legislators seek means by which both state spending and the taxes necessary to support it can be safely reduced.

EXECUTIVE RESPONSIBILITY

In characteristic fashion, Rep. Francis Walter ranged far afield from his probe of the plane crash in which 29 Army recruits from his own district were killed, to investigate the Civil Aeronautics Board and its relationship to all nonscheduled airline operations.

His blistering charges are aimed at bringing Congress to grips with the problem soon after it convenes next week. This will not be too early. Companies with highly questionable safety and performance records still are carrying passengers.

The congressman minced no words. The CAB, he charged bluntly, has been so dilatory in enforcing the laws governing nonscheduled operations that violations are actually encouraged. The agency admitted as much a few weeks ago when it said it simply couldn't keep up with the job of policing the non-scheduled operators.

Evidently the regulations drafted to make these carriers as safe as their scheduled competitors are on the books. The most serious fault Walter finds is arbitrary decisions and lack of enforcement. His report offers reasonable documentation.

If this is the case, there is no need to wait for congressional debate and action. The CAB is an executive agency of the federal government. Those who operate it are subject to, both appointment and removal by the President. He should lose no time in measuring them by their performance.

GOOD NEWS FOR TAXPAYERS

Pennsylvania taxpayers can find ample reason for cheer and comfort in Governor Lawrence's report on the financial state of the Commonwealth, which he submitted to the Legislature as it opened its session yesterday.

First, the Governor let it be known that while the budget which he has recommended calls for expenditures of a little more than a billion dollars in the fiscal year starting July 1 no new taxes will be required nor will there be need for any increase in existing levies.

And Governor Lawrence, with modest pride, told the lawmakers that the $117-million deficit which was passed on to him when he took office three years ago will be wiped out by the end of the current fiscal period. In fact, he predicted, there should be a surplus of close to $9 million in the treasury.

The record will show that the deficit which Governor Lawrence inherited from the Leader administration in 1959 actually was a legacy from the regime of Gov. John S. Fine. Gov. George M. Leader, as the latter's immediate successor, had to take on a heavy deficit when he assumed office in 1955.

While there should not—and probably will not—be any attempt to railroad the budget and associated fiscal measures through the Legislature, there will be no excuse or justification for a protracted session. If the tentative plans for joint hearings by the Senate and House Appropriations Committees are approved, the fiscal program should be considered and acted upon in a business-like manner. And legislation on congressional reapportionment to be considered under a special session call by Governor Lawrence, must be disposed of by Feb. 20 to stave off a situation in which all of the state's congressmen would have to be elected at large. The lawmakers when they reconvene on Jan. 15 should be ready to get down to work and set a reasonable and practical target date for the completion of their 1962 labors.

A $1 BILLION BUDGET

Gov. David L. Lawrence yesterday submitted to the state legislature Pennsylvania's first $1 billion plus annual budget.

In so doing, the Governor told the lawmakers that the budget is in balance and that the state is now operating on a pay-as-you-go basis with a surplus of $8 million expected at the close of the current fiscal period.

As in the past budgets the principal source of state income is expected from the sales and use tax, a total of $404 million. Next in income potential is the tax on corporations, nearly $239 million, followed by the alcoholic beverages return of more than $100 million.

And as was also the case in prior years, the biggest expenditure anticipated is for public education, a whopping $486 million followed by health and welfare with $296 million.

As the Governor pointed out in his message to the General Assembly, "The state's role in education, obviously, is a massive one. Every cent of the sales tax goes to pay for education, and it still falls $83 million short of meeting the appropriations requested by the Department of Public Instruction in this budget."

The budget calls for the continuation of the industrial development program by the state at its present level although the appropriation request is lower than last year's This results from the fact that the industrial development fund is a revolving fund and considerable money is being returned each year from prior investments. This money can be used over again. Also the federal government, by reason of new legislation, is making additional money available, money not previously obtainable.

In the opening weeks of the 1962 legislative session appropriation bills covering the estimated expenditures for the period will be introduced so that committees may hold public hearings on the proposed expenditures. These hearings usually bring to light any budgetary deficiencies which exist and may very well reshape the proposed fiscal picture.

At any rate, the Republican members of the legislature will most certainnly put the budget item under a microscope to ascertain if savings may be effected. Perhaps some tax cuts can be made. As the budget now stands no change in taxation is contemplated.

PENNSYLVANIA BUDGET

Governor David Lawrence has handed Pennsylvania Legislature a billion dollar budget to provide income and services for the 1962-63 fiscal year.

This is in contrast to the deficit budget of $43 million Gov. Lawrence inherited when he took office four years ago.

In that span he has wiped out the deficit and now predicts the commonwealth will end the current fiscal year with a balance of $8.9 million.

Gov. Lawrence believes the new budget can be adopted without imposing any new taxes or increasing any present taxes.

However, he warned legislators any new appropriation they wish to add to the budget must have accompanying revenue legislation. In other words, he will not accept any bills to spend money unless there is a companion bill which provides the money.

This philosophy has been the keystone of his crusade to wipe out the deficit he inherited and balance the budget. His figures for the 1962-63 fiscal year bear testimony to his accomplishment.

The budget for the 1962-63 year assures present services will be maintained and, in addition, modest increases for education, mental health, public assistance, fair housing and state police will be granted.

Gov. Lawrence puts special emphasis on education. He has increased appropriations for schools and colleges to make it easier for youngsters to receive higher learning.

Gov. Lawrence's budget is financially sound and there should be no quarrel among legislators. And they are on warning if they desire to increase spending, they must provide money with which to do it.

Gov. Lawrence's budget, therefore, should be speedily adopted.

GENERAL FUND ISN'T THE WHOLE STORY

In a pre-Christmas announcement, Governor Lawrence spread the good word that the commonwealth is operating in the black and will have a balanced budget for the new year. He says the imposition of new taxes will not be necessary.

This has a joyful sound. But before we start cheering, we must consider some of the things the governor hasn't talked about.

In the first place, his announcement related to the General Fund. It made no mention of several other funds through which state financing is done.

As for the General Fund, he predicts a balance in it of $5 million to $10 million by the end of the fiscal year. But that date is six months away—and circumstances could arise in six months which would erode the predicted surplus.

We hope nothing happens to do this, but we'll save our cheering until the end of the fiscal period.

Now about the other funds:

When Governor Lawrence talks about balancing the budget without giving attention to the General State Authority, the Highways and Bridge Authority or the School Authority he fosters an unwarranted feeling of well-being.

Prodded by the Lawrence Administration, the Legislature passed laws earlier this year permitting these authorities to increase their borrowing power by more than $1 billion. All this money represents an increase in state debts and must ultimately be repaid by the taxpayers.

In addition, the commonwealth borrowed $125-million from the Federal Social Security fund earlier this year to replenish its depleted state unemployment compensation fund.

Now the simple truth is that when you borrow to do business, you cannot truly say you are operating in the black just because the General Fund shows a balance.

It is proper enough to talk about the condition of the General Fund. But the governor shouldn't stop there. He owes it to the people—in the interest of accuracy and truth —to review the whole story of state finances.

And the whole story includes the balance sheet of the authorities as well as the General Fund.

THE PENNSYLVANIA BUDGET

If there is any consolation in the fiscal affairs of Pennsylvania it must stem from the fact the current fiscal year will end with a surplus of $8.9 million and the proposed 1962-63 budget of $1,000,887,457 is balanced without any new taxes or increases in old ones.

Considering he inherited a deficit of $177 million, accumulated over a 10-year period, when he took office three years ago, Gov. David L. Lawrence must be credited with a major fiscal accomplishment, even if we can find reason to question methods used to gain this desirable end.

The new budget, presented to the General Assembly only this afternoon, contains some facts, figures and information worth noting other than its increase of $3,248,-247 over the spending program for the current fiscal year.

Except for the $490,$51,484 earmarked for the motor license fund in a special budget, the two biggest items of state expense are $486,336,677 for public education and $296,526,278 for health and public welfare. Together these proposed expenditures top $782 million and represent 78.21 of the total drain on the general fund.

Significantly, these two divisions also are the major source of subsidies and grants to local governments. Close to 70 per cent of the budget is distributed in this way to school districts, local governments and other agencies.

This raises the old issue of responsibility for the rising cost of state government. The size of subsidies and rebates indicates a great part of the blame must be borne by local governments and agencies unwilling or unable to solve their own fiscal problems and willing or eager to pass the buck to a higher level of government.

A familiar misconception is the one about getting something for nothing from the state. The budget contains some disillusionment on this point in a breakdown of sources of the $1,000,911,929 in revenue anticipated in the next fiscal year. The four major sources are:

Sales and use tax, $404 million, or 40.73 per cent; corporations, $238.7 million, or 24.06 per cent; alcoholic beverage, $100.7 million, or 10.15 per cent; cigarettes $72.7 million, or 7.33 per cent.

Three of those four taxes are paid by most residents of the state as part of their daily living and spending experience. The fourth, the tax on corporations' is paid indirectly by people who do business with them.

Under the circumstances, each individual has a stake in the Pennsylvania budget and should show an interest in the legislative processes to be followed in translating it into the fiscal program for the next year, bearing in mind the state is not a benevolent agency, but acts as collector, administrator and distributor of taxes when it hands out grants and subsidies.

Evening Chronicle, Allentown, Pa., Tuesday, Jan. 2, 1962.

AN ELECTION YEAR LEGISLATURE

The 1962 session of the Pennsylvania Legislature, under way today, faces the real test of fiscal responsibility—a major election year.

For the first time in 14 years, the Legislature will start its budget making with a surplus instead of a deficit. But the temptations are strong in an election year to vote new expenditures without providing the tax revenue to pay for them. It will be a shame if the state's healthy financial position, achieved with such difficulty, is frittered away by election year largesse.

Governor Lawrence has submitted a modest program which includes some needed increased support for higher education. By and large, however, the indications are that the governor intends to avoid controversial new programs this year and concentrate instead on taking credit for past accomplishments.

It is likely, therefore, that the basic reforms in the public school system, including a new approach to state subsidization, recommended last year by a special education committee, will be the subject of much talk but little action.

Congressional reapportionment, which will be handled in a special session to be run concurrently with the regular one, will undoubtedly provide an emotional but temporary diversion from the normal business of financing the operations of the state.

An important program which should be acted upon this year is one known as Project 70. Project 70, proposed by the State Planning Board but not yet given the formal endorsement of the governor, is a major program to accelerate the provision of open lands for parks and recreation.

The program calls for amending the state constitution to enable the state to seek permission from the voters to float a $70 million bond issue to finance the acquisition of these lands.

Such an amendment requires affirmative action by two separately elected Legislatures. Action this year, therefore, could clear the way for submission of the bond issue question to the voters in 1963. Failure to act this year would necessarily delay a final vote on the issue until 1965 at the earliest.

Speed is of the essence and it would thus be most unfortunate if the governor failed to present or the Legislature failed to act on the program during the 1962 session.

EXPERIMENT IN MEDICAL AID

The first of Pennsylvania's aged needy who qualify under the federal Kerr-Mills Act are probably in hospitals today, as part of an experiment which may decide whether the national legislation is adequate.

Beginning yesterday, Pennsylvania was one of 38 states which had agreed to help provide care for some of its ill citizens who are over 65, by matching funds with the federal government. So far, Pennsylvania has put only $11,600,000 on the line for the next six months for the program.

About 62,000 senior citizens with limited means and limited liquid assets seem eligible for 60 days of hospital ward care and some post-hospital nursing care at home. Instead of the $10 a day the state pays for its penniless ill, hospitals can get up to $25.

This is not a program for the aged indigent, as such. Nor can it be considered socialized medicine, nor even a free handout, because the taxpayer has to foot the bill. It is acceptable to the American Medical Association but not considered strong enough by liberal minded politicians and labor leaders, who would prefer such aid to be under the Social Security plan.

Those who need the medical care don't have to take a pauper's oath, as some contend, and they may have income up to $1,500 a year for single persons or $2,400 for couples. They may have no more than $1,500 liquid assets but these liquid assets do not include their homes, their life insurance, house furnishings or even automobiles.

To those with only limited finances, the plan may be a godsend to fend off the back-breaking costs of extended illness. Success of the plan, if only on a six-months basis, would be heartening to those who see danger in socialized medicine or in linking medical care to social security, which would require added payments by every working person. And it should be a boon to hospitals, struggling with rising costs.

ENLARGED ROLE FOR TEMPLE

The hopes of a great many thousands of young people for college education will be greatly brightened if the Ligislature approves the proposal of Governor Lawrence for increased aid to Temple University and a closer relationship between the university and the state.

The Governor's proposal, worked out with the University authorities, would not only make possible the enrollment of 900 additional students, but would provide for a reduction of $100 a year in the tuition paid by more than 7,000 undergraduate students.

The University, in return for this increased aid, would enlarge its board to add the Governor, the superintendent of public instruction and the Mayor of Philadelphia as ex-officio members, with six others to be appointed by the Governor. This would be another step in what Dr. Millard E. Gladfelter, president of Temple, has called "an evolving partnership" with the state.

The proposal has much to be said in its favor. It is recommended first of all by Temple's exceptional record in fulfilling the special role for which it was created: to provide higher education "for young men and women with good minds and willing hands." While keeping tuition fees and other costs at levels consistent with this purpose, Temple has steadily improved its standards and now ranks very high indeed.

The plan is recommended further by the fact that at Temple, where a high percentage of students can live at home, state aid can be of more direct assistance to more students than at schools where dormitory costs represent a larger part of the expense both to students and the university.

The Evening Bulletin, Philadelphia, Jan. 2, 1962.

THE GOP REACTION TO STATE'S $8.9 MILLION SURPLUS—SPEND IT

One of the points Gov. Lawrence stressed repeatedly in his stirring budget message to the General Assembly was that for the first time in many years the Commonwealth has achieved a balanced budget.

He recalled the $177 million deficit he faced when he assumed office 34 months ago. He said it had taken "hard decisions and hard unrelenting work," along with "painstaking regulation of departmental spending . . . (and) . . . pacing out improvements in service to our ability to find the money to pay for them" in order to assure that income would exceed outgo, not only in this fiscal year but in the 1962-63 fiscal year.

He was careful to point out that while the state will close the year with a surplus of $8.9 million that this nest egg is vital to a balanced budget next year. It was evident he regarded his feat in reaching a balanced budget without additional taxes as one of the outstanding accomplishments in his administration. He said it "is an important asset in Pennsylvania's determined fight for fuller economic growth and development."

He coupled all this with a stern warning to the legislators against "foolhardy action (that) would only start us again on the rocky road of deficits and fiscal self-deception from which we have just, so painfully, extracted ourselves."

The wisdom of the governor's words was so self-evident that it comes as something of a surprise to read the reaction from the governor's political opposition. The ink was hardly dry on the newspaper stories before some of the legislators were issuing statements.

Sen. George Wade, Cumberland County Republican, belabored the governor for killing $21.1 million in educational appropriation bills in the 1961 session. The surplus shows there was sufficient money funds, he declared.

Sen. Wagner, Schuylkill County Republican was caustic in asserting that the surplus shows liberalized subsidies for local school districts would have been possible.

Even Sen. Kessler, Lancaster County Republican who has long proclaimed his dedication to fiscal responsibility, got into the act. He was quoted as saying he questioned the need for wiping out the two per cent commission formerly paid to retailers for collecting the sales tax in view of the $8.9 million surplus.

And Minority Leader Johnson pointed to the surplus as a good reason for adding $16 to $18 million to the budget for schools.

There is, of course, nothing sacred about the governor's budget. The Republicans have a duty to examine it carefully, to determine if the proposed appropriations are in the best interests of the citizens of the Commonwealth, if the services contemplated are in line with citizen needs, and if state government is facing up to needs and responsibilities the complex society demands.

But, with this sort of carping criticism, the Republicans assuredly are lessening their reputation for fiscal probity and responsibility—unless they are willing to accept the responsibility for the necessary taxes to finance the spending they suggest.

As we said before, it came as a bit of a surprise to see how quickly they smelled out the $8.9 million surplus and with what eagerness they were proposing ways to spend it.

But recalling how, in the years they were in control at Harrisburg, they consistently over-estimated spending, to contribute to the state's deficit, their actions become understandable.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

JOINT COMMITTEE TO MAKE A STUDY OF THE RULES, REGULATIONS AND PRACTICES OF THE MILK CONTROL COMMISSION

Messrs. FLEMING and KELLER, by unanimous consent, offered the following resolution (Serial No. 101), which was read as follows:

In the Senate, January 24, 1962.

Whereas, For a number of years the practices of the Milk Control Commission of Pennsylvania have been under severe criticism, particularly as to the rules and regulations of the Milk Control Commission in relation to the size and composition of the containers in which milk is sold; and

Whereas, Other public criticism has been directed to the practices of the Milk Control Commission in regard to the fixing of milk and cream prices and the reasons why milk produced in this Commonwealth and distributed in neighboring States is cheaper when bought there by a Pennsylvania consumer than in the State wherein it was produced; therefore, be it

Resolved (the House concurring), That the President pro tempore of the Senate appoint a committee of four members of the Senate and the Speaker of the House appoint five members of the House (one of whom shall be elected as chairman), who, together, shall constitute a joint committee to make a thorough study of the rules, regulations and practices of the Milk Control Commission; and, be it further

Resolved, That the committee shall have power to issue subpoenas, under the hand and seal of its chairman, requesting and commanding any person or persons to appear before it and to answer such questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee, and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee may deem necessary. Such subpoenas may be served upon any person, and shall have the force and effect of subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth. Each member of the committee shall have the power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee. Any person, who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to testify before the committee or to produce any books, papers, records or documents, shall, upon application of any member of the committee, be adjudged in contempt of court by any court of common pleas having jurisdiction of such person, and shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases; and, be it further

Resolved, That the committee make a report of its findings and recommendations to the General Assembly in January, 1963.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mrs. KOOKER, Mrs. MARKLEY, Mr. STRAUSSER, Mrs. KERNAGAN, Messrs. ISAACS, PIPER, TOMPKINS, A. W. JOHNSON and J. H. GOLDSTEIN.

(Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 11.

In the House of Representatives, January 22, 1962.

J. Edgar Hoover, head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, writing in the August 1961 issue of the FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin, stated:

"Nothing discourages and disheartens law enforcement officers more than the knowledge that their efforts in apprehending criminals are too often no more than useless expenditures of time and money—useless because unwarranted leniency in the form of suspended sentences, parole or probation so frequently makes a mockery of good police work.

"Assuredly, we must continually strive to rehabilitate persons who have strayed from lawful ways. On the other hand, consideration must be given to protecting society by isolating depraved individuals who have no respect for law and order and the rights of others . . .

"Between March, 1950 and June, 1961, there have been 154 individuals on the FBI's 'Ten Most Wanted Fugitives' list. Of this number, 130 previously received suspended sentences, parole or probation. The leniency granted these vicious criminals resulted in untold suffering by their innocent victims."

The development of psychiatry in recent years, and particularly a naive belief that the psychiatrist is a kind of modern-day miracle worker, has led to a subtle yet very dangerous weakening of the process of law enforcement.

When an individual commits a particularly terrible crime, too many well-meaning people, including some judges, are likely to ask: "Why did he do it? He should be sent to a psychiatrist." The result of this type of thinking is too much sympathy for the criminal and not enough sympathy for his victim.

Several particularly glaring examples of misguided judicial sympathy toward perpetrators of savage crimes have come to light in recent months.

On September 29, 1961, Judge Joseph E. Gold, Common Pleas Judge in Philadelphia, placed on probation a former public school teacher, Henry Williams, Jr., who pleaded guilty of sexually assaulting, along with a companion, two twelve-year-old girls.

Commenting on his decision, Judge Gold said: "The girls will get over it. I'll take my chances with him." (Williams)

Judge Gold's leniency towards Williams, who had impersonated a police officer in order to outrage the girls, caused such a violent public outcry that on October 13, Judge Gold amended his decision and sent Williams to Norristown State Hospital for ninety days psychiatric observation.

At the end of this period, that is on January 12, 1962, Judge Gold again placed Williams on probation, this time for a ten-year period, with the provision that he be examined by a psychiatrist every two weeks.

On January 14, the Philadelphia Inquirer, in an editorial titled "Probation Without Justice," stated:

"The psychiatrist's report quoted by Judge Gold made a point of Williams' so-called 'immaturity' and 'feelings of inferiority'. Are these to be considered justifiable excuses to withhold punishment of an unspeakable crime? . . . A Judge should have some leeway in imposing sentence, and he should have the advice of psychiatrists, but laws prescribing penalties for sex offenders should not be so loosely written that sex offenders can go scot-free. . . . This is a problem requiring action at the State level . . . Perhaps by a special committee appointed for the specific purpose of studying the probation structure and proposing revisions, particularly as applicable to sex offenders . . ."

Another case of misapplied judicial sympathy has recently come to light. On December 13, 1961, James Lee Wright, 21, of Philadelphia, convicted of the murder of In-Ho Oh, Korean graduate student on April 25, 1958, and on ten years' probation, was arrested as one of two men who stabbed and robbed a seventy-six-year-old man last July 6. Usher Gavis of 4130 Parkside Avenue, Philadelphia, told police he was $100 per cent sure" that Wright was one of two men who stabbed and robbed him. Wright had been convicted of second degree murder on April 13, 1960, and was put on ten years' probation.

It is obvious that the whole process of probation and parole of criminals, particularly the probation of murderers and sex criminals, should be given a thorough review leading to the greater protection of the general public upon whom these vicious outlaws prey; therefore be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That the Speaker of the House of Representatives appoint six members of the House, three from the majority party and three from the minority party, and the President Pro Tempore of the Senate appoint six members of the Senate, three from the majority party and three from the minority party, who shall constitute a joint commission to conduct forthwith a study of laws and procedures affecting the probation and parole of persons convicted of crimes, especially the probation and parole of those convicted of crimes of violence, including murder, rape and armed robbery; and be it further

Resolved, That the joint commission may meet, hold hearings, take testimony and make its investigation whether the General Assembly is in session or in adjournment. It may issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman, commanding any person to appear before it and to answer questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the commission and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the commission deems necessary. Any person who wilfully neglects or refuses to testify before this commission to produce any books, papers, records and documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases. Each member of the commission shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the commission; and be it further

Resolved, That the commission make a report of its findings to the General Assembly on or before September

1, 1962, together with its recommendations for appropriate legislative or administrative action leading toward policies of probation and parole better designed to protect the law-abiding citizens of Pennsylvania from the violent criminal.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. TOMPKINS, A. W. JOHNSON and BOSSERT. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 12.

In the House of Representatives, January 22, 1962.

On April 17, 1861, a regiment organized at Smethport, McKean County, Pennsylvania, under the command of Thomas L. Kane, to volunteer in the Civil War, was called the "Bucktails."

This group traveled to Emporium, Cameron County, Pennsylvania, thence to Driftwood, Cameron County, Pennsylvania, where they were joined by other volunteers.

From Driftwood they embarked for their trip to Camp Curtin at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, for enlistment.

A monument has been erected to their glory and memory at Driftwood, Pennsylvania.

By Act of Assembly, dated June 2, 1933, P. L. 1415, the area from the west line of the City of Lock Haven to the east line of the Borough of Emporium, extending from mountain rim to mountain rim was created as "Bucktail State Park."

Pennsylvania U. S. Highway 120 is the highway traversing this park from Lock Haven to Emporium; thence via Pennsylvania U. S. Highway Route 46 to Smethport.

It is fitting that these highways be officially named as a tribute to the Bucktail Regiment who traveled these routes for enlistment in the Civil War; therefore, be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That the Governor and the Secretary of Highways be respectfully requested to officially name and designate Pennsylvania U. S. Highway 120 from Lock Haven to Emporium, thence via Pennsylvania U. S. Highway 46 to Smethport as the "Bucktail Trail Highway" and to place appropriate markers thereon; and, be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the Governor and the Secretary of Highways.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

RESOLUTION

CONDOLENCE

Mr. EILBERG offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read by the clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, January 22, 1962.

It is with much sadness that the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania notes the passing of Elmer Kilroy, a former member and Speaker of this House. Mr. Kilroy died at his home in the City of Philadelphia on November 5, 1961 and is survived by his wife, the former Cecilia Higgins.

He was first elected to the House from the Twenty-fourth District in 1932 and served five successive terms and was named Speaker in 1941. He was a graduate of LaSalle College and served over seas in World War 1.

He was a capable and conscientious public servant and he will be sadly missed by all who knew him; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the members of the House of Representatives hereby express their deeply-felt individual sorrow at the death of Elmer Kilroy and extend their sympathy and condolences to his widow, Mrs. Cecilia Kilroy; and be it further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to Mrs. Cecilia Kilroy, 2855 N. 20th Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was unanimously adopted by a rising vote.

BIRTHDAY

The SPEAKER. We have a birthday song to sing. That youthful member of the House, Norman Wood, is thirty-six today. The Chair recognizes Doctor Dengler.

Mr. DENGLER. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Today is Norman Wood's birthday and I think we ought to put a little special lust in our singing for one of our illustrious members. "Happy Birthday, dear Norman." Let us sing it, everybody.

(Members joined in singing "Happy Birthday.")

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Wood, for twenty minutes.

Mr. WOOD. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I will not take twenty minutes. I want to thank the members of the House for my birthday wishes. I guess everybody knows I have celebrated a good many of them here and I have enjoyed all of them. Thank you very much.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would observe on the basis of information that the gentleman from Lancaster has been a member of this House, not for 29 years, not for 30 years, but for 39 years. We will stick around, Norman, you and I, we will stick, just stick around. If you want to know what seniority means just ask the gentleman from Lancaster.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, this House will be in session next week three days, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The House will convene Monday at noon in special session. The sine die resolution will come from the Senate dine dieing the special session at one o'clock. The fiscal session will begin at one o'clock on Monday, on Tuesday at one o'clock, on Wednesday at ten o'clock in the morning. This session will be three days next week: Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Also, on Monday, we will have the opportunity in this House to have with us the Selinsgrove State School and Hospital Boys Chorus from that hospital and school. Thirty young men will be here and I hope that all of you will be here for this occasion when they will be in the House and present a program here. This request was submitted last year and we have made arrangements for them to be here.

The Speaker will inform the necessary committees for the sine die procedure from the Speaker's office and I assume that the committees will meet with the parliamentarian in his office at the appropriate time. Mr. Speaker, other than that I believe the Appropriations Committee chairman has scheduled, following this session today, the hearings that were agreed to. The only thing that I would like to ask Mr. Polen to announce is the time of the hearings today.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen, chairman of the Appropriations Committee.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I was conferring with a member of the committee going to Erie and I did not hear what the question was. The hearings today are for the Auditor General, recalled for two p. m., followed by one other hearing of the Medical Osteopathic College in Philadelphia.

INTERROGATION

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON asked and obtained unanimous consent to interrogate Mr. Polen.

Mr. Speaker, the majority leader has announced that we will be in session three days next week. This being a fiscal session and with nothing but appropriations and revenue measures before us, I take it that the three days contemplate some action with respect to appropriations, on the floor. As chairman of the committee, what do you plan to do next week with respect to the general appropriations bill or committee hearings?

Mr. POLEN. Today we will complete the hearings on the General Fund Budget. As it stands now, we will have a meeting of the Appropriations Committee at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning to consider the appropriation bills.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. A further question, Mr. Speaker. Then so the membership will know, you plan to meet on Tuesday. Do you contemplate that when the general appropriations bill is released to the floor that it be released with amendments or without amendments? Do you know?

Mr. POLEN. It will be released with amendments.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Then will we not be able to read it for the first time on Tuesday?

Mr. POLEN. That is correct.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. It will be on first reading on Wednesday?

Mr. POLEN. That is correct.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Then the roll call for passage of appropriations next week will be on Tuesday because the bills were released to the floor today and read for the first time today?

Mr. POLEN. They were.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Then the roll calls for final passage will be Tuesday, on those bills?

Mr. POLEN. That is correct.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Now a further question, when do you expect to have the hearings on the special funds?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, it is our intention to hold the hearings on the special funds next week. I can say that there will not be any hearings on Monday unless you are willing to have highways on Monday night and I understood from Mr. Johnson tha tthey preferred not to have the hearings on Monday night.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, in answer to that, we do not object to other departments at night, but there is a feeling that the highway department being so important at this time that we prefer having it, say, starting at 9:30, or something like that in the morning.

Mr. POLEN. Under those conditions I believe we would have the hearings at 9:30 a. m. on Wednesday; that would be a tentative date.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Just a minute, Tuesday would be better.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, it would seem that Tuesday afternoon at approximately 2 p. m. would fit in better for the motor license fund hearings.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. That will be fine then. You will then endeavor to have the highways hearing at 2 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon for those who are interested?

Mr. POLEN. That is correct, and we will have no hearings on Monday except for the highway department, that is definite. We might possibly have on Monday, if we have time, the Senate Harness Racing Commission. It will not be a large hearing.

RESOLUTION

Mr. ADAMS offered a resolution which was filed with the clerk under the rules.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The SPEAKER. An announcement perhaps of passing interest. The chief clerk wishes to announce that the members' checks will be distributed in about an hour. There being no further business to bring before the House, the Chair recognizes the lady from Philadelphia, Mrs. S. A. Anderson.

ADJOURNMENT

Mrs. ANDERSON. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Monday, January 29, 1962, at 1 p. m., e. s. t.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 1:17 p. m., e. s. t.,) the House adjourned.

RECESS

Mr. DONOLOW. Mr. President, I request a ten minute recess of the Senate for the purpose of holding a meeting of the Committee on Banking, to be held in Room 302.

The PRESIDENT. Are there any objections? The Chair hears no objection, and declares a ten minute recess of the Senate.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

RESOLUTION REPORTED FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. DONOLOW, from the Committee on Banking, reported, without amendment, Senate Resolution, Serial No. 4, entitled:

Authorizing Senate Banking Committee to Study Consumers Credit Practices.

The PRESIDENT. The resolution will be placed on the Calendar.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BELL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, last summer, the Legislature took away from the merchants of Pennsylvania their two per cent collection fee for collecting the sales tax. At the time this collection fee was taken away from the merchants, I, at this microphone, took the position that this was unjust. At that time, we were told that it was necessary because the Governor's budget was in trouble and they needed approximately $8,000,000 to balance it. Recently, we have been told that the Governor is going to end the year with an $8,000,000 surplus.

It is really unjust to ask the merchants of Pennsylvania to be the agents of the Commonwealth in collecting the sales tax and being unpaid tax collectors. Therefore, Mr. President, on behalf of seventeen other Senators and myself, I am offering the following bill.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. BELL, FLEMING, KELLER, VAN SANT, FLACK, STROUP, PECHAN, SCOTT, TAYLOR, BERGER, CONFAIR, EHRGOOD, WADE, HAWBAKER, STEVENSON, PROPERT, KESSLER and WARE presented to the Chair SB 10, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 6, 1956 (P. L. 1228), entitled, as amended, "Selective Sales and Use Tax Act," providing for a commission for the collection and remittance of the tax.

Which was committed to the Committee on Legislation.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WEINER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, as long as there are so many Members sponsoring the bill just introduced and this confusion is widespread, I feel I should take a moment to perhaps dispel some of this confusion.

The reason we passed this measure in regard to the merchants during the last Session was due to the fact that these merchants and others, who are not in the merchandising field, already collect social security, collect income tax and, in some areas, collect the wage tax, for which they are not reimbursed. We have always stated, and I have stated many times, that the sales tax is a very difficult tax to collect to begin with, and to pay people to do so is certainly not in keeping with the general tax measures that we have which we are asking the people to collect. If this is the situation, we also ought to reimburse the people for collecting the social security tax, the wage tax, the income tax, the unemployment compensation tax, the workmen's compensation tax, and so on ad infinitum, ad nauseam.

I think this is helping to balance the budget, and is it a crime to end it with a surplus? If what the gentlemen are trying to do is destroy the surplus, I certainly do not follow that logic. If it is wrong to run government as you do a business in order that it operates in a business-like fashion so that you end up with a surplus, and the purpose of this bill is to wipe this out, I think the error is in the bill and not in the operation of the governmental function.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. SILVERT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, I realize we are not debating this bill at the present time. However, I would like to remind Senator Bell that this $8,000,000 is already included in the 1962-1963 budget, and if this bill should come out of committee and be passed, then we would have to find some area of taxation for an additional $8,000,000 to balance our 1962-1963 budget.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BELL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, in reply to Senator Weiner's remarks, I would like to make the observation that a poor excuse is worse than no excuse.

With respect to my colleague from Philadelphia, who just made his remarks, I believe that the revenue estimates as prepared by the Governor's Office are inaccurate. It is my belief that they do not reflect the increased business activity that is taking place in this Commonwealth. Recently the public press contained stories that steel production during this year is going to be twenty-five per cent above that of last year, and Pennsylvania produces twenty per cent of the steel produced in the United States. That means money in our tax coffers.

To day's papers carries a story of greatly increased earnings by the Pennsylvania Railroad. Where do they get those earnings? The earnings are derived from freight car loadings. Railroads make money by moving freight. Greatly increased freight car loadings and movement of freight are direct evidence of increased business activity, and our taxes—the sales tax and the corporate net income tax—are directly tied in with the economy of this Commonwealth.

I believe tonight the same as I did last summer; that the revenue estimates as prepared are inaccurate.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BERGER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, while concurring with my esteemed colleague, Senator Bell, I might call the Chair's attention to the fact that we are not debating this bill, and it might be possible that the eminent President of the Senate finds himself in the same predicament as Speaker Andrews did when he said that he would now conclude the debate on this subject.

The PRESIDENT. It seems to the Chair that it would be better to have the debate in the Committee on Legislation, to which the bill was referred.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. MAHADY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, it would ill-befit Pennsylvania not to benefit by the suffering of other States, and particularly by their experiences.

In the fires in California, they learned the hard way that permitting the laying out of lot plans and developments with only one access to them caused not only large loss of life, but also countless millions of dollars in property were destroyed because of the nonaccessibility, except through one spot. In other words, in wooded sections where you have lots laid out and there is only one access to them, the fire trucks pile up and the sightseers get in the way of the fire trucks and that is the only entrance to that development.

In flying over the State of Pennsylvania in the last three weeks upon four occasions, I was amazed at the number of lot plans that I saw below me with only one access, particularly in the suburbs surrounding the cities.

Therefore, I am submitting a resolution, asking that the Joint State Government Commission study this situation and present adequate legislation to protect the citizens of Pennsylvania so that we will not be exposed to what California found to be a disaster.

SENATE RESOLUTION

JOINT STATE GOVERNMENT COMMISSION TO STUDY FIRE HAZARDS EXISTING IN CERTAIN COMMUNITIES IN THE STATE

Mr. MAHADY offered the following resolution Serial No. 6, which was read and referred to the Committee on Rules:

In the Senate, Jauary 25, 1962.

Whereas, One of the reasons for the loss of life in the forest fires of California last fall was due to the fact that many of the smaller communities had but one road leading into each of these communities and when the fire spread across the one existing road, no one was able to go into or come out of the community; and

Whereas, The obvious hazard of such a situation needs no elaboration to prove its great danger and further one might conclude that such a situation is peculiar to California. However, such is not the case on an airplane trip across our own Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. One can observe many such communities having only one road by which to enter and leave. Therefore we might have here at home many potential hazards to life and limb, which could be eliminated by proper planning and perhaps by the enactment of remedial legislation; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission shall make a study of the existence of this problem in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the possible solutions which may be applied to eliminate it; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission upon completing its study of this problem, by July 1, 1962, it shall request the Legislative Reference Bureau to draft the necessary legislation and by January 15, 1963, present to the General Assembly its findings, recommendations and a draft of the legislation necessary to remedy the situation and to prevent its recurrence.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. PECHAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, last week when we were in Session, I said that I was having a resolution prepared to investigate the possibility of the Commonwealth recovering the land that was sold and leased to Curtiss-Wright Corporation.

One day last week, Curtiss-Wright, from their New Jersey headquarters, made a statement that they were going to abandon Quehanna completely on June 30 of this year.

Mr. President, concerning this resolution, I do not want any misunderstanding that, for one reason or another, we are making it unattractive for industry in Pennsylvania. I think you all know that I have always supported legislation which would make a healthier climate for industry in Pennsylvania, and my feelings are still the same.

However, in view of what has happened at Quehanna, I am merely asking for an investigation to see what the possibilities are of the State using these facilities—the buildings and everything. You know, we have spent some $9,500,000 on new highways. These highways are built up through that area and end at the Quehanna facility of Curtiss-Wright.

I do not want immediate consideration of this resolution. I would like to have it referred to the proper committee and reported therefrom at the earliest possible date so that we can look into the possibilities of Curtiss-Wright; whether they will want to sell it to another industry or whether we will want to use it for some State institution. I am asking for a committee of five Senators to make a thorough investigation and report to this Senate.

SENATE RESOLUTION

SENATE COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE THE SALE OF LAND TO CURTIS-WRIGHT CORPORATION

Messrs. PECHAN and KROMER offered the following resolution (Serial No. 7), which was read as follows:

In the Senate, January 25, 1962.

In the year 1955, the General Assembly of Pennsylvania authorized the sale of valuable forest lands at a price substantially below actual value. The sale was ultimately consummated.

At the time of the sale, it was not believed that the commonwealth had made a bad bargain. The "Cold War" situation was grave. Unemployment in Pennsylvania was great. Industry generally was operating at less than normal capacity and some industries, particularly coal, were operating at a small fraction of normal capacity.

The purchaser of this land, Curtiss-Wright Corporation, intended to use it for "the purpose of testing (including flight-testing), experimenting with, or the manufacturing of aircraft and other power plants of any type, and for other scientific purposes, relating to research and development, or the manufacture and sale of any type of equipment or product, primarily in the interest of National Defense."

Considering the good purposes of the sale, National Defense, and the securing of jobs for Pennsylvania, it was believed the Commonwealth had made a good bargain. The money loss to the people of Pennsylvania, and the loss of hunting, fishing and recreation grounds to Pennsylvania sportsmen and vacationers was small indeed in light of the benefits to be gained.

Some years have passed and as far as is known, except for a brief period when foam rubber was manufactured, this land has been used solely as hunting, fishing and vacation grounds for officers, employes and guests of Curtiss-Wright Corporation.

It has been reported that Curtiss-Wright has withdrawn from its government contracts and has no present or future plans for work in our National Defense effort; that in fact Curtiss-Wright intends closing its installations on this land in June of this year.

It has also been reported that Curtiss-Wright is now endeavoring to dispose of other adjoining lands which were leased to it by the State. Curtiss-Wright is willing, so it is reported, to return these lands to the State.

In 1961, a resolution similar to this was introduced by Senators Pechan and Kromer in the Senate and reported from committee. At that time, we were asked not to act upon it since the Governor was then attempting to have the Federal Government give some of its defense contracts to Curtiss-Wright. Nothing came of his efforts.

It is not our purpose now to chastise Curtiss-Wright nor to discourage this or any other industry from locating here. It is our purpose to see this land utilized in a manner beneficial to the people of Pennsylvania and, if at all possible, to bring into reality the good effects envisioned in the sale and lease of this land in 1955; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the President pro tempore of the Senate appoint five Members of the Senate who shall constitute a committee to investigate into the sale of the lands authorized by the act of June 3, 1955 (P. L. 140) and to determine whether or not any real plans exist for devoting these lands to the uses specified in the Act authorizing the sale; what, if any, actions have been taken to implement such plans; the truth or falsity of the charges that the lands have been used for private recreation grounds, and any other matter relating to the transaction; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the committee inquire into and study the advisability of reclaiming this land through the exercise of eminent domain or of pursuing other appropriate legal action; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the committee may hold hearings, take testimony and make its investigations at such places as it shall deem necessary within this Commonwealth. It may issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman, commanding any person to appear before it and to answer questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee, and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee deems necessary. Any person who wilfully neglects or refuses to testify before the committee or to produce any books, papers, records or documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases. Each member of the committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the committee make a report of its findings and recommendations for appropriate action to this body as soon as possible.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Armstrong, Senator Pechan, for just one moment.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Pechan, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. PECHAN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, will the gentleman please advise the Members of the Senate if there is any money connected with this resolution for this investigation?

Mr. PECHAN. Senator, do you mean specifically in the resolution?

Mr. WEINER. No, sir. What do you contemplate this will cost?

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I have no idea. I would say the average cost of an investigation committee would be $4,000 or $5,000.

If I understand correctly, we have in our budget for Senate investigations sufficient money to take care of that.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I want to thank the gentleman for answering my question.

Mr. President, I believe the gentleman is being most conservative in the amount that would be required. I believe it would be a good deal more than that. I am not so sure that we have to spend this money. I would like to point out certain factors to the gentleman, which, I am sure, he already knows, among which is the fact that the Governor has gone into this matter in quite some detail and has made a number of trips to Washington and has spoken to the members of the Defense Department just as recently as two weeks ago.

There are also two or three firms that would like to locate in this State. They are quite interested in this area and like the area in the sense that it has buildings and other facilities which they could use.

The one problem is that it is out-of-the-way. One of the problems of locating in that area is to obtain people to live there, number one, and, number two, to have the proper facilities to feed into this plant.

I have been advised that the company that is leaving there has lost $31,000,000. They have found it to be no longer feasible. Part of it is not their fault because the United States has cut back in its defense budget on the building of airplanes, and this was their principal activity.

Therefore, we are faced here with a double problem. In the first place, this is a facility that is geared to producing a type of commodity for which no one seems to have any use at the moment. Secondly, it is in an area that is sort of out-of-the-way, where no one can have easy access to it, and it would probably involve expensive costs for supplying the facility.

I would respectfully suggest, Senator, that we wait until these posibilities are exhausted before we start having a look-see or an investigation of this.

I would also suggest that if we have this investigation, I would be happy to join you if we put no expenses into this measure, because I think what we ought to do during a fiscal Session is try to keep our expenses at a minimum.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, you will recall that during the 1961 Session, I introduced a similar resolution. The resolution was reported out of committee, and if you will recall, it was on our Calendar. I reluctantly allowed it to die because I was told that the Governor was making every effort to get some defense contracts for Curtiss-Wright. His efforts have been futile, and Curtiss-Wright themselves have announced that they are moving out.

As I say—and Senator Weiner made the statement that it is an out-of-the-way place—it is not an out-of-the-way place anymore, because the Commonwealth has provided very fine highways that come to a dead end at that plant.

We were told when we sold this property to Curtiss-Wright, and leased the other 40,000 acres, that it had to be in an isolated area because the people were complaining of the noise that the jet planes were making in populated areas. In fact, we were given an ultimatum: "Unless you people in Pennsylvania sell us this land, we are going out into Nevada and Utah."

I do not remember whether Senator Weiner was a Member of the Senate at that time or not. However, I want to say this to the Senator: In so far as Al Pechan is concerned, I will serve on this committee without any expenses.

I have any number of letters from sportsmen and from people who are interested and who have offered their help to reclaim this land. As far as I am concerned, if I am appointed to this committee, I will be very happy to pay my own traveling expenses and I will feed myself. I do not know whether the other four members will or not.

I do think we ought to do something about this rather than let the weeds grow around these buildings. They are new buildings. Perhaps we can help Curtiss-Wright recover their $31,000,000. I do not know. However, it should not go idle.

In so far as Senator Weiner saying there must be places for people to live, you must remember that Curtiss-Wright encouraged young engineers—people who were just recently married—to buy homes costing as much as $35,000 and they are now without a job. In order not to lose their equity in that home, they are paying rent in some other place, and trying to keep up the payments on these expensive homes which they were asked to buy by Curtiss-Wright.

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I wish to rise in defense and say that people do live in Central Pennsylvania. There are people up there.

Unfortunately, I was attending an Appropriation Committee Meeting last week when, I believe, some statements were made which showed the negative side of the Curtiss-Wright situation.

I want to read into the record a paragraph or two from an editorial in the Clearfield Progress, which is printed nearest the Quehanna operation. This newspaper, I assure you, gives a balanced account, it seems to me, of the Quehanna development. Since the one side was given, I will give the editorial's positive side of this situation.

I might say that this newspaper is not known as being Democratic with a capital "D," particularly. I think they have supported more Republican candidates than they have Democrats.

This editorial reads, in parts, as follows:

> "It is a common practice to criticize Curtiss-Wright's operations at Quehanna and its contribution to the area. This we can't buy 100 per cent.
> "Unquestionably, Curtiss-Wright's withdrawal from the area will cause financial hardships for its workers, all of whom we will be sorry to lose as citizens of our area. Real estate operations have taken a nose-dive and in some cases real losses. Some businesses expanded beyond normal necessity or were started in anticipation of a 'boom.' And, over-all, it is tough to lose an industry with the potential that Curtiss-Wright held for the area.
> "It should be remembered, however, that Curtiss-Wright asked nothing of the area when it came here; it paid well above the going price for the land it purchased and leased; and immediately became a taxpayer to three counties on land that previously had been tax free. It never promised '6,000 or 7,000' jobs. It poured into the area millions of dollars in investment and payrolls over a six-year period, dollars that bolstered the area's economy. It was the cause of needed road-building between Clearfield and Karthaus that had been sought unsuccessfully for years previously. Even in the past year, after the demise of Curon, it has provided a substantial payroll for 150, mostly men, that we can ill-afford to lose.

"Our area is better off for having had Curtiss-Wright as an industrial citizen than we would have been without it, short as its stay has been.

"Today's announcement"—this was January 11—"also may be a blessing in disguise for it may clear the way for something else to take over Quehanna and its buildings. Let's not only hope for such a development. Let's do everything possible, from the National and State to the local level, to restore Quehanna to the economic position its should have in the area."

That ends the quotation. I might also add that the editor did not say, I believe, that the Commonwealth was made richer by the gift of a nuclear reactor which cost $1,500,000.

The PRESIDENT. The resolution is referred to the Committee on Rules.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WADE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, the three bills which Senator Fleming and I are introducing would provide an unlimited number of college and university scholarships through a system of tax deductions. These bills are in the form of amendments to existing tax laws and, therefore, we believe they will qualify for consideration in this Session.

Further, we believe that our plan will meet the need for helping worthy students to obtain scholarships without raising any question of constitutionality.

The number of scholarships could well exceed that of any proposed plans of this Legislature involving direct appropriations. Senator Fleming and I have visited with many industrial leaders in the Commonwealth, and many of them express a willingness—in fact, an anxiety—to take advantage of an opportunity of this kind to help directly with the important problem of higher education for qualified young men and women.

The amount of the scholarship would be predetermined by the donor and, in turn, the amount each student could receive would vary with the cost of tuition and other charges made directly by the college or the university of the successful applicant's choice. This would include charges for room and board facilities.

The choice of those eligible for scholarships would be determined by competitive examinations, conducted by the State Council of Education. Applicants would be required to have satisfactorily completed one year of study in a college or university of their choice.

The plan provides that companies and corporations paying either the State Corporate Net Income Tax or the Capital Stock and Franchise Tax could elect to sponsor up to twenty full scholarships each year and receive a deduction on taxes due the Commonwealth, representing one-third of the cost of each scholarship. The fact that these same companies can now obtain a deduction in their Federal taxes for such expenditures would reduce the cost to these companies of helping worthy students to a fraction of what the students would receive.

There would be nothing in the proposed law to prevent any company sponsoring the scholarships from taking credit for what they do, if they so desired, although they would be barred from designating the recipients. On the other hand, the sponsoring company could designate the names of the colleges or universities where the scholarships could be used. If they did not do so, the State Council of Education would supply the designation.

The reason for applying the scholarships to the last three years in college or university study is to assure that only those students who have already demonstrated they are college material would benefit.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. WADE and FLEMING presented to the Chair SB 12, entitled:

An Act amending the act of August 24, 1951 (P. L. 1417), entitled as amended, "Corporation Income Tax Law," authorizing deduction from the tax of a portion of the amount expended by corporations for certain scholarships.

Which was committed to the Committee on Legislation.

They also presented to the Chair SB 13, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 1, 1889 (P. L. 420), entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act to provide revenue by taxation,' approved the seventh day of June, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine," authorizing a deduction from the capital stock tax and the franchise tax of a portion of the amount expended by domestic and foreign corporations, joint-stock associations, limited partnerships and companies for certain scholarships.

Which was committed to the Committee on Legislation.

They also presented to the Chair SB 14, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 16, 1935 (P. L. 208), entitled, as amended, "Corporate Net Income Tax Act," authorizing deduction from the tax of a portion of the amount expended by corporations for certain scholarships.

Which was committed to the Committee on Legislation.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. FLEMING asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I would certainly concur in the statements made by my colleague, Senator Wade. I believe if this would meet the test of constitutionality,—by that, I mean it could be acted upon in a fiscal Session—we would make a very great step forward in providing help to needy students and also to take away from the cost of supplemental aid in tax money to the various institutions of higher learning.

I would hope and recommend to the Committee on Legislation that they look very carefully into the possibility of this being enacted or being acted upon at this Regular Session of the Legislature, governing fiscal affairs.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. WEINER, LANE and VAN SANT presented to the Chair SB 15, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Internal Affairs for the purpose of publishing maps and tables showing the location of triangulation and traverse stations which are part of the Pennsylvania Coordinate System.

Which was committed to the Committee on Legislation.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. PROPERT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. PROPERT. Mr. President, the bill which I am about to introduce will repeal an Act which was passed during the 1961 Session of the Legislature, which had the effect of relieving one corporation in Pennsylvania from paying approximately $23,000 in corporate loans tax.

Therefore, Mr. President, I believe this bill comes within the province of being a fiscal matter.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. PROPERT presented to the Chair SB 16, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 22, 1935 (P. L. 414), entitled as amended, "State Personal Property Tax Act," removing provisions which excluded certain corporations doing business with professional school employes from the provisions of the act.

Which was committed to the Committee on Legislation.

Messrs. WEINER, DiSILVESTRO and STIEFEL presented to the Chair SB 17, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Which was committed to the Committee on Legislation.

They also presented to the Chair SB 18, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Trustees of Harcum Junior College in Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania.

Which was committed to the Committee on Legislation.

SENATE RESOLUTION

FELICITATIONS OF THE SENATE EXTENDED TO THE HONORABLE EUGENE V. ALESSANDRONI ON HIS 75TH BIRTHDAY

Messrs. STIEFEL and DiSILVESTRO offered the following resolution (Serial No. 8), which was read as follows:

In the Senate, January 29, 1962.

Last Wednesday, January 24, 1962, all over Pennsylvania from Wayne to Beaver and from Warren to York, our citizenry celebrated the 75th birthday of a great American and Pennsylvanian, The Honorable Eugene V. Alessandroni, President Judge of the Court of Common Pleas No. 5 for and in the County of Philadelphia.

Hands across oceans and seas clasped firmly in a grip of mutual understanding, the friendship of our Nation and the great Italian people, so heart-warming and stimulating in this strife-torn world, was enhanced, augmented and solidfied over a period of many decades by the Patriatic Order of Sons of Italy, under the brilliant, inspiring and most effective leadership of its incomparable leader and helmsman, The Honorable Eugene V. Alessandroni.

His anchorage in the loftiest ideals of Americanism, his vast legal erudition and experience so amply reflected time and again in his masterful decisions and enunciations, and acquired by him first as Judge of Court of Common Pleas No. 5, in and for the County of Philadelphia since 1928, and later as President Judge of this great tribunal since 1954, his cosmopolitan culture deeply rooted in the fertile soil of America, his profundity and sagacity, his indefatigable application to his judicial duties, and above all his innate ability to blend firm justice with a searching insight into seared and maimed souls seeking mercy and rehabilitation single out The Honorable Eugene V. Alessandroni as a dedicated servant of our Nation generally and of Pennsylvania in particular.

NOW BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED, That the Senate of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania in behalf of the people of Pennsylvania extend its felicitations to The Honorable Eugene V. Alessandroni on his 75th birthday and wish him many happy returns of the day and years of continued fruitful service to his State and Nation.

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That upon the passage of this resolution, an official copy be forwarded to The Honorable Eugene V. Alessandroni by the Secretary of the Senate.

On the question?

Will the senate adopt the resolution?

The PRESIDENT. May the Chair say to the Senate that he was present at a birthday party given in honor of President Judge Alessandroni, and was a very revered colleague of mine while I served as Judge in Court of Common Pleas No. 4 in Philadelphia County, and he deserves having immediate consideration of this resolution.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

The Resolution was adopted.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. PECHAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, the resolution I am about to present makes me very happy and I feel honored that I am a constituent of Judge Graff's county. I think the resolution is self-explanatory. However, I do want to make a few remarks which I do not have included in the resolution. Judge Graff's father served in this Body, as did Judge Graff's brother. Both of them represented the District which I presently represent, Armstrong County and Butler County.

We, in Armstrong County, are very proud of Judge Graff. We feel that he is perhaps the most learned and the finest judge in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

I would like to suggest that this resolution be unanimously adopted.

SENATE RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATIONS OF THE SENATE EXTENDED TO JUDGE J. FRANK GRAFF, OF ARMSTRONG COUNTY

Mr. PECHAN offered the following resolution (Serial No. 9), which was read as follows:

In the Senate, January 29, 1962.

Judge J. Frank Graff of Armstrong County has rightfully earned the designation of Dean of Pennsylvania Jurists, the description most commonly applied to him. This phrase is used in utmost sincerity by Judges of the Supreme and Superior Courts, the Courts of Common Pleas, Orphans' Courts, County Courts and Juvenile Courts. These judges and everyone else familiar with the courts of Pennsylvania consider him the Dean of all Judges. He has recently entered his fortieth year as a Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Armstrong County, and has also served on the Superior Court of Pennsylvania.

He has served longer than any other judge of any court of Pennsylvania. He has tried more murder cases than any other judge. In Allegheny County, where he frequently serves as a visiting judge, he is held in such high esteem that one court official recently said: "It's no coincidence that he gets most of the big cases. Judge Graff is like an anchor man for the court. His knowledge of law has won him the respect of all judges."

His tenure as a judge is most uncommon, considering that when men become of judicial caliber they have usually reached an age which precludes forty years of service. Judge Graff has defied this premise and given the people of Pennsylvania forty years of magnificent service in judicial robes. When he completes his present term, his service will exceed fifty years. His reputation for knowledge of the law, judicial temperament, fairness and integrity are such as to be envied, admired and, pray God, emulated by every man who has ever entered the judiciary. It can be said of him that he is a truly great jurist.

Judge Graff was born in Armstrong County and attended the public schools there. He attended Mercersburg Academy, Princeton University and Harvard Law School. In 1914, he enlisted as a Private in Company "K," Sixteenth Infantry, Pennsylvania National Guard. He served on the Mexican Border in 1916 and continued a brilliant military career through the first World War. He served as Judge Advocate of the General Court of the 56th Infantry Brigade and as Assistant Judge Advocate for the Divisional General Court. He was actively engaged with the 28th Division during its service overseas. At the end of the war, the former Private was discharged from the service at his then rank of Major.

He first became a judge in 1924 and has continued a brilliant judicial career since that time. His career has been most satisfactory to him, but the greatest benefits of it enured to the people of Pennsylvania; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Members of the Senate of Pennsylvania individually offer their congratulations to Judge Graff on his successful career; that the Senate of Pennsylvania on behalf of our people express their gratitude to him for the long and distinguished service that he has given to us; and that his record be commended to all who have a desire to be of service to their fellow men; and be it further

RESOLVED, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Judge J. Frank Graff at the County Courthouse of Armstrong County.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

Mr. DEVLIN. Mr. President, I would like to, in a sense, second the request of the Senator from Armstrong and, in support of his remarks, advise this Body that as a member of the Court in Allegheny County, the statements contained herein about Judge Graff are implicity correct and, if anything, might be a little conservative.

Judge Graff has been a tremendous adjunct to our Court. I think it is very fitting that we, as a body, recognize this and command him for it.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

The resolution was adopted.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

WEEKLY ADJOURNMENT

Mr. MULLIN offered the following resolution, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, January 29, 1962.

RESOLVED (the House of Representatives concurring), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene Monday, February 5, 1962 at a time to be fixed by the Senate; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene Monday, February 5, 1962 at a time to be fixed by the House of Representatives.

Mr. DEVLIN. Mr. President, may we be at ease a moment?

The PRESIDENT. The Senate will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, with the permission of the Chair, I move that this resolution be amended to read "Tuesday, February 6, 1962" instead of "Monday, February 5, 1962."

Mr. MULLIN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. Now the amendment, as presented by Senator Weiner, will delete from lines two and three of this resolution the words "Monday, February 5, 1962" and insert in lieu thereof the words "Tuesday, February 6, 1962."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The motion was agreed to and the amendment was adopted.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution, as amended?

The resolution was adopted, as amended.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

REQUESTING THE PENNSYLVANIA DEPARTMENT OF HIGHWAYS TO DESIGNATE THE NEW NORTH-SOUTHWESTERN PENNSYLVANIA HIGHWAY AS THE COLONEL BOUQUET THROUGHWAY

Messrs. PECHAN, CHAPMAN, STIEFEL, MAHADY, SESLER, LANE and HAYS offered the following resolution (Serial No. 102), which was read as follows:

In the Senate, January 29, 1962.

The General Assembly of Pennsylvania, on January 15,

1765, voted a unanimous expression of appreciation to Colonel Henry Bouquet and declared that his services in the French and Indian War and the Pontiac War in defeating the enemy, rescuing prisoners from Indian captivity, and preparing the way for peace, deserved "the grateful tribute of thanks from all good men."

The successful campaigns of Henry Bouquet and especially his victory over the Indians at the Battle of Bushy Run on August 5 and 6, 1763 are recognized today as having opened western Pennsylvania to settlement so that the Commonwealth could eventually expand to its present boundaries.

Colonel Henry Bouquet ranks as Pennsylvania's first important military leader because this Swiss soldier in the service of Great Britain became a citizen of Pennsylvania before his untimely death on September 2, 1765.

The first independent command of Colonel Henry Bouquet was the military expedition which he led northward from Pittsburgh in 1760 to build British Fort Presque Isle on the site of the present City of Erie; therefore, be it RESOLVED (the House of Representatives concurring), That the General Assembly of Pennsylvania hereby requests the Pennsylvania Department of Highways to designate and name the new north-southwestern Pennsylvania highway as the Colonel Bouquet Throughway in commemoration of the great soldier who opened western Pennsylvania to settlement and won the grateful thanks of the General Assembly.

Mr. PECHAN asked and obtained unanimous consent for the immediate consideration of this resolution.

On the question

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

The resolution was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

CALENDAR

BILL ON SECOND READING, OVER IN ORDER

SB 8—Without objection the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

SENATE RESOLUTION, SERIAL NO. 2, CALLED UP

Mr. WEINER, without objection, called up from page 1 of the Calendar, Senate Resolution, Serial No. 2, entitled:

Directing the Joint State Government Commission to Study the Relationship of Motor Vehicle Exhaust Fumes to Air Pollution.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

SENATE RESOLUTION, SERIAL No. 2, ADOPTED

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do adopt this resolution.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, before we vote on this, I would like to advise the Members of the Senate that a number of people have become involved in this matter after reading about it and hearing about it. They are quite concerned about this problem. A citizens' committee has been formed in the area around Philadelphia. The people are not all from Philadelphia. They include people in different phases and different areas of endeavor, other than just legislation or politics. As a matter of fact, none of these people are in politics. One of them is a doctor who is connected with one of the hospitals in Philadelphia and who lives in Montgomery County. Another one is a management consultant who lives in Delaware County.

A citizens' committee has been formed, and they are anxious for something to be done. They are quite concerned about this problem, and want to look into the proposition that was brought up last Session when we discussed this measure. They want to know whether this will do anything concerning the health and welfare of the people living in communities where a great deal of these hydrocarbons are being poured into the air, and whether we do have the means of combating this by the different discoveries that have been made; primarily, the one here in Berwyn, Pennsylvania. I am referring to Doctor Houdry's process of the oxycatallsyc muffler. Whether this does it or not I do not know. There may be other things on the market which might be very reasonable, and which we could ask the manufacturers to look at to determine whether they are feasible from an economic point of view and a health point of view for installation in automobiles, buses, and other vehicles which discharge hydrocarbons as a result of the fuels they are using.

We feel that this is a serious problem. We talk about fall-out, which many of us may or may not be able to do anything about. However, here is something we can do something about. I think everybody in this room who has ridden behind a bus that has a diesel motor, or behind another automobile in long lines of traffic, and has had to take in these fumes is aware of the problem.

As a matter of fact, the problem is such that many people have died over the course of the years from carbon monoxide poisoning, which you cannot even smell, but which is a very deadly type of fume.

If we could do something about eliminating this or, at least, limiting its deadly effect and preventing people from inhaling this or taking this into their lungs,—all of us have seen movies and the different types of materials which dramatize the effect this has on our growing communities—I think it is important that we take this step.

Therefore, I ask my colleagues to vote "aye" on this resolution.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I am one of the sponsors of this resolution. However, I must confess to very little knowledge of the subject, although it certainly is one that everyone is concerned with.

I understand there are various questions as to the material contained in the resolution which might not admit of solution within the next two or three years, and that some of the devices presently in use in a western state—California, I believe,—may or may not be as efficient as they should be.

However, Mr. President, this is a study to be made by the Joint State Government Commission. The resolution will have to be brought before the Executive Committee, at which time the scope of the study can be detailed, and we can have the benefit of the information which we can obtain from various industries and health agencies which have studied this problem and know just how far we ought to go at this time with such a subject.

Therefore, Mr. President, I join in the seconding of the motion for the consideration of this resolution.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I just want to take one more moment to put into the record that the gentleman who is the chairman of this citizens' committee is Arthur Tuchinsky, of Narberth, Pennsylvania. A member of the committee is Doctor Julian Sterling, a surgeon on the staff of the Albert Einstein Medical Center. Also on the committee is Jirair S. Hovnanian, who is a manufacturer and has been in the area for quite some time.

These are the people who are interested. Certainly, there are members of the general public who are probably as well informed as anyone, and who are quite concerned about this problem and who are asking that something be done, as well.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The motion was agreed to and the resolution was adopted.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair now returns the gavel to our distinguished Lieutenant Governor.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor John Morgan Davis) in the Chair.

RESOLUTION OVER IN ORDER

Senate Resolution Serial No. 4—Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I understand that unless a resolution is called up from the Calendar, it is not before the Senate for consideration. However, I do request that this resolution go over in order.

The PRESIDENT. The resolution will go over in its order.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, for some time, there have been mutterings about what we should do about education. I notice that already there have been some bills introduced in this Session, all of which I think is well and would be in order except it is a little bit too late. I dislike going around quoting people or quoting myself especially because that becomes pretty dull.

I would like to point out however, that during the last Session when we had these measures before us and we asked for tax money in order to do the job and aid education I respectfully suggested to the Members of the Senate, at that time when we had the debate and discussion, where the responsibility lay and what we were willing to do to assume that responsibility and what would happen if we did not. As a result,—I do not want to sound prophetic or know what is going to happen in the future, and I am not at all clairvoyant—apparently, some of these things are coming to pass.

Apparently, some of the Members are under pressure or are receiving pressure from various areas because of the field of education and because they, at one time or another, may have felt it was unwise to take action in this area. I feel very badly that this has come to pass. However, those happen to be the facts of life. I am not a candidate for any office and I am not running for anything. As a matter of fact, before this is finished, I might even run for cover.

Basically, however, I think all of us must understand that when these problems are presented to us and when we ask that these things be done at a time when they should be done, I think you must show your ability as a leader. As a member of your community, you were sent here to vote on the destinies of what happens to the people of your community. This is the time for us to stand up and be counted. If you are not willing to do that —I think this might be hindsight on your part and you should be congratulated because you have recognized the error of your ways. At the same time, I think you must be perfectly honest with yourself and with the Members who serve here with you and state, very categorically, that nothing can be done about this matter because you had the opportunity and let it pass.

I do not merely say this from a partisan point of view because some of our own people may have been guilty of the same thing. I do not know. I have not gone over the roll call and I do not want to do so at this time. However I think it is a little bit late and I think it certainly is not in the best interest of the Members of the Legislature to take this attitude toward them. We are a perfect target and many people always want to cast all the problems which exist in their community on the State Legislature. All that you do by adding to this is to add to the burden of many of us who have a great deal to do other than answer letters regarding a previous situation.

Mr. President, I think the Journal and the Histories are very clear. I believe anyone with any intelligence can follow them. I think none of us should try to muddy the waters from that point on.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I do not know who invented the term "crocodile tears," but I have just heard a wonderful demonstration of it.

However, Mr. President, I want to say to the Members of this Senate that the time has not passed, and will never pass, when the Legislature of Pennsylvania can take care of the problem of education in Pennsylvania. This is a fiscal and appropriation Session, Mr. President, and if we find there are necessities for education and assistance for education in Pennsylvania, they can be taken care of during this Session.

Furthermore, Mr. President, I think it is well demonstrated that the predictions of the Members on this side have been correct. Far from being too late to do something about aid to our various school districts, we are going to find that we are going to be able to help them. I sincerely hope that we will have bipartisan support in that endeavor.

Which was committed to the Committee on Legislation.

Messrs. WEINER, SEYLER, LANE and HAYS presented to the Chair SB 20, entitled:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to article eight, section one of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania changing residence requirements.

Which was committed to the Committee on Legislation.

BILL REREFERRED

Mr. LANE, by unanimous consent, from the Committee on Legislation, returned to the Senate, SB 9, which was rereferred to the Committee on Constitutional Changes and Federal Relations.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WEINER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, one of the serious problems, as we have discussed here on this floor many times, is the problem of education. Yesterday, I read an article in the newspaper which stated that not only are unskilled people having difficulty in finding jobs, but the junior executive may, with the coming of automation into full production, find himself in great difficulty. One of the reasons is that most of the junior executives and young college graduates who go into an industry are given jobs of analysis, personnel structure and management. All of these positions are being slowly, but surely, replaced by automation and thinking machines which can store data. After this data is all fed and stored very properly in this machine, the next thing that happens is that somebody who has a problem goes to the machine, puts in the appropriate additional data or problem, presses a button and the answer comes out.

Many of these young men who came out of college were given the task of analyzing these problems, coming up with answers, and presenting them at conferences or other places. As a result, if this automation continues, they will begin to find increasing difficulty.

At least, in order to make an attack on this problem or present the problem in its right prospective, I think we must educate as many of our people as we possibly can. I am willing to concede, as well as I believe are many others in the field of education, that if you get 100 people together, you will get a bell-shaped curve, with the genius type at one end, those who will never learn at the other end and with the great group of us massed in the middle. With that in mind, there are many youngsters—of course, all of us have read about the drop-out problem which hits about forty per cent of the youngsters who are admitted into college—who could benefit from a college education who might not possibly be the best students in the colleges or universities, or who will go on to become either a Doctor Salk, a Doctor Einstein or so on, but are left out of the schools and are left without this education because of finances.

Therefore, Mr. President, in this resolution I am proposing that we look into this problem and try to set up in some of our large urban areas—I am only talking about Philadelphia at the moment, but it could be Pittsburgh, Hazleton or many of the other areas—a community college or a junior college, if you please. The purpose for this is that it provides this opportunity for the youngsters, with the ability to go to college, who would pay approximately $250 to $300 tuition, with the State participating as an equal partner and the city participating as an equal partner. This would not only take in the youngsters who are capable, but also it would take those who would benefit from a college education and cannot get admitted because of the crowded conditions. I understand the University of Pennsylvania's tuition is up to approximately $1,440 for this coming semester; Temple University, which is a poor man's school, is up to about $800; and Pennsylvania State University is up to around $600. When you are talking about families, in the Philadelphia area, about fifty per cent of the families earn $5,000 a year or less. There is usually more than one child to be educated and, as in most families, the children are within a year or two of each other. Therefore, the family is not only faced with starting a youngster, but preparing for another one who will be coming along to join him.

When you are talking about $1,400 a year—or, if you want to go back, let us take it on the basis of $1,000—and talking about two youngsters in college, you are talking about $2,000 out of a possible family income of $5,000 and this is a tremendous load. It is almost fifty per cent of the total income going for just educating two youngsters. This is for over a sustained period of time, being at least six or eight years to this particular family when they are maintaining this kind of pressure.

Those of us joining in this resolution feel that we should make an attack on this problem. We should get into this area and do something about establishing this thing. There are facilities in the city of Philadelphia which I am acquainted with—and I am sure there must be some in Pittsburgh and in some of the other areas of the Commonwealth—where this could be set up without too much expense, possibly with a contribution by the State Government of approximately $500,000 or a little bit less, and with the city participating at the same level. I am sure there is some seed money that the Federal Government would participate with and, at least, get the program started. We feel that we could obtain about 900 to 1,000 youngsters by the time this program was going at a full blast or a full level.

We are asking that the Department of Public Instruction look into this and give cooperation to the Joint State Government Commission which is going to get into this problem. Although we are asking for the Joint State Government Commission to study the problem, they have enough material, based on the Governor's Report and other reports which were made by previous Governors, to get into this problem and come up with a recommendation that the Legislature can follow. They should be able to do it by next January.

Therefore, Mr. President, on behalf of Senator Silvert, Senator Di Silvestro, Senator Rooney and myself, I present the following resolution, and ask that it be sent to the appropriate committee for their perusal and for whatever action they deem is necessary.

SENATE RESOLUTION

DIRECTING THE JOINT STATE GOVERNMENT COMMISSION TO STUDY THE POSSIBILITY LOCATING A COMMUNITY COLLEGE IN PHILADELPHIA

Messrs. WEINER, SILVERT, DiSILVESTRO and ROONEY offered the following resolution (Serial No. 10), which was read and referred to the Committee on Rules:

In the Senate, January 30, 1962.

The results of all recent studies on the subject are in agreement that the need for unskilled labor is at present almost completely eliminated, and probably will be so in the near future. Technology and automation have replaced the purely mechanical actions of man, and in the future every man who would seek employment must offer more than the ability to do routine tasks. To do so, he must be able to refer to some education or training.

This will not be difficult for those young men or women whose families are in a financial position to educate them. But what about those young people unfortunate enough to belong to families whose total income is $5,000 a year or less? They are indeed very unfortunate. But when we consider that those families equal 50% of the families resident in Philadelphia, isn't it possible that the misfortune rests more squarely upon all the people of Pennsylvania?

Exceptional students may find the key to their future in existing scholarship opportunities, for which we are most grateful. The remaining college space is limited to those who can pay, and among them to those of an A or B average in high school.

Under our present circumstances, this is not entirely unfair. It is the best we can do. But what about those bright, although less than exceptional students who cannot afford the $800 to $1600 tuition fees which are common today? And what about the C average student, whose scholastic record in high school may not be a true reflection of his ability? Has our social and economic condition reached such a point that we must consign all of them to a status of public charges upon the rest of us? We think not.

Of all the remedies to this unhappy situation, the most obvious and perhaps the most important is to create additional college facilities; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission be directed to make a thorough and complete study of the possibility and feasibility of locating a community college in the City of Philadelphia, which would possess the authority to grant degrees in liberal arts, but, even more important, whose credits would be accepted by any college or university belonging to any of the regular accrediting agencies, so that a two-year course in the community college could be considered a threshold to a bright future, whether the education ended there, continued there, or went on at another institution, as would be possible because of the facilities open to students in the higher classes resulting from failures and drop-outs in the lower classes; to study the means of financing such an institution; to consult with and obtain the advice of the Department of Public Instruction in its study; and to make a report of its findings and recommendations, along with those of the Department of Public Instruction, to the next General Assembly not later than January 15, 1963; and, be it further

Resolved, That the Department of Public Instruction be urged to give its full cooperation and assistance to the Joint State Government Commisison in the study hereby directed.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, I am astounded that Governor Lawrence has seen fit to call my proposed legislative investigation of the Milk Control Commission politically inspired. Surely he is aware of the public indignation at the actions of this board and its calloused attitude toward the consumer.

Is there anything wrong with an impartial investigation by the Legislature to find out if the Milk Commission is serving any useful purpose and if it does actually protect the public generally? Surely the Governor does not imply that Doctor McClelland, the Democratic Chairman of the Allegheny County Commissioners, was guilty of political maneuvering when he publicly advocated the abolition of the Milk Control Commission.

The Governor has posed as the champion of the common man. In my opinion, here is a real challenge to him to prove that position. He should enthusiastically endorse a legislative investigation of this agency to really bring out the facts rather than attempt to throttle the move. He surely knows that Speaker Andrews and President pro tempore DiSilvestro—both Democrats, if this means anything to him—will control the appointments to the committee. Personally, I have the utmost confidence that they would appoint Members who would do a completely impartial job of investigation.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I recall the words of our venerable Speaker, Samuel Rayburn, of the National House of Representatives. I will not use the term that he used, but he once said: "Any person can burn down a barn, but it takes craftsmen with tools, know-how and knowledge to build one."

I am not here primarily to defend any of the actions of the Milk Control Commission. I feel that we should not play politics with clean, wholesome milk, which our children must have.

The former speaker is the Chairman of the Watchdog Committee or the Legislative Budget Committee. As Chairman, he has the power, he has the know-how, and he has the personnel to go into this particular field. The Legislative Budget Committee has that responsibility. Therefore, I feel, Mr. President, that if there is an investigation of the Milk Control Commission, it should be operated under the auspices of the Legislative Budget Committee.

Furthermore, Mr. President, I have attended a number of appropriation hearings, and I was present when the membership of the Milk Control Commission appeared before that Joint Committee. In the course of the discussion, Mr. Uhl stated quite emphatically that the principal reason, as I understand it, why they opposed two cartons being tacked together to make a gallon container was that this was a co-op, and that later on they would in all probability come before the Commission for an increase in the price of milk because, according to the information received by the Commission, they would not have the profit to which they are entitled if they would sell the milk in these carton containers. That is the reason that they recommended the gallon jug.

Mr. President, it is my understanding, if I recall correctly, that Mr. Uhl stated that the city of Philadelphia now operates with this gallon jug feature, and has done so far quite some time, and it seems to be working out fairly well. As a matter of fact, I do not live in Philadelphia and I do not know. However, I have not seen anything in the newspapers.

I realize, too, that the Milk Control Commission was a creature of the early Thirties. It was during the Depression that we adopted the Milk Control Act. I believe we patterned our Act after the Act of the State of New York. The idea was to make sure that the producer received a proper return for his production, and to make sure that the purchasers themselves were not gouged and that they had clean, wholesome milk.

Probably if the Budget Committee would go into this problem, we could evaluate it away from politics, if you please, because I believe the Legislative Budget Committee is strictly bipartisan. I may be wrong. I am a member, but I have not made a count. However, they could do the job better.

I know that we cannot do anything at this Session anyway, because this is a Session in which we must talk about finances and budgets. There is not much we can do. We can make recommendations, and that is about all.

Why create a committee, such as the distinguished gentleman from Allegheny County has in mind, for the purpose of trying to make political hay over something which is so vital and so important to all of Pennsylvania? There may be some mistakes, there may be some suggestions, and there may be some amendments which could be offered. However, let us do this, if possible, in the proper manner.

I will say to Senator Fleming that if he wants the Budget Committee to investigate the Milk Control Commission, I will second his motion. However, I am not going to be in support of a political resolution that is going to be used primarily for the purpose of distorting the facts as far as the operation of this Commission is concerned.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, I certainly have no intention of staring off a debate on the advisability or the inadvisability of appointing such a committee. I would like this to be brought before the Legislature.

Senator Lane has suggested that the Legislative Budget and Finance Committee would be the proper vehicle to conduct such an investigation. I doubt very much if that committee, of which I have the honor to be Chairman, should get into this type of an investigation. I believe the Act under which it was created clearly defines our duties, which are to analyze the expenditure of moneys and to see whether or not they are expended correctly.

Certainly, a portion of that could be vested in the Milk

Control Commission. However, that is not what I want the legislative investigative committee to establish. I want the legislative investigative committee to be clothed with the right of subpoena, to bring in witnesses, and to permit the public generally to come in and air their grievances against the tactics of the Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission. I am not sure whether they are justified or whether they are not justified. However, I do say that when you have a wave of criticism regarding the actions of that Commission by the housewives and the citizens generally in my home county of Allegheny, I say it calls for a full scale investigation.

I did not charge political maneuvering. Governor Lawrence charged me with a political maneuver, and with that I take bitter exception. This is not a political move on my part. This is a move to try to see whether we have in existence in Pennsylvania a Commission that has outlived its usefulness.

Incidentally, I had been led to believe there were thirteen Commissions in all of the fifty States. Last night, I was advised that there are only eleven, and that recently the State of Connecticut abolished their Commission. Those are the kind of facts I want to bring out. I do not see why anyone would want to hide behind anything.

As far as my move being political is concerned, I have provided that there be four Members from the Senate, who would be appointed by Senator DiSilvestro, and five Members from the House, who would be appointed by Speaker Andrews. Certainly, I have the highest regard for these two gentlemen and their fairness. Any appointments they would make, I would be in complete accord with. Speaker Andrews, of necessity, on a five-man appointment, would appoint three Democrats and two Republicans, if he did it politically. That, unquestionably, would give the Democratic Party control of the investigating committee.

I am not trying to make a political football out of this. As I said in my remarks, does the Governor, who comes from the same county as Doctor McClelland, the Chairman of the County Commissioners of Allegheny County, mean to imply that Doctor McClelland is making a political football when he publicly has made statements that he thinks the Milk Control Commission has outserved its usefulness and should be abolished?

I do not know if this is right or not. That is why I want the legislative investigative committee to get out and get the facts, make a report, and report back to the General Assembly so that in 1963, if remedial legislation is necessary, it may be presented and enacted, and if the abolition is indicated, then we can abolish this Commission which possibly has outlived its usefulness. Please remember that I said "possibly." I do not know if it has. However, I would like the facts to be clearly brought out.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like very briefly to point out to the gentleman that in a publication,—which is certainly not a Democratic house organ—called "The Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce, Pennsylvania Business," in the issue of November-December 1961, there appears an article, written in great detail, about the Milk Control Commission. One of the reasons why we have a Milk Control Commission in Pennsylvania is because one-third of all the products which come in and out of the Commonwealth, and which are manufactured here, have a milk content or are affected or connected with milk.

This was set up for the purpose of controlling milk. Some States have controls on bread and some even have controls on meat. One of the reasons for our Milk Control Commission is because we happen to be a dairy State, among other products which we produce. One of the many reasons for it is because milk cannot be stored and, therefore, a price must be set up. Minimum prices must be set up so there will not be milk wars, as there have been gasoline wars. Also, milk production varies from month to month and, therefore, there must be some kind of a normalcy or range maintained so that the farmer and the people who are affected by the industry can have some standard with which to work. If the industry is kept at a stable level, it becomes an asset to the community.

I hate to interrupt the gentleman while he is speaking with his counsel, but I would like to point out some statistics to him. They are not my statistics, but they appear in this book and the gentleman can read them. It lists the States of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Delaware, New York, West Virginia, New Jersey and Maryland. On the average consumer price that is paid, the lowest price paid is in Ohio, with 24.8. Pennsylvania pays 26.8. I am now talking about the consumer price. The only State that comes close to that, after that, is Delaware, with 28.5; New York, 28.9; West Virginia, 28.8; New Jersey, a neighboring State and a dairy State, has 29.9; and Maryland, 28. Therefore, Pennsylvania is 1.2 per cent lower than any of the nearby States, with the exception of Ohio.

Let us go over to the column regarding what the farmer receives per quart. Which State do you think pays the highest amount to the farmer? Pennsylvania does, with 13.4. Ohio pays only 10.0; Delaware, 12.7; New York, 12.8, and so on down the line. The farmer receives less and less as we go along, despite the fact that their prices are higher than ours to the consumer.

Let us consider the Members of the Milk Control Commission. One is Simon K. Uhl who comes from Somerset, which is certainly not considered a big city. He is Chairman of the Commission, an attorney, and has been active in the government for quite some time. There is G. Emerson Work, who is a dairy farmer and a former county commissioner. He not only is familiar with government, but also with the dairy industry. The last member is John A. Smith, who is a dairy farmer from Cumberland County. He was a former Assemblyman. Certainly, these people are knowledgeable people and would not ride roughshod over anybody. They are certainly connected with the public interest.

Bearing in mind that the dairy farmers of Pennsylvania earned $331,000,000 last year from the sale of milk alone, you can see that this is a large industry and a very formidable industry in Pennsylvania. You can also see that nobody is interested in harming it.

If your investigation would serve any purpose—I am not afraid of any investigation, and neither is the Governor nor anyone else. However, election time is close by. The people who have been sounding off about an investigation happen to also be running for office. I hope this is just a coincidence. Where were these people three years ago when there was no office for which to run? Where were they last year or the year before that? Certainly, the Commission has not turned bad here in one year. It surely has not turned bad within the last six months. They are doing nothing differently today than they did in the past. The Commission is receiving just a little more publicity and more people are sounding off about it because it affects a greater number of people and it is always a popular issue. If there is something wrong in the Commission and it is presented here to the Senate, I will be the first one to join you in requesting an investigation, as I am sure my colleagues will also.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, first of all, I am happy to see that the Majority Leader has finally decided to look with favor on the publications of the Chamber of Commerce. For years, I have heard that we were the only Party which listened to them and that their facts were distorted. I am glad to now see that the gentleman has joined us in the fact that the Chamber of Commerce may possibly serve a useful purpose

Mr. President, the gentleman has great forensic ability and is a difficult man to follow in all the points which he made. I am sorry that I did not listen more attentively. Some of the facts that he brought out are true; some are not quite true. I do not want to delay this Session but, in order to debate this point, I would have to get my statistics together.

However, when the gentleman states that the Pennsylvania farmer receives the highest price for milk, that is partially true. It is true regarding thirty-seven per cent of the milk which is Class One milk. However, what do they get for the other sixty-three per cent of the milk which goes into various other types of commodities, such as ice cream, cottage cheese and other milk products? I wish the gentleman would not argue with me on this one particular point because I do not have any statistics here. I would, however, be happy to get them together for next week.

When the gentleman says it is funny that those who are interested are only interested during an election year and were never heard from before, then he should certainly make an exception of me. Standing before you, Senator Weiner, is a man who, on two different occasions, has introduced bills to abolish the Milk Control Commission at prior Sessions. I never was able to get the bills out of committee. I will save you the trouble of saying that the Republicans were in power, because they were. I could not get the bills out of my own Republican-controlled committees. So far as my personally doing this on the spur of the moment is concerned, I am not. I have long believed that the Milk Control Commission has possibly outlived its usefulness. Now, I would like an impartial investigation to prove, once and for all, whether or not it has.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, if Senator Fleming is sincere in his approach to this problem, I will make this offer now. Let us have a recess and go up to the Legislative Budget Committee Office. If he makes the motion, I will second it, and the Legislative Budget Committee can do the job.

Mr. President, under the provisions of the legislation which created this committee, we have the power of subpoena at any time. Therefore, we can subpoena the people and then have hearings.

If Senator Fleming is sincere about this and it is not political, he will accept my offer. I will be willing to serve, and I will be at the committee meetings every day until this is completed.

However, Mr. President, I would like to remind the gentleman that I believe he was here in the Senate under the Administration of Governor Fine when we had the Chesterman Committee. At that time, the Chesterman Committee, if I recall correctly, made a recommendation to abolish the Milk Control Commission. I am not sure about Senator Fleming, but I would say a great percentage of the Republicans on the other side voted "no" at that particular time.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I think Senator Fleming has made it very clear that his long-term purpose is not the finding of information, but it is to abolish the Milk Control Commission. I do not know the reason for his dedication to this purpose. However, whatever it is, I respect it. He is entirely at liberty to use any pretext that comes up, such as the present agitation, to forward that air, although I do not agree with him.

I would like to point out to the Senator that if he is interested in a bipartisan check on the Milk Control Commission, I would call to his attention that an agency well established in the Commonwealth—a legislative agency—is presently engaged in studying the workings of the Milk Control Commission. I refer to the Joint State Government Commission. I think the Senator will admit this is an agency which is bipartisan and which, in the past, has made reliable studies. I am sure the Senator knows that at this moment there is a Task Force engaged in just this operation; namely, studying the operations of the Milk Control Commission with a view to suggesting to this Legislature any legislation that might be needed.

On Thursday, I understand—this coming Thursday—the Task Force of the Joint State Government Commission will have before them the Milk Control Commission. At that time, it seems to me, if the Senator is interested in a fair, competent bipartisan discussion of the workings of the Milk Control Commisison, there are colleagues on his side who are Members of that Task Force, and I am sure if he talks to them, they will see to it that the questions he has in mind are presented and thoroughly gone over.

I am sure also that Senator Fleming is not one who is interested in duplicating what already is being done. He realizes that any sort of ad hoc investigation will cost money and will cost the valuable time of many Members of this Legislature. It seems to me that the Senator would be the last one to urge that we duplicate an effort which is already being made, which is in competent hands, which is already provided with a competent staff, and which, moreover, is an agency in which we have confidence because we know in the past the studies of the Joint State Government Commission have been reliable and this Legislature has usually placed a great deal of credence on the findings of that agency.

Therefore, I suggest to the Senator—in view of the fact that we have in the field already studying this question an agency in which he, I am sure, and I, and all of us have confidence—that it would be a poor idea to throw into the field another agency to duplicate the work that is already going on.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, I would certainly agree with Senator Seyler that the Joint State Government

Commission is doing and has done a fine piece of work. The Task Force which is meeting, I believe, was charged by the resolution to study the laws governing the Milk Control Commission. I do not have the text of that resolution, but it was offered in 1961. However, if my memory serves me correctly, that is right.

Certainly, there was nothing in that resolution to call for an investigation by the Joint State Government Commission of the rights of the consumers, the producers, and the distributors. I think it was to bring about a study of the laws relating to the Commission.

I know that is going on. I know there is a meeting on Thursday, although I am not a Member of the Task Force. However, I do have the right to be there, and it is my hope that I will be back here on Thursday to see what they do.

If the Chair will indulge me for one moment, please—

The PRESIDENT. The Senate will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, Senator Lane has suggested that the Legislative Budget and Finance Committee make an investigation of this matter. I thought I knew the law, but I sent for a copy of it. I trust the Members will bear with me for just a moment.

The Act reads, in part, as follows:

> "Section 3. . . . The committee shall have power to request, receive, review, examine, study, ascertain and compare fiscal information concerning the budget, the revenues and expenditures of the Commonwealth and to make recommendations to the Legislature, when found advisable, directed to the elimination of unnecessary expenditures and to the promotion of economy in the government of the Commonwealth.
> "To make current examination and, when pertinent, reports concerning the current condition of all State funds, appropriations and other moneys, whether or not such appropriations are being currently expended . . ." and so on.

The committee shall also report to the Legislature and to the Auditor General.

I see nowhere in there that we have the right to make an investigation such is I would like to have made of the Milk Control Commission.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I am going to quote the immortal words of former Senator Dent, who said: "You know, I can't read readin', but sometimes I can read writin' ".

All you have to do is listen to Senator Fleming, and you will find that we do have that right, because on the over-all, Mr. President, we have an appropriation to the Milk Control Commisison. I think they want $200,000 at this particular time over and above the fees which they are presently receiving for the operation of this agency. It seems very clear to me, Mr. President. I am very thankful that Senator Fleming read that into the record. I feel that we do have the power to make that investigation.

I repeat that if Senator Fleming is sincere and if he is not taking a political approach, he will agree with me and he will make the motion and we will investigate the Milk Control Commission through the Legislative Budget and Finance Committee.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. PROPERT, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 21, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 21, 1931 (P. L. 149), entitled as amended, "The Liquid Fuels Tax Act," providing for reimbursement of taxes paid on liquid fuels consumed in the operation of certain volunteer fire company equipment and vehicles.

Which was committed to the Committee on Legislation.

He also, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 22, entitled:

An Act amending the act of January 14, 1952 (P. L. 1965), entitled as amended, "Fuel Use Tax Act," excluding from the tax fuel used by or sold or delivered for use in certain volunteer fire company equipment and vehicles.

Which was committed to the Committee on Legislation.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STROUP asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, during the dying days of the last Sesison, this body, after a stiff resistance, finally enacted Senate Bill No. 867, which became Act No. 561. I think we are all aware of the hue and cry and the resistance that we have received throughout the Commonwealth to this legislation. This legislation is familiarly known as the School Reorganization Plan. As a consequence of the many resolutions which have been passed by active educational organizations any by many, many school boards across the Commonwealth, there are seven of us on this side of the aisle who are impelled to introduce a resolution requesting a moratorium on the implementation of that particular Act.

I think it can be well recalled that at the time Senate Bill No. 867 was placed before this Body, we asked for time. We insisted that the people throughout Pennsylvania had not had adequate opportunity to know exactly what the effect of this type of legislation would be. We valiantly tried over here to submit amendments. We tried to submit an amendment to condition any reorganization plan upon local option. We tried to submit an amendment conditioning any reorganization of the school districts upon the continuance of the county unit plan of 1953 and the implementation of merged districts by 1966. Various other amendments were introduced, all of which fell by a vote of 25 to 25. Finally, in desperation, I was one of those who introduced an amendment to reduce the pupil population figure from 3,000 to 2,500. After having promised the other side that I would vote for the bill, if they accepted that amendment, the amendment was adopted. That is the way in which we got it down to 2,500. I kept my word and voted for that bill.

Now, Mr. President, in response to the actions of so many of our people throughout the Commonwealth and because we find that this particular legislation has not taken into full consideration all the various ramifications of the effect of this type of bill upon our school districts and upon our people, it should be well considered by the committee to which this resolution might be referred that it should be brought to the floor of the Senate in order that the matter could be aired and given full and adequate consideration by this Body.

For that reason, Mr. President, I submit the following resolution and ask that it be read in its entirety.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (George N. Wade) in the Chair.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

DECLARING A MORATORIUM ON ANY FURTHER PROCEEDINGS UNDER THE SCHOOL REORGANIZATION ACT OF 1961

Messrs. STROUP, PECHAN, PROPERT, KESSLER, KROMER, WADE and WARE, by unanimous consent, offered the following resolution (Serial No. 103), which was read and referred to the Committee on Rules:

In the Senate, January 30, 1962.

Whereas, Senate Bill 867, approved September 12, 1961, as Act No. 561 of the 1961 Session of the General Assembly, passed the Senate by a vote of 26-23, the absolute minimum required for the passage of a bill in the Senate; and

Whereas, Said bill passed the House by a vote of 108-94, a margin of 2 votes; and

Whereas, Numerous amendments (excepting one exempting 7th and 8th Class Counties) offered to the bill in the House were all defeated, including an amendment to preserve home rule by submitting reorganization proposals to a referendum of the people; and

Whereas, When it was proposed to delay action on the bill until grass root sentiment and reaction to the proposal could be obtained, the Governor labeled such proposal as "farcical"; and

Whereas, Since approval of the bill, grass root sentiment from local School Boards, County School Boards, the State School Directors' Association, the State Grange, the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association, the Pennsylvania Association of Township Supervisors and many others have unanimously voiced themselves as being against the bill in its present form; and

Whereas, Said reaction has expressed itself in terms all the way from outright repeal to many clarifying and corrective amendments and auxiliary legislation; and

Whereas, The bill in its present form does not lend itself to the making of rules and regulations covering all phases and ramifications of such enlarged reorganization units, such as questions concerning taxes, subsidies, debt, transportation, teacher tenure, etc.; and

Whereas, Said legislation does not recognize (a) the quality of education presently existing in school districts; (b) the educational needs and desires of local communities by providing any type of local option; and (c) the sound financing program presently existing in many school districts; and

Whereas, A state of confusion, uncertainty and doubt exists throughout the entire Commonwealth on any effective approach to complying with the provisions of the Act; and

Whereas, The increased costs of administration after the proposed school district reorganizations have not been determined and, in fact, are unknown; therefore be it

Resolved (the House of Representatives concurring), That a moratorium be declared on any further proceedings under Act 561 of the 1961 Session until after the convening of the 1963 Session of the General Assembly, which is the earliest that corrective measures (including possible repeal) and auxiliary and implementing legislation can be considered and acted upon; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Governor, the Superintendent of Public Instruction and to the State Council of Education.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. SEYLER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, the county school boards of the Commonwealth are presently engaged in setting up preparations for study which is required under this bill for the making of a new county plan. These boards will go forward with this study and this involves a very large number of people who are on school boards, who are professional educators, and other interested people in those communities. They will do this with the aid and assistance of the Department of Public Instruction and the State Council of Education.

If, in the course of the work which is being done by these agencies in preparing county plans, it becomes apparent that there are areas in the legislation which may require modification, I think we can all agree that when we return to this Legislature, in 1963, that will be an appropriate time to take cognizance of whatever obstacles or problems which have arisen, and make the necessary modifications.

I think the gentleman who presented this resolution—and all of us—knows that very few of the laws enacted by the Legislature are like the laws of the Medes and Persians. There are very few perfect pieces of legislation. It may be anticipated that, as a result of those studies made by the county boards, modifications may be necessary. I will certainly join and I am sure that all of my colleagues who voted for the bill, including Senator Stroup, at that time, will be quite willing and eager to make any changes in the law which seem necessary.

However, Mr. President, I think it would be a great mistake, at this point, to tell those boards to desist and cease because many of them are now proceeding in good faith and with a lot of energy in the task of reviewing the situation in their counties, with the view of making a new county plan. I would even question whether this is possible under our law. The law is on the books and I do not think a declaration of intent by this Senate would have any legal effect upon the duty of county boards to proceed with what they are doing.

There has been a great deal of discussion about this bill and I think this is healthy. The more people in our Commonwealth who are interested in the problems of education, the better.

Senator Stroup did not say—and I am sure he did not mean to say—that he does not agree with the principles behind this bill. His criticism, as I understand it, was with the provisions of the law. I think all of us are interested in providing better educational opportunities and higher education qualities in the schools of the Commonwealth. In other words, we are interested in setting up an administrative system in Pennsylvania which will lend itself to making possible a higher quality of educational opportunity to all the children of the Commonwealth, whether they live in a rural area, a suburban area or a city area, whether they live in a part of the Commonwealth which has strong, financial resources in back of the school system or whether they live in a section of the Commonwealth which, perhaps, has less resources. Every one of these children are very precious to us. They are our greatest resource for the future. I do not think anyone in this Legislature wishes to be satisfied until we have seen to it that every child has the kind of an educational opportunity which we now offer only in the best of cases in Pennsylvania. This is the purpose of this legislation.

Recently, in the hearings before the Appropriations Committee, we had several occasions to ask various people, who came there to testify, as to what they feel will be the financial effect of reorganization, of reducing the present 2,200-some odd school districts to a figure of around 400, let us say. The answer has been, in at least two cases, that tremendous savings would be possible. For example, one of those I referred to is the testimony which we received from the office of the Auditor General. He pointed out that the cost of auditing our school districts runs from a million to a million and a half dollars. In addition to the 2,200 school districts I mentioned, the additional accounts of the joint districts must be audited. In other words, when jointures are formed, Mr. President, we found that this does not reduce the cost of auditing, but it increases it. In addition to separate districts involved, the joint district must be audited. There was an estimate there that a great saving of money to the Commonwealth could be made.

Again, when the Department of Public Instruction was before the committee, Superintendent Boehm was asked what the effect would be of the completion of our reorganization program on the cost of transportation. He referred the answer to the question to Doctor Swan, one of his deputies who is in charge of this particular area. Doctor Swan said that unquestionably tremendous savings—millions of dollars—could be made to the Commonwealth and collectively to the school districts. These are just two evidences in the field of the financial impact. I do not suggest that we are going to be spending less money for schools in 1966 than we are today. I would say that all the portents point to the fact that this will probably not be true. However, I do suggest that money which we are now spending on such matters as transportation, auditing and administrative costs, can, by reason of reorganization, be taken from those needless overhead items and put into teachers' salaries and into other elements which will make for better schools and better instruction.

I am convinced that none of the Members of this Senate differ with the purposes of this bill. In other words, all of us are interested in better educational opportunity. The problem which is causing a great deal of trouble is the fact that people are being compelled to get down to the real problem of studying what they have and seeing what is possible under the reorganization. This is a hard problem; it is a difficult problem. People tend to shrink from engaging in something which is hard to do. However, I say that none of us, neither us nor the people who are serving on the school boards of the Commonwealth nor the professional educators, can be content to say what we have is the best we can get. None of us can say that what we have is good enough. I do not think any of us can rest on that. If this does cause hard, intellectual effort on the part of school boards and school board members throughout this Commonwealth and results in arriving at something which is better for education in this Commonwealth, then, Mr. President, I am convinced that that effort is good. I am not impressed by the argument that this is very difficult to do. Of course, it is difficult to do. It was difficult for us to arrive at in the first place. It is going to be difficult for them to implement on the local level, but I say that it is worth it. It is an effort which should and must be made.

Again, I say, Mr. President, since the arguments that I have heard—and I am certain that the gentleman who presented this resolution is aware of the same arguments—all center around the problem not of the principle of this bill, but of some of the details which may provide obstacles in local situations arising at a good solution. I say that we should wait; that we have no choice except to wait until study on the part of the people all over the Commonwealth, in all of the counties, reveals to us what these problems are. Then, I will join Senator Stroup and other interested Members, in 1963, in seeing to it that those modifications are made in the law which are necessary to make it work successfully. I do not think anyone in the Commonwealth is in a position today to say what amendments should be made. If we just sit on our hands at this point and stop, we will not know, because these studies in the local counties are just beginning. They are just getting organized.

Last week, six different counties that I know of set up and began—just put on paper—the plan that they are going to pursue in studying these situations, and in seeing what can be done to implement a new plan in their counties. Let us wait and see what experience reveals. Let us wait and see what the best thinking in these counties tell us is wrong with this bill, if anything. I think there are some things wrong. I will be very frank with you and say that I think there are some things in this law which we are going to be asked to modify and we are going to agree that they should be modified. At that point, we will be in the position, with the evidence in, based on the experience of the school board members and the professional educators in the counties, to make a wise and proper amendment in the law.

In my opinion, to stop now would be wrong, and I think legally impossible. However, to permit this study to go on and then to make the modifications which are necessary would, in my opinion, be a wise, judicious and statesmanlike way of proceeding.

GUESTS OF SENATOR GEORGE N. WADE PRESENTED TO SENATE

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair is particularly pleased at this time to welcome a group from the Senior High School of Camp Hill, Pennsylvania, which is just across the river, and to say to these young folks that we are, indeed, honored and we welcome you to this opportunity of observing the Senate of Pennsylvania in action.

We are delighted that you would take time from your busy schedules to come here and visit us.

Will the Senate please give the young folks who are here its usual welcome?

Thank you very much for coming. May I say also to the young folks that their Representative in the House is here, observing the debate on this very vital problem of school reorganization? Representative Guy A. Kistler, of Camp Hill, is here at this time.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. SILVERT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, as I understand the resolution offered by Senator Stroup, it calls for a moratorium on the operation of the School Reorganization Act, originally known as Senate Bill No. 867 and presently Act No. 561.

Mr. President, I would like to make the comment that I do not believe such a resolution could be considered in this Sente. I do not presume to speak for the Committee on Legislation, to which this resolution has been referred. However, I do want to express the opinion that it amounts to a repeal of the Act during the year 1962. Obviously, Mr. Stroup feels that he could not introduce a bill to amend the Act, since it would not be within the purview of the powers of this Senate during this Session because it is limited to taxation and appropriations. I say that creating a moratorium for the year 1962 is an amendment to the Act and could not possibly be considered by this Session.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair would like to correct the Senator on one minor detail. The resolution was referred to the Committee on Rules, and not to the Committee on Legislation.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STROUP asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, in reply to comments made by the gentlemen on the other side, first let us consider this particular factor. It is delightful to find that the foremost advocate of the school reorganization bill recognizes that the haste with which that legislation was passed made possible the creation of problems within the bill itself which cannot be answered, and makes it exceedingly difficult for school boards and the Department of Public Instruction, itself, to start the plan going.

Secondly, the bill itself places such restrictions and limitations upon plans which can be formulated by local school boards and presented that the problems and difficulties which they face are accentuated to an extreme degree, so that anything that is done within the year 1962 must necessarily be undone because pupil population limitations, as one example, do not permit the school district to submit a plan which is favorable to the particular localities which the school boards and the county boards represent.

Now, Senator, as to the impossibility of consideration of the resolution, I must disagree. The resolution can go to the Committee on Rules, and it can be considered by the Committee on Rules. It is true that our Session is limited to revenue and appropriations. Nevertheless, there is nothing, as I understand it, that creates a vacuum which makes it impossible for this Body to express any intent concerning legislation presently upon the books. It is not—and I must disagree with Senator Silvert—an amendment. It is merely a delay, asking that the requirements which the Department of Public Instruction can impose, and which this bill imposes upon local school boards and county boards to submit plans, be held until the bill can be studied further, and until it can be changed and remedied and proper plans can be brought into the Department of Public Instruction. From that standpoint, I think it is an effective and proper resolution to be presented, and should have the consideration of this Body.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. SEYLER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I just want to reply to Senator Stroup that he flatters me too much in referring to me as the foremost advocate. I would remind him that I was not a sponsor of the bill in question, and Senator Stroup was a sponsor of that legislation.

However, I join him in agreeing that the principle of this legislation is good. I do not agree with him, however, and I certainly did not say—I do not know whether the hearing over in that section is not good—that this was a bill which, because of the haste of its passage, has defects. I do not think that is true.

I think if any piece of legislation at the last Session was given long and mature consideration,—even the appointment of a bipartisan committee, which worked for what seemed an endless amount of time in framing this bill—I would say I think it was this bill.

However, I would say to the Senator that very few pieces of legislation which come from this Legislature are perfect. Inevitably, we find that there are some areas in which it is impossible to foresee problems which will arise.

I think if the Senator will examine most of the legislation which is now part of the law of Pennsylvania, he will find that there have been amendments made to it. I would expect, in the normal course of events, that such changes would be necessary, and certainly these would come at a time when we have the experience from the people in the field to guide us in making those changes, and not now when the study that is going to be made has just gotten under way.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. LANE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I have listened to this debate today, and I agree that the new Reorganization Act is quite a drastic departure from our old programs. However, I do believe every Member of the Senate realizes that when we stand still, we are going backwards, and we must make progress. All good legislation which is passed either in the House or in the Senate is, generally speaking, the result of compromise.

I feel we should not delay this operation. I do feel there are some mistakes as far as the legislation is concerned, but I think we can do that job at the next Session.

I think all of us should bear in mind this one topic. I have here before me the Legislative Spotlight, which is sent out by the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce. You know that forty-nine cents of every tax dollar goes into public education. Thirty-eight cents of the forty-nine cents goes into school subsidies. I have no quarrel with that.

However, I believe all of you will agree that we are now reaching the saturation point as far as tax dollars are concerned. I feel that now is the time when we must do some streamlining as far as State Government is concerned, not only in the field of public education but in other fields, also. I think we are going to have to do that job. We are going to have to awaken to the fact that we have reached the saturation point. As local real estate taxes go, I would say that right now the taxes are prohibitive. In a number of cases, it is very expensive for a man to live in his own home, due to increased costs in school operations.

Therefore, if there is anything we can do to increase the stature of education and, at the same time, save one tax dollar for the public, I think that is our job.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. PECHAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, as a cosponsor of Senator Stroup's resolution, I would like to mention some of the experiences that I have had personally with school reorganization or the formation of a single school union.

In my area, I was, at that time, a member of the board of education. We went to our people in four areas because we were told by the county unit that we were so geographically located, and because of the wealth behind each teacher in Ford City, that we should share the wealth and take in three other districts.

Mr. President, we did that thing. Incidentally, the Ford City school system, when it was a single unit, had the reputation of being one of the finest school systems not only in western Pennsylvania, but in the Commonwealth. When we went into this school union, we took over a lot of buildings. We took over a lot of schoolteachers who did not meet the standards of our Ford City schools, but they were in these other schools and we had to take them. We were told, and we were untold, about their seniority. I want to tell you that the Ford City school system just went down like that because we had to fulfill the School Code.

However, we are on our way back up. I do not know exactly how long it has been, but I think it was seven or eight years ago. I think the Ford City Union School District is again going to enjoy having the experience of being one of the finest school districts in Pennsylvania. I say it has taken seven years. The reason it has taken seven years is because the problems have not been worked out.

Very frankly, I think most of you believe as I do that we should not have one-room school houses, and I do not think you will find many advocates even in the rural areas. There are one, two or three who still say: "A one-room school was good enough for me and it should be good enough for my children," but I do not agree with them. I feel that we should do something about it.

However, for somebody to sit here in Harrisburg and say he is going to chop Armstrong County into two districts or four districts because he looks at the map and he does not know anything else about it, I do not go for that.

At one time during the school reorganization procedure, Armstrong County was going to be cut into two school districts. Armstrong County is divided by the Allegheny River. Along the length of that river, there are three or four bridges in a distance of forty miles. Therefore, some school children would travel thirty miles—six-year-old children, mind you—to go to a school district.

I say there are many, many problems, and they ought to be worked out. They ought to be spelled out. I think we are spending too much money for transportation. I would rather see us build four and six-room school houses. There is nothing wrong with those in the lower grades. It would be better than six and seven-year-old children traveling so far. Those of you who get up early in the morning out in the rural areas will see many, many little tots of six years of age standing out in the cold at a quarter of seven so that the bus driver can make two trips. You know that is true. All of these things ought to be worked out.

Another thing, when you started the five-year-plan in your county districts, you gave all of these school districts a bonus. You gave them $200 for closing down every one-room school house. Now, all of a sudden, you want to take it away from them because they have already been consummated. Those are the things to which the school directors back home object.

I also want to say this: If we do go into this school reorganization plan as set up here in Harrisburg, let us throw away that big, thick School Code with which you are trying to kid the school directors back home that they have to live up to. They have no power. The only thing we use it for is to raise revenue after the laws that we pass here. It is not fair, and you cannot blame the school directors for objecting.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. SEYLER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I am mainly here for the correction of the misinformation which the gentleman has somehow absorbed. I would first recommend to him that he read the law which, I believe, he did not vote for. Nevertheless, I think it would be a good idea if he would read it anyway. He will find there that nobody is making any plans from Harrisburg. The plans are to be written by the school board of the county. The county school board will write the plan after consultation and communication with all of the school boards involved. It will be an Armstrong County plan and not a State plan. The Commonwealth will have nothing to do with it. They will make the plan in line with the legislation which was passed by the State and that will be the plan. Nobody on the State level is going to write it, unless the directors of Armstrong County simply abdicate and say that they are not going to write it.

My second point concerns the size of the schools which the gentleman wants to build. Let me say to him that after the plan is completed, if a school district feels that instead of using the means of transportation at their command and they want to build two-room schools, four-room schools, nine-room schools or any sized school, they will still have the same right to do it as they now have. I hope no board of school directors would take the view that when the reorganization is completed, they then would abandon all their present buildings and build brand-new central buildings. This is certainly not contemplated. The idea of a larger administrative unit has nothing to do with the size of the buildings.

This applies likewise to the subject of transportation. They can arrange the system of transportation in their district which meets the needs of that district. However, with the larger district, they will have the possibility of making a more rational system of transportation. You are no longer going to have the system of two buses coming down the same road, one picking up on the one side and the other one picking up on the other side, and then one bus going past three or four schools on its way to a school located ten miles away. This, hopefully, will not be necessary if we get larger units. The same schools will be in existence, but a more logical arrangement will be possible.

We are trusting the intelligence and competency of local school boards and local school administrators to take advantage of the fact that they have a better opportunity to arrange the transportation system.

Let me say to the gentleman that everybody whom I have spoken to, who has studied the problem of transportation, agrees that better transportation will be possible at less cost and with less necessity of long, tedious rides.

Finally, let me make this point because I think not only Senator Pechan, but many people misunderstand this. Many people feel that this reorganization bill somehow, when it is completed, will take away local authority and the system will be run from Harrisburg. I assure the gentleman that this is not true. The districts which are formed under the reorganization plan will have the same rights to their own destiny as the present school districts. There will be absolutely no changes in this. The only difference will be that, hopefully, they will be larger, stronger and with a better tax base. Therefore, they will be better able to furnish the educational means of their community.

If there is one thing, Mr. President, that we are in danger of today it is the decay of local government, due to the fact that they are unable to meet the local needs of the people in their communities and, therefore, those people are driven to come to the State or the Federal Government and say: "They are not doing what we need and, therefore, you do it." As one who is wholeheartedly in favor of maintaining the local home rule which exists in school districts and municipalities, I am in favor of helping those districts to be strong and effective enough so that they can give adequate local government, and so they are not driven to come up here to the State or to go to the Federal Government and say: "We are not getting what we need and, therefore, help us." After all, the Commonwealth, as I am sure the Senator knows, has the ultimate responsibility in the Constitution for seeing to it that equal educational opportunities are provided. If the local governments do not provide it, the State has an obligation, moral and constitutional, to see that the children of this Commonwealth are given a good educational opportunity.

I do not want local districts to be bypassed because they cannot do the job. I say that in a little, tiny district, for example,—as I know in many cases—when they try to offer three years of a language, the district finds in the senior year of their language course that there are only three people who want to take it. Therefore, they face the unwelcomed choice of saying that they cannot afford to have one teacher for three pupils, or else the choice of saying they will not offer that course. Consequently, those children who want to go to college, and who need that language in order to adequately enter, are deprived of it. That is a rough choice for a bunch of school directors to have to make. Yet, all over this Commonwealth they are making that choice. They are either saying they are going to furnish this educational opportunity at a tremendous cost of three pupils to one teacher, or else they are not going to offer it because they cannot afford it. In either case, I say it is a disastrous choice to have to make. I favor units that are big enough, strong enough and effective enough for them to offer a good educational opportunity. In this way, we will be strengthening home rule. We will not be making necessary any longer coming to the State or Federal Government for help because the local community cannot do the job. I am for home rule. I think the people who favor this legislation are also for home rule and for keeping the power of curriculum and the operation of school districts in local hands, but in a situation which is favorable to their doing a good job so that they can satisfy the educational needs of their community.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. PECHAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I would just like to tell Senator Seyler—he brings out the fact that I have not read the bill and that it is up to the counties—that I want to remind him that if Armstrong County brings a report down here and the bureaucrats in the Department of Public Instruction do not like it, they are going to throw it into the wastebasket.

I would like to give you one example. A few years ago, —just three or four years ago—we built an addition to our school system. We had an architect from Altoona, the plans were approved by the State, and, mind you, before that school building was finished, a new inspector was appointed. I do not know whether he was a shoemaker or what he was, but he certainly was not qualified. He came in and offered changes over changes that were given to us by the Department of Labor and Industry. You and I know that the final word is here in Harrisburg. Just as it was with our school union, so it is going to be with transportation and with everything else. They work it up in the county, and if they do not like it here, some department head says: "No, the buildings do not comply, the geography does not comply, and the transportation does not comply." They are not co-ordinated as they should be so that we could go to one person. You have to get clearance from every department, and you know that is true.

Those are the things that I am objecting to. We should have this all worked out so that when a county does come down here with its reorganization plan, it can be taken care of my someone who knows the local problems. Montgomery County's problems are different than our problems. They do not have the Allegheny River splitting them down the middle geographically, but there may be more thickly populated areas. No one here works that thing out. They are going to dump it into our laps, and we are going to pass amendment over amendment and have many, many bills every Session. This thing could be worked out otherwise.

Why are we reorganizing our school system in Pennsylvania? All of a sudden, we are afraid that Russia is beating us. Well, let me say this to you. If we go into this reorganization plan now, immediately, our school systems are not going to benefit immediately. They are going to go down just as they did in my school district until they get over these sores and these wounds that are happening, and then emerge, perhaps, in a better condition.

I am sure, and I agree with you, that we do need to do something about reorganization. However, it ought to be all spelled out and it ought to be all worked out. We can work out other problems in other departments and in other phases of our government, and I do not know why we cannot do it in education.

Mr. President, I am not saying another word today. Harry, whether you get up or not, I am through for the day.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STROUP asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, I assure you that this shall conclude my remarks on this particular matter.

First of all, I would like to call attention to the comments made by Senator Seyler with reference to sponsorship of Senate Bill No. 867. I could not let that go. Senator Seyler is well aware that the Select Committee on Education representatives agreed to sponsor legislation from a bipartisan standpoint and, because of that sponsorship, in no way endorsed the legislation which came out upon the floor of this Body.

I do not know why Senator Seyler did not put his name on the bill. I suspect, however,—and he may correct me—that it was because the bill, as it came out of the Select Committee on Education, was reduced from 10,000 in the Governor's Committee Report to 4,000, and from 4,000 as a minimum to 3,000, and that he was not in accord with the reduction in the pupil population limitation.

Another matter that I should like to call attention to, Mr. President, is this: When Senate Bill No. 867 came before us, we were told that unless this bill passed the Senate and was in the hands of the House, there would be no consideration for increased subsidies for our distressed school districts. It was because of this being the first that must be considered, and nothing further to be considered with relation to improvement of our school system and assistance from a financial standpoint, that we considered this bill, and that we felt bound in some sense to see that the bill got consideration and got over to the House. I think the Senator is well aware of that.

Lastly, Mr. President, the best way to see that local government decays within itself is to take its prerogatives from it so that the sovereign state can order, demand and say: "This is what you do, and if you do not do it that way, we take it out of your hands."

If you want to strengthen local government, then the philosophy should be to advise, to help, to assist and to counsel, but let local government make its decision in its determinations within itself. That is the power and the strength of local government.

That concludes my statement, Mr. President.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. MULLIN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. MULLIN. Mr. President, we just passed a Congressional Reapportionment Bill for Pennsylvania, and it was done after much pain and groaning. The work, of course, was not considered to be perfect, but necessary.

The Senate of Pennsylvania has not been reapportioned since 1921, and I understand that was such a minute improvement over the previous that you could practically say that this Senate has not been reapportioned for over 100 years.

I notice that lately the Supreme Court of the United States has taken jurisdiction over a case in a southern State—I think it was Tennessee—which would compel reapportionment. Also, a recent case in the Pennsylvania Supreme Court was lost by a split vote of one vote. Therefore, generally, the fact that we are neglecting reapportionment is causing the people to believe that maybe there is some other redress to compel representatives in State Government to perform their duties other than by the injunction of the Constitution of Pennsylvania.

I read an article by one of our newspapermen over the week end in which he stated that the Constitution of Pennsylvania requires decennial reapportionment and that when we take office, we take an oath that we are going to uphold the Constitution of Pennsylvania. He also pointed out there were severe penalties for failure to do our duty. I do not know whether he intends to carry out the injunction as a citizen or not.

However, I do have here a resolution, asking the Senate to request our Senate Committee on Reapportionment to consider this matter over the period of this Session. I do not think this is out of harmony with our purpose in a fiscal session, since it is only a Senate Resolution and it concerns a committee in the Senate.

SENATE RESOLUTION

DIRECTING THE SENATE COMMITTEE ON REAPPORTIONMENT TO STUDY SENATORIAL REAPPORTIONMENT

Mr. MULLIN, by unanimous consent, offered the following resolution (Serial No. 11), which was read and referred to the Committee on Reapportionment:

In the Senate, January 30, 1962.

Section 18 of Article 2 of the Constitution of Pennsylvania mandates the apportioning of the Commonwealth into Senatorial Districts after each United States decennial census. This mandate has not been obeyed since 1921.

It is important that Members of the General Assembly adhere to the oath of office taken by each of them to support, obey and defend the Constitution of the Commonwealth and to discharge the duties of office with fidelity; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate Committee on Reapportionment is hereby directed to study the problem of reapportioning the Senate of Pennsylvania in accordance with the mandate of the State Constitution; and be it further

Resolved, That the committee may meet, hold hearings, take testimony and make its investigations whether the General Assembly is in session or in adjournment. It may issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman, commanding any person to appear before it and to answer questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee deems necessary. Any person who wilfully neglects or refuses to testify before the committee or to produce any books, papers, records or documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases. Each member of the committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee; and be it further

Resolved, That the committee make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations for appropriate legislation in January, 1963.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WEINER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, there has been some discussion in the newspapers and other places in regard to the Special Session which we held. I believe one newspaper carried an article,—and I believe it was stated on the radio—stating that the Members would be paid not only the regular amount of money they are to get while we are in Regular Session, but they would receive an additional $500 for the Special Session. There has been discussion in both areas as to whether we do or do not receive additional money.

In order to clear up this miasma that exists, I would like to put into the record this letter that was sent to Senator Berger and I from Harry Hershey, Director of the Legislative Reference Bureau, in regard to the subject of additional compensation for attendance at Special or Extraordinary Sessions. I will not burden the Members of the Senate nor will I burden the stenographers to take this all down. However, the gist and sum and substance of the letter is that the Members do not receive any extra compensation. The only persons who are considered for extra compensation are the President pro tempore and the Speaker of the House. I do not know what they are going to do. However, I have been advised by the President pro tempore, when he discussed this matter with me, that he would make appropriate disposition of these funds as he, along with all of the other Members of the General Assembly, wants only to be paid once for doing his job, and not twice.

I hope this will clear up the atmosphere which has existed. I hope it will, as well, clear up any misinformation that might be abounding about in regard to this subject.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. At the request of the Majority Leader, Senator Weiner, the above letter will be made a part of the record.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
January 16, 1962.

Subject: Additional compensation for attendance at Special or Extraordinary Sessions

To: Charles R. Weiner, Senate Majority Floor Leader
Hon. James S. Berger, Senate Minority Floor Leader

From: Harry Hershey, Director
Legislative Reference Bureau

In response to your request for clarification of whether or not members of the General Assembly are entitled to additional compensation for attendance at Special or Extraordinary Sessions, I submit the following information:

Section 1 of the act of June 24, 1919, P. L. 579, as last amended May 31, 1955, P. L. 127, which provided for an additional salary of $500 for each Special or Extraordinary Session lasting less than one calendar month, and $750 for each Special or Extraordinary Session lasting one calendar month or more, was repealed by Section 17 of the act of June 1, 1956, P. L. 1959, insofar as it pertained to any persons thereafter elected. As all incumbent members of the House and Senate have been elected or re-elected since 1956, members of the House or Senate presently in office are not entitled to such additional salary.

The only exceptions as to the receipt of additional compensation for a Special or Extra ordinary Session are found in the act of October 2, 1959, P. L. 1251. Section 31 of said act provides that the Speaker of the House of Representatives shall, in addition to his salary, recive $9,000 for each Regular Session and $1,000 for each Special or Extraordinary Session. Section 13 of said act similarly provides that the President pro tempore of the Senate shall, in addition to his salary, receive $9,000 for each Regular Session and $1,000 for each Special or Extraordinary Session.

In conclusion, therefore, under existing law, members of the General Assembly are not entitled to any additional compensation for special or extraordinary session with the exception that the Speaker of the House and the President pro tempore of the Senate are each entitled to $1,000.

RECESS

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, it is my understanding that we have to wait for a communication from the House. Therefore, I request a recess of the Senate until 2:00 p.m.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any objections? The Chair hears no objection, and declares a recess of the Senate until 2:00 p.m.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

NOMINATIONS BY THE GOVERNOR REFERRED TO COMMITTEE

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend David R. Hoover, offered the following prayer:

Eternal Father, as humble stewards of Thine, we look to Thee in the quietness of this hour. We thank Thee for the still small voice which speaks to the conscience of each one of us. We ask that Thy blessing may rest and abide with the members of this House of Representatives. And, O God, we humbly pray that in all of the tensions and anxieties of life which continually face us, we may never become so envolved in the mesh of our own affairs that we fail to pause and meditate upon Thee and the course which Thou wouldst have us follow. To Thee be the glory, and the honor, and the praise, world without end. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVAL POSTPONED

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the approval of the Journal for Monday, January 29, 1962, will be postponed until printed.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. TOMPKINS, HOLL, BLAIR, MAGEE, O'DELL, BUSH, KISTLER, A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr., ESHLEMAN, A. W. JOHNSON and HELM.

(Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 14.

In the House of Representatives, January 29, 1962.

Whereas, Senate Bill 867, approved September 12, 1961, as Act No. 561 of the 1961 Session of the General Assembly, passed the Senate by a vote of 26-23, the absolute minimum required for the passage of a bill in the Senate; and

Whereas, Said bill passed the House by a vote of 108-94, a margin of 2 votes; and

Whereas, Numerous amendments (excepting one exempting 7th and 8th Class Counties) offered to the bill in the House were all defeated, including an amendment to preserve Home Rule by submitting reorganizing proposals to a referendum of the people; and

Whereas, When it was proposed by the Republican House Leadership to delay action on the bill until grass root sentiment and reaction to the proposal could be obtained, the Governor labeled such proposal as "farcial"; and

Whereas, Since approval of the bill, grass root sentiment from local School Boards, County School Boards, State School Directors' Association, the State Grange, the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association, the Pennsylvania Association of Township Supervisors and many others have unanimously voiced itself as being against the bill in its present form; and

Whereas, Said reaction has expressed itself in terms all the way from outright repeal to many clarifying and corrective amendments and auxiliary legislation; and

Whereas, The bill in its present form does not lend itself to the making of rules and regulations covering all phases and ramifications of such enlarged reorganization units, such as questions concerning taxes, subsidies, debt, transportation, teacher tenure, etc.; and

Whereas, Said legislation does not recognize (a) the quality of education presently existing in School Districts; (b) the educational needs and desires of local communities by providing any type of local option; and (c) the sound financing program presently existing in many school districts; and

Whereas, A state of confusion, uncertainty and doubt exists throughout the entire Commonwealth on any effective approach to complying with the provision of the act; and

Whereas, The increased costs of administration after the proposed school district reorganizations have not been determined and, in fact, are unknown; therefore be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That a moritorium be declared on any further proceedings under Act 561 of the 1961 Session until after the convening of the 1963 Session of the General Assembly, which is the earliest that corrective measures (including possible repeal) and auxiliary and implementing legislation can be considered and acted upon; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Governor, the Superintendent of Public Instruction and to the State Council of Education.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. ADAMS. RESOLUTION No. 15.

In the House of Representatives, January 29, 1962.

It has been brought to the attention of the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that Paul T. McDevitt of Reading who recently was appointed Director of the Reading regional office of the State Bureau of School Audits, is also employed at the same location, 522 Court Street, in the City of Reading, by a private accounting firm.

Mr. McDevitt assumed the directorship of the State Bureau of School Audits in July 1961 at a salary of $6716.00 per annum. He is also employed by the private accounting firm of Bruce R. Coleman.

It is the opinion of the House of Representatives that an investigation should be made as to the advisability of Mr. McDevitt holding these two jobs at the same time; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Attorney General of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania be requested to make an investigation of this situation and report his findings to the House of Representatives within sixty days from the receipt of a copy of this resolution; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution, be sent to David Stahl, Attorney General of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

SENATE MESSAGE

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

The clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, January 30, 1962.

Resolved, (the House of Representatives concurring), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene Tuesday, February 6, 1962 at a time to be fixed by the Senate; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene Monday, February 5, 1962 at a time to be fixed by the House of Representatives.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, that the clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

STATEMENT ON HOUSE BILL NO. 57

The SPEAKER. An important re-adjustment in the method of handling House bill 57 has been agreed upon by the respective floor leaders. I think at this time either the majority or the minority floor leader should explain, or if they prefer, the Chair can explain, but the Chair would prefer that they explain.

The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, at a conference we had with the minority leader at the Speaker's desk, it was agreed that House bill 57 in which the minority leader is offering amendments would be passed over until Monday. And I ask the chief clerk to reproduce the amendments, which Mr. Johnson indicated were 36 pages in length, covering all the school districts of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and to have those amendments sent to each member of this House of Representatives so they would know exactly what is in the amendments pertaining to either their legislative districts, the school districts in their legislative districts or in their counties that they represent.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to say this with particular reference to the Republican side of the House. We did indicate yesterday that we would caucus today at this precise hour, and the purpose of the caucus would have been to caucus on these amendments, but if you were having a floor fight—

The SPEAKER. Use gentler language. We never fight here. We don't even quarrel; we just disagree.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Okay. Be that as it may, the majority leader has indicated to me the profound interest of the members on his side of the House in these amendments, and they apparently cannot caucus today because the caucus room is presently filled with charts and so forth of the highway department and you have asked that we postpone it until next Monday. Is that correct?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, that is correct.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. In view of the magnitude of the amendments, and we don't want to take advantage of you people, I have agreed that we will put the fight off, then, until next Monday. We will deliver to you a copy of the amendments so they can be mimeographed and we will then go into the amendments on House bill 57 next Monday without fail.

Therefore, we will not today, then, have a Republican caucus. We will have our caucus on Monday at the usual caucus time, one hour before session time which will be 3:30. We go in at 4:30, do we not?

Mr. McCANN. The House will convene next Monday at 3:30. The caucus will be 2:30, the Democratic caucus.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Then the Republicans will caucus next Monday at 2:30.

Do I understand that the general appropriation bill has been released to the floor from committee?

Mr. McCANN. It is released from the Appropriations Committee. When the Speaker calls for committee reports, 69 bills will be reported to the floor.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Then we will also on Monday caucus, not only on the general appropriations bill, but we will caucus on these amendments to House bill 57. I am sorry that we cannot have the proceedings today but I just received the amendments at 11 o'clock today from the reference bureau. They worked most of the night getting them ready and I want to say publicly we appreciate the very fine service that we received and it is too bad that we cannot have them offered today, but we will not take advantage of the majority.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman very kindly. It would be in order to proceed with the calendar then, on the other two bills plus the report from the Appropriations Committee.

The SPEAKER. It was the opinion of the Chair that since the amendments proposed affected every district in the Commonwealth that a vote upon them be delayed until every member of the House had a copy of the amendments.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, it has just been called to my attention, because of the time that it will take for us to discuss the general appropriations bill and these amendments on Monday, that we will move our House caucus on the Republican side to 2 o'clock rather than 2:30. So we will caucus for one hour and a half next Monday instead of one hour and we will please come to our caucus at 2 o'clock, the Republicans.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Adams, rise?

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, are not these bills supposed to be on our desks? I looked in my book and they are not all in.

The SPEAKER. The objection could have been remedied if the gentleman had reported it a bit earlier to the Chair.

PUBLIC HEARING

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to make an announcement about the public hearing at 2 p. m. or immediately after we adjourn here today, on the motor license fund which will be held in the new House caucus room immediately following our adjournment. We would appreciate the attendance of all those who can be present.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, any of the members of the House who may have proposed amendments to what is called House bill No. 1, I would ask that they give the minority and majority floor leaders a copy of the amendments so that we will have the amendments that are going to be offered to this or any other bill that was reported from the Appropriations Committee today.

There will be a session of the House of Representatives tomorrow morning, as the 69 bills that have come out of the Appropriations Committee will be on first reading tomorrow.

The following week, on Monday, they will be on second reading and on Tuesday will be in position for final passage and vote.

On Monday, House bill No. 57, which is being passed over today and tomorrow, will be voted on on the amendments and then the bill scheduled for next week.

To the many members who have asked, there will be a session of this House tomorrow at 10 o'clock dealing with the bills that will be on the calendar, moving them from first reading and, also, any other items that will come up in the session. It will be a very brief session tomorrow at 10 o'clock.

PERMISSION TO ADD ADDITIONAL SPONSORS

Mr. McCANDLESS asked and obtained unanimous consent to add additional sponsors to a bill to be introduced by him.

SENATE RESOLUTION SERIAL No. 100

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I call up on page 2 of today's calendar, Senate Resolution Serial No. 100.

The resolution was read by the clerk as follows:

In the Senate, January 15, 1962.

The military forces and public health agencies of our nation have a vital and continuous need for medical services. Difficulty has long been experienced in obtaining a sufficient number of medical men to administer proper care to military personnel and their dependents and to efficiently carry on essential public health services.

It is therefore deemed highly desirable that a Federal Service School be established in the field of medicine patterned after West Point in the field of army training, Annapolis in the field of naval training, and the Air Force Academy in the field of aviation, which school would supply a steady flow of trained medical personnel for all of the branches of the service and for conducting our important public health service.

It is also deemed desirable that such a school be established in a conveniently located medical and hospital center. No better location could possibly be found than Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, which in recent years has become one of the leading medical centers of the United States, and which has a readily accessible central location; therefore be it

Resolved, (the House of Representatives concurring) That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memorialize the Congress of the United States to establish a federal medical school in the City of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the presiding officers of each house of the Congress of the United States and to each Senator and Representative from Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, that the clerk inform the Senate accordgingly.

RESOLUTION

CONDOLENCE

Mr. GROSS offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and unanimously adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, January 30, 1962.

Levi M. Myers, eighty-nine, of Dillsburg R. D. 3, died Sunday January 28, 1962 in Harirsburg Hospital.

He was a life elder of Mt. Survivors include a niece and two nephews.

Services will be held Wednesday, January 31, 1962 at 2:00 P. M. in Dillsburg. The Reverend Thomas L. Smith, his pastor, and the Reverend Jack Parthmore, his former pastor, will officiate. Burial will be in Mt. Rose Mausoleum, York; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Members of this House of Representatives express their deep sympathy and sorrow at the passing away of the Honorable Levi M. Myers; and be it further Resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent to Mr. Myers' niece and nephews.

RESOLUTION

SYMPATHY AND GRATITUDE ON RESCUE ATTEMPT

Messrs. MARSH and BRETH offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, January 30, 1962.

The tragic death of two young boys, Wesley Lowe and Larry Husted, in an abandoned clay mine near Morgan Run in Clearfield County, has brought sadness to the hearts of every Pennsylvanian. They were good boys, handsome lads, full of vitality and the spirit of adventure, qualities that ensure a good man and a good citizen, the kind we are so proud of and which we need so much. Their death is a terrible loss not only to their families but to all the people of Pennsylvania.

Their entrapment for over two weeks brought out the very best in the wonderful people of this community. More than one hundred men toiled long hours of arduous labor, at great risk to themselves, in an effort to find the boys. Those residing close to the area opened up their homes to the rescuers for much needed rest and food. The women of the area prepared food and coffee and carried it to the men. The Department of Mines did everything possible to assist in the search. Heavy equipment was brought in and the men operating it devoted themselves completely to the task, going wherever needed, doing whatever was required, without thought of rest or danger.

It would be impossible to single out all who deserve special commendation, but one person who particularly distinguished himself is Sheriff James Reese of Clearfield County. He was at the scene nearly continually during the two weeks, working desperately to find the boys. Many wonder that he did not collapse in exhaustion.

We take great pride in these people and we owe them a great debt of gratitude; therefore be it

Resolved, That the members of the House of Representatives express our very deepest sympathy to the Lowe and Husted families in their tragic hour of loss and that we express our gratitude to all who assisted in the rescue attempt and commend them for their selfless devotion to a noble task, their magnificent efforts and their grand display of true brotherhood.

RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATIONS

Mrs. HENZEL, Messrs. WILLAREDT, HOLL and FETTEROLF offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, January 30, 1962.

It is with more than passing pride that the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania takes this opportunity to congratulate the town of Abington, Montgomery County and its good citizens on its Senior High School Band. This band was one of ten invited to the Tournament of Roses Parade in Pasadena, California, on January 1, 1962, and was the only band invited from the State of Pennsylvania.

One hundred forty-two members of the band went on the trip and one hundred seven participated in the parade, this being the maximum allowed under parade regulations. The band was highly acclaimed along the line of march and in the Los Angeles newspapers.

The expenses of the trip were paid by contributions from the community, attesting to the loyalty of the people of this community to this organization; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby congratulates the Senior High School Band of Abington, Montgomery County and commends it for the great honor it has brought to the State of Pensylvania; and be it further Resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent to Nelson B. Gable, Director, Dr. W. Eugene Stull, Principal and Dr. O. H. English, Superintendent, Abington Senior High School, Abington, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 2:20 p. m., e. s. t.) the House adjourned.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. DAVIS and WEIDNER. RESOLUTION No. 16.

In the House of Representatives, January 30, 1962.

Social Security and Public Assistance have aided in providing the bare necessities for many of our elder citizens. In many cases parents who have no income and are unable to work are rejected by their children who have adequate means to support them. These older citizens must be given help but the responsibility should be placed on their children when possible and not on the public at large; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission be directed to study and investigate the problems of support of parents by their children; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission report to the next regular Session of the General Assembly its findings and recommendations with drafts of legislation necessary to carry the recommendation into effect.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. CLARKE, McLAUGHLIN, GIBB and DAVIS. RESOLUTION No. 17.

In the House of Representatives, January 30, 1962.

Resolved, That the Speaker of the House of Representatives appoint a special committee of the House, composed of five Democrats and five Republicans, to make an investigation of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home at Erie, Pennsylvania, to determine the efficiency and effectiveness of its operation and a survey of its facilities to determine to what extent, if any, its services and function might be improved or expanded, or the Home itself physically relocated; and, be it further

Resolved, That the committee present a final report of its findings and recommendations to the House of Representatives on or before March 1, 1962.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. DAVIS and J. H. GOLDSTEIN.
(Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 18.

In the House of Representatives, January 30, 1962.

State Route 666 parallels Tionesta Creek for most of its course as it winds among the wooded hills and scenic valleys of Warren and Forest Counties. It is a route of exceptional natural beauty and historically significant.

At the lower terminal, the village of East Hickory is the site of the mission established in 1769 by the great Moravian missionary David Zeisberger. This mission was erected there in the Munsee-Delaware Indian settlement of Goschgoschink.

David Zeisberger's influence upon the Munsee-Delaware tribe was profound. By the dramatic conversion to Christianity of the war chief Glickhican, "Gun Sight," who had come to Goschgoschink to get rid of him, Zeisberger paved the way for the establishment of the Moravians farther west in the heart of the Delaware country. This growth of Christian faith undoubtedly contributed to the eventful settlement of the Northwest Territory; therefore, be it Resolved (the Senate concurring), That the Secretary of Highways is hereby urged to name State Route 666, the David Zeisberger Highway, and to place appropriate markers thereon.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. DAVIS. RESOLUTION No. 19.

In the House of Representatives, January 30, 1962.

Farmers and garden owners of Pennsylvania suffer considerable losses from the feeding and preying of birds upon the growing crops, vegetable produce and domestic fowls.

Various birds under Pennsylvania statutes are unprotected predators. Nevertheless, depredations of birds continue; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission study the effects of such depredations upon the garden and farm economies of Pennsylvania, with special attention given to the features of (1) whether or not the list of predator birds should be expanded to include more common varieties of birds which feed upon vegetable gardens; (2) whether it be feasible to set up some form of fiscal, actuarially sound, insurance as added protection to farmers and garden owners against such losses; and (3) a review of tested methods for countering the feeding and preying birds against farms and gardens; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission report to the next regular session of the General Assembly its findings and recommendations with drafts of legislation necessary to carry the recommendations into effect.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. DAVIS. RESOLUTION No. 20.

In the House of Representatives, January 30, 1962.

State Route No. 899 traverses land once covered by a great virgin forest of towering pines and hemlocks.

This route also lies close to the wilderness trail blazed by Cyrus Blood, the founder of Forest County, who established his original settlement in Marienville, which today marks the western end of Route No. 899.

Moreover, this route effects a saving of fourteen miles for travellers from the east bound for northern destinations over State Route No. 68. It is a strategic short-cut of value to the region; therefore, be it

Resolved, In view of its historic background and travel advantage that State Route No. 899 be known as "The Forest Short-Cut"; and, be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of Highways be authorized and requested to have erected suitable markers at the terminal ends and at the several villages on the route, which shall set forth the name "The Forest Short-Cut."

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. WORLEY. RESOLUTION No. 21.

In the House of Representatives, January 30, 1962.

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania go on record as favoring the military disarmament of all nations of the world with adequate inspection by the United Nations; and, be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the Ambassador of the United States to the United Nations, and to the Secretary of State of the United States.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. DAVIS, ASHTON and GRAMLICH.
(Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 22.

In the House of Representatives, January 30, 1962.

The Secretary of Highways, Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, reports a progressive stringency in funds with each year.

When the Pennsylvania Turnpike bonds are finally retired, toll receipts will cease. Thereupon the Department of Highways will be saddled with large additional maintenance charges.

The Keystone Shortway, when completed, will place upon the State highway budget an increasing maintenance burden as the Shortway ages. Much the same sequence will follow with completion of the limited access highway systems currently being built; therefore be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That in view of this darkening highway-upkeep fiscal picture which lies ahead, the Joint State Government Commission be authorized and directed to investigate the feasibility of setting up the collection of toll charges by the Commonwealth or its agencies, on such limited access highways, for the purpose of maintenance and upkeep, as well as continuance of toll charges on the Pennsylvania Turnpike after the retirement of bonds; and, be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission cover in their investigation the various legal involvements with other agencies, States and the Federal Government; and, be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission report to the next regular session of the General Assembly its findings and recommendations, with drafts of legislation necessary to carry the recommendations into effect.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. DAVIS, VARNER, DENNISON and GRAMLICH. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 23.

In the House of Representatives, January 30, 1962.

Pollution in the Clarion River has been a problem for many decades. Since World War II, industrial refuse, especially from the manufacture of paper, has been reduced.

However, during this period, acids from open-pit mining has been reported in the upper waters.

All in all, to a considerable degree, the Clarion River remains a polluted stream; therefore be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That the Joint State Government Commission study and investigate the problems of pollution in the Clarion River with a view of (1) determining whether or not reasonable progress is being made in the direction of total elimination and (2) outlining any corrective steps deemed essential to maintaining a reasonable rate of progress; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission report to the next regular session of the General Assembly its findings and recommendations with drafts of legislation necessary to carry the recommendations into effect.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. DAVIS, BRETH, J. H. GOLDSTEIN and GRAMLICH. RESOLUTION No. 24.

In the House of Representatives, January 30, 1962.

Overbrowsing by deer has caused extensive injury to the timber industry which is engaged in a sustained yield forest management program. In some areas an excessive deer population has eliminated completely or greatly retarded the normal regeneration processes. The deer population should, of course, be preserved as one of our natural resources but we must also recognize our duty to the persons who suffer damage from deer; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission study and investigate the problem of forest crop damage by deer, and determine an equitable and efficient means of providing reimbursement to the persons suffer-in such damage; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission report to the next regular session of the General Assembly its findings and recommendations with drafts of legislation necessary to carry the recommendations into effect.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. GRAMLICH, DAVIS and HELM. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 25.

In the House of Representatives, January 30, 1962.

Economic growth has within recent years been widely propagandized both from a National as well as a State standpoint. One of the vital factors is the flow of commerce from one section of the country to other sections. Every facility, both natural and man made for the movement of commercial and industrial products is essential to this economic growth.

We have in northwestern Pennsylvania a natural waterway which is not being utilized. This natural waterway is the Allegheny River which flows through the northwest section of this State. This river flows near the oil fields of this State and either through or close to many large centers of our State industrial empire, before joining with the Monongahela to form the Ohio. The Allegheny is potentially a strong facility for water borne shipments but only potentially because of the lack of slack water improvements which has been for many years promoted by the Allegheny River Valley Improvement Association.

Ironically this northwest community is handicapped by undeveloped transport services, especially along the Upper Allegheny Valley. If this area is to enjoy its full economic growth, its natural waterway must be developed; therefore be it

Resolved, (the Senate concurring), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memorialize the Congress of the United States to enact such legislation and appropriate such funds as may be necessary to build at least two dams between East Brady, Clarion County, Pennsylvania and Oil City, Venango County, Pennsylvania; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the presiding officers of each House of the Congress of the United States, and to each Senator and Representative from Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

BIRTHDAY

The SPEAKER. It is the birthday of Mrs. Elisabeth S. Wynd of Wyoming County.

Mr. DENGLER. Mr. Speaker, inasmuch as we have a piano here, I think this ought to be special, because Elisabeth was born on groundhog day, February 2. I am going to ask the Representative from Venango, Mr. Gramlich, to play "Happy Birthday" while we all sing it.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the lady from Wyoming.

Mrs. WYND. Thank you very much. I am very proud to have won this student loan fund for Keystone. The school over there needs it desperately.

RESOLUTION

COMMEMORATION

Mr. McCANN offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, January 31, 1962.

On January 30, eighty years ago, a son was born to James and Sara Roosevelt, in Hyde Park, New York. The person born on that day was destined to become one of the best known and most outstanding Americans in the history of our country. That person was Franklin Delano Roosevelt, into whose capable hands, as the 31st President of the United States, fell the responsibility of leading our nation through some of its darkest and most perilous days. With his brilliant leadership, tireless and complete devotion to his country, and magnetic personality, Franklin D. Roosevelt grasped the reigns of our troubled government and guided it carefully into a position of world power. Franklin D. Roosevelt was endeared to the hearts of all of us, and his untimely death seventeen years ago was a time of deep sorrow. His outstanding accomplishments and contributions, however, are still a source of strength and inspiration to us both individually and as a nation, and will continue so to be for many years to come; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby pauses on this 80th anniversary of the birth of Franklin Delano Roosevelt to reflect upon his memory, with reverence and admiration, and to look to his courage and steadfast devotion as an example toward which to strive; and be it further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt at Hyde Park, New York.

ANNOUNCEMENTS BY MAJORITY LEADER

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the House will convene Monday, at 3:30 p. m., and the tentative schedule will be three days, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The notice that will go out will indicate there will be a Democratic caucus in the new House caucus room beginning at 2:30 p. m. promptly on Monday afternoon.

The chief clerk's office will mail to each of the members, to their home addresses, the amendments that were offered yesterday by Mr. Johnson. Mr. Ominsky's office assures us that they will probably go out today sometime in the mail, to each member at his home address.

The chairman of the committee on Appropriations will cut and deliver to each caucus room about 115 to 120 copies of the complete breakdown on the bills, the way the Appropriations Committee handled the bills in the printed form, and the changes, so that the members will have this information for caucus Monday when they convene.

Mr. Speaker, I have no further business in today's session, and I ask that the membership try to be very prompt on Monday to attend the caucus so we may go on the floor at the scheduled time.

The SPEAKER. Has the minority leader any further business? During these sessions, the Chair frowns upon discussions at the press gallery, particularly when they are so loud that they can be heard here at the desk.

The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, as announced yesterday, the House Republican caucus will be held at 2 o'clock on Monday in the caucus room, for an important caucus. We will discuss the general appropriations bill, amendments to House bill 57, and we would like our members to come to caucus prepared to discuss the general appropriations bill.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. DENGLER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Monday, February 5, 1962, at 3:30 p. m., e. s. t.

The Chaplain, Reverend David R. Hoover, offered the following prayer:

O Lord, our God, we come before Thee fully recognizing the power which Thou dost possess to pluck out, to tear down, and to destroy as well as to plant and to build. So, we humbly pray that Thou wilt keep Thy Church and Household continually in Thy true religion. As Thou art the potter and we are the clay, mold and make us after Thy Will, and have Thine own way in all we do. O God, enable us to lean upon Thee and defend us by Thy mighty power. In Thy dear name. Amen.

We will, perhaps, be able to talk in anticipation of what is likely to happen. We would like to make a talk relating to the entire situation and, since we are at ease, it might be the appropriate time now.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, this would be the appropriate time now. We have agreed that in a few minutes we are going to go to a special order of business and call up House bill 57.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Helm, preside?

Mr. HELM IN THE CHAIR

PERMISSION TO ADD ADDITIONAL SPONSORS

Mr. HORST asked and obtained unanimous consent to add additional sponsors to a bill to be introduced by him.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. ANDREWS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I am speaking in anticipation of a situation that will presently arise and I do not expect that anything I can say or do today will calm the angry waters of this wind-swept legislative scene.

For reasons, be what they may, we have dragged Pennsylvania's paramount educational program, or will presently do so, into the midst of a political melee. It was once, incidentally, the proud boast of the leaders of the powerful Vare brothers' dynasty in Philadelphia that there was one political sin of which they could not properly be accused. They said, and it was literally true, that they had never attempted to play politics with the schools. Now here in this distinguished forum we actually have played politics with the schools for many, many years, because the school problem has been a continuing problem that created divisions along party lines.

Men and women are perishable creatures; ideas are immortal. Once spawned, they become a permanent part of humanity's stream of thought. The thinking of our generation is still colored by ideas born centuries, even milleniums, ago.

It happens that I am in basic disagreement with some of the philosophy upon which the educational program submitted to this House is based. In the field of education we contend that the Commonwealth's basic obligation is the protection and promotion of our primary schools, our secondary schools, and the logical projection of those schools into junior colleges. It is with our improved high school system and junior colleges that we must begin the crusade, the only crusade that can establish a firm foundation for an educational system. These institutions are the foundation, I repeat, of any system of public education financed in whole or in part by State subsidies. We have sought political advantage to the ultimate disadvantage of the boys and girls of our Commonwealth and, at long last, we have reached the point where some of our conflicting proposals actually border upon the ridiculous.

Now, we cannot serve the schools by and through embittered partisan practices. That is a fact, and we have proven it, as I say, by history in this House over the last thirty years. We have reached the situation in which we find ourselves because of the misconception of the proper protagonists when educational problems are pending. In such matters the protagonists are not properly parties, they are not properly individuals as individuals. This chamber is not properly a political cockpit. It is, instead, a forum and the proper protagonists in this forum, as far as education is concerned, are ideas. Into this forum the Governor of the Commonwealth is not only privileged to send his ideas, but is in duty bound to do so. Every member of this House is equally privileged to send his ideas into this forum, there to contend like gladiators.

I call to your attention, incidentally, that it was in the chamber of this House that the Pennsylvania school system was born, born as the result of the illumined leadership of Thaddeus Stevens. It was in successive legislative chambers that Pennsylvania's primary obligation to nurture and promote the public school system was once and for all confirmed.

Whether we are protecting and promoting our public school system at this hour the ultimate events will determine. Incidentally, whatever the financial situation of our major colleges and universities may be, the situation faced by many of the schools in this Commonwealth, common schools, is even more distressing.

Pending proposals advanced on both sides of this House represent patches rather than policies. I say in all seriousness that if in the matter of school legislation Democratic effort is designed primarily to put Republicans in the hole and if Republican effort is solely designed to put Democrats in the hole, that what we will be putting in the hole, as far as public sentiment is concerned, will be both parties and our public school situation will be the major sufferer.

I say it is the privilege of anybody to advance ideas in this forum, and I say to you, in all seriousness, that when we have a Democratic Governor, a strong, capable Governor, and a narrow Democratic margin in the House, that wise policies must hinge—turn on the hinges—not on partisan bickering but a sane agreement on some basic policy of procedure.

Personally, I do not relish chewing an oversupply of predigested legislative Pablum, but this House cannot ignore its Governor as a matter of policy and, on the other hand, a Governor cannot ignore this House as a matter of policy. Prior to the advent of the pending storm, there should have been a series of serious conferences participated in by the protagonists who will figure in the conflicts to come. There should have been days, perhaps weeks, of conferences by the prominent leaders of this House who will certainly presently be at each others' throats concerning policy.

It is not too late to determine whether it is possible to get together. I rather imagine that, while I have listeners, there will be a minimum of agreement. Administrative proposals concerning the finances of educational efforts are not sacrosanct, neither are our views. As a practical proposition, we cannot get anywhere with a legislative program unless there is some basis of possible agreement with the Executive. I am told that in your respective caucuses, each one of us was told we must needs go along with our party when educational programs are being considered. I decline to concede that the welfare of our public school system is the private possession of any party and that neither party has a monopoly of a sincere desire to serve this Commonwealth through better schools.

I cannot concede either that conclusions arrived at by commissions, solely responsible to the Executive, represent any binding commitments.

Enactment of a legislative program designed to serve the welfare of the schools depends upon matters in which the members of this House are better informed than many of those who would advise us, because that sort of a program depends upon timing, depends upon grass-roots support, depends upon open covenants openly arrived at by party leaders through prolonged conference.

We will have presently amendments to House bill No. 1 and to House bill No. 57. Now I will vote for the amendments to House bill 57, although I know that the amendments are quite likely the wrong amendments to the wrong bill, and also that they carry other serious defects, but in my position I cannot expect to be able to explain to the people back home the intricacies, constitutional problems, that the amendments, at least the proposed amendments to House bill 57 offer. So, call it cowardice if you like. I know that the amendments to House bill 57 will never become law. The Governor will not accept them. If he has competent legal advice, he will be told that they are unconstitutional and he will have to make a choice, and the choice will be not the amendments to House bill 57. Really, it is a sham fight, as far as that is concerned, because the ultimate goal is known to every well-informed member of this House.

As I say, I am going to vote for them. I am going to turn over the final decision on the amendments to House bill 57 and the amendments to House bill No. 1 to his Excellency, the Governor, who perhaps, by means of the budget, has helped create a part of the present situation in which we find ourselves.

I appeal to the leaders of this House. I do not know whether it is too late or not, but I appeal to the leaders of this House—do not involve us further in the morass of party contention concerning school legislation. Do not confront us with purely makeshift alternatives. What the majority offers cannot be. What the minority offers is just about as substantial as a cupful of wind. Now, if we could have a policy to which we could moor our legislative ship. It is a mistake, in my opinion, to confront the members of this House with alternatives involving, not the welfare of our public school system, but possibly involving nothing more or less than a political survival upon the part of particular members of this House.

So I say to the respective floor leaders—they will not pay any attention, they never have—go see the Governor. Let the chairman of the Appropriations Committee go see the Governor. The purpose of that interview would be this: to try to evolve a program that would be a token of our intelligent interest in the financial problems which face every school district in our Commonwealth, every school district from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh, from Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, all the way to Erie. We cannot do at this session what should be done, but we can lay a foundation of mutual agreement upon some sort of a basic approach to the problems we face.

Let us hand our schools something more than a political quarrel, and I say we cannot safely dismember a carefully integrated executive budget with a legislative pickaxe. It takes time; it takes study. And I say to the majority that we have not made sufficient study, you have not made sufficient study, so that if we were both entirely sincere, we could not sit down and, within a reasonable space of time, remake a billion-dollar budget.

We have a legislative responsibility that we have never lived up to. We have not informed ourselves and done the study that is necessary for members to have if they are intelligently to question any kind of a budget, the legislative budget or an executive budget.

Legislation has become, fortunately or unfortunately, almost a full-time job. The problems that we are asked today to consider are problems which should have been accorded our attention weeks and even months ago. Is there not, even at this late date, some possibility of arriving at some sort of a negotiated peace concerning school legislation?

The war between parties concerning school legislation must terminate some day. It cannot be a cold political war forever. In order to terminate it we must begin to try to make a beginning now. Party victories may serve the needs of the trenchant present, but the foundations that we lay today should be constructive action. Is there no possible highway to peace in the one matter that shall not be tainted by party aspirations, that is, none other than the welfare of our schools and the children who attend them? Any hot-head can start a war. It takes generals and statesmen to establish peace. Are we, in this hour and the coming hours, to confess ourselves devoid of those qualities? I thank you.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I would intend to reply to some of the things that the Speaker has just mentioned, but I would prefer to do it under the heading of debating the amendments to House bill No. 57. If the majority leader would make a motion for a special order of business for House bill No. 57, I would like to proceed.

HOUSE BILL NO. 57 MADE A SPECIAL ORDER

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that House bill No. 57, printer's No. 57, entitled:

A Supplement to the act of May 25, 1961 (Appropriation Act 5-A) entitled "An act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the Executive Legislative and Judicial Departments of the Commonwealth interest on the public debt and for public schools for the fiscal period June 1, 1961 to June 30, 1962 and for the payment of bills incurred and remaining unpaid at the close of the fiscal period ending May 31, 1961" by providing for deficiencies in appropriations made by the act for the fiscal period ending June thirtieth one thousand nine hundred sixty-two on page 11 of today's calendar, bills on third reading, be made a special order of business immediately.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

PERMISSION TO ADD ADDITIONAL SPONSORS

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON asked and obtained unanimous consent to add additional sponsors to amendments to be introduced by him.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Messrs. A. W. JOHNSON, RUTHERFORD, BUCHANAN, J. H. GOLDSTEIN, GOODRICH, GROSS, K. B. LEE, TOMPKINS and WHITTAKER asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 18, by striking out "$3,300,000" and inserting: $12,430,072

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, by inserting after line 18: Provided, That the sum of nine million, one hundred thirty thousand, seventy-two dollars ($9,130,072), of such twelve million, four hundred thirty thousand, seventy-two dollars ($12,430,072), shall be paid to the following school districts in the amounts stated for each such school district:

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, in view of the excellent remarks by the Speaker of this House with respect to education in general and in view of the seriousness of these amendments, as I see it, I intend to be as bipartisan as possible and try to talk along the vein of doing the best for the schools of Pennsylvania at this session of the General Assembly. So, with that tenor of my remarks in mind, I will try to tell you what sponsored the idea of this amendment and finally ask you folks on both sides of the House to adopt these amendments today.

As you know, last year during the 1961 session, school people all over the State would see myself and other members of the General Assembly and would say, my goodness, what are you people doing to us down there with respect to these tax equalization board figures. Then they would point out what their respective school districts would lose. "Can't you do something for us?" Well, we did, and in the general appropriation bill last session we inserted the so-called freeze clause and it was only made possible by reason of votes from your side of the aisle, the Democratic side of the aisle. Why? Because many of you back home felt the same acute awareness of the problems facing our local schools as we did. However, the Governor's then attorney general found in her, shall we say, wisdom, or not, that in her opinion the amendments were unconstitutional and therefore the schools are not going to receive the benefit of their freeze clause.

Then the question recurred: 'What can be done for the schools with respect to that area within this session of the General Assembly? We found that the only thing we could do would be to offer even a bill, or the amendments that we have offered today, to solve this problem. We asked the Department of Public Instruction to please furnish us with current figures as to what the schools would lose by reason of the denial of the freeze clause; and, with a great deal of work on the part of the Department of Public Instruction, I am pleased to say, and I want to thank them greatly, they furnished us with the individual losses that each school would suffer by reason of the latest tax equalization board's figures. We submitted the figures given to us to the reference bureau, and they prepared the amendments that we have before us today. I grant you the amendment probably isn't perfect. When you are trying to appropriate money to approximately two thousand school districts, there are bound to be errors here and there, but on the whole I would say that it is substantially correct.

Then you say, why are you doing it? Well, you look down through some of the losses and some counties suffered $501,000 losses. There are many cities that lose $60,000 and $70,000. I know in my little county, there is one township that will lose approximately $35,000 unless these amendments pass, and I know in that little township it will absolutely break them and they will become a distressed school district unless we give them some relief during this session of the General Assembly. They say, "Well, why don't they do something back home about it?" Well, I, for instance, called one school district in Pennsylvania and I said, "What are you people doing about it?" "Well, there are two of our districts who have levied nine mills; one levied 87 mills. We in this particular borough of State College, while we have held the real estate levy down to 33 mills, we have put on a one mill mercantile tax on retailers, one-half mill on wholesalers, one-half of one percent on income tax, five percent amusement tax, a $10 per capita tax and a one percent real estate transfer tax." So you can see what has been going on throughout the State in trying to make up the deficiency which we have not been giving them.

We called one district, and they said they were over $200,000 short and would have to resort to short-term loans. So we just made up our minds that the schools in general are very hard hit at this time by reason of the denial of the freeze clause and are looking to us at this session of the General Assembly to do something for them.

Again, I do want to be bipartisan in respect to this tax equalization board report. Suffice it to say that schools back home are losing money because of the report.

I might say this—and this is perhaps partisan—we have a statement from the city of Philadelphia wherein the finance director of the city of Philadelphia has recently said that Philadelphia did not, certainly does not, lose anything; that is, Philadelphia's valuation of real estate has not gone down as the tax equalization board reported. The finance director says, if anything, the value of real estate in Philadelphia has increased. In one of the papers recently we received the figures for the city of Philadelphia for 1962, and the 1962 taxable real estate is $4,098,000,000 as compared with the $4,028,000,000 in 1961, or an increase of $70,000,000 in the value of real estate in the city of Philadelphia alone. Whereas, the tax equalization board reports for purposes of school figures say that their valuation has gone down, which gives them more money.

I think that you will find that last year when we were discussing this, when the freeze clause allowed Philadelphia to keep their increase by reason of the tax equalization board report, we said at that time we do not begrudge Philadelphia this $3 million or $4 million because certainly in their expanding school district down there they need the money. But be that as it may, here and elsewhere in Pennsylvania the schools need this money.

Now, you are going to say to us, how irresponsible you are, offering amendments from $9.1 million and where are you going to get the money? Well, that does present a problem, but we feel that we have the answer to it. For instance, the Governor's budget right now for this current year said we will have an $8.9 million surplus. That is this year. Instead of the Governor giving us this $9 million surplus to the schools now it is budgeted to be spent in the next fiscal year. So that he will end with a $25,000 surplus, or something, in the year 1962-1963. We say that is wrong. That money should be spent now in this current fiscal year and given to the schools.

How are you getting that money? You are getting it through a $16-million lapse in this current year appropriations. I grant you some of them are continuing appropriations for other years, but the $8.9 million surplus right now is by reason of $16 million worth of lapses. I know, perhaps, for the Governor to sign this bill with the $9.1 million in it, Mr. Baldwin will have to come up with those lapses with particularities so that they can be put into the record of the budget bureau to match the bill. While Mr. Baldwin in the letter to Mr. Tompkins says, I am sorry but we will not know of this $16 million until the end of the year, but we think we are going to have $16 million. This is part of that so-called balanced budget you heard so much about.

But if we face the problem today on the $9.1 million that we try to find the $16 million in lapses, you face that same problem tomorrow when you vote House bill 1, because House bill 1 is predicated upon the $16 million lapse. So the Governor cannot sign the general appropriation bill anyhow until the lapses are found and inserted into the record with particularities.

So I say one of the places to get the money is right now in this biennium out of the $8.9 million. Another place to get it right now in this current fiscal year is from existing taxes. You all received information today—in fact you can read it in the paper—that in the first eight months of this year taxes are about $5 million ahead of the estimates. You say, well, that is a small amount, but Mr. McCann has an amendment that he wants to offer to House bill 1 later on which would take that $5 million and give it to the schools in 1962-1963. We say Mr. Baldwin could very well restate the estimate of taxes now for this current fiscal year and up them $9.1 million, based on the present experience of $5 million more and because of the additional money that is surely additional excess taxes that are surely going to come in now before the 30th of June.

How do you arrive at that? Yesterday at random I picked up the New York Times, and a Philadelphia item will give you an idea of what is going on in Pennsylvania. Here is a Philadelphia item report on business conditions throughout the United States. Philadelphia department store sales for the 1961 Christmas season reached a new high in the Third Federal Reserve District. The seasonal adjusted index of the Federal Reserve Banks of Philadelphia show district sales in December 9 percent above the 1960 level.

We all heard during December that if they got a 4 percent raise in sales it would be a tremendous increase over the year before. But this report of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia says the sales went up 9 percent on the average; in Wilmington, Delaware, 13 percent; and, of course, as little as 2 percent in Scranton. Well, that is obvious because Scranton is a distressed city.

So we say, instead of Mr. McCann offering amendments to House bill 1, spending this increase in revenue that they anticipate now, he does not need the amendment. All Mr. Baldwin and his estimators have to do is certify to the Governor that there is going to be $9.1 million more money coming in right now from existing taxes and you have got the money for the $9.1 million.

All right, how else can you get it? I have a report here —most of you have it—the report of the National Chamber of Commerce commenting on President Kennedy's budget. President Kennedy estimates that for the fiscal year starting July 1st the federal take from corporation income taxes will be $26.3 billion—$26.3 billion—compared to $21 billion for the year ending June 30th. In other words, President Kennedy is estimating that $5 billion more money is coming in this year from corporate taxes, or 24.88 percent.

Let us apply that figure to Pennsylvania then. Mr. Dougherty, the Secretary of Revenue, says, no, you cannot do that. You can only apply 13 percent in Pennsylvania because Pennsylvania is in the doldrums. We are losing population; we are losing steel production; we are losing this and that, so we cannot use President Kennedy's 24 percent—25 percent pretty near—we have to use 13.3 percent. And this federal $137 million in corporate taxes, which you are estimating for this current year, is a low figure because Pennsylvania is not doing as good as it should. It is not getting its share of the national corporate net profits, so says Mr. Dougherty, the Secretary of Revenue, because of these factors.

But I say if $137 million represents a downgraded low corporate tax for Pennsylvania because of these factors that are hurting our State, why cannot we develop our 25 percent to this low figure? If you do that, you will get an increase in corporate taxes of $35 million and then you are right in step with President Kennedy, who is supposed to know everything and be a great, wise person and has the approval of 80-some percent of the people in this Nation. Let us take his estimate of 24.88 percent and multiply it by $137 million, and you have got money for the freeze clause this year and the freeze clause next year and for the year after. But we only want it for now. Just multiply by another 4 percent and you have got the money.

I was in Pittsburgh the other day, and the Allegheny Ludlum Steel report came out. They made $11 million last year, compared with $8 million the year before, or an increase of 34 percent.

Now there is another way that you can find this money. I said you can get it from the current year's increase in revenue as indicated by this report that just came off the press in Mr. Baldwin's office, or you can increase the taxes next year, just the one item, the corporate net income tax, and only take about one-half again the figure of Mr. Kennedy, and you have the money.

Then we have another proposition. By the time you call up House bill 1, we will have amendments ready to cut governmental operations by 10 percent. Oh, you say, you can't do that. Well, we made a little study on the cost of running our government, just the operation of the government, the employees, and so on, on Capitol Hill. Just let me give you an idea of what has happened.

In the Department of Public Instruction, it cost $2.4 million to run that department in 1951. We arrived at that figure by taking the 1951-1952 budget figures and divided by two, and you get $2.4 million. Take the same figure now, and it is $7.2 million in ten years.

Here are some other figures. Let us take the Department of Revenue. I grant you that their job has increased. They spent $3.1 million in 1951, and they want $12.4 million now.

Internal Affairs, $600,000 in 1951, and now it is $1.573 million. But you have cut it $100,000, so it would be about $1.4 million.

So we say that there is a tremendous amount of, let us say, unnecessary expenditures increasing the cost of running Capitol Hill from around $30 million, or something like that ten years ago, to $77 million or $80 million now. If we can just cut that 10 percent, this plus a few other small items, you have got the $9 million.

So I say, the State is not broke. We have got plenty of money. The school districts need this money desperately, and I am asking everybody in this House, on both sides of the aisle, to vote this money for the schools.

Another thing, you say that elsewhere in the budget we are offering ten percent amendments. You know in 1959-1961 you had lapses of $42 million; this year, lapses of $16 million. Mr. Baldwin, at the budget hearings, had a lot of say about attrition. The reason that the salary figure is not higher, he said, is because of attrition, attrition meaning a man is laid off today or becomes deceased or quits and it is two or three months before you replace him. It is an attrition factor. Apply that attrition factor to a billion dollars. There is attrition even in the entire budget. You cannot spend a billion dollars in one year. Why? Because you have to advertise; you have got to enter into contracts; you have got to look at samples; you have got to do this and that, and it is pretty hard in this one year's time to spend a million dollars.

Therefore, elsewhere in the budget, if you want to, you can find $9.1 million without even buying our amendments at 10 percent. So I say with the increase in economy, with the money that you expect to get now, the money is available and I am asking every member in the House to vote for these amendments.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I am not really going to debate these amendments, but I think we have gone pretty far afield in discussing finances here, so I think I am well within my rights to set straight some of the statements that have been made by the distinguished gentleman from McKean, the minority leader, Mr. Johnson.

He certainly gives us a very rosy picture. I am going to give you the fiscal facts which you can verify anytime.

If the amendments that are proposed, which cost $9,130,-072, were adopted and went to the Governor's desk, he could not sign them because the appropriation base today, unappropriated, is $42,384.91. The lapses that have been made and were in the process of being made and have now been made amount to $7,220,258.91. The regular deficiencies as required by law which is in House bill 57 is $7,136,390. That left an appropriation base of $83,868.91. We have on our calendar, House bill 73 and House bill 80, which are for additional appropriations in the 1961-1962 fiscal year, which reduce that by $41,484 to an unappropriated balance of $42,384.91. Those are the facts.

Now, Mr. Johnson says, Mr. Speaker, that he has read this report and there is $5 million additional revenue and that the budget secretary could very readily put in a new estimate. If you will digest this report and make an analysis of it, as I am sure as good an accountant as Mr. Johnson could, he will find that only in two areas—only in two areas—have the taxes exceeded. That is where this $9 million comes in and we take off the $4 million we are short, and it is true, for the eight-month period we are approximately $5 million ahead. But I want to call his attention to two things. It is in only two areas, corporate net income tax and in the inheritance tax. The inheritance tax is something that does not come in on a monthly basis. It can run far behind or it can run far ahead. The monthly estimates used are simply dividing the total amount in this particular budget by 13. It is true they are ahead, but if you refer to the other categories you will find they are running behind.

To show how carefully the revenue estimates are following the actual receipts, I would like Mr. Johnson to refer to this graph which was sent to all members of the House. The dotted line is the estimated revenue and, if you will follow the actual line, which is the dark black, you will find it is practically on an even keel. There is no reason—and I have discussed this as late as two hours ago with both Revenue and the Office of Administration—there is no reason whatever to anticipate that they are going to be anything ahead more than the amount we have shown and we are going to collect on the revenue estimates. There is absolutely no evidence whatever that indicates that there will be any surplus above that.

I am going to say this. I hope everybody is wrong, that there will be a big surplus. I hope Mr. Johnson is right, but you cannot sign appropriation bills against an intangible factor, that by the end of the fiscal year we may have additional money. You also cannot sign appropriation bills against the factor that we may lapse money. You can only sign appropriation bills on the basis of the unappropriated amount, which I have given to you.

Mr. Johnson also said that the Governor could not sign the general appropriations bill. That is incorrect. With the general appropriations bill and all the appropriations bills, as they stand here today and if the amendments are adopted which slightly change them, we are within $2,782. In other words, we would have an unappropriated balance of $2,782, and the revenue estimates have been made and have been certified. Therefore, the Governor can sign all these bills.

Now when we are talking about House bill 57, we are talking about a deficiency bill, and there is absolutely no way the Governor can sign that bill at this time. I am not going to debate the merits of the amendments in any way. I am not debating the figures in any way. I am simply giving you the facts.

It seems to me that when we talk here, in early February, about raising the revenue estimates on the fiscal year that does not start until July 1, we certainly are getting away from fiscal responsibility. I think we are going to have to follow the people who have been right, and if anybody has been right in this Commonwealth, or as nearly right as possible in the revenue estimates, it has been the Department of Revenue. I certainly am happy that we never followed some of the other estimates that were given to us or we really would have been in a sorry mess.

If Mr. Johnson will follow that graph and the members of the House can look at theirs, they will see that the revenues are running on an even keel in line with the estimates. While we are over in some areas, we are behind in others. It is true that in January the sales tax collections did pick up. That is a normal thing for them to do, but overall the sales tax collections, which is the best indicator of general business conditions, are running slightly behind.

The other factor is the corporate net income tax, which reflects the increase at this time. We are now receiving the 80 percent acceleration of those who report on a fiscal year basis and, after analyzing that, it does not reflect in any way, that we can see, that there is any increase promised. And by the way, our revenue estimates here are based in part on the figures that the different corporations, the leading corporations of Pennsylvania, have told the department will be the basis on which they will pay their taxes.

If they are wrong and if they are kidding us, then perhaps the revenue estimates are wrong in corporate net. But when we take all the factors into the rule we are using, along with what the corporations themselves say, I do not think it would be safe to raise any of the tax estimates one single dollar.

Mr. Speaker, What I have attempted to do here today is to give you the plain fiscal facts as they exist. Anyone who wants to see them, I can furnish them further. Thank you.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from York, Mr. Gailey.

Mr. GAILEY. Mr. Speaker, will the minority leader consent to be interrogated briefly?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the minority leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I will, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. GAILEY. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman advise us whether or not the list of school districts which is attached, in which are his amendments to this House bill, includes every school district in the Commonwealth of every class?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. No, as stated, it only includes those that will lose revenue by reason of the tax equalization board certification.

Mr. GAILEY. So that there are some districts, am I correct in stating, of the third class, some in the fourth class, some perhaps in the fifth class, if they go down that low, that will not receive additional funds by virtue of these amendments, is that correct?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. That is correct.

Mr. GAILEY. The second question that I want to ask the gentleman, Mr. Speaker, is, am I correct also in assuming that the impact of these amendments would be the same as if this body were voting to freeze the State tax equalization figures at a prior level? Is that correct?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. That is correct. These figures, however, give in to the most recent certification. So, it is another polite way of getting around the unconstitutional, so-called unconstitutional, freeze clause inserted in the bill last year.

Mr. GAILEY. I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker.

I am glad the gentleman from McKean was the first to mention the word "unconstitutional." And I will hear it. I do not hold myself out to be a constitutional lawyer. Certainly the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Bowman, and the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack, are perhaps two of the leading exponents on constitutional questions here on the floor of the House. But, I, as a lawyer, and I think all of us as lawyers have reason to go to the basis of our statute law and that is our Pennsylvania Constitution, at one time or another, and I, over the weekend, did that when I received this amendment in printed form from the chief clerk of the House this past week. I was struck by some very unusual aspects of it and that is, as every member knows as they look at it, it makes a specific appropriation to specific school districts. Now, after all, I think we are all conversant with the provision of our State Constitution which says that all taxes must be uniform. Now, there is a somewhat similar provision with regard to expenditures, as it were, and I am referring, as I am sure most of the lawyers here know, to Article III, section 7, of our State Constitution that says, "The General Assembly shall not pass any local or special law that," then it enumerates a long list of things and includes, among others, regulating the affairs of local municipalities or local school districts. "The General Assembly shall not pass any local or special law regulating the affairs of the school districts."

So, the question is, what do "affairs" mean? Are the moneys given by the Commonwealth to a local school district the affairs of the local school districts? I suggest to the members of this General Assembly that this is very obviously the affairs of the local school districts. I will not bother citing you long excerpts from past law, but for those counsel here in the House who may be interested, I would like to refer them to the case of Montgomery vs Commonwealth, which is found in 91 Pennsylvania Supreme Court, 125, and Frost vs Cherry in 122 Pennsylvania 426 Supreme Court, page 426. Both those cases treat on this very issue, Article III, section 7, on special or local legislation, and they say in effect that the test is, does this law, this local or special law, if it concerns the great body of people of the affected local municipality, be it a school district or county or township or what have you. Montgomery vs Commonwealth goes further and says that anything that affects the people of the district and certainly a direct appropriation by the Commonwealth to the local districts will have a very substantial effect on the local districts. White's Commentaries on the Constitution, which is probably the leading set of commentaries on our Pennsylvania State Constitution, says that "affairs," as used here, is to be construed very broadly.

So, I think it is without question that this is local or special legislation if it deals differently with different school districts. I think the members will recall in response to my question to the gentleman from McKean, when I asked him whether the third, fourth and fifth class districts were omitted, said, yes, they were. So that they are not all treated equally and as such I think, without question, this is special or local legislation. You know this leads us into an interesting by-pass. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack, and, I believe other gentlemen on the floor of the House entered into it on the question of Berks County, wasn't it in Berks County, early in the past session, on the question of local or special legislation, and while I have not asked the minority leader, I would be willing to bet my bottom dollar that the introduction of this particular piece of legislation was not advertised thirty days prior to its introduction as our Constitution in Article III, section 8, so requires. It is local and special legislation and you can do it, but you have to advertise it. And of course this has not been done. Why has it not been done? Because, in spite of its unconstitutional aspects, it is not a constitutional question; it is a political question. There are other sections of the Constitution also which very clearly, to my mind, it violates. I call to the attention of this body Article III, section 1, which says that no bill shall be altered or amended so as to change its original purpose.

We all know by looking at the bill it is a deficiency appropriation bill, calculated to make up deficiencies in appropriations that we made previously.

Now it may be that the budgets in various school districts around the Commonwealth are deficient in funds. I do not think anyone will question that. There probably is not a school district in the Commonwealth that cannot be said to be deficient in some areas. However, there is a big difference between not having enough money, being deficient that way on the local level and being a deficiency appropriation, which this bill is.

In other words, this is the deficiency appropriation bill, and yet attached to it are brand new appropriations. It was not conceived at the time that we passed the original appropriation bill that payments of this sort would be made. So that in no sense can these amendments be said to be deficiency appropriations, and they must be deficiency appropriations if they are properly on the bill itself.

I think also that this particular amendment is violating Article X, section 1, of our Constitution, and this is the article which treats very directly on the duties of the legislature in the area of education. It says the General Assembly shall provide for the maintenance and support of a thorough and efficient system of public schools. This charge has been laid upon us for many years and it is one that we like to think we have met to the best of our abilities. But the important thing to remember is that we must do it with a proper system.

The system of state subsidies which we have set forth on our statute books is a proper system. It has been upheld by the courts. I call your attention once again, those who are interested, to two recent Supreme Court cases, that of Glen Alden Coal Company against the State Tax Equalization Board and that of the Newport Township School District against the State Tax Equalization Board, in 367 Pa. 63 and 366 Pa. 603, respectively.

In both cases the Supreme Court upheld the findings of the state tax equalization board. And among other findings in the case, the court said that the whole reason and purpose for a State tax equalization board, the whole reason for it to make findings as to market values was to enable the subsidies to be divided fairly and to provide a simple equitable basis for allocations to the school districts.

We have supplied such a proper system for our education. But when we attempt, as we do here—even assuming that it was constitutional in other aspects—to disrupt this system, once again it is favoring certain districts over others.

Finally, the gentleman has admitted on the floor, as we all heard him say, that this is just another way, he said a constitutional way, of attempting to insert the so-called freeze clause into an appropriation bill. Well, it has been so recent I need not do more than refer to it, and that is the attorney general's opinion of June of last year when the so-called freeze clause was considered on the general appropriations bill. It has been stated boldly on the floor of the House, without any pretense, that this does the same thing; only we are doing it by the back door. And

I suggest to you that once again, on this count also these amendments are unconstitutional.

Now I do not for one minute, unfortunately, believe that I am going to convince anyone to vote against these amendments by that which I have said here on the floor. I think the reason is this: I do not think that there is a lawyer—and there are a lot of us here in the House—sitting here in this House who under oath would not state that he believes these amendments would be unconstitutional. I do say, however, unfortunately, many of us are willing to attempt to assert partisan political purposes above our duties here in Harrisburg. And I say that these amendments are cynical. They are cynical politics of the worst sort.

I suggest the sponsors of these amendments, the people who are supporting them, know very well that these amendments are unconstitutional and as such the Governor cannot sign them. To the school districts involved, in effect, we are saying, here, we are trying to do something for you. We are patting ourselves on the back. We are attempting to make ourselves out to be generous patrons of public education here in the Commonwealth, but we know, we know, that that which we offer to them is nothing but a fraud and an illusion.

All the members of this House should be willing to appropriate the necessary funds to pay for our State educational system, but we cannot do it in this way. We must meet the problem straightforwardly; we must do it with proper taxes. We must do it not by way of subterfuge or for political advantage. I suggest that that is the sole purpose of these amendments, and I would ask every member of the House to vote against them.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Boies.

Mr. BOIES. Mr. Speaker, I am not going to attempt to argue the constitutionality—I am not qualified to argue the constitutionality—but as a layman there is one thing that has been said about the difference of the appropriations to different school districts, and I cannot see as a layman what difference it would make if you would make different appropriations to a hospital in one section and a hospital in the other section, why it would be any different making a different appropriation to a school district. Maybe I am all wrong but it seems to me as a matter of common sense, the two would be similar. But, there is a number one victim of this, shall I say, the infamous tax equalization board, the board that was designated by the Dauphin County Court as irresponsible, capricious.

I think that this House and the Senate both expressed their desires and the wishes of their constituents when they voted for the freeze clause in the last session. They showed their desire to help out these school districts that had been imposed upon. That is my sole reason for appealing for votes now in support of our brethren on the other side of the aisle. Once in a while they do come up with something that is right.

Mr. Speaker, these school districts which are suffering from the action of this board, through no fault of their own, through an unjustifiable and an illogical system of reaching these figures, certainly can be bailed out, in my estimation. Now, that was shown, as I said before, in our vote for the freeze clause. None of the master minds of the administration or the tax equalization board either did a thing about it, not a single thing to remedy this injustice when it was done, and I say this, if we do not do anything else, we will at least express the feeling, the desire, the belief of this legislature in doing something that their people want them to do.

On questioning this board before the Appropriations hearings, they admitted that their only basis for reaching these valuation figures was the county assessment and real estate sales. Now, in the one-industry town, such as I represent, there are no industrial properties there. When does the United States Steel Company sell any property? Our property sales are a few homes which are very desirable homes, but they are bought by people who want to live in that town, regardless of the price that they pay for the property. There is such an infinitesemal amount, that the real estate values on such sales are absolutely ridiculous. Therefore, I ask the members on both sides of the House, as a matter of fairness, whether or not it is constitutional or whether or not the Governor is going to veto it, to express the intent and the wishes of this legislature to get a fair and equitable system of subsidizing the school districts.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Kramer.

Mr. KRAMER. Mr. Speaker, I listened with great interest to the remarks of our esteemed Speaker, Mr. Andrews. He said that he hoped we would not get caught in a cold war on the floor of this House. As I stand here I say to him, I wish I had sufficient support from my people in Pittsburgh to start a hot war.

Doctor Boies, the gentleman from Allegheny, speaks about the number one victim. In my opinion the number one victim is, collectively the taxpayers of the city of Pittsburgh.

It was pointed out by the gentleman from York County, Mr. Gailey, that the whole purpose of having this subsidy formula of the tax equalization board is to attempt to equalize the local effort payments are the State subsidy among the various school districts in Pennsylvania.

As you all remember, about six months ago I presented an amendment to that formula and there were great gasps that came from the floor of this House because we are not allowed to touch this sacred formula. Now, what are they doing? They are not amending the formula. They are circumventing the whole thing. They are going to get some extra dough for their people by the side or back door.

These amendments as stated would cost some $9 million. If our city of Pittsburgh is providing some $25 million of sales tax money for this fund, that is 25 over 400 or about 1/16th. That means that my people back in Pittsburgh are going to have to provide over about half a million dollars for these select school districts whose property values just happened to go up. And isn't that a wonderful thing.

Just today I asked the budget department to give me some statistics on McKean County, because the gentleman who presented these amendments is from McKean County. I want you to listen to this. During the 1959 to 1961 biennieum, the people of McKean County paid into our treasury by way of sales taxes, $1,809,500. Now, do you want to know what they got by way of subsidies for their schools up there—and it is wonderful and I am glad they got it—they got $5,488,898, or they got $3,679,398 more than they paid in. How did this happen? This happens because of this screwy formula. I cannot agree with the gentleman from York that it is a proper formula. It is a terrible formula as far as we are concerned in Pittsburgh. I say to you, on page 24 of this long amendment, the gentleman from McKean wants, in addition to the $3.6 million, an additional $85 thousand and we are supposed to pay for it. No, siree, Mr. Speaker, this is a bad amendment. It is unconstitutional, and we should vote it down, period.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. McNally.

Mr. McNALLY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the minority leader, please.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the minority leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McNALLY. Mr. Speaker, is it not true that the formula that you have put out assists only the rich districts and does nothing at all for the poor districts?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. No, that is not true. This is an appropriation to some 2,000 districts and it is supposed to have been scientifically prepared by the Department of Public Instruction to reimburse districts for their losses by reason of tax equalization board figures which we have stated we think are unfair.

Mr. McNALLY. In going over the districts, Mr. Speaker, in my county—and I do not think they are much different in any other county—I find that the rich districts are getting richer and the poor districts are getting poorer. For instance we have one district which received $15,000. The local tax effort is compensated to a degree that they are not in trouble. We have another district that in the beginning of the year owed $119,000. By the end of 1962 they will owe $171,000, and they are getting $1,310. I just do not believe that it is equitable. On the other hand, $1,310 is $1,310, and I plan on voting for it.

Believe me, Mr. Speaker, I believe the gentleman from McKean could possibly have come up with a better formula than the one he did.

I have here a letter from the president of our school district supervisors. I am not going to take up the time to read it, but I would like to insert it into the record.

Mr. McNALLY submitted the following letter for the record:

FERNDALE-DALE JOINT SCHOOLS
600 Harlan Avenue
JOHNSTOWN, PENNSYLVANIA

February 5, 1962

Assemblyman Edward W. McNally,
1646 Colonial Street
Johnstown, Pennsylvania

Dear Mr. McNally:

This letter is being written as a result of several suggestions which were agreed upon during your informative and cordial meeting with representatives of our County Chief School Administrators.

We did agree that House Bill #57 would aid many of our county school districts and that it most certainly should have the support of our Representatives. However, it was agreed that if 9 million dollars is available for education it could be more evenly and equitably distributed by other methods. We suggested that a broader and more equal deficiency appropriation amendment be presented by the Democratic Leadership that will in effect "bail out" all school districts in the Commonwealth on an equal basis. By taking just 18 million dollars from the 100 million dollar windfall that has resulted from our going from a 13 month year to a 12 month year, and placing it with education, the effect would be similar to the $6,200 subsidy base that was voted down by the Senate this past year. We point out again that the money is available and it could be spelled out on a district by district share, based upon units of instruction multiplied by standard reimbursement fractions. This would in effect allow each school district, all of which have been deprived of subsidy base increases over the past 4 years, to share in a deficiency appropriation bill.

Following a discussion on the Reorganization Act (#561) and the statement by Mr. Farabaugh that amendments rather than repeal were most likely to succeed, your request for such amendments will be forth coming. At the suggestion of Dr. Stull, a committee composed of County School Directors and School Administrators will meet and draw up a series of amendments that would be favorable to most districts in Cambria County.

We want to further remind you that we do not need 73 additional Auditors to audit the books of more than twenty school districts in Cambria County who are and have been operating on short term loans—what they need is money!

On behalf of the Cambria County Association of Chief School Administrators, I want to take this opportunity to thank you most sincerely for inviting a representative committee to meet with you and Mr. Farabaugh for the purpose of discussing these most urgent issues. Our Association will be more than willing to meet with you and your colleagues at any future time for discussions concerning the educational welfare of the children of our County.

Very truly yours,
S. Ray Grimm, Jr.
President, Cambria County Association of Chief School Administrators

SRG:elk

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Adams, Mr. Worley.

Mr. WORLEY. Because of the lateness of the hour I want to say that I rise to support these amendments. Without these amendments Adams County would lose $32,056, and I would like to submit my remarks, in addition to that, to be printed in the record.

Mr. WORLEY submitted the following remarks for the record:

I rise to my feet in support of these amendments. $32,056 is being restored for Adams County by these amendments. Without these amendments, Upper Adams Merger would lose $10,848, New Oxford Merger would lose $7,178, Berwick Township would lose $236, Conewago Independent would lose $30, Cumberland Township would lose $1,648, East Berlin Borough would lose $434, Fairfield Borough would lose $262, Franklin Township would lose $1,979, Germany Township would lose $1,160, Hamiltonban Township would lose $2,152, Highland Township would lose $605, Huntington Township would lose $791, Latimore Township would lose $1,350, Liberty Township would lose $1,232, Mount Joy Township would lose $683, Mount Pleasant Township would lose $470, Union Township would lose $65, and York Springs Borough would lose $934.

Why take this money away from these districts which need it? We need these amendments. Let's vote for them now.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Carbon, Mr. Bonner.

Mr. BONNER. I desire to interrogate the minority leader.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the minority leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BONNER. Mr. Speaker, I would ask the minority leader who verified these figures?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. The question asked me is, who certified these changes. I believe I stated the figures are by reason of certifications by the tax equalization board, and the basis for the amendments is this list of losses to the various school districts as furnished by the Department of Public Instruction. They were delivered to the reference bureau and from these figures the reference bureau made the amendments to date.

Mr. BONNER. I thank the gentleman.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I realize that regardless of what I may say the amendments will come to pass in today's session. I am also aware that we owe a responsibility, whether in the minority or majority, and today I say that the amendments you have proposed are really nothing more than fakery in their greatest attempt on the school districts of Pennsylvania and no one else. To do something honestly and to work to do it to help carries with it an obligation of knowing what you are doing as well as fulfilling that promise.

When Mr. Johnson spoke a while ago he reminisced as to what happened, how the freeze occurred, how we came to vote for it, the program that was presented. I bring to your attention that when you talk about additional money to a district, whether it be my own or yours, that the tax equalization report, whether you like it or not, determines the market value of that school district, that that market value is determined also in its respective county by its county commissioners, or whoever they may have hired to do this.

For example, I noticed and I asked the tax equalization board, and I asked 13 counties that have completed an equalization report, all completed by the same firm employed by each of these respective counties. Curiously enough, the assessed market value of the townships and the cities in these counties are greater on the county books than they are in the tax equalization figures that we use here.

Of course, the counties range from 45 percent to as low as, perhaps, 4 percent. I am not going to dwell on this very long, but if the market value is a million dollars in a specific school district and the tax equalization report is less, we will say it is $900,000 market value and in the district it is a million, there is no question that on the local level the school board has the advantage of the market value determined in the county to help raise its local taxes, which it must do.

I am not here defending in any way the fairness or unfairness of how they determine the market value report, but in my humble opinion each county that does its own surely must have a system that it believes proper in determining the market value.

Mr. Johnson's amendments give you specific school districts which because of their increased market value would give them additional money because with the increased market value they are then reduced on the State reimbursement fraction proportionately in that school district. I know that whichever way you argue you will forever have a hassle on this in this House, whether you come from the city, the urban area, or the rural area. Basically speaking, there has not been a single soul come forward with a better plan up to the present date to try to equally and properly distribute this money to resolve these questions on market value as far as the State tax equalization board is concerned and the law that you live under.

I would say that there is a question about fiscal responsibility that certainly has to be faced in more ways than one and I think you and I must agree that in leadership you must face that responsibility and face it properly and attempt to do something proper.

We as Democrats a year ago proposed for every school district in Pennsylvania from 5,800 to 6,200, an increase in a teaching unit, and we provided the taxes to pay for it and we voted and passed it.

At that point there was not a single Republican vote for that measure, agreeing only that you were for the program, but disagreeing as to how you would pay for it. That program, compared to the amendments offered by Mr. Johnson, are here tabulated for every school district in Pennsylvania, all 2,400-and-some that properly fall in this category.

This amendment that he has offered today, of course, to me is amazing in more ways than one. I listened carefully as he spoke about the yield of revenue. I assumed that I heard correctly that it would exceed a certain figure. Mr. Johnson on the revenue estimates hearings on the 23rd day of January, beginning at 5:15 p. m., stated himself, which is on the record, "I feel this way. We Republicans in all sincerity are trying to get the money, as I announced for the schools. I grant you we have not been able to find any." This is from the disk and on the record of the appropriations hearing. If this be the case, perhaps now it makes another picture in providing the money to pay for this.

There is no one who wants to do more for the schools than we do in the General Assembly, Republican and Democrat. I guess we differ as to how we should do it, or how we hope we can do it, but, you will quite well have to agree that, when you leave out some school districts in appropriating money, you run into this problem, whether you call it a deficiency or whether you would use the words "additional appropriation," which would have made another category in the appropriations to the school districts.

I think you know quite well we cannot appropriate to some and leave some out. The public school system of this Commonwealth has all the categories, the first class, the second class, the third class and the fourth class school districts. That is all there are and it covers all of them.

I am well aware that it is a rather feeble attempt on my part to stand here and debate and fight, which we could do by the hour on these proposed amendments, because when the roll call shall be taken these amendments will pass. I notice that many members are deeply worried about this situation. There is no question, as the amendments are now written and as they will go into House bill 57, that they will be vetoed as being unconstitutional should they reach the Governor's desk.

As I mentioned to Mr. Johnson today, we asked the attorney general of the Commonwealth and his assistant deputy attorney general to meet with us in conference last night to ask him specific questions regarding these amendments, so that we would know exactly the answer we would face in this situation, not attempting to change any of the picture, only to have the technical questions answered. These were answered that this is special legislation in every category by naming each school district, and, in addition to that, attaching it to a deficiency appropriation bill.

So, Mr. Speaker, may I say to the members, and I appreciate the hundreds who have tried to help and those who have rendered hours of service in trying to assist in this problem in every manner, when they do vote and they vote "aye," which many will, that they know exactly the situation they are confronted with as they vote for these amendments.

I cannot in any way overcome any of these arguments, nor shall I attempt to, and at no time shall I feel any bitterness about this situation, because basically you have offered the amendments, we have distributed them to all the members, and each of you has carefully checked his own school district. Many have complained that they are not proper as to the amounts. As members have indicated to me, they thought that this district should receive more in their county and the other less. But that, of course, was determined by those who worked out the formula of the amounts of money you have placed in your amendments.

So with that, Mr. Speaker, I will ask to insert into the record the report of the tax equalization board on the counties I spoke about, showing that it was done by one company in each of the respective counties, and the percentage is less than the market value reported in the respective counties, and an editorial from the Patriot of February 1, 1962.

I shall also ask permission to insert any other reports for members who may request permission to do so or to file reasons for the manner in which they vote. Their statements may be filed in the record, if they so wish.

State Tax Equalization Board
Market Values

To:
Honorable Stephen McCann
Majority Leader
House of Representatives

From:
Mr. John Bevec, Chairman
State Tax Equalization Board

The State Tax Equalization Board in determining market values applies uniform basic procedures to available information in all school districts. Despite this uniform application, the question has arisen as to whether the board's approach is biased against small rural districts.

To assist in answering this question, we are attaching tabulations of market values as determined by an independent appraisal company and by the State Tax Equalization Board. The following summary shows the board's market values are conservative as compared to the appraisal company and more so in small rural second class townships:

	MARKET VALUE
	Second Class Townships	Cities
Appraisal Company	$2,294,873,205	$1,429,546,860
State Tax Equalization Board 1960	1,798,987,700	1,292,192,400
STEB less than Appraisal Company (Median)	—25%	—14%

The fact that market value variances between board and appraisal company are not uniform from county to county can be due to a combination of circumstances: (1) varying dates of appraisal and periods selected by appraisal company for basing market value evidence; (2) differences in valuation policies of county commissioners from county to county; (3) properties heretofore not on tax rolls picked up by appraisal company but not reflected by STEB until coming certification; (4) difference in basic approach, appraisal company uses costs while STEB uses sales-ratios; (5) changes by county commissioners subsequent to original appraisal; and (6) availability of information to the State Tax Equalization Board.

Despite these complexities, the comparisons show a pattern of board market values that are neither excessive nor biased against small rural districts.

SCHOOL DISTRICTS AND SUBSIDIES:

'Ability-to-Pay' Formula Shouldn't Be Compromised

There are two serious things wrong with the Republican-backed move in the House to restore more than $9 million in State subsidies that about 2,000 school districts stand to lose this year.

One is as simple as black and red. Governor Lawrence's proposed budget is barely in balance, and there's little likelihood that this much extra money can be found without upsetting the balance. The Governor is correct in opposing major spending increases unless they are accompanied by means to finance them.

The second thing wrong with the move is more complex than this. But it's at least as important.

Few State governments have as active a role in financing public school education as does Pennsylvania. Under the subsidy system that was introduced after the war, the share of public education costs the State assumes has risen steeply and steadily until it now hovers at about the 50 per cent mark.

This subsidy system is far from perfect. It does little to elicit local school-support effort, which is one reason the State is now spending so much. But it does have a supreme virtue—its formula of fiscal equalization. The poorer a school district in terms of market value of real property per pupil, the greater the portion of its basic education costs the State will bear.

The equalization-of-wealth factor is, or should be, a fundamental concept in state education aid. But it's precisely this concept that would be compromised by the move to give to school districts the money they would naturally lose.

These are not necessarily poor districts or rich districts. These are districts that on the equalization scale have been getting more prosperous. The 1959 report of the Tax Equalization Board revised real estate market values from their 1957 levels. The taxable wealth per pupil of some school districts increased, and their subsidies should have decreased; the wealth of the others went down, and their subsidies were due to go up. The Republicans controlling the 1959 Senate, however, decided to tamper with the formula. They forced through an amendment that maintained the subsidy increases but spared the losses. It was a foolish precedent.

Back came the free clause last year as an amendment to a general appropriations bill. The Governor vetoed it. But here we go again for a third time around.

Now it's one thing to favor more aid to public schools. It's quite another to rig artificial subsidies for districts that are becoming better able to pay their way. If aid is to go up, it should come via an increase in the basic subsidy (now $5,800 per class of pupils) figured on the present equalization formula or on a new formula that retains equalization while stimulating local effort.

The current Republican plan would push State spending up at the cost of eroding the ability-to-pay principle. That's ample reason for the Legislature to squash it.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. A. W. JOHNSON and McCANN and were as follows:

So the question was determined in the affirmative and the amendments were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, that the bill as amended lie over for printing.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) IN THE CHAIR.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the able former Speaker for having presided.

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack, rise?

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, for the purpose of making a brief statement.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no objection. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. McCORMACK. It is relative to the amendment that was just passed. I did not get into the debate but what concerns me very much, Mr. Speaker, being a lawyer, there are a lot of knowledgeable men in this legislature and men who are convinced that the amendment just passed was unconstitutional. Now, I know there are a lot of practical politics involved in this, but at the same time and perhaps after viewing this debate maybe I realize that I should not be in this chamber. We have taken an oath to obey and uphold the Constitution of the Commonwealth. Despite that fact, practical politics rules. There are men in here who voted "aye" on this amendment and I say that is a disservice, not only to the people, but to the Constitution under which we operate.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, very quickly, I think there are people in this House who are just as strongly convinced that these amendments are constitutional. That clause that was mentioned in our constitution says that we shall not pass a special law regulating the management of school districts. These amendments do not manage the school districts in any particular and it would take a great deal of one's imagination to think of giving a school district money to manage a school district.

The SPEAKER. The minority leader need not get excited. The gentleman from Philadelphia is shooting simply at the Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, may I very briefly clear up that point. I have voted for bills that later have proved to be unconstitutional in the House. I am not questioning you at all. I am not questioning any member of this House to vote yes or no on the amendment, but what I am saying is this, if you believe sincerely in your heart and soul that this amendment is unconstitutional, then you have a duty to uphold the constitution and to vote "no" because of how it will affect you in your district in the primary campaign. I am not at all questioning anybody else. They can do as they like. They have a right to do it. But, where you are convinced, sir, that it is unconstitutional and it is so stated to the people, then it is wrong and you are violating the constitution, period.

BIRTHDAY

The SPEAKER. This happens to be the birthday of the gentleman from Northampton County, Mr. Prendergast. It might be all right to have a song.

Mr. DENGLER. Mr. Speaker, let us sing "Happy Birthday, dear Jim." I think it would be good if we all sang from our hearts.

(Members joined in singing "Happy Birthday.")

Mr. PRENDERGAST. It has been a privilege to serve with the members on both sides of the House and these past three years have been very rewarding. I celebrated my birthday with my family yesterday, and I just want some of my closest friends to know that I think Harrisburg is another good place to celebrate it. Thank you, very much.

The SPEAKER. Has the majority leader any directions to the Chair as to the order in which various ones whom he knows have amendments to offer should be recognized?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, there are a series of amendments to various bills. I would like the House to be at ease for a couple of minutes while I have a conference with the Speaker and the floor leader.

(The House was at ease).

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I request permission to turn to page 1 of today's calendar and begin with House bill 2.

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House bill No. 11, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Health for payments to municipalities and municipality authorities under the provisions of the act of August 20, 1952 (P. L. 1217), entitled "An act providing for the payments by the Commonwealth to municipalities which have expended money to acquire and construct sewage treatment plants in accordance with the Clean Streams Program and the act approved the twenty-second day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (Pamphlet Laws 1987) and making an appropriation" and for the repair improvements or additions of certain sewage treatment plants.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. MURPHY offered the following amendment:

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, lines 1 and 2 by striking out "four million fifty-eight thousand thirty-eight dollars ($4,058,038)" and inserting: six million eight hundred thousand dollars ($6,800,000).

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I take it these amendments increase the amount of money for local sewage disposal plants from the present figure of $4,058,038 to $6,800,000. Now I am addressing my question to Mr. Murphy. Is that correct?

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is correct. That will raise it to the statutory 2 percent contribution by the State.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, we on the Republican side, with a fine assist from members on the Democratic side, today accepted $9.1 million of appropriations to the schools. We certainly are going to have to try and help the administration find this $9.1 million. That is the main objective as I see it, to try to help these beleaguered school districts. While these municipalities need this money, and my heart goes out to them, until we first have the $9.1 million, I do not see how we can accept this increase for the local municipality. I know it is an admirable thing and they should get the full 2 percent that the law provides, but, first, find out whether the $9.1 million is available. If you can show me that you have the $9.1 million plus $2.8 million more for this amendment, all right. Otherwise, I believe that the position we are in with our amendments, I do not see how we can go along with your amendment.

Mr. MURPHY. Mr. Speaker, I do not think it should be up to me to point out to Mr. Johnson where he is going to get his $9 million. That suggestion was his and that amendment was his. I am only concerned with the $2 million in this particular appropriation.

Up until 1961 a total sum of $258 million has been expended by local municipalities on sewage disposal. This is a program that has been mandated to local municipalities by the Commonwealth. During that same period of time, when the local municipalities spent $258 million, the Commonwealth expended only $16 million, although they had been forcing upon the municipalities a deadline to secure this sewage disposal. Sewage disposal has become a very important item in view of Project 70 of which we are all aware, of which the basic underlying fact will, of course, be pure and clean streams in Pennsylvania.

We have a statutory contribution of 2 percent annual rental charges to local municipalities. For many years now we have been unable to meet this because of inadequate appropriations. If we are to merely squeeze out an additional $2 million on the 1962 budget we will be in a position to provide each municipality with a 2 percent contribution or reimbursement for their sewage disposal. I certainly think that is not too much to ask when several years ago this legislature imposed sewage disposal upon those municipalities.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I ask the membership to vote "no" on the amendments offered by the gentleman from Washington County.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. A. J. MURPHY and McCANN and were as follows:

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I request permission to go to page 1, to House bill 1, and the amendments that are agreed to will go into the bill and the others will be debated tomorrow.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, there are two amendments which were presented to Rules Committee this morning which I understand are not controversial; however, we will want to debate the amendments taking the surplus in revenue from this current year and giving it to next year. We will want to debate that, so that, in a sense, is controversial.

Mr. McCANN. All right, Mr. Speaker, then we will call up House bill 1 and there will be a total of three amendments that will be agreed to even though there will be debate. Mr. Polen will offer two and I have one. The other amendments to the bill will be offered tomorrow.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,
The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House bill No. 1, entitled:

An Act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the Executive Legislative and Judicial Departments of the Commonwealth interest on the public debt and for public schools for the fiscal year July 1, 1962 to June 30, 1963 and for the payment of bills incurred and remaining unpaid at the close of the fiscal period ending June 30, 1962.

Amend Sec. 2, page 44, line 9 by striking out "the" and inserting: The

They were agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. McCANN offered the following amendment:

Amend Section 2, page 38, by inserting after line 14: All general fund revenues actually received during the fiscal period 1961-62 in excess of the estimated total general fund revenues available for appropriation for the said fiscal period, amounting to one billion, twenty-three million, eight hundred fifty-four thousand dollars (1,023,854,-000.00) as certified by the Secretary of Revenue on September 12, 1961, according to law, are hereby specifically appropriated to the Department of Public Instruction for the fiscal year 1962-63, for the purpose of making additional payments to all of the school districts of the Commonwealth to be prorated among the school districts on the basis of the number of teaching units of each school district for the school year 1960-61 and the basic account standard reimbursement fraction of each school district for the school year 1961-62.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, the amendment that has been offered to House bill No. 1 is probably the most unique amendment that I have ever seen offered to the general appropriation bill during my career in the General Assembly.

What it does, in effect, is that in the event during this current year we receive in revenue more than $1,023,000,-000, as estmated, that money which would be ascertained to be available at the end of the current fiscal year would then automatically, by this amendment, be appropriated to the schools for the fiscal year 1961-1963 according to a proportionate formula depending on what the school district is presently receiving.

In other words, it is a polite insertion into the general appropriation bill of a clause similar to the freeze clause which was declared unconstitutional by the attorney general last year.

Now, I am not going to quibble with the ruling of the attorney general of last year. Why? Because I think that Miss Alpern's ruling on the freeze clause was absolutely erroneous and I believe that once it hits the high court it will be shown to have been erroneous. But that is not the question here, although it involves practically the same question because now you are inserting a programming, as it were, into the general appropriation bill. I suppose I could say that it is unconstitutional and submit it to a vote of the House. But for me to say it is unconstitutional, then I will have to go back and agree with Miss Alpern and say that the insertion in the last general appropriation bill of the freeze clause was unconstitutional.

But under the Green case, which is the present prevailing law in Pennsylvania, the freeze clause insertion was constitutional, and I suppose I will have to say this is constitutional, unless it is an illegal programming inserted in the appropriation bill and would not come within the limitations as laid down of what we can do this session.

But be that as it may, what this really does is this:

This amendment was thought up over the weekend because the revenue department has reported that so far in the eight months of this current fiscal year there is over $5 million in additional revenue over and above that which was estimated. Something had to be done with that money. They did not want to give it to us today.

To repeat, Mr. Speaker, this amendment was conceived over the weekend, as we understand or surmise it. Let us say the law of probabilities would say that is what took place, when the report was issued that there was $5 million surplus in taxes, you had to find some way of spending it because this current budget spends every bit of taxation money, apparently, that you could say is coming in. But be that as it may, here we have $5 million so far and we have all these glowing reports of huge sales tax revenues coming in for the month of December and court decisions that might bring in additional money. It is conceivable in this current year there could be $20 million more. How embarrassing that would be. Therefore, we will have this amendment to the general appropriation bill that says, if at the end of June there is any money left over, we will give it to the schools. Well, that is fine. That is commendable. We think it is great that you people are also joining with us in trying to do something for the beleaguered school districts of Pennsylvania. So we would not be right in saying we are against this amendment. We are going to support the amendment. But in doing that I know we are, in effect, saying, this $9.1 million that you voted today is not available out of revenues during this current fiscal year, but, from what I pointed out to you on the floor, we think you have that money to spend, you have more money to spend in your revenues next year that you have not counted on and, under this theory of attrition of Mr. Baldwin, you can cut the budget and provide the $9.1 million, too.

So you are on the right track. You are being, I say, responsible, and we know what you are doing. You are not kidding anybody. But I know what the Governor will say if this is inserted in the general appropriation bill and he has in front of him House bill 57. He will say, why, you people have taken the money that is available by this insertion in the general appropriation bill; therefore, I have another additional reason for vetoing out of the bill the money you put in House bill 57 today. I was not born yesterday.

To show you what good sports we are, we think you have got the money for this and for ours, too, and we are going to support this amendment. We do not want the Governor to veto this $9.1 million under that crutch, always that crutch, of unconstitutionality. It has availed many, many a governor of Pennsylvania, and Governor Lawrence has crawled out from under that tent many a time and he plans on doing it again. But he is not kidding the school districts of Pennsylvania, because there have been a lot of things he has signed that you could say were unconstitutional, and I might say this amendment will be declared unconstitutional.

We will go along on it, but you are not fooling anybody because the Governor can sign this and give us the $9.1 million besides. Therefore, we are going to support this amendment.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to make a few remarks on these amendments. I wish also to observe that, in my opinion, these amendments could be declared unconstitutional and I use as a basis for it this:

In 1959 we had a separate bill, not in the appropriations bill, but a separate bill, which provided should there be any surplus money over and above the appropriations in the 1959-1961 budget that any monies in excess of $5 million would be applied to reduction of the public debt. That, of course, applied only to that particular budget period. If it took a separate bill at that time to do it, instead of inserting it in the appropriation bill, then, in my opinion, it would take a separate bill for the same purpose in this particular session.

Also in the 1961 budget, if you will recall, there was a provision forbidding the payment to hospitals of anything in excess of their regular contract price, and, because of the question of the constitutionality of it, that was taken out and incorporated as a separate bill.

For that reason, although I am going to support these amendments, yet at the same time I raise that question at this point on this amendment to the general appropriations bill.

The SPEAKER. Any objection to a voice vote or do you want a roll call?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. We want a roll call, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I will be very brief.

I can see that Mr. Johnson, Mr. Speaker, got really worked up over there. He was waving first his left arm, then his right arm and then both arms, because the facts are very simply this:

There could be many millions of dollars available at the end of this fiscal year, or there could be none, because in the courts of this Commonwealth are probably many million dollars of tax claims that are in those courts right now. They could produce some money which would be in this fiscal year, or they may not produce any. What we are doing in these amendments we are doing properly. We are saying that every school district in this Commonwealth shall, if there is any additional money over the amount estimated on September 10, 1961, by certification of the Secretary of Revenue, if there is any additional money we want to give it to the school districts of this Commonwealth. And I hope that the gentleman would be so correct, because, Mr. Speaker, if Mr. Johnson is now correct as he has argued for weeks about what the revenue yield will be, the increased yield from corporate net income tax, the increased yield from inheritance tax and the increased taxes from any other source, then you can say to the school districts of this Commonwealth that we provided the money and will give it to them all and not just a few. We show no chance or opportunity to say that we will exempt any and give to some, and I hope we will be correct in this assumption and these amendments. I am sure, from the attorneys who have checked and those who have been a part of this, that they are constitutional and I am so pleased, extremely pleased, that after all this hassle in the last few hours here, now they are going support the amendments, and I thank them for eventually seeing the light of day.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I am completely confused. I closed my eyes and I thought the majority leader was the minority leader. He spoke about a possible surplus but has, for the past many weeks, described a possible deficit. This is what one of my associates said, an "iffy" appropriation, but I say it is that we in Pennsylvania have outlawed apparently the numbers game. Now we have traded the legislative numbers game for the so-called benefit of the public schools. I intend to vote against the amendments. It is fiscal irresponsibility of the worst kind.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I want to ask if the gentleman from Allegheny County said that I stated there was going to be this surplus?

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. The gentleman stated an envisioned surplus and therefore when he had this vision which might have been a dream or an hallucination, I got confused, so if I made an error, it is because I cannot understand what is going on in this House of Representatives.

So that if you say now, firmly, that you do not expect a surplus, then I repeat my statement, it is "iffy," it is a legislative numbers game and is fooling the school districts of the State of Pennsylvania. Why introduce it at all?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I want the record to show clearly that I was quoting what Mr. Johnson had been stating about the surpluses. My name happens to be different.

Mr. Speaker, I hope everyone will vote "aye" on the amendment.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

So the question was determined in the affirmative and the amendment was agreed to.

The third to tenth sections inclusive and title were separately read and agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to as amended.

Ordered, to be transcribed for third reading.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. May I observe, Mr. Speaker, that today we have provided $9.1 million for the schools for this current fiscal year, and I venture to say that this amendment, if it is found constitutional and so forth, will give the schools in the next year approximately $20 million. So we, in effect, have provided $29 million because I feel that the way things are going and with the nice reports we are getting that while the taxes right now for 8 months show a $5 million increase, you have five more months to go and you have some glowing reports to come in and we, in effect, have provided our school with $29 million today. I hope my prediction is true, and there is another thing, at the end of June when you find that you have this $20 million surplus, I know you will mail out the checks to the school districts about three days before the November election. Of course I can see through that gimmick too.

The SPEAKER. The Chair never saw so much money made so fast. Are we now prepared to obey the rules?

RESOLUTION

CONDOLENCE

Mr. WALSH asked and obtained unanimous consent to offer a resolution and for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 5, 1962.

Walter Carlyle Shaw came to McKeesport in 1911 as an ambitious young man with a sound mercantile idea.

Death removed him on January 10, 1962, as the community's leading benefactor and most popular citizen.

Between the two dates stretched a career of outstanding business and personal success for Mr. Shaw—years in which the present G. C. Murphy Company that he helped to found grew to national prominence and he achieved a place in the hearts of all of us.

Mr. Shaw was fortunate in having the knack of translating plans into profitable business achievements. But he was even more fortunate in having the goodwill and humanity to use the results of these achievements to help his fellowmen.

His personal drive and financial interest in the McKeesport Hospital resulted in a new institution, rated as fine as any in its size in the Commonwealth.

His interest in young people brought about the founding of the McKeesport Boys' Club and its new building which was dedicated to him to promote juvenile decency, thereby building the "Citizens of Tomorrow."

He was also interested and gave financial aid to the McKeesport Y. M. C. A., The Boy Scouts of America, Camp Yohagania, T. Frank Soles Summer Camp in the Laurel Mountains of Somerset County, the creation of the Helen Richey Memorial Baseball Field in McKeesport's Renziehausen Park, and also the creation of the Dr. J. C. Kelly Little League Ballfield adjoining the Boys' Club building.

Religious and educational institutions of many areas also merited Mr. Shaw's attention, which brought about the Walter C. Shaw Dormitory of Westminster College, New Wilmington, Pennsylvania, which was dedicated to him in September, 1959, The First Methodist Church of McKeesport, The Presbyterian Church of Stewartstown, the Youghiogheny Country Club, The Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children and numerous other charities.

Mr. Shaw enjoyed doing these deeds immensely. He was appreciative of the society which made it possible for him to do so. His climb from farm boy to the top of the business world was in the American tradition. He wanted this tradition maintained.

In this desire was found another side to Mr. Shaw's life, as noble as that of the benefactor and as great as that of the businessman. He was a patriot—a resolved, courageous and active defender of the American way of freedom and justice against the threats to it at home and from abroad.

Those who knew him personally were kept constantly supplied with material in what, in his later years, became a spirited one man's battle against an encroaching Communism. He gathered it from newspapers and journals published over the country. He found it in books. And he saw that it was circulated in an evergrowing mailing list; therefore be it

Resolved, That this House of Representatives hereby expresses its deep-seated and profound sorrow at the passing of Walter Carlyle Shaw, whose death creates a void in the lives of his family and in the lives of his grateful friends and neighbors; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to Mr. Shaw's family.

RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATIONS

Mr. WALSH asked and obtained unanimous consent to offer a resolution and for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 5, 1962.

The McKeesport Little Tigers, coached by Bill Lickert, Sr., won the 1961 Milk Bowl game, symbolic of National football championship among the boys' teams in this country. The victory was recorded over the team from Phar, Texas, by a score of 40—8. Previous to participating in the Milk Bowl game, the Little Tigers won the Pennsylvania State Championship. They have established the outstanding record of having won 29 of their last 30 games.

Throughout the past season, two players have distinguished themselves. Gerald Grayson has averaged a gain of 25 yards per play in which he has carried the ball. Quarterback Bill Lickert Jr has been outstanding in every game, and has shown ability far beyond his age in running the team.

The coaches, managers, treasurer and junior managers, as well as the team membership, have contributed much to the glowing success of the McKeesport Little Tiger football team; therefore, be it

Resolved, That this House of Representatives hereby extends its hearty congratulations to the McKeesport Little Tiger football team, and to the staff of coaches and managers; and, be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to head coach Bill Lickert.

RESOLUTION

Mr. GALLAGHER offered a resolution which was filed with the clerk under the rules.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Session 1962. 146th of the General Assembly.

Vol. 39. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1962. No. 12.

SENATE

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1962

The Senate met at 1:30 p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Martin Silvert) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. RUSSELL C. LAWRY, Pastor of The Dallas Methodist Church, Dallas, offered the following prayer:

Members of the Senate, before I begin this prayer, may I ask that when I conclude the invocation, will you please remain standing for a special prayer for two persons who have died this week?

Shall we be in the attitude and the spirit of prayer?

Dear Lord, as is our custom, we pause at the beginning of this Legislative Session to seek Thy guidance and blessing in all that we are endeavoring to do and say. May this seeking of divine guidance be more than a custom; rather may it be a real sincere desire on the part of each of us to come to know Thy will for our lives individually and as a Commonwealth of people.

We would pray that you will, O God, touch each one of these Senators individually with Thy Holy Spirit. May each one of them be aware of Thy presence and let them do their best to represent Thee before the people of this State regardless of race, color or creed. By Thy counsel, O Lord, may all who make, interpret and administer the laws in this State find joy, peace of mind and satisfaction as they carry out their assigned duties.

Give us a sense of what is important and needful and then possess the courage and perseverance to accomplish it. As we now pause in prayer, may we be aware of the many blessings we receive and enjoy that come from Thee as a gift to us, O God.

Send us forth this day, O God, to carry out our mission and task with renewed strength and courage.

All these favors and blessings we ask for, in and through the name of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. Amen.

Now may we remain standing and in silent prayer remember Mrs. Eleanor Jennings, who was Library Clerk of the Senate and was killed and is being buried this day. May we also remember Mrs. Garlock, who is the mother of the Senate Librarian.

These two persons have passed from this earthly life and we feel that it would be good for the Senate to pause now and pray. May we pray silently for a moment and then I will pray?

(Observance of moment of silent prayer.)

Rev. LAWRY. Our gracious and loving Father, we realize the sorrow which has come into the hearts of these people. We pray Thy blessing upon them and comfort them. May the prayers of these Senators, in the silence of these moments, be a source of strength and comfort to those they leave behind.

This is our prayer. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDING OFFICER. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. WEINER and Mr. SEYLER, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. HAYS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President, in memory of our late employee, Mrs. Eleanor Jennings, I would suggest, if it is agreeable to the two Leaders, that perhaps all Members of the Senate sponsor the following resolution.

Mr. President and Members of the Senate, it was my privilege to know Eleanor Ayers Jennings for over thirty years, from the time when she first started as an employee in the First National Bank of State College. I have known most of her employers since that time. I think it can be truthfully said that everyone of her employers was satisfied that she gave her full self to every day's work. In other words, I am saying she did her work well. This, I think, is the best tribute I can give.

SENATE RESOLUTION

TRIBUTE TO THE LATE
MRS. ELEANOR AYERS JENNINGS

Mr. HAYS, on behalf of the entire Membership of the Senate, offered the following resolution (Serial No. 12), which was read as follows:

In the Senate, February 6, 1962.

We pause in silent prayer for Mrs. Eleanor Ayers Jennings whose life came to an unexpected and untimely end on February 3, 1962, in an automobile accident while enroute to her home in Philipsburg, Pennsylvania.

While her employment with the Senate as Library Clerk was of a comparative short duration, she has been a familiar figure in Harrisburg as a State employee. She first started as an employee of the Department of Mines, and worked as an employee of the Department of Justice, Parole Board, the Department of Labor and Industry and the Department of Agriculture.

A willing worker and dedicated public servant, she will be sadly missed by her many friends and co-workers as well as by her mother, Mrs. Winifred Ayers, with whom she made her home in Philipsburg; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania expresses its deepest sympathies in the death of Eleanor Ayers Jennings; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to her mother, Mrs. Winifred Ayers, Philipsburg, Pennsylvania.

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President, I move for the immediate consideration and adoption of this resolution by the Senate.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, on behalf of all of the Members on the Republican side of the Senate and myself, I desire to second the motion for the immediate consideration and adoption of the foregoing resolution.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, on behalf of the Members on the Democratic side of the Senate and, I believe, for all the Members of the Senate, I wish to state that although this young lady was only in the employ of the Senate for a short while, I am sure her mark was made here in that everyone came to know and like her. She inherited a very difficult position in this Senate because it was held by a lady for many, many years who did her job well and efficiently. This young lady was also falling into this same category. She will be sorely missed because of her untimely passing by not only the Members of the Senate, but also by the employees of the Senate with whom she came in contact.

On behalf of the Members on the Democratic side of the Senate, as well as all of the Members of the Senate, I wish to also second this resolution which was offered by Senator Hays.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair wishes to announce its great shock at hearing this morning about the untimely passing of Mrs. Eleanor Jennings.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The motion was agreed to and the resolution was unanimously adopted.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. HAYS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President, this resolution, of course, as you will hear, deals with the esteemed Leader of the Majority Party in the Senate. I am happy to sponsor this resolution with Senator DiSilvestro. Senator DiSilvestro was on hand I think when this particular award was given. I am sure that Senator DiSilvestro would also like to say something at this time.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. DiSILVESTRO asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President and brother Members, being shocked this morning on account of the tragic departure of one of our employees and also by the passing away of the beloved mother of our very able Senate Librarian, Mr. Marl H. Garlock, I did not think the Senator would call on me at this time. However, I was so enthused last night at the affair given at the Bellevue for a young man who came into the Senate a number of years ago and brought with him integrity, honesty and decency. The affair was such a wonderful demonstration of humanity and love of one man to another that I was really very much touched.

Senator Weiner arrived in the Senate at a very young age, and I immediately recognized his potentialities and the intelligence and integrity that he brought here.

I take this opportunity to extend my congratulations to Charlie Weiner on the same floor where I have been for twenty-six years with many of my colleagues. Charlie, to me, is a figure that will contribute many more achievements to the good of humanity and the people of this State.

SENATE RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATIONS OF THE SENATE EXTENDED TO HONORABLE CHARLES R. WEINER, MAJORITY LEADER OF THE SENATE, ON BEING NAMED THE RECIPIENT OF THE ANNUAL PHILADELPHIA FELLOWSHIP AWARD

Messrs. HAYS and DISILVESTRO offered the following resolution (Serial No. 13), which was read as follows:

In the Senate, February 6, 1962.

Senator Charles R. Weiner, Majority Leader of this Senate and one of its highly esteemed Members, has been named recipient of the Philadelphia Fellowship Award. He was chosen for his leadership, singleness of purpose and zeal in effecting the enactment of laws prohibiting discriminatory practices on account of race, color or creed, with particular emphasis on fair housing and fair educational opportunities.

This award is given annually to publicly recognize individuals, organizations and institutions which have made notable contributions during the year in furthering the objectives of the Fellowship Commission in promoting better understanding and equality of opportunity for all racial, religious and nationality groups in the Philadelphia area; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania congratulates and extends its warmest feelings to Charles R. Weiner, Majority Leader of the Senate, on his being named the recipient of the Annual Philadelphia Fellowship Awards, and be it further

RESOLVED, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Honorable Charles R. Weiner.

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President, I move for the immediate adoption of this resolution.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, if I did not know differently, I would have thought this was the concluding day of this Session of the Senate from the encomiums which Senator DiSilvestro just now heaped upon my good friend, colleague and opposition, Senator Weiner.

I want to say, Mr. President, that I cannot too heartily join in those sentiments. Therefore, I am extremely happy to second the motion to adopt this resolution immediately.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair wishes to state to the Senate that he was present at the inspiring presentation last night of this award to Senator Weiner. It was not only interesting, but it was greatly inspiring. This award was given by the Fellowship Commission of Philadelphia, one of our finest humanitarian commissions of all time.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The motion was agreed to and the resolution was unanimously adopted.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WEINER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I want to thank you for this honor accorded to me by my colleagues, which means a great deal more to a man than any award anyone can give him.

As I stated last night,—and I want to state here and I have always stated for the record—the work of any Legislator is only the sum total of all of the work of all of his colleagues. I could no more pass a bill myself without the help of everybody here than do any of the other feats that people cannot accomplish by themselves. The work that all of us do is the sum total of all of the Legislators and all of the legislative action.

I want to thank my colleagues on both sides of the aisle who have been very cooperative and very helpful, and who have made me look very, very good in times when things have been very, very tough here. Without this kind of help, neither I nor anybody else could do anything in the way of leadership or do anything in the way of producing some of the results that we have accomplished in concert here for many years in the State Senate.

Again, thank you very much.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Thank you, Senator Weiner, for giving credit to your brother Members of the Senate in the great work of law.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STIEFEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I had the honor of attending the affair last night in the Bellevue-Stratford. What impressed me more than anything else was the deep humility with which Senator Weiner accepted all of the honors. That was, indeed, the most impressive thing, aside from the oratory and the speeches. However, that was the thing which was the most important—the deep humility and sense of serenity.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

WEEKLY ADJOURNMENT

Mr. SARRAF offered the following resolution, which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, February 6, 1962.

RESOLVED (the House of Representatives concurring), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene Tuesday, February 13, 1962 at a time to be fixed by the Senate; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene Tuesday, February 13, 1962 at a time to be fixed by the House of Representatives.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. HAYS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President, Larry Husted and Wesley Lowe, twenty-three days ago, were two active eleven- and thirteen-year-old Boy Scouts of West Decatur, Clearfield County. On Sunday, January 14th, with the spirit of boylike adventure, they went to visit an accustomed hide away, a long time abandoned clay mine which had been abandoned for twenty-four years. That evening, Larry and Wesley did not return to their homes.

The following two weeks, a story with which you, the whole State and much of the Nation are very familiar was written; a story of dedicated devotion to a search with hope, anguish, disappointment and sorrow; a search in which a whole community participated; and a search which united the community in bonds of dedication seldom exhibited, but always deeply imbedded in the hearts of people. The search ended two weeks almost to the hour from the time the boys entered the abandoned cave, and the findings were two lifeless bodies clasped together, crushed in a slide which obviously had taken place on the Sunday of their adventure.

The round-the-clock search was directed very effectively on the job by the Secretary of Mines, Lewis E. Evans, who was dispatched there by Governor Lawrence. Sheriff Reese, of Clearfield County, and local county and State officials were tireless in their work also. Thousands of man hours, hours of use of valuable equipment, as well as much consumable materials went into this two-week day and night search.

In order that the State may share in an expression of concern in this tragedy, I am now introducing an appropriation bill, which, under certain specifications provided in the bill, would compensate this community in a small way for some of the contributions which were made so willingly and voluntarily.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. HAYS, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 23, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Mines and Mineral Industries for payment of services, materials and equipment in connection with Clearfield County clay mine disaster.

Which was committed to the Committee on Legislation.

GUESTS OF SENATOR GUS YARTON PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. YATRON. Mr. President, I request that the Chair acknowledge the presence of a group of high school seniors from my District, the city of Reading, in Berks County. This is a group of students in the Problems of American Democracy Class of the Reading High School. They are on a one-day tour of the State Capitol.

Accompanying the pupils are Mr. Owen James Davis and Mr. Peter Carril, both Social Studies teachers.

I would appreciate it, Mr. President, if you would acknowledge their presence while they are here visiting in the Senate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Thank you, Senator Yatron. Since the Lieutenant-Governor is here in person, he requested the pleasure of making the acknowledgment himself.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor John Morgan Davis) in the Chair.

The PRESIDENT. Senator Yatron, I was not entirely listening to what you were saying in the beginning. Is this a political science class from the Reading High School?

Mr. YATRON. Yes, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. Since I started my career in political science in the very same class, ladies and gentlemen of Reading High School, I am very happy to greet you. I was a graduate of the Reading High School for Boys in June of 1924. My only regret is that they did not have a trip like you are having today to see the Pennsylvania Senate functioning as it is.

I wonder whether you will rise while the Members of the Senate greet you.

I hope that you will find the Capitol and all of its activities very interesting, indeed.

GUESTS OF SENATOR M. HARVEY TAYLOR PRESENTED TO SENATE

The PRESIDENT. The Chair would also like to recognize a group from the Seventh Day Adventist School, here in Harrisburg. On behalf of Senator Taylor, I bid you welcome. I am very happy to have Mr. Sparks with you.

Will the group rise, please, for proper recognition?

It is our belief that education cannot be complete without the very trips that you are taking at his time. We do welcome both groups here in Harrisburg.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION REFEREE

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION REFEREES

February 6, 1962

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

In conformity with law, I have the honor hereby to nominate for the advice and consent of the Senate the following for reappointment as Workmen's Compensation Referees, until the third Tuesday of January 1963, and until their successors shall have been appointed and qualified:

Fraser P. Donlan, 206 Third Street, Blakely, Olyphant, Lackawanna County.

John R. Lenahan, 1220 Gibson Street, Scranton, Lackawanna County.

Felix E. Vittone, 725 Main Street, Latrobe, Westmoreland County.

DAVID L. LAWRENCE.

On the question,

Will the Senate advise and consent to the nominations?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, the reason I am taking the floor at this particular time is because one of the nominations we have before us for consideration is that of Mrs. Josephine M. Douglas, the widow of James H. Douglas who had been a public official in our county for the past twenty years.

I might say, Mr. President, that, in my opinion, Mr. Douglas was one of the finest men I have ever had the opportunity of meeting. I first became acquainted with Jimmy Douglas back in 1930. He was of Welsh extraction and he had that Welsh lingo, so to speak, and quite a strong accent. He was a man who was loved by his fellowmen.

For the past three years, this family has suffered many hardships. Mr. Douglas was afflicted with a severe heart condition. He had been in various hospitals in western Pennsylvania. During the course of his convalescence in these institutions, he repeatedly contacted me because we had a lot in common. He knew he was going to pass away and he was a fellow who was resigned to that fact. I never realized that anyone could be so resigned as was Jimmy Douglas when he knew that he could not live.

When he passed away, Mr. President, it was a shock to a great number of the citizens of our county. We had hoped that this old fellow would live a long, long time. However, that was not God's will.

I am now happy to say that the Governor has nominated Josephine M. Douglas to take his position. I will say to the Members of the Senate that she is a very wonderful lady. She has suffered with her husband; she was with him constantly during his illness. She was a devoted wife and she will be a great public official. I am indeed happy about this, and I hope the Members of this Senate will give her their unanimous consent and support. Mrs. Josephine Douglas certainly deserves that honor.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate advise and consent to the nominations?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—50

Bell,	Hays,	Mullin,	Staisey,
Berger,	Kalman,	Murray,	Stevenson,

Two-thirds of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Governor be informed accordingly.

EXECUTIVE SESSION RISES

Mr. DEVLIN. Mr. President, I move that the Executive Session do now rise.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BIRTHDAY FELICITATIONS EXTENDED TO SENATOR CLARENCE D. BELL

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I would like to call to the attention of the Members of the Senate an event which might otherwise escape State-wide notice, it having happened on Sunday and, of course, the Senate was not in Session yesterday, which was Monday. I refer, of course, to the birthday of our esteemed and distinguished colleague, Colonel Clarence D. Bell, of Delaware County. We offer the congratulations of the Senate to Colonel Bell, or Senator Bell, on the event which occurred on Sunday; to wit, his birthday.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I know that Senator Bell will not mind the contingent from Philadelphia wishing him a happy birthday, despite the fact that he finds it difficult to come into Philadelphia from time to time. Should he find himself in that area, however, any and all the Senators in that area—I might also add the Members of the House—will be very happy to receive him and make sure that the celebration is of an appropriate nature.

The PRESIDENT. On behalf of the entire Senate Body, I would say to you, Senator Bell, that we are very happy to congratulate you on the achievement of another milestone and to wish you very happy and healthful years to come.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, for the first and probably only time in my political career, I am speechless.

The PRESIDENT. It is a good time, Senator Bell. We are very glad that everything came off well.

RECESS

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I request a twenty minute recess of the Senate for the purpose of holding a Democratic Caucus and, I believe, a Republican Caucus, to be held in the respective Caucus Rooms.

The PRESIDENT. Are there any objections? The Chair hears no objection, and declares a twenty minute recess of the Senate.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Hugh J. McMenamin) in the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

HOUSE MESSAGE

SB 8 (Pr. No. 8)—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Mr. MULLIN. Mr. President, news in the public press over the week end indicates that the Republican Party is again putting the Governorship of Pennsylvania on the auction block.

A columnist and a political editor, who are acknowledged authorities and political experts, both of the Philadelphia Inquirer, more than bring us this alarming news.

The money bags from New York are again making the bid. The dispensers of the mercenary loot, the economic enemies of Pennsylvania, the "Sharpies," the "Pitfalls," the Pews, and their brethren, want a Casper Milquetoast to run the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania into economic ruination from which it is slowly recovering after years of Republican misrule.

They want their man. He has to look like a lion and lie down like a mouse. No particular qualifications are required, provided he can confuse the people, make fake promises, and then kid the people into believing them. Later he must destroy, bit by bit, the economic advantages our State has gained since they exploited our mines, wore out our factories without replacement, moved our industries into other States and made most of Pennsylvania into a depressed area.

Mr. President, I do not believe the office of Governor of Pennsylvania is a commodity for sale. However, it seems that the men who run the Republican Party do.

When the people really speak, you will find real statesmen with tough decency and dedication to governmental progress elected to the high office of Chief Executive of Pennsylvania; men who are truly interested in the welfare of the more than 10,000,000 people of our State.

The people of Pennsylvania are entitled to a Governor who has the vision and determination to rebuild our industries and farms on a firm foundation, to lead us into a new prosperity, and to carry through our program of development of our State resources, our mines, forests, roads, recreation, culture, welfare, and health and education.

Do you hear anything like this being discussed by those political hirelings who want to make Pennsylvania a colony of New York and, perhaps, other places, not excluding foreign countries where their billions are invested? Do you hear this when they discuss a candidate for Governor?

For the Democratic Party, which has controlled the Governor's office for the last seven years, I will say this: When the people wanted the sterling qualities of character and ability dedicated to the people, from the soil of rural Pennsylvania, George M. Leader took the helm, and in the four allotted years began a vast program of reconstruction.

When a great architect of government was needed to carry on, the people went to Pittsburgh and chose the great master builder of the renaissance of a great city.

I am confident that when the Party, of which I am a Member, chooses a nominee for Governor, he will be a man of similar caliber, who will carry our State to new heights of achievement, and the office of Governor of Pennsylvania will be the people's own, and not bought, not sold, and not delivered to financial bosses. I am confident that Pennsylvania will reject the men from outside our borders and their hirelings within it.

Someone told me today that the Republican Party had decided. I asked them who the Republican Party was and who made the decision. However, no answer was forthcoming. I would like to know today who made the decision, who is the Republican Party, and who is the boss who can tell us who will be our next nominee for Governor on the Republican ticket.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Mullin.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Mullin, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MULLIN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, is the gentleman at liberty to tell the Republican Members of the Senate who is going to make the decision as to who the Democrat candidate for Governor is to be?

Mr. MULLIN. Mr. President, I understand, from my information, that the Democratic Party has a State Committee from which is elected a Policy Committee, and that this Policy Committee has been discussing the qualifications of various candidates, and will present a candidate to the Democratic State Committee, which is made up of members elected by the people of Pennsylvania.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, can the gentleman tell me who are the members of that Policy Committee?

Mr. MULLIN. Mr. President, I do not know who they are. I know some of them. Governor Lawrence, I believe, is one.

Mr. BELL. Would Congressman Green be a member?

Mr. MULLIN. Mr. President, I understand he is one.

Mr. BELL. Would he be one of the—

Mr. MULLIN. Senator Clark is another. However, I do not know them all. I believe there is quite a large number.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, would Congressman Green be one of those to pick the candidate for Governor on the Democratic ticket?

Mr. MULLIN. Mr. President, I think the Policy Committee will pick the person who will be submitted to the people of Pennsylvania.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, would the gentleman be at liberty to tell us whether there are what is known as "weighted votes"? That means some vote has a little more effect than another.

Mr. MULLIN. Mr. President, I think the Republican Party has them. I do not know whether they are members of the Policy Committee or not. However, I do know they have plenty of loot.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, will the gentleman answer concerning the Party on which he is an expert?

Mr. MULLIN. Mr. President, I do not know of any such person in our Party.

Mr. BELL. Nobody has any more influence on that committee than anyone else?

Mr. MULLIN. To my knowledge, no.

Mr. BELL. Thank you, Senator.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, very briefly, I want to recall one of the happiest remarks that I recall ever being made in the Senate of Pennsylvania. I cannot pinpoint the date. However, I recall that the statement came at the conclusion of a few remarks made by our former and still esteemed colleague, Senator Joseph Barr, when Senator Mahany, who was then Republican Floor Leader, said: "The voice is the voice of Barr, but the words are the words of Pennington."

I am just wondering whose words those might have been issuing from the lips of Senator Mullin.

Mr. MULLIN. Mr. President, is that a question?

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

TUESDAY, February 6, 1962

The House met at 11:30 a.m., e.s.t.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Reverend Robert E. Grimm, Executive Minister of the Erie Council of Churches, guest Chaplain, and guest of the gentlemen from Erie, Messrs. Schaaf, Polaski, Odell and Blair, and of the House Chaplain, offered the following prayer:

Eternal God, as we begin the business of another day, we would be reminded of all the ways in which you have been concerned for all people in love, justice and mercy. Show us again Thy action to men of old in the beginnings of law and government; in Thy concern of justice, mercy and the rights of all people expressed by the prophets of old; Thy lifting of simple, humble people to glory by the living example of Thy Son, our Lord Jesus Christ; Thy present speaking to us as we seek thee in worship and prayer—both in church and home; both in temple and marketplace, both in great social decisions and a search for inner strength.

As we meet as Representatives, we ask again for the wisdom and love of Thy way—to pierce through the complex ways of our task and show us again how we may represent all people. We are disturbed and dazzled by large budgets, complex administrations, the push and pull of special interests, even the revolutions shaking our world. Help us to set these things in proper place—and to find in our time the way of placing first the growth of human personality, and a society marked by human relationships of understanding love.

And as we live through this day, O God, help us to conduct ourselves so that we may turn to Thee at its close, saying—Lord, we have honestly tried, often failed, but having done our best we commit the rest into Thy hands. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVAL POSTPONED

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the approval of the Journal for Monday, February 5, 1962, will be postponed until printed.

The Chair hears none.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. HELM, K. B. LEE, KORNS, KING, HOLL, GEORGE and GROSS. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 26.

In the House of Representatives, February 5, 1962.

Although Pennsylvania's Department of Highways is spending over four hundred million dollars a year, an all-time high, the maintenance of the Commonwealth's highways is at an all-time low.

Snow removal during the 1961 Christmas holiday weekend, during which twenty-five people were killed in automobile accidents in the State, did not begin on some major Cumberland County highways until twenty-two hours after the snow started to fall.

The roads were rutted, drifted and hazardous, and on Christmas night they were icy and slippery. A Carlisle resident, in a letter to the Editor of the Harrisburg Evening News published December 30, wrote:

"It certainly gets sickening to hear all the cries about safety on the highways when there is no resultant cooperation on the part of government . . . At the beginning of what looks like another severe winter, why not make provision for the proper attention to highways in bad weather? Motorists, through no choice of their own, have to pay the extra two cents a gallon gasoline tax while riding on roads that are slick with ice, uncindered, and often drifted."

Secretary of Highways, Park Martin, in trying to excuse the twenty-two hour delay in the start of snow removal by State highway employes over the Christmas weekend, is reported to have said that Highway Department employes deserve to have Christmas vacations just like everybody else.

On September 20, 1961, the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin stated editorially:

"While Governor Lawrence is going around seeking campaign issues against the Republicans next year, he is letting his guard down in permitting the State Highways Department to treat the roads so shabbily . . . Not in modern times has City Line from the bridge to the Township Line been allowed to go to pot so badly . . . Upper Ridge Avenue is almost a disgrace to a big city and a prosperous State . . ."

On March 26, 1961, the Philadelphia Inquirer reported: "A citizens work battalion, equipped with shovels, rakes and brooms was threatened with arrest Saturday when they launched a do-it-yourself repair project on rutted and pot-hole infested roads in Hatboro, Montgomery County. A work crew, 150 strong, had purchased its own blacktop and was sprinkling it on Warminster Road . . . when a police lieutenant ordered them to halt . . . The officer . . . said he was acting on a request from the State Highway Department . . . (and that) he had been told that unless the citizens quit 'tampering' with State property, the workers—many of whom were women and children—would be arrested by State Police.

"Karl L. Meyer, a spokesman for the residents (and president of the Upper Moreland Board of Commissioners) said the neighbors had decided to 'roll up their sleeves and get the job done themselves' after State Highway Director Park Martin and S. C. Weikert, director of the department's Philadelphia area district had ignored repeated requests to get the job done."

The Pennsylvania Highways Department is rolling in money. Money allocated for road maintenance and snow removal this year amounts to over sixty million dollars and the same amount is budgeted for next year. The Lawrence administration has been concentrating too much on using these huge amounts of money to build up the Democratic party machine and not enough on maintaining and improving roads and highways.

The dismissal in October, 1961, of Worth Hammond, superintendent of highways in Warren County because he failed to deliver enough new voter registrations and campaign contributions to the Democratic Party is an illustration of the fact that politics comes first and performance second in the Highways Department under Governor Lawrence.

Commenting on the reasons for Hammond's dismissal, Secretary Martin said: "There is absolutely nothing involved in the quality of his work."

Reliable reports from York County clearly indicate that the superintendent of highways in that county, J. A. Kinneman, a former barber, has left much to be desired in the quality of his work.

When the Christmas snowstorm began, Superintendent Kinneman and other Highways Department employes were allegedly attending a party in a Highways Department shed. No instructions were issued with the result that plows and crews were delayed over six hours in starting to clear the snow-covered roads.

It is also reliably reported that Superintendent Kinneman has required Highways Department employes to attend political meetings during working hours and on Highways Department property and to make political contributions according to the following schedule: Laborers, two ten-dollar tickets; truck drivers, one ten-dollar and one twenty-five dollar ticket; and foremen, two twenty-five dollar tickets to Democratic party fund-raising dinners.

With this fine political approach to his job, there is no chance that Superintendent Kinneman will displease the Lawrence administration, and thus be dismissed, as was Worth Hammond, former Warren County Highways Superintendent. The condition of York County State highways, under Superintendent Kinneman, is deplorable.

Laxity and idleness on the part of Highways Department employes in Somerset County have also been reported. Work on repairing Route 31, between Bedford and Somerset, has been delayed not only by the weather but by the alleged incompetence of Highways Department inspectors. After work was discontinued December 1, on Route 31 for the remainder of the winter, nine Highways Department inspectors continued to show up for "work" spending their time playing cards and reading newspapers.

Certainly the poor performance of the Department of Highways reported from all parts of the Commonwealth can not be attributed to the shortage of money. Pennsylvania motorists are paying one of the highest gasoline taxes in the nation. They deserve the best highways and road services that their tax money can buy; therefore be it

Resolved (The Senate concurring), That the Speaker of the House of Representatives appoint six members of the House, three from the majority party and three from the minority party, and the President Pro Tempore of the Senate appoint six members of the Senate, three from the majority party and three from the minority party, who shall constitute a joint commission to conduct forthwith a full investigation of the operations of the Department of Highways, with particular emphasis upon maintenance and repairs of roads and highways in the State highway system as well as the whole subject of snow removal and cindering of icy and snow-covered highways; and be it further

Resolved, That the commission make a study of reports of poor highway maintenance and repair of highways throughout the Commonwealth; and be it further

Resolved, That the commission make an inquiry into the type of personnel engaged by the Lawrence administration to direct and carry out the work of the Highways Department in the sixty-seven counties of the Commonwealth; and be it further

Resolved, That the commission may meet, hold hearings, take testimony and make its investigation whether the General Assembly is in session or in adjournment. It may issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman, commanding any persons to appear before it and to answer questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the commission, and to produce books, papers, records and documents as the commission deems necessary. Any person who wilfully neglects or refuses to testify before this commission or to produce any books, papers, records or documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases. Each member of the commission shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the commission; and be it further

Resolved, That the commission make a report of its findings to the General Assembly on or before September 1, 1962, together with its recommendations for appropriate action by the General Assembly or by the Pennsylvania Department of Highways to improve conditions existing on State highways throughout the Commonwealth.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. GALLAGHER. RESOLUTION No. 27.

In the House of Representatives, February 5, 1962.

Article 2, Section 18 of the Constitution of Pennsylvania mandates the apportioning of the Commonwealth into representatives districts after each United States decennial census.

The United States decennial census of 1960 has been completed and the results thereof have been made known but no steps have been taken to reapportion the representative districts in compliance with this mandate of the State Constitution; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House Committee on Legislative Apportionment is hereby directed to study the problem of reapportioning the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania as required by the State Constitution; and be it further

Resolved, That the committee may meet, hold hearings, take testimony and make its investigations whether the General Assembly is in session or in adjournment. It may issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman commanding any person to appear before it and to answer questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee deems necessary. Any person who wilfully neglects or refuses to testify before the committee or to produce any books, papers, records or documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases. Each member of the committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee; and be it further

Resolved, That the committee make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations for appropriate legislation, no later than January 31, 1963.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. McINROY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. McINROY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, what I have to say this morning I would like the Democrats as well as the Republicans to listen to, because it is going to be absolutely nonparisan.

I want to say for the gentleman of the press that I am not saying this for any votes, any headlines or anything else, because I am not running for reelection and I do not care whether the press likes it or who likes it. It makes no difference whatever. I think you will know after I have finished that I am speaking this morning from the heart and it will not affect me personally but might affect you assemblymen listening to me this morning.

One week ago today, coming up in the elevator on the Governor's side here, I guess you call it the south side, as I went to get out of the elevator I let two women get out ahead of me, which I still think I should do out of courtesy for the women, and as I backed out of the elevator, the elevator man shut me in the door and broke my glasses. I got glass in my eye. It could have been worse but fortunately I went to see this gentleman, and I can highly recommend him, Dr. Wengert, down in front of the capitol. He examined my eyes and he found a piece of glass in there. It could have ruined my eyesight. I could have lost this left eye of mine and I would not take $10,000 or more for that eye.

I am well aware of what the Bible says, "If thine eye offend thee, pluck it out." But I do not want my eye plucked out; I want to retire in peace. I want to have time to catch some of these big fish that I have been wanting to catch for a good many years. I want you to know I am perfectly happy to retire, but I want to retire with both eyes and in good health while I can still cut the mustard a little bit; not very much, but a little bit.

But, anyhow, out of that accident, and I have been thinking about this for some time and perhaps I can say this a little bit easier and with less chance of any harm being done to me—there are no votes back in Tioga County or anywhere else because I am not coming back. I do not care for popularity this morning and I do not care for headlines from any gentlemen of the press. I do not care what you say about it because it will not hurt me, don't you see?

I did not like some of those gibes you put in the press about raising our salaries and about our mileage allotment. I did not like that.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is straying a bit far afield in his question of personal privilege.

Mr. McINROY. All right. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. I presume in my anxiety, those old wounds are still open a little bit, they have not closed yet, and I presume as a result of some of that I am likely to go afield.

But the thought struck me, and I have talked to several people on this Hill and I find out that we assemblymen and Senators are neglected people throughout the State, we are not protected by any form of insurance.

Now I can stand the hundred dollars that it cost me for this accident, and the day lost on the railroad and the grief, there was some grief to it and some shock to my nervous system, getting shut in that door and hit as hard as I was. I find out the only remedy I have, which I am not going to use, is to sue that poor old man who negligently shut me in the door, and I can prove that it was negligence, but I do not want to do it. I want the man to keep his job or some other job in the legislature. I am just wondering if we are not missing the boat, looking toward the future, to protect yourselves and future assemblymen and Senators and the rest of the elected officials, if perhaps you ought not to consider some kind of liability insurance for elected officials while they are on the job. Had I fallen down the stairs out here, or should you have done that and broken your back and been injured probably for life, under the present rules you have no remedy. Now I can stand that fifty dollars, as I said, or the hundred dollars it cost me, but what if I had been injured for life? How about some of you younger fellows, if you were injured for life? I think it is worthwhile considering.

I would go a step further myself, I would not expect you to, but I would go a step further to protect assemblymen and Senators and other elected officials who are sent to work on business, State business. I think they should be protected. For instance, I am on a State committee that is investigating Byberry Hospital. We are going to meet in Philadelphia soon. I am of the opinion, my humble opinion, that I should be protected, and others who go. For instance, if I go, from time to time, down to Philadelphia on State business, I am just wondering if I should not be protected on that trip to Philadelphia and back, and certainly down in Byberry Hospital where something might happen to me down there, but I have no protection. Suppose somebody shoots from up in the gallery, as I am pointing back to the left. It happened in Congress just a few years ago and several Congressmen were shot.

What remedy have we? Well, you say we assumed the risk when we came here, when we were elected we assumed the risk. Well, that old statement is about fifty years old. I am a graduate of law school myself and I know that years ago different businesses, other organizations, mines, and so on, used to say to their employes that when you work for us, you assume the risk. And if they were injured they recovered nothing unless they could show negligence.

You may say in regard to this, we should not be covered because we ran with our eyes open. That may be so, but who knows what can happen? I think something should be done about it, or with it, rather, and I would be willing to go on a resolution in this House, and it will not affect me, as I said before, but looking toward the future something should be done on this very serious question. Thank you, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, for listening to me.

The SPEAKER. The elevator man in question was not an employe of the House—not on the legislative payroll. He was employed by another department.

What is the pleasure of the majority leader?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I request permission to turn to page 1 of today's calendar and call up bill on final passage, House bill No. 57, printer's No. 137, for a final vote.

The SPEAKER. Before you depart, the Chair notes the presence in the gallery of 88 students from the Reading Senior High School. These students are interested in the problems of democracy. They are members of the problems of democracy class. They are here under the guidance of their teachers, O. James Davis and Peter J. Carrel. They are the guests of the gentlemen from Berks, Messrs. McDevitt and Zember. Will the members of that delegation please rise.

The Chair thanks the delegation and regrets they came in just at the beginning of a recess.

DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I am going to request a Democratic caucus and request all the Democratic members of the House to come immediately to the new House caucus room and bring with them their House calendars. There is no break for lunch. Come straight to caucus.

RECESS

The SPEAKER. Without objection, the Chair will declare a recess of one-half hour for the purpose of a Republican and a Democratic caucus.

The Chair hears none, and a recess is declared.

AFTER RECESS

The time of recess having expired, the House was called to order.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) IN THE CHAIR.

The clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, February 6, 1962.

Resolved, (the House of Representatives concurring), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene Tuesday, February 13, 1962 at a time to be fixed by the Senate, and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene Tuesday, February 13, 1962 at a time to be fixed by the House of Representatives.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, that the clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 1, entitled:

An Act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the Executive Legislative and Judicial Departments of the Commonwealth interest on the public debt and for public schools for the fiscal year July 1, 1962 to June 30, 1963 and for the payment of bills incurred and remaining unpaid at the close of the fiscal period ending June 30, 1962.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. MURRAY asked unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 2, page 23, lines 16 to 19 by striking out all of said lines.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of an amendment at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. MURRAY. Mr. Speaker, these amendments which I have presented to House bill No. 1, it has been said, are controversial. It has been said that they will cause a chaotic condition—

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman yield?

Perhaps the gentleman will take the microphone at the floor leader's desk.

Mr. MURRAY. Mr. Speaker, I have always hoped and I knew that one of these days I would become the floor leader, but this has taken me by surprise, believe me.

Because of the trouble we have developed, I have to be repetitive and repeat what I have said, that these amendments I presented for House bill No. 1, it has been said, were controversial and they would if they were passed cause a chaotic condition in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

In neither of these cases do I agree, Mr. Speaker, simply because these amendments are soul-searching. They stem back to the time when we read in the newspapers where the counsel for the milk commission in open court, a court of law, said that the customer is not an issue in this particular case.

At that particular time, Mr. Speaker, when the statement was made, I had taken issue with the counsel for the milk control commission by writing a letter to the chairman, Mr. Uhl, and in my letter I quoted Article I, section 1, section 2, of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, which, in essence, Mr. Speaker, says that the citizen of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is sovereign; that government which it creates it can destroy.

The question today is very simple, Mr. Speaker. All I am asking in this amendment is that we deny this commission, which to me is a cancerous malignancy which must be gotten rid of. There are certain times, in the case of a cancerous malignancy, when it is not proper to operate at that particular time to remove it. So it be today and so be it with my amendments. Under the mandates of the constitution we can only, this session, deal with bills of appropriation and revenue. So I say, when I presented these amendments, and I presented them on the premise that we would deny them that $200,000 as prescribed by the budget so that they would become inoperative. To anybody who might say that their becoming inoperative is going to be an injustice to the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, that I deny.

All I say in conclusion, and I do not want to carry on this debate today, but I ask this of every member of this House, be he Democrat or Republican, that he support these amendments, because if these amendments fall today, and I am not exaggerating the cause, the only right that the citizenry of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has now is a spiritual one, and that is to pray to Saint Jude Thaddaeus who is the patron saint of the lost and the helpless, because, believe me, ladies and gentlemen, if this amendment falls, the people will have lost the very integrity they deserve and they become helpless under the milk control commission. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Kramer, desire to be recognized at this time?

Mr. KRAMER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to speak in support of the amendments submitted by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Murray, but for perhaps different reasons than he has given.

The scuttlebutt around the halls of the House has been that I was supposed to speak for several hours on this subject and that scuttlebutt was correct. I have since just yesterday been taking my own poll around the House and decided it is sort of an impossible task to pass this amendment.

I should sing the popular song of the day, changing a few words: "I've become accustomed to your votes," and I feel like the mythical voice crying in the desert, but I will try to make straight the way.

Yesterday, Mr. Speaker, you spoke to us about some faults that you found concerning the way our legislature is treated or handled with reference to certain budgetary matters. Yet do you realize, Mr. Speaker, that in this Commonwealth there is passed every year tens of billions of dollars' worth of legislation that never crosses this House at all? I am going to explain that to you, if I may.

Our forefathers, in their wisdom, created for us what is known as a triparte form of government, consisting of the executive, the judicial and the legislative, with all the delicate checks and balances tied in thereto. For the last 50 or 60 years in this country, not only in Pennsylvania but throughout the entire United States, there has developed a fourth branch of the government that our forefathers never thought of. This fourth branch of government is called the administrative branch of government. It is also known as administrative law, public law, government regulations.

This administrative branch is so fantastically big that we overlook it. Let me give you an example. The Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, which is the regulatory agency that I am most familiar with, in regulating the rates of just the telephone, electricity, gas and water, forgetting all the rest of the industries that they regulate, just taking those four, directly affects the pocketbook of the citizens of this State to the tune of $2 billion, and, Mr. Reporter, you spell that with "b." Compare that with the action of this House during this session. We are here debating, working, and let me say this now, that nobody works harder than the chairman of our Appropriations Committee, and we are indeed indebted to him.

Could we go out and do all this thinking and arguing and even name-calling sometimes, over $1 billion to run our entire State? That is on our budget. Yet one regulatory agency in only four of its industries directly affects the citizens by $2 billion. Now multiply this by the hundreds of agencies we have in this State and you start to get the picture.

Even the milk control commission we have been talking about does not sound like too much, but the regulated sales amount to about $850 million. That is almost as much as our entire State budget. And the courts have held that the orders of the regulatory agency is, in fact, legislation.

Now picture this. The legislature creates this body, this regulatory agency. The executive is given the power to appoint the heads of the agency, usually from three to ten years. But once the thing is organized it is subject to no one. It makes its own laws; it adjudicates its own laws; it executes the laws. All of a sudden we find out that this fourth branch of government is a combination of all the three branches that are supposed to be separated.

Many legal writers have said that the growth of administrative law is the one single greatest advance that has been made in government in the last fifty years. There does not seem to be much doubt about that. Now, why do we need government regulations like the milk control commission? Basically, we need government regulation because people are people. Human beings, unfortunately, are greedy. Any time you find one person, or a group of persons, or a business, or an industry that does or can operate its business or industry to the detriment of the public, at that point government regulation is needed.

I am not ready at this time to state that milk control should be taken off in this State. Mr. Speaker, if these big dairies out in our area of Pittsburgh can control things the way they obviously are controlling them, just imagine what they could do without any regulation. We would be right back into the situation we had in 1934 in no time, in my opinion. They would be cutting down on payments to the farmers, holding up payments to the farmers, and pretty soon the farmers would have to do something to live and we would be back again to dirty milk and not very fresh milk, and I am not willing to risk that for our youngsters. So we see that any time a group of people like these big dealers can take advantage of the public, there is a great need for government regulation.

But too often I have heard criticism of the agency itself, usually picking out the commissioners. I will tell you from my experience, which is, I would say, 80 percent of the last 10 years of my professional life working in government regulation, there are certain faults, perhaps maybe even called evils, connected with this government regulation, and it is not so much tied in with the commissioners.

Let me give you an example. A commissioner, as I stated, is only appointed, let us say, for a period of three to ten years. He may come in there as a stranger to the regulation. It may be a part-time job, and some of them are. So who, in effect, regulates the prices in any of these commissions or agencies? It is the key personnel down the line. By and large, it has been my experience that these people are pretty down-to-earth honest people. But who do they deal with every day? Do they deal with the public? Rarely, if ever. Do they deal with us, the legislators? Only occasionally. Do they deal with the Governor? They might see him in the halls here. Who do they deal with day in and day out? They deal with the very people they are supposed to be regulating day in and day out and, after the passage of maybe 10, 15, or 20 years in a job like that, it is only human through the power of suggestion to become imbued with all of the thoughts, principles, philosophies, and problems of the industry that they are regulating, and pretty soon you find it coming to the fore.

Let me give you an example. The milk control commission back on July 25, 1960 put out this yellow pad of proposed regulations for their commission. Let me read to you these words, "A great many of the suggestions filed by the industry in response to the commission's request for the same have been adopted and are incorporated herein." Our industry, they say. Our industry, not the public. Yet what does the law say? This legislature directed the milk control commission to carry out all of the provisions thereof for the purpose of "the protection of the public health and welfare and to prevent fraud". That is their job. When counsel for the commission gets up in court and says, "What the public wants is not in issue here," he is not obeying the law and it is about time, when that happens, that this legislature steps in and tells them, "By gosh, you are going to follow our mandates or we are going to change the law." And we have arrived at that time.

Let me give you another example of this insidious practice that I have been talking about. Right here in our own Pennsylvania Manual, volume 94, we find a section describing the milk control commission. At the end it states, and I quote, "Members of the commission have organized a committee composed of fourteen producer representatives and fourteen dealer representatives to meet from time to time in order to advise the commission concerning various policies which may work to the benefit of the industry." Not one public representative, not one. Help our industry.

Now, out in Pittsburgh there has been one lone voice crying out trying to help the consumer, and that has been the city solicitor's department of the city of Pittsburgh, and through four city solicitors they have fought to no avail.

Now, some people may say to me, oh, well, heck, the citizens are protected; they can always go to the courts. This, too, is fallacious. Let me give you an example. In order to take an appeal from a regulatory order that a common citizen may have been not happy with, had wronged him, the first thing he must do in filing his petition with the Superior Court is to come up with a printed record. The printed record in one of these cases will run around 2,000 pages. All of a sudden he has got to come up with $6,500, $7,500.

There are so many things that must be changed. I am not going to go on and on. I could stand here and tell you about the price of milk to our school kids. We have been talking about schools here and how much money we are going to spend and how we are going to protect them, and our kids out in Pittsburgh are charged 7.1 cents for a half pint of milk. These dealers say they cannot give them milk for anything less. Yet when there was competitive bidding for the Federal hospitals, which sales do not come under the milk control law, they sold it for 5.64 cents per half pint, and they are selling those hospitals half gallons of milk for 36.9 cents, and they are charging us 51 cents.

I could go on and on. How about the vitamin D milk. There is a "beaut." They charge us a penny a quart for vitamin D additive. Do you know how much it costs them? .00013 cents. What a mark-up. What a terrific mark-up.

Why should we pass this amendment? I say to you that we should pass this amendment so that we put everyone on notice that this House of Representatives will not let our agencies get away with what this commission has allowed the dealers to get away with. This is a good amendment. If anyone is worrying about doing away with 40 percent of the commission's revenues, there are other ways of taking care of that. If you look in your histories, you will see that way out. This is a good amendment. This is a helpful amendment. I hope that it will pass.

In closing, I wish our legislative committee investigating the milk control laws every success in the world and I hope that they are going to delve into this matter and give us some proper legislation in 1963. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Donaldson, desire to be recognized at this time?

Mr. DONALDSON. I will yield to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Cauley.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Donaldson, yields to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Cauley.

Mr. CAULEY. Thank you, Mr. Donaldson.

I rise, Mr. Speaker, to as well support this amendment.

This amendment bespeaks some of our legislative deficiency. Once a bill passes into law we have little control, and this very bill in this very budget that we seek to propose here, subject to this amendment, bespeaks that very thing.

In our Pittsburgh milking area we have had a commission that has had a "public-be-damned" attitude. Their attitude is such that the public has no interest in these things, as far as they are concerned. I say that we must support this amendment in order to focus this. When we focus it, we then come to the situation where we are able to implement this law. Once it is implemented we will be able to protect that very public that we seek to protect and that we are here sitting representing. I ask all the members on both sides of this House to support this amendment in order to focus the attention on what we in the Pittsburgh area are faced with in this commission. Thank you very much.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Donaldson, now desire to be recognized?

Mr. DONALDSON. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Mr. Speaker, for what the famous President Lincoln used to call the great State of Allegheny, this is a happy day.

The Republican members from Allegheny County enthusiastically join their Democratic cohorts in urging support of this amendment. If, in fact, the amendment had not been offered, we were prepared to offer the identical amendment signed by all of the nine Republican members from Allegheny County.

We once had a whiskey rebellion in Allegheny County a long time ago. I want to assure the members of this House that we are on the verge of a milk rebellion. And since we have strayed a little bit here and there, and I have enjoyed the comments of my former classmate, Representative Kramer, I would like to explain to the House exactly why we in Allegehny County are proposing this amendment in order to hurt the Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission.

First of all, we have been paying for a long, long time far too much for milk, far too much for milk that is sold on one side of the Ohio line than they pay for the identical milk in the State of Ohio, and that is bad.

Last fall the Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission, after certain hearings, came up with the amazing mathematical formula that one and one no longer equal two. I would like to beg the indulgence of the House to explain that rather briefly. You can buy a quart of milk in a bottle and you can buy a quart of milk in a cardboard container for the same price in Pennsylvania. You can buy a half gallon of milk in a bottle and you can buy a half gallon of milk in a cardboard container for the same price and that price is slightly below what two quarts would cost you if purchased separately. Then the Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission last fall, during a state campaign, said that you can now buy a gallon of milk in a bottle for something less than the price of four quarts purchased separately, or the price of two half gallons purchased separately. This was a great boon to the consumers of milk. But when a dairy, after learning of this new price of milk by the gallon, proposed to put out a cartoon of two half-gallon cardboard containers stapled together equaling one gallon of milk, the Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission issued a cease and desist order and said, I think the reasoning was, it would put the other dairies at a competitive disadvantage. Now, Mr. Speaker, the comments that the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Kramer, made about bureaucracies and administrators I think are epitomized in this ruling that one and one no longer equal two.

All of the legislators from Allegheny County, I believe, on both sides of the political aisle are in favor of this amendment. The chairman of the board of county commissioners wants something done about it, and he is a Democrat. The Republican member of the board of county commissioners wants something done about it; the mayor of the city of Pittsburgh, and he is a Democrat, wants something done about it. But the only thing that we can do as legislators in this session, the only thing that we as legislators can do, is to vote for this amendment. But there is one other person from Allegheny County who could do something effectively about it, and the people of Allegheny County are waiting for his Excellency, the Governor of this Commonwealth, to do something about it. We, the Republican members from Allegheny County, requested him to call a special session concurrently with the special session on reapportionment to deal with this problem. To this date that request has not been answered. We believe that he could, at least, prevail upon the members of the commission to modify the ridiculous order of one plus one does not equal two.

I say to the people of this county, while all of your Representatives here are for this, while your county commissioners are for it in fact, these amendments will fail, and the only redress, the only person who can offer redress is a citizen of Allegheny County, the Honorable David L. Lawrence.

I hope that the amendments pass and I hope that all of us can support them.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I do not want to get involved in this debate, but I think the House should be aware of the fact that one of our former governors, who was quite an authority on both milk and whiskey, said that there were more headaches in a quart of milk than in a gallon of whiskey. Certainly that still prevails today.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I have before me a volume, the first volume, of the legislative history of 1955. I do not intend to introduce the entire volume into the record, but I am extremely pleased to support my fellow members from Allegheny County, Mr. Murray, Mr. Kramer and Mr. Cauley, because this particular vote will now give the Democratic Party the opportunity to carry out its platform pledge of 1954.

We always say, and I am afraid I am correct in that respect, that platforms are created by idealistic statesmen and are implemented by ordinary politicians, and such is the state of affairs with regard to the 1954 platform pledge—let me read it to you—on milk control.

The Democratic Party in 1954 said if it were elected—and the then majority leader of the House, Mr. Readinger, read the entire platform into the record and said, we will release these bills from committee and will pass them, and here is one of the items in the platform:

> Milk Control: To end the dealer domination—the dealer domination—of the milk control board by giving adequate representation to the producers and to the consumers, to close the gap between the low prices paid the farmers and the high prices paid by the consumers and to develop a more progressive program of merchandising.

During the 1955 session the Democratic Party was in complete and absolute control of the processes of legislation and during that session Democrats and Republicans alike introduced full measures to implement this platform pledge by either regulating, abolishing, and/or giving labor representation on the commission. Not a single one of these bills was released to the floor. So far in 1955, no runs, no hits, all errors.

In 1959 the Democrats also had control of the House and a bill was introduced to abolish the milk control commission by a Democrat—never released out of committee.

In 1961 the majority party still had the control and the only bill released to the floor was not one to decrease the power of the milk control board, but to increase the power of the milk control board. Incidentally, this particular bill was fought by a gentleman from Mercer County, Mr. Down, who rephrased and introduced a bill into the legislature to give the milk control board a new name. I think it is very apropos and I am sorry this bill was not on the floor. He named the milk control board in his bill, never released, "The Pennsylvania Milk Dealers' Protective Association." Mr. Down was right. For nigh onto eight long years the majority party has never implemented, never carried out, this pledge. I say to you gentlemen, whether you are from Allegheny County or whether you are from a rural county, if you believe in carrying out a platform pledge, then you should vote for the amendment introduced by Mr. Murray.

I am going to vote for the amendment for two reasons, because I want this particular issue to be high-lighted because it is right in principle, and because I want to help my friends on the Democratic side to carry out the 1954 platform pledge. Thank you very much.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Erie, Mr. Schaaf, desire to be recognized?

Mr. SCHAAF. I do, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Erie.

Mr. SCHAAF. Mr. Speaker, in the interest of attempting to be somewhat objective here and despite the fact that my colleague, Mr. Goldstein, has seen fit to interject a political issue into this thing at this point, I think the membership of this House knows, or at least should know, that this matter currently is under study in depth, and I think perhaps the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Donaldson, would concede that point.

The consequences of adopting this amendment—and I do not think it is a political issue—are, of course, that you will thwart what is basically the consumers' and the buyers' only protection, at least until 1963 when we adopt the new budget. In 1963 I assure you we will be faced up with the choice of whether we want to maintain, alter or repeal the existing milk control law. But here in the interim, if you strike $200,000 out of the budget of the milk control commission, you will only work against the interests of the consumer and of the farmer because the purpose of this money, as I understand at least, and the only real effective control that the commission has on the dealer is by auditing their particular books. And if you remove $200,000, I suggest that is the operation which is going to be curtailed, and in doing so, we work an injustice on the very people we attempt to protect.

This is an inflammatory issue certainly in western Pennsylvania, certainly in my own bailiwick. I do not want to put this on a personal basis, but there are some people who are willing to suggest that if you take a "go slow" or "wait and see" attitude on something such as this, you obviously have sold out to reprehensible interests connected with this particular commodity. I sort of resent that, but I guess it can come off my back as it can probably come off anybody else's. But I strenuously suggest that perhaps if we give this thing another eight months we can come up with something of substance which will let us all make an intelligent and objective decisions as to whether or not we ought to maintain milk controls here in Pennsylvania. But I again urgently suggest that if you remove this appropriation, you are curtailing the very thing which presently protects those people whom you seek to protect the most, the consumer and the farmer.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Farabaugh.

Mr. FARABAUGH. Mr. Speaker, maybe I should let it go at that, with what Mr. Schaaf has said. However, I think there have been a few statements made that ought to be corrected.

First of all, we realize that there is only about 9 percent of the population in agriculture, and only a percentage of them who are in the dairy business. And apparently there are not many of them in Allegheny County, by the sound of things. I resent some of the statements that have been made here even though there is a lot of oratory connected with it.

I would like those people who would indicate that there is nothing done for the consumer to attend some of the hearings. They would have you believe that the consumer has no voice in this. I have attended hearings across this State, milk control hearings, since, I believe, back in 1917. I have never yet been in a hearing when the consumer was not given the same opportunity to present testimony as the producer or the distributor. So that accusation is incorrect, that they are not taken into consideration.

I think you should go a little further. Mr. Kramer should have gone a little further when he quoted part of that law. My recollection is that that law was set up to give the producer the cost of production and the dealer the cost of distribution and to guarantee the public a sufficient amount of wholesome milk.

I do not always agree with what the commission is doing. I have made suggestions from time to time and I am not always in agreement with certain figures. If they are wrong, we should do something about it. But in trying to have it appear that the dealer and the producer are the only ones who are being protected, it is wrong. I wish you would check the records of the producers of milk in some of the other States. These gentlemen from Allegheny, of course, are more concerned about the price in that area. And Ohio does sometimes have milk a little cheaper, which can get into Pittsburgh.

Two years ago New Jersey had milk control of a little different type. New York had control of a little different type than we had. They abandoned that some time back. Today they have controls again in New Jersey. They do not have it in New York State. Now what has been the result? In most States the producer is getting less for his milk while the consumer is paying more. I do not want to go into detail here or carry this on too long, but I can tell you fairly accurately, I think, what would happen if you abandon milk control, which you are attempting to do by this amendment, or curtailing their efforts. Maybe this is a good political issue, I do not know, but I think there is too much politics in milk now and I do not believe it should be approached in this manner. If the law is wrong, let us change the law. If the board is not doing the job right, let us do something about that, but do not tie their hands so they cannot do anything, as you are trying to do with this bill.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Butler, Mr. King.

Mr. KING. Mr. Speaker, it appears to me that the proponents of this amendment would treat the sick patients by killing them. The Joint State Government Commission is making a study of the problems presented here today. This has been outlined by my colleague, Mr. Schaaf. I say to the members of this House, let us give that special committee an opportunity to come up with the proper solution to these problems. Voting for this amendment will not abolish the commission but will only give more power to the dealer because then he will be completely financing the commission. Thank you.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, just because there may be some injustice, allegedly, in the operation of the milk commission does not say that because a patient may be sick that we put a cellophane bag over the patient's head and deprive him of oxygen to cure the illness, and by depriving the milk control commission of the necessary funds to operate would kill the commission or lead to its eventual death.

If it were not for the farmers who are producing the milk and getting a fair price for this milk, there would not be any milk in Pittsburgh at 36 cents or 51 cents. If they are going to drive more farmers out of business and reduce the production, in all probability milk would wind up at a higher price than it is now. I do not think that the members on both sides of the aisle of this House are going to be foolish enough to throw the farmers of Pennsylvania to the mercy of the Pittsburgh politicians. I oppose these amendments.

Mr. LEONARD. Mr. Speaker, I have been a member of this House a few years and I have always kept in mind the people back home. I do not think the records will show that at any time I voted for a bill that was detrimental to the people of Pennsylvania. I consider myself a servant of the people of Pennsylvania.

For the life of me I have not heard yet—and I have listened very attentively to all these remarks that have been made now mostly in favor of this amendment—anybody say that this will rectify the situation. I am sure every member of the House knows that we can do nothing about the milk commission until next year. If we want to throw it out or change the setup, that will be up to the legislators in the next session. All we are doing here is taking up the time of the members of the General Assembly and playing politics with a very important subject. Thank you.

Mr. KRAMER. Mr. Speaker, I want to take issue with my very good friend who sits behind me, Mr. Leonard.

Whether this amendment passes or fails, I assure him it will not make one iota of difference to me. I have seven kids at home and I buy one awful lot of milk, and I get pretty much upset when these "birds" push us all over the place and we cannot do anything about it. We can do something here, and I propose to support whatever it is we can do.

The gentleman from Cambria says, take a look at the prices in other States and you are going to be surprised. Oh, you are going to be surprised because I have a paper right here from the United States Department of Agriculture Statistical Reporting Service, DA 1-31161, and here is what it says. I will read off all the States that sell milk in gallon jugs. In Massachusetts you can buy milk at a store in gallon jugs for 76 cents to 83 cents. That is in Boston. If you would like, I will go through every one of these. Springfield, Massachusetts, 78 cents; Worcester, Massachusetts, 70 cents. Now we will skip down to Rhode Island, 79 cents; Connecticut, 79 cents; New York—now there is one they hollered about—let us take a look at it. In Buffalo you can buy a gallon of milk for 92 cents; you can buy it in New York City, well, there is a range of prices here from 85 cents to $1.05; Schenectady, New York, 87 to 89 cents; Pennsylvania, you can buy it in Philadelphia for 94 cents; in Pittsburgh, 96 cents as long as you put 36 cents on that jug. But I want to see a three- or four-year-old kid lift up 12 pounds of milk and pour a glass for himself.

Well, let us travel across the United States. How about Indiana, 74 cents. That is in Fort Wayne; South Bend, Indiana, 81 cents; Illinois, 85 cents; Peoria, 69 cents; Rock Island, Illinois, 76 cents.

How about Wisconsin? It is a dairy State, 77 cents; Madison, 84 cents; Milwaukee, 77 cents. How about Iowa? Eighty-four cents. Missouri, 69 cents; North Dakota, 84 cents; South Dakota, 84 cents; Nebraska, 89 cents. I have not yet heard any of them come up to Pennsylvania. Kansas, 66 cents; District of Columbia, 90 cents. Well, there is just no sense in going on. It is like that all the way through the whole United States. Take a look at the other States, if you will.

Somebody questioned me about what the law says. I am going to read it to you. I quoted it from memory, but I am going to read it to you now:

"This act shall be and is hereby enacted for the purpose of regulating and controlling the milk industry in this Commonwealth for the protection of the public health and welfare and for the prevention of fraud." That is exactly what I said.

Another thing was brought up, that the consumer is well-protected in these hearings. Here is a ruling on evidence—now picture this, especially you lawyers; just picture this. The law says that the records of these hearings, because they are in a highly competitive state, are secret. Who knows how much it costs to deliver a quart of milk? It is their secret.

The city of Pittsburgh filed a petition in the 1961 case demanding to see the records of these dairies. The commission said, that is a highly competitive industry and you are not going to look at the records, so the city of Pittsburgh does not know what it costs to deliver a quart of milk; no one knows. Do you know what they do? I will tell you what they do. We have 144 dairy dealers in area 2, that is the Pittsburgh dairy area. So 43 of them belong to this greater Pittsburgh association, and the system is that they take a real good dairy operation and they take a real bad one and then they take a couple in the middle and they make a conglomeration of figures and say, boy, look at that, you are going to pay 51 cents for a half gallon of milk. There is no way that you can check it. The consumer is protected, ha!

The dairy dealers were begged, and I read the record on this and I will stand on that. They were actually begged to come in and put some statistics in here to prove that the price of this milk should be what they say it should be, and they refused. They did not come forward with any plan. And the small dealers, mind you, wanted, supported and put in a little of their testimony for quantity discounts on milk.

These big dealers holler about labor. The record in that case shows that the labor cost in the Pittsburgh area is just about the same as it is for any other urban area in the United States, but the record also shows that the marketing margin as they call it, that is, the difference between the price they pay for the milk and the price they charge the consumer is the highest in the United States.

And do you know what else they do? You talk about protecting the consumer. These deals jumble up all the regulated cost and the non-regulated cost so you cannot tell how much a quart of milk should cost on that basis. We have about the cheapest cottage cheese price in the Pittsburgh area for the whole United States. So, what are they doing? They are shoving up the cost of cottage cheese on the little people so they get a nice big fat fancy price. This is what is going on. You can take a look at these prices all you want; you can take a look at the record; you can take a look at the evidence, and the whole thing stinks.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Cambria desire recognition?

Mr. FARABAUGH. I do, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cambria.

Mr. FARABAUGH. I am very glad that my friend, Mr. Kramer, brought out the real issue, the jug business. I have not been in sympathy with the methods the board has used. I do not think they should ever had told the distributor or anyone else what kind of a package to put it in so long as it is sanitary. That is the issue really, the jug business. That is why people are hollering about it, the idea of putting it in a gallon jug, across the State, beginning in Philadelphia.

Now, he quotes prices. He is quoting gallon jug prices. I can give you one better. You can come right up in my county and you can buy it in a gallon jug for 40 cents a gallon. Why don't you come and get it?

Here is the thing that happens. A producer lost his market because he was not keeping up his sanitary regulations. He then lost his market on account of that, he got his place cleaned up to where he could get an okay from the state inspector who only comes around once in a while. So he starts selling it to farms for 40 cents a gallon. Now, you can quote that price in Cambria County where you can buy it for 40 cents a gallon, when you are talking about gallon jugs. I never did approve of the board setting a price when they name the container. And if they had not done this the controversy would not be. I believe there should be a discount for the people who buy a gallon or more, and I could give you a lot of reasons to justify it. But when they specify a gallon jug, I disagree with them and, as I said before, I do not agree with everything and there are some things that are wrong. Let us do something about it, but let us not tie their hands.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. Fox.

Mr. FOX. I would like to return to the discussion of the amendments and ask if I might interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Murray.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MURRAY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FOX. Mr. Speaker, the first question I had that I wanted to ask was, what does the sponsor of this amendment want to accomplish by it? I believe that has been answered—he wants to render the milk control commission ineffective. Mr. Speaker, would you say that your amendment will reduce the cost of milk to the consumer?

Mr. MURRAY. I would say yes.

Mr. FOX. You say your amendment will reduce the cost of the milk to the consumer? In what way?

Mr. MURRAY. I will repeat my answer, Mr. Speaker, that I think the media of free enterprise and competition will reduce the price.

Mr. FOX. If the commission is merely rendered ineffective but still exists and its rules still exist and its regulations, will free competition and free enterprise prevail in that situation?

Mr. MURRAY. I would say yes.

Mr. FOX. I cannot but disagree. However, you have given me your answer. What functions of the commission would be curtailed if these funds are taken away?

Mr. MURRAY. I do not say, Mr. Speaker, that it will curtail the commission. I do say this, it will make it most obvious as to who the beneficiaries of the milk commission may be. I feel that the commission will go back to the dealers, or whatever it may be, increase their fees and in so doing will tip the hand. There has been some talk about the fact that we should abolish it, and, as we know, in this session we cannot do it but I still maintain again that through free enterprise and competition we can get a decent, respectable price for milk.

Mr. FOX. I do not believe that the gentleman has answered my question. What function will be curtailed if the commission does not have funds?

Mr. MURRAY. Well, Mr. Speaker, I think that when I started out I answered the question. I do not think that any of them will be because the government will have to seek this $200,000 if that is what it takes to operate in addition to the $300,000 they are getting in fees now. And I think at that particular time it will be determined by that just who is paying for the preservation of the milk control commission.

Mr. FOX. I do not follow the reasoning that this amendment will curtail the operation, render it ineffective and still none of its functions will be affected. How could it be ineffective and still have all its functions?

Mr. MURRAY. I beg your pardon?

Mr. FOX. How can the commission be ineffective, as you want it to be, and yet perform all of its functions?

Mr. MURRAY. The point that I am trying to convey here is that during this interim I do not believe that the milk control commission is going to be abolished because it cannot be abolished even by jeopardizing $200,000 of its appropriations, but I do think it is going to make it most evident to those people and especially the consumer, to the citizen, just who is financing the milk control commission.

I cannot for the sake of me see why—and I have to repeat—in the case of industry—and I am not condoning what industry did in price fixing—we, as the legislature, legally establish an agency that can do just that. I say that in 1963, if I may, without deviating from the right of argument under this amendment, that in 1963, should I and the rest of us be elected, I think that I will, at least, introduce a bill to completely abolish the milk control commission, put it out of existence. It serves no purpose. It is not serving the purpose for which it was originally intended.

Mr. FOX. I will ask this further question. Will the commission without these funds be able to conduct audits on the dealers' records to insure that the producers are promptly and correctly paid?

Mr. MURRAY. Again, Mr. Speaker, I contend that they will get the $200,000 if that is what is needed and they will be able to conduct their audits.

Mr. FOX. In other words, you take the money away but you still expect them to get it from another source and still continue as of now?

Mr. MURRAY. Absolutely. That is the only thing they can do under the present laws.

Mr. FOX. And if that happens, then there will be no reduction in the price of milk?

Mr. MURRAY. I beg your pardon?

Mr. FOX. If that happens, if they get their funds elsewhere and continue to function, continue in all of their functions, as you say they will, then there will be no reduction in the price of milk, which you said would happen?

Mr. MURRAY. What I said, Mr. Speaker, is, if the commission does the job that it is supposed to do, fairly and squarely, for the consumers, for the producers, for the dealers, yes, we can have a reduction.

Mr. FOX. But not by reason of your amendments? Your amendments will not bring it about?

Mr. MURRAY. Maybe I might ask him, Mr. Speaker, why he thinks that.

Mr. FOX. I say that because the price is already established. Whether or not the commission has funds, that price will remain unless they have a hearing and change it. Your amendments will not change it. I thank the gentleman for his answers.

I would like to just make a brief comment. I think that this amendment is a pathetic piece of legislation. It represents a tactic that is not truly a responsible tactic.

There are those here who favor repeal of the milk control law. There are others here who favor the revision of this law. There may be still others who favor its retention without change, I do not know. But either of these courses would be proper, if, after due study and deliberation, the General Assembly decided such a course best for the Commonwealth.

However, this amendment would have us proceed at once in no direction at all. It does not repeal the milk control law; it does not abolish the commission. It cannot, through this amendment, reduce the price to the consumer by a single cent. It does not benefit the consumer —I am speaking of the amendment—it does not benefit the consumer; it does not benefit the producer or the processor.

The Pittsburgh papers have given this amendment wide publicity as an opportunity for us to show whether we are for milk control or not. I am sure they will persist in this distorted interpretation. Actually, we do not even have this choice. It is simply a choice between responsibility and irresponsibility.

This amendment has been offered by a gentleman on the Democratic side. The commission affected by this amendment is composed of three Democrats, appointed by a Democratic Governor, advised by deputies to a Democratic attorney general, including that deputy who made the statement that what the public was interested in was not before the court. It is complemented with a Democratic staff. The controversy now raging in Pittsburgh is over a gallon price established by this commission at the insistence of highly placed Democrats, and its action has been sanctioned by the Governor.

In the regular 1961 session, an appropriation of $200,000 was approved, representing an increase of $50,000 to this commission, and no amendment was offered by any of the gentlemen who have spoken here today to delete or reduce it by a single cent.

If, in the face of these facts, the gentlemen on the other side are in the mood to harass one of their own agencies, I will certainly not ask them to refrain from so doing.

I will merely conclude that at best this amendment will accomplish nothing; at worst, it could head one of Pennsylvania's major industries toward a condition of chaos.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would like to be privileged to recognize the majority leader for the purpose of concluding the debate. It is so agreed.

Mr. McCANN. Thank you, Mr. Speaker. Ladies and gentlemen, I will be very brief. The amendments offered by the gentleman from Allegheny to eliminate the $200,000 has been discussed in both caucuses last week and certainly by all the members here today. I think they have a full impression in their minds of whether they want to vote for or against the amendments.

I will say, though, that a public hearing will be held in Pittsburgh on Monday, February 19th, on this very important item. They will hold this particular hearing, I believe, beginning at 10 o'clock, and also in attendance will be the task force from the Joint State Government Commission, that has this very same problem to report on to the 1963 session of the General Assembly. I am sure the task force will present a recommendation to the Joint State Government Commission Executive Committee. Whether it would be favorable or unfavorable in your opinion depends upon which side of the fence you may be on in this milk control commission problem.

The Commission has done some good things, and I realize it is difficult, but I bring to your attention that in the month of January 1962 alone, the commission secured payments of $118,174 due from milk producers on delinquent accounts. This is very important. To eliminate the $200,000 at this point would leave the commission with $340,000 received from fees set by law that you in this General Assembly set. I believe it is one percent, or one cent per hundred weight, and in the 1961 session there was legislation proposed at that time that would change the fees so that it would not take any appropriation from the general fund. If I remember correctly, there were very few who favored that proposal. So, you have set, in prior years, the fees that they are to receive by putting into law the amounts they shall receive in fees per hundred weight.

I would like to say to you that I sympathize deeply and I certainly know that these men who have spoken here in wanting to reduce this appropriation are, in my opinion, very sincere. They believe, and they certainly would be the ones who would say, that the milk commission should be abolished. I assume that they would be voting on this issue in a proper session. But, in the situation that we are in today, in the fiscal session of 1962, by which this amendment would reduce the general fund appropriation given to the milk commission by $200,000, I have to ask the membership to oppose this amendment.

With that, I hope and I am sure, that those who will serve here in 1963 will have their opportunity for argument regarding the abolishment, because I believe Mr. Murray indicated in prior debate a moment ago that he will be offering such proposals in the 1963 session, and I am sure there will be others.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I ask that a roll call be taken on this and I ask the membership to vote "no" on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Murray.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

NOT VOTING—8

Cooley,	Maxwell,	McKeever,	Taylor,
Fry,	McCormack,	Needham,	Willard,

So the question was determined in the negative and the amendment was not agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The Chair requests the gentleman from Armstrong to preside.

Mr. HELM IN THE CHAIR

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Filo.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, for the benefit of those 36 that went along to vote for this amendment, I just want to quote four words out of context of the prayer offered by the gentleman from Erie this morning, "Lord, we have tried."

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

PERMISSION TO ADD ADDITIONAL SPONSORS

Mr. SELTZER asked and obtained unanimous consent to add additional sponsors to amendments to be introduced by him.

Messrs. SELTZER, OGILVIE, SNARE, HORST, GEORGE, DOWN and ADAMS asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 2, page 26, line 7, by striking out "$9,494,-640" and inserting: $9,403,640

Amend Sec. 2, page 31, line 7, by striking out "990,920" and inserting: 1,081,920

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman from Lebanon desire to be recognized on his amendments?

Mr. SELTZER. The only thing I would like to say at this time is that the amendments are very simple and all they do is transfer $91,000 from the Department of Property and Supplies to the Department of Public Instruction for the Scotland School.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, rise?

Mr. McCANN. Did the gentleman from Lebanon, Mr. Seltzer, say that the amendment takes from the Department of Property and Supplies? I thought he informed me that the amendment was a reduction from the Auditor General.

Mr. SELTZER. No, Property and Supplies.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Ogilvie.

Mr. OGILVIE. Mr. Speaker, members of this House, I feel very humble today in coming before this body and talking about $91,000. It seems that I have a tin cup in my hand when you compare it with the millions that we were talking about yesterday and the rosy climate that was envisioned at that time.

I am proud, however, to represent Scotland School. For the benefit of those members who do not know Scotland School, it is located in Franklin County, Pennsylvania. It came into being following the battle of Gettysburg, when two little orphans appeared before the Governor, rapping at his door—and, of course, in those days the Governor answered his own door—and they said their father had been killed at Gettysburg and their mother had died. And that was the beginning of Scotland School.

Scotland School has had a wonderful history. Today, we have 555 students there. We have had graduates such as, Dexter Very, the great end at Penn State, and Chief Justice Kephart.

Now, the question is this $91,000. The school asked for $1,093,038. This was cut to $990,000. The school is asking for a restoration of $91,000 which consists of $68,000 for operations and $23,000 for equipment to equip the new hospital which is now under construction at this state institution. This is a very modest request. As I said before, it is like peanuts when you talk about millions.

Now, let us look at the history of this school comparatively from the cost standpoint, what it costs to keep a student there in this school, clothe him and give him a complete education clear through high school. Last year it cost $1,740 a year. There is a similar school in Ohio, The Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Orphans Home. The cost there was $2,700 per student. At the Indiana Soldiers and Sailors Children's Home the cost was $2,748 per student. At the Illinois Soldiers and Sailors Children's School at Norman, Illinois, the cost was $4,855 per student.

Here is evidence of efficiency. We are not asking for something unreasonable, as proven by the figures that I have just quoted.

Now, the next thing is, what happens to these students? They go on to college. We have 22 of them in college for which the American Legion is paying the scholarships of $800 per year. We have one boy in his second year at the Naval Academy. Now, these boys and girls do not come always from broken homes. Four years ago we graduated the daughter and son of a West Point Colonel who was killed in the Battle of the Bulge and his wife went berserk. So you see the type of children they are. The slogan at Scotland School is, "Visit the School and see for yourself."

Now, where do these children come from? Let me list just a few of the counties where they come from. Out of the 67 counties, 47 counties send these children. Allegheny has 13, Beaver has 9, Blair has 66, Butler 16, Centre has 7, Clearfield has 4, Lancaster has 30, Lebanon has 10, Philadelphia has 51, York has 28, Westmoreland has 51. That is just a few of them.

I have been informed by the superintendent that this school has been adjudged the best of its kind in the United States. He says that he cannot continue the program, which is a fine one; that if this money is denied he will have to measure his program in keeping with the monies that are available.

I have tried to present the picture to you. It is a small sum of money, $91,000, and I ask each member of this House on both sides to vote for this appropriation of $91,000 to continue this program, which is the finest program of its kind and of which the State should be most proud. Thank you very much.

Mr. HORST. Mr. Speaker, I do not know how many of the members of this House have ever been in Scotland School but to what Brother Ogilvie said I say, "Amen."

I just want to give you a little highlight of what this Commonwealth has invested in at Scotland School, near Chambersburg, Franklin County.

It is a 165-acre farm. They have a nice main building. They have 38 dormitory homes. They are eight-room two-story, colonial-type built homes, with 38 mothers. These children of various ages stay in these dormitory homes. They have a nice laundry, well equipped. They also have a high school and an elementary school which runs from the first to the twelfth grade.

The old hospital or infirmary has been demolished and they are in the process of building a new hospital or infirmary for which we passed several years ago an appropriation to the General State Authority.

They have a shop building in which they teach various trades and in those shops they teach baking, shop work; they have a machine shop; they have a sheet metal shop; they have a printery; they also have a barber shop training school to teach barbers and beauticians.

When the child graduates from Scotland School he or she receives a barber's license or a beautician's license. They are well equipped and they are self-sustaining, these boys and girls when they leave the school.

They also have at Scotland School 31 teachers and principals who teach from the first to the twelfth grades. They have 45 house mothers and help around the plant, 64 administrators and elder help on the grounds who supervise the students. The boys and girls all work as a team.

Today we have between five and six hundred students there. They are all worthy wards of our Commonwealth. They are daughters and sons of veterans of this State, whose father or mother died, or of a broken family. It is our obligation to help to put this across and keep it in operation.

We have already invested approximately $20 million to $30 million on this 165-acre estate of the Commonwealth known as Scotland School for Veterans' Children, Scotland, Pennsylvania, and I urge you ladies and gentlemen to think twice before you vote against this amendment. I thank you very much.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I will admit that they have a very fine institution in the Scotland School for Veterans. My county is represented on the board, but I believe we should pick out the true facts and that is that this school in this fiscal year will receive a large increase over the previous year. Comparing the 1961-62 twelve months, we are giving an increase of 10.3 percent on operation and exclude from that in budgeting percentage $25,000 which is for movable equipment.

Now, this appropriation was supported by the Joint Senate-House Appropriations Committee. At no time was any mention made by anyone or by the superintendent of this institution that the amount contained in the budget was not correct or sufficient. Last Monday, after all the decisions were made, I did receive a letter from Superintendent Stevens asking for this additional amount. Like I told him personally, and as I noted, we were down to a few thousand dollars in our appropriations and I have no way of considering an adjustment. However, I did confer with the budget secretary and we went over it in detail, and I also went over this in detail, or pretty much in detail, with Representative Ogilvie and others who discussed the matter with me. This should be voted down inasmuch as the overall increase is 13.1 percent, which is the highest amount we have given any similar institution, and inasmuch as the budget figures indicate that there will be no financial problem involved with this institution and that there is sufficient money to operate it; but, mainly, at this late hour, we have an appropriation base left, we had yesterday, of $2,782. The Governor could not sign this bill even if we passed it. We will be back here in January with only half of the fiscal year elapsed, and if it would develop that additional funds would be needed for this institution, I feel that this General Assembly would meet that need as they have always done in the past. I think the budget for this institution is a sound one. I think it is a well managed institution and we can be proud of it, but the plain facts are, we do not have $91,000 additional money for this appropriation. We can safely carry the matter over to the next session of the General Assembly even, if it would develop that the budget figures, which have never been disputed by anyone, are incorrect.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Ogilvie.

Mr. OGILVIE. In order that we might keep the record clear, this school, of course, is under the Department of Public Instruction, and Dr. Stevens informs me that he was never invited to the budget hearing. If he had been, he would have made his position very, very clear. I wanted to get that into the record.

Furthermore, this is a growing institution. You are starting to get the orphans of the Korean Conflict. In fact, we have a larger enrollment today than we had in the Civil War. In 1953 it started with 422 orphans, and today, by the end of June, it is estimated to be 555. The provisions down there physically provide for facilities for approximately 600 students, and I think that has been pretty fine figuring. But, in the case of this extra money, we feel, it is necessary. The superintendent, whom Mr. Polen says never questioned it, says it is necessary. For my part, I say let us take his word since he has done such an excellent job, and, comparatively speaking, this is the lowest cost school of that type in the country, and give him the paltry $91,000 which, in my estimation, is like peanuts when you are talking about millions. Thank you.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, just to keep the record straight, this amount is contained in the budget for the Department of Public Instruction and was handled in that manner. We have never, to the best of my knowledge, invited the superintendents of the individual institutions to appear. However, in any case where they requested such appearance, or any association requested it, we were glad to grant them a hearing. But, furthermore, until last Monday I have never heard anything at all from Mr. Stevens or anyone else concerning this matter.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Lebanon, Mr. Seltzer.

Mr. SELTZER. Mr. Speaker, I would just like to correct one statement made by Mr. Polen, the chairman of the Appropriations Committee, in that the Governor can sign this bill because we are not creating an additional burden, we are not adding additional money to the appropriation bill; we are transferring the proper amount of money from one department to another. So the Governor could sign this bill with the $91,000 added.

There is one other comment I would like to make concerning the hearing of the Department of Public Instruction. The chairman is correct in that the superintendent of public instruction, or one of his employes, did speak in behalf of the Scotland School, but, if my memory is correct, I think I asked three or four questions of this gentleman, I have forgotten his name, and he could not answer one of them. In all fairness to Doctor Stevens, he did not approach me nor did I approach Doctor Stevens because I did not get satisfactory answers from this certain individual from the Department of Public Instruction, whom I understand has never been on the campus of Scotland School. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from McKean, Mr. A. W. Johnson.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, owing to the lateness of the hour and the membership are getting tired, I am sure, I will try to be as brief as possible in my remarks on these amendments.

Yesterday, as you will recall, we were successful in having inserted in House bill 57 approximately $9.1 million additional appropriations to our schools. At that time I stated that one of the ways of financing these amendments would be to cut the government operation budget by some 10 percent. That is exactly what these amendments do. With the exception of two departments that receive no increases and seem to be operating on a modest budget, there were no cuts made. However, in addition to the 10 percent cut there is a $500,000 purchasing fund removed from the Department of Property and Supplies.

There is a cut in the Auditor General's budget of $800,000 and several other minor cuts which total approximately $9 million.

Now, you say, why are you cutting this budget 10 percent. We are cutting it because of our making a review of the Governor's budget now as compared to ten years ago. I quoted figures yesterday to show some startling increases in the various budget amounts, some of which I will just quickly read.

For instance, in the Department of Public Instruction, in 1951—this is one year's figures—it cost $2.4 million to run the department. Now we are asking $7.2 million. Property and Supplies was, ten years ago, $5.8 million; they are asking for $10.488 million. The Department of Revenue, ten years ago, spent $3.1 million; now $12.36 million. That gives you some idea. Some of them are double; some of them are triple; some of them are quadrupled.

I want to say about how we audited the Governor's budget. I grant you that Mr. Polen called his hearings rather quickly, a little quicker than we would like to have had them. He did give us on the Republican side ample opportunity to cross-examine all the department heads that came before us, and I want to congratulate the Republican members of the Appropriations Committee, as well as the Democratic members of the Appropriations Committee. Many days there were almost unanimous membership of the entire committee present at these hearings. And we did our best to try to find out what was going on. But, as I said in other years, we had just a few fleeting moments of talking to a department head to find out what is going on in his department, what his actual needs are.

Now, for instance, take the Department of Health. We asked them, what is your complement of employees? Well, it is 3,950 employees, and we have some 160 vacancies. Well, now we do not know what they need.

To repeat, that particular Department of Health, which I stated at the hearing is doing an excellent job, I think, because Pennsylvania has been singularly free from epidemics, yet they have 3,950 employes and we do not know whether they need that many employees or do not. Someone said there is more featherbedding over in the Department of Health than any other place. Of course, that is just hearsay. We have no way of proving it.

Likewise in going down through the various amounts of money that the department heads said they needed in addition to the salaried items, we on the Republican side here cannot, even at this time, following the hearings, we cannot state whether the money is necessary or whether it is not. All we can do is compare it with previous years and come to the conclusion that it is inordinately high and one of the ways of providing this $9 million for our schools would be to cut this department 10 percent for operations and let them live within that money.

You ask, "Why do you say the budget is high?" Here are just some quick figures: In 1955-57 Governor Leader's budget, one half of his budget for two years was $652 million. Governor Lawrence's expected budget now is $1 billion 8 million. Subtract the smaller amount from the large budget now and you will find that in one year, this year, the Governor's budget is $348.8 million more than was Governor Leader's budget for one year. Now I am talking on figures for just one year.

Let us go back to Governor Fine's last budget, 1953-55. One-half of that would be $507 million. Compare that with Governor Lawrence's $1 billion 8 million now and you will find that the increase in one year is $501 million, a half billion dollars increase in one year, Governor Lawrence's budget over Governor Fine's.

As we have repeatedly stated, in this particular budget now they are requesting $52 million more than the budget for the current fiscal year. I grant you, however, it is one-half of what the increase was for this fiscal year over the last fiscal year. For instance, the last budget, the budget we are working on now, is for $104.6 million more than the year before and now $52 million again. That goes to show you how rapidly the cost of government is created. We have had figures on the increase in the number of state employees. I grant you we have increased some state functions, but have we increased state functions so rapidly that we must have the myriad of state employees that we have in and around this State Capitol?

Therefore, in order to say that we are offering a plan to supply the schools with this money we are submitting these amendments today.

I want to say something about his budget. I will say it now, then I will not speak again on the Governor's budget which is before us.

The Governor does say he has a surplus. I asked at the hearing, we asked the budget secretary, well, what type of an accounting system does the Commonwealth have? They have a double entry accrual method system of accounting. In other words, are we on the accrual basis, the question was asked. Yes, we are on the accrual basis as far as expenditures are concerned, purchases are concerned, but we are on a cash basis as far as taxes are concerned. Why must we do that? Why must one be on a cash basis and the other on an accrual basis? In other words, you know what the answer is? Because taxes, by reason of acceleration, have been paid in advance anywhere from $80 million to $120 million, so that if the Commonwealth were on an accrual accounting method right now, accruing not only its expenditures, but setting up as a liability to unearned income taxes paid in advance, this budget would be out of balance from $80 million to $120 million. A lot of people do not realize that, but if you are an accountant and understand accounting procedures, you will have to say, yes, a true balance sheet of the State of Pennsylvania today would show liability due to companies that have paid taxes in advance of $120 million which would reflect itself in a deficit of that amount as far as our bookkeeping is concerned, or a liability of that amount of money because we have asked corporations to pay taxes one year in advance.

Now let me again say something about the lapses. This budget calls for $16 million in lapses. I take it that for us to pass this House bill No. 1 today, the full complement of lapses of $16 million have been made. If the lapses are illusory and a hoped-for lapse by the end of the current fiscal year, then we do not have a balanced budget because we might not have these lapses. Be that as it may, I think for us to legally pass House bill 1 today, the total lapses should be made and we should be furnished with a statement of the lapses.

Now of the lapses of $7 million that have been made up to now only $700,000 of it is in the current year's budget. The other $6 million plus is in from continuing appropriations going away back to 1955, 1954 and 1957. That is the reason why I said at the hearings that when they came in they should explain their estimates of revenue. No, we Republicans have not found a place to cut this budget. If we had been furnished a statement of the lapses we would have known which department did not need the monies they were getting. There would have been $8 million or $10 million no doubt that we could have found somewhere in the budget that was not necessary now that we could use for schools.

I do not think that you should deliberately cut this Governor's budget unless you cut it with a purpose in mind. It is like being in a lawsuit. They tell you to cross-examine and cross-examine with a purpose. Here you should cut the budget and cut it with a purpose, either to reduce taxes or to provide money for some other very, very necessary item.

In this case we have provided $9 million for our schools and we are asking to cut the budget in various degrees to make up for the $9 million. Therefore, I am offering these amendments and I am asking the members of this House to vote "aye" on the amendments.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Johnson, the minority leader, is correct when he says that the amendment proposed a 5 percent cut across the board in the general administrative expense.

Now, Mr. Speaker, quite a few years ago when Governor Fine was the Governor of this Commonwealth, this General Assembly did the same thing as they are attempting to do now, only they put a 5 percent slash on general administrative expense. And what happened? Governor Fine ended up with a deficit of $74 million when he had started in with a surplus of $22 million.

I said in this House and I said in the Joint House-Senate Appropriations Committee hearings that anyone who had any proposals as to making cuts should tell me about them, tell me what programs they intended to eliminate, because, Mr. Speaker, about 92 percent of our budget is for things that this General Assembly has mandated or instructed be done. The salary picture is about 8 percent of the total.

In the brief time since I received a copy of these amendments yesterday evening, I have attempted to partially analyze some of them as to what would happen. I think there are several things that have been overlooked.

I think it ran into an item of $500,000 to the purchasing fund, which was eliminated. It is entirely possible that could be done, but what you did not do is to take into consideration that $350,000 of that is shown in the receipts as a return, so the net difference is $150,000.

Now in many of these programs that are cut there are federal augmentations affected. I am not going to go into detail in all of them but I am going to mention a few.

Let us take the Department of Commerce. They have no new employees in their program. Now when you apply that 10 percent cut there, what you are going to do is to reduce the staff for industrial development programs because there are no new programs in this budget. I have a letter here from Dr. Stevens of the Historical and Museum Commission. I am not going to read it in detail. I am going to bring out a couple of the highlights.

> A 10 percent further reduction would leave absolutely no room for the absolute essentials in terms of staff and so forth, to provide for the planning and operation of facilities now being constructed.

They are going to construct nearly a $10 million memorial to William Penn, which is badly needed in this Commonwealth. The ground was broken the other day. That is going to take intensive planning, a lot of research, if they are going to be ready to take that building over. He further goes on to say:

> The Commonwealth would be faced with having some of the finest new facilities in the country and of great value to our tourist industries standing more or less and unable to be utilized. If we are forced to take a 10 percent cut, I shall recommend the closing of several properties now administered by the commission and erecting signs that they are closed for budgetary reasons.

That is what the Historical and Museum Commission said.

In Forests and Waters the 10 percent cut applied to general administration would create a chaotic inconvenience, because in this I think Mr. Johnson will recall was the increase for the timber sales program, which would bring in $250,000. If these cuts are made, that program would be eliminated.

Also we would be forced to close many of the beaches because of a lack of life guards. The four regional park offices which are necessary to provide adequate facilities to the general public could not open. In the water resources, the department would have to eliminate its free camp service and reduce the amount of dredging on the Schulykill River. The dredging is an activity required by law and under agreement with the Federal Government.

Now here is one here, the Public Utility Commission. The Public Utility Commission, with what it earns in fees, is practically self supporting. There is only a small percent that is not earned by this commission, comes back to the general fund. In the last session of the legislature we gave an increase of $50,000 so that the commission could be represented in Washington on the rate hearings on the gas cases from the suppliers in the southwest. And what we have been able to accomplish in connection with that by having this representation has resulted in savings totaling $14 million to the gas consumers of Pennsylvania, and we anticipate that an additional savings of $13 million can be expected if we continue this program of representation.

Now, it seems to me that we are cutting it pretty fine on a commission that generates the greater part of the cost of operation, when we are going to cut them below what they earn.

Now, in Welfare, there are many serious things which take place. As I said, Mr. Speaker, there are many areas in this budget where we have serious problems. Now I will mention one. Where this reduction would reduce a federal implementation by $145,167 because we would not have the matching money, and in this particular area it is not only the question that the general government is affected, the diagnostic and evaluation centers have been cut 10 percent, the Eastern Mental Health Center has been cut 10 percent, the Western Mental Health Center has been cut 10 percent. I do not think that those are wise cuts. In connection with the Department of State, it will seriously curtail many programs there but the administration of the auctioneers' license act, and the municipal employes retirement system and the State employes retirement system would be seriously affected.

In the Department of Revenue, and Mr. Johnson mentioned, Mr. Speaker, how the expenses have gone up in ten years, but, I want to say to him that in 1951 we did not have the administration of a sales tax bringing in $4½ million.

And, Mr. Speaker, all the way down the line we could go over many more of these, but I want to say this, we are not in 1951. We are in 1962. And we have to face the things realistically, that this is a different age, that we have progressed. And if we wanted to compare expenses we might take on the problem at the General Assembly, which would show a substantial increase.

Now, it was mentioned about the large number of employes we have. In connection with the hearings, I was having some statistical data worked up and I have these figures and I would just like the membership of the House, if they would, to pay a little attention to this.

Mr. Speaker, the statistics that I am going to give you show the number of employes in State and local government for 10,000 population. That is the way it is compiled by the State Council. It does include municipal employes, but we find that the ratio is practically the same in the other States. In other words, our radio on State government follows down the line with the other municipalities. Take the State of New York, our sister State. They have 367.7 governmental employes for 10,000 population. We, in Pennsylvania, have 249.8. We stand 13th on the list in the Nation today, of not the small States, but the large States.

I think that when we talk about this budget I know that Mr. Johnson is fairly disgusted with me and talks about attrition. Some of the members came to me today and asked me what it meant. I am not going to give a definition out of a dictionary, but I am going to try to explain here briefly as I did in our caucus what it means. To make it simple, we will say there are ten positions at $1,000 a year. That would be $10,000. That is the way it use to go in the budget, but in this budget it is not in there that way. They have taken into account, department by department, bureau by bureau, what was your past relationship, how many vacancies did you have, how many were vacant during the entire year, when a vacancy occurred due to resignation or death or retirement, how long was it before you filled it? And the result was, that figure which in the past would have been in the $10,000 and left money over, is now in there at the exact figure they arrived at, which is probably, say, $7,200. In other words, we have taken off the attrition and the benefit that we had in the past of it is making lapses.

Now, when we go into the question of lapses, as I told the House yesterday, we have lapsed $7 million plus. We have used it up in the deficiency bills. It is anticipated that the balance will be lapsed by the end of the year, but I do not believe that Mr. Johnson believes, or anyone believes, that now in early February, with practically six months still to go in this fiscal year, that it would be wise to make the lapses now. How could anybody intelligently do that? But, I want to assure the members of this House that we have the tightest budget control under the present Secretary of the Budget that we have ever had and he is going to see to it that not one dollar is expended except what is absolutely necessary to be spent, and I think that instead of criticizing this administration for having lapsed money, they should be congratulated.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I am about to close. I have figures here I could talk on all night, but I do not think it is going to impress anybody, but I do think it might be good that I have talked here and spoken here today and told you some of the basic facts regarding this matter. I do not think it will change any votes, but I want to say this, you can rest assured that if you would cut this budget five percent where you have cut it, that you would create a chaotic condition in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and I believe that you would end up the same way in the next fiscal year as Governor Fine did after you arbitrarily cut him five percent. Mr. Speaker, I ask all the members of this House to oppose these amendments.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

NOT VOTING—7

Cooley,	McKeever,	Pursley,	Willard,
Goldstein, M. H.,	Needham,	Taylor,

So the question was determined in the negative and the amendments were not agreed to.

PERMISSION TO ADD ADDITIONAL SPONSORS

Mr. GOODRICH asked and obtained unanimous consent to add additional sponsors to amendments to be introduced by him.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Messrs. GOODRICH, K. B. LEE, ADAMS, J. H. GOLDSTEIN, PIPER, BUSH and WHITTAKER asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 2, page 32, line 16, by inserting after "open" and for payments to school districts on account of the equalization guarantee provided in the following paragraph:

The superintendent of Public Instruction shall calculate reimbursement payments for each school district on account of instruction and on all other accounts which, under the provisions of the Public School Code of 1949 require the use of market valuations on the basis of the market valuations certified to the Superintendent of Public Instruction by the State Tax Equalization Board in the year 1961: Provided, however, That if the sum total of payments so calculated is less than the sum total paid to a school district on all accounts requiring the use of market valuations for the school year 1959-1960, the total amount paid for the school year 1959-1960 shall constitute the amount due and payable to such school district for the school year 1961-1962, unless the number of teaching units upon which reimbursement for instruction and tuition is based is lower in 1961-1962 than in 1959-1960, in which case the amount due payable for 1961-192 shall be reduced by an amount equal to the difference in the number of teaching units, multiplied by the reimbursement for the school year 1959-1960 on account of instruction, plus tuition divided by the number of teaching units for 1959-1960."

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Potter, Mr. Goodrich.

Mr. GOODRICH. Mr. Speaker, yesterday we were well belabored on aid to schools. The amendments being offered are an identical freeze clause to that which was offered to the 1961 general appropriation bill.

I think all the members of the House were aware of the contents of the 1961 amendments. I would point out to the members that the Attorney General at that time informed the Governor that it was the Attorney General's opinion that the amendments were unconstitutional.

Now, I offer them at this time because it is my opinion, and I have a brief to that effect, that the amendments are constitutional. I believe that the attorney general's opinion was an administration-serving opinion. In supporting these amendments you do this then, if the constitutionality of the 1961 amendments were taken to court and the decision rendered by the Supreme Court was to uphold the constitutionality of the amendments, the amendments that I offer today would be constitutional. In doing that we would assure $7 million. The gentleman from the other side and the press say that it was $8 million in the last session, but it is $7 million. This amendment costs $7 million for payment in the next year, 1962-1963. So the school districts, in effect, would receive $7 million payable this year and $7 million payable in the next year of 1962-1963.

Let me point out just what this would do to a few districts. It has been said that this is for rural Pennsylvania, but that is not correct. I believe that Allegheny County is the biggest gainer through this amendment. Just take Clairton City as an example. It would gain approximately $100,000 each year. The city of Williamsport would gain in the neighborhood of $55,000 for each year. It does affect rural communities. Benzinger Township in Elk County would gain $24,000 for each year. Now, these amendments are not a solution to the serious school problem we have. They are stop-gap legislation. They help out until such time as we can get the data as suggested by the Speaker yesterday and come up with a program to take care of the problem. I would ask the members on both sides of the House to support the amendments today.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the amendments offered by the gentleman from Potter, Mr. Goodrich, to House bill No. 1 again is the freeze clause as we commonly call it, in terms of the school districts, of the market value as presented by the tax equalization board report which goes back to that period. In this situation the amendments he has drawn are similar, word for word, to the amendments that were placed in the bill, except for changing the year date. I believe those are the only changes that are in this amendment when compared to what was in the bill which was vetoed as being unconstitutional. The only change is the years that are in this amendment.

Mr. Speaker, I ask that the membership of this House vote down these amendments, because this is again another example of fiscal irresponsibility of appropriating, he says, $7 million, the Department of Public Instruction says, approximately $8 million, so give-or-take it is $7 million or $8 million of funds for school districts which have not been provided for and this would appropriate this particular money. I will not argue because we did not have time to check what the gentleman says, $7.1 million. We are satisfied it is seven-some million dollars, but we are not in a position to again appropriate something that we do not have available. I believe it is the responsibility of all those who are elected to public office that if you want something, provide the way to pay for it. We believe that to be the right way. Perhaps you do not agree on, as I said yesterday, how to pay for this, but then choose the way that you would like to recommend as the way to pay for it.

Mr. Speaker, I ask that the members vote "no" on this amendment, because again we are adding, as we will in other amendments that will be offered, additional appropriations in the millions. This, to me, adds a considerable amount of money to the budget and I believe the other amendments that will come later will be in a similar category of adding additional appropriations.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I ask for a roll call and ask that the members vote "no" on the amendments offered by the gentleman from Potter, Mr. Goodrich.

Mr. BOIES. Mr. Speaker, in view of my position yesterday, I think the House will allow me a few words on this question.

I think the House plainly demonstrated yesterday that the majority of the members are in favor of bailing out these school districts which have been imposed upon by the tax equalization board. We showed that last year when we passed this very same piece of legislation they are trying to pass now.

I am not here to kid anybody, Mr. Speaker, and I am not here to create a false impression with the school boards of the State. I think we did what we thought was the best thing under the circumstances in passing this piece of legislation yesterday, to provide this money.

Regardless of what the learned attorneys have said, there is still a question as to whether or not that is constitutional. I believe it is constitutional. I have no proof, of course, I am only a layman, but I am basing my action on the premise that the act is constitutional.

This piece of legislation has been judged by the Attorney General and the Governor as unconstitutional. The Governor vetoed it. Why in the name of sense would he allow it to go through now again? If he thought it was unconstitutional last year, in his opinion it is still unconstitutional and he will veto it again.

So, who are we trying to kid? We passed the legislation to remedy this situation, if the Governor wants to go along with it. That is as far as I am willing to go, Mr. Speaker, and I think that is the honest attitude to take.

I, therefore, ask the members to vote down these amendments.

Mr. GOODRICH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to correct both Mr. Boies and the majority leader. The Governor did not veto the amendments in the 1961 general appropriation bill. For Mr. Boies' information, this can be mandated by court action. I have a brief in my hand as to the constitutionality of the 1961 amendment, which would apply to this amendment. This is the case of Commonwealth, ex rel, Greene vs. Gregg, 161 Pennsylvania 582-586 (1894). Let me quote from this. It was an identical amendment, an amendment identical in content to the 1961 amendment, and this is what the Supreme Court decision contained:

In general it will not be disputed that the legislature is the exclusive judge of the form in which its enactments shall be put, and its mandates in that respect cannot be questioned unless it transgresses a plain prohibition in the constitution.

Now, there is not a plain prohibition in the constitution as to this amendment and you will so find, if it is taken to court, and it will be. If you refuse this amendment, you are cutting the aid to your schools in half.

It was not a veto. The Governor said, I will not make the payment on the basis of a self-serving opinion. If the Supreme Court takes the same attitude that has been taken in every case in the past concerning this particular question, the amendment is constitutional and it does not matter what the attorney general or the Governor say. It is a matter for the Supreme Court to say.

You are mistaken in your interpretation. I ask your support on this amendment. As to the funds, you put this in the appropriation bill and we will take care of the funds. We ask your support for this amendment.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

NOT VOTING—6

Cooley,	Murray,	Taylor,	Willard,
McKeever,	Needham,

So the question was determined in the negative and the amendment was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, what I have to say in connection with this bill is not going to change any votes, nor is it going to change mine. However, I think there are certain observations in connection with this appropriation bill that should be made and, with the indulgence of the House, I am going to try to make them.

Now, everything that was done in the appropriation hearings was for the purpose of justifying the budget, instead of trying, in my opinion, to have a thorough study of it and see if there was any place where we could eliminate some of the money.

Michelangelo once said that trifles make perfection and perfection is no trifle. Some of the things I have to say may be considered a trifle in here, but I think they all add up to one answer which I will give at the conclusion of my remarks.

I did not have the opportunity—and for that matter how many members of the House did—of attending all the hearings on the budget. I did attend enough of the hearings to see a new banner unfolded bearing a strange device called "attrition."

At all of the hearings I attended it was stated by each department the number of employes presently on the payroll, the number of vacancies that existed, and still another and bigger number that it would take to bring the number of employees up to the full complement that the budget called for.

It was explained a number of times that the Governor balanced the budget by a theory of attrition, that is to say that when vacancies occurred they did not fill them but rather continued to allow the vacancy to exist, and from the money saved from not filling the vacancy, the Governor was able to save money enough to balance the budget. The Governor called it by another name, "austerity."

Not having attended all the hearings, I do not know the total number of vacancies presently existing nor the additional number over the vacancies to bring the complement of authorized employees up to full strength for which money is provided in the budget.

The paradox of the age, so far as I am concerned, is how the Governor has not filled so many vacancies that he could balance the budget and still have added 10,000 to 12,000 or 20,000 additional persons to the payroll.

The total present payroll, according to the figures just released by State Treasurer Grace Sloan, for which the Commonwealth is making contributions to the social security fund are 80,743 in 83 departments.

I am further impressed that if the government can operate efficiently—and the Governor so admits—without filling so many vacancies that he can save enough money to balance the budget, then as, if and when he does fill said vacancies, and as, if and when he does bring the payroll up to full complement, then all vacancies filled and all additional employes placed on the payroll to bring the departments up to their full complement will constitute a grandiose government featherbedding.

I wonder how many $100 tickets "Mr. Vacancy" and "Mr. Full Complement" will purchase.

Another analysis which I am unable to harmonize is that in private industry, with the installation of automation, employment decreases and unemployment increases. However, in government with the advent of Univac and other automation, the payroll required to operate the government was supposed to decrease. But, on the contrary, it has risen. Maybe there is a hidden secret in governmental automation that increases employment that labor organizations in industry should look into and see if they cannot break the secret code.

And so the moving finger writes. In the 1959-1961 budget a number of new jobs were created in mental hospitals and State institutions and appropriations provided to cover the cost. However, either because said jobs could not be filled or would not be filled, there was a surplus of money left from the jobs that were not filled. So rather than use the money for the purpose appropriated, the Governor took the money and gave a salary raise to the then complement of employes in these institutions. I have no objection to raises given to the employes, but was it properly done from monies appropriated for another purpose? All of which raises a very important question, by what authority can the Governor take money appropriated for one purpose and use it for another? He, no doubt, has legal opinion on such matters, but, if it is legal, then I say to you that it is a practice this General Assembly should stop; otherwise, we will never be able to establish any controls over the use of monies we appropriate. I think legislative controls over the use of monies is something the people want.

Now to another subject as it relates to the budget. A press report of December 22, 1961 states: "Governor Lawrence said Thursday he wants to be sure there is enough money before he implements a 1961 legislative authorization to increase the public assistance food allowance by $2.00 per month." Continuing, a member of the Governor's office is reported as saying: "We delayed it (increase of $2.00 per month) to be sure there would be no deficiency in the present budget.

Dr. David Kurtzman is reported as saying the estimated $2.00 across-the-board increase would cost $200,000 monthly.

The Governor since then has stated the payment of the additional $2.00 per month to those between the ages of 18 and 65 will start on March 1, 1962, which, according to the estimates of Dr. Kurtzman, would involve 100,000 persons.

A closer analysis of the situation indicates that for nine long months, from June 1, 1961 to February 28, 1962, 100,000 people in the Commonwealth were each denied $18 worth of food, bread, butter, meat, milk, and the necessities of life in order "to be sure there would be no deficiency in the present budget."

I can well tolerate the politics being played with such devices as attrition, austerity and a balanced budget, but when you take $18 worth of food out of the mouths of each of 100,000 people for nine long months to be able to wave the flag of a balanced budget and no deficiency, then I say to you that politics is being played with human hunger and that such a condition is deplorable and intolerable, and constitutes an executive mockery of legislative authorization.

In the highlights of the 1962-1963 budget distributed to the members on January 2 there appears on page 19, under Department of Property and Supplies, the following dealing with purchase, maintenance, disposition of State automotive equipment:

"The recommended amount includes $935,690 for the purchase of 432 passenger cars and 80 commercial vehicles. The passenger vehicles to be replaced will be five years or older. Commercial vehicles to be replaced will be seven years or older."

Apparently, the Democratic theory of Governor Leader that you save much money by the sale of all cars at the end of a year's use has been at least discarded, if not discredited. Anyhow, you got rid of identifying decals on state cars and now have but a rear license plate, which very few people recognize or understand, so that state cars can be used almost at will for any purpose. I have seen much of such abuse as I travel the highways of the State, and on many occasions at election time. I do hope that some identification mark, which all people can understand, and not only a few people by looking at the rear of the car can be re-established in this State in order that the taxpayer may better help in the policing of the use of State cars.

And just what happened to the report on 50 compact cars purchased for trial by the State in 1960? I wrote for a report in 1961 and was promised such a report. To date I have not received it. Can compact cars be operated more cheaply than the standard cars, and, if so, how many of the 432 passenger cars on the list in this budget will be compact cars?

Referring again to highlights of the budget, Department of Labor and Industry, page 15, under Industrial Safety, it says:

"An amount of $36,599 is recommended for 17 new positions to strengthen the elevator and boiler inspector complement, and to provide new services in the area of occupational disease prevention."

Permit me to confine myself to boiler inspection, which includes, under the law, unfired pressure vessels. I want to read a portion of a letter received from an industrial concern in this State:

"During 1960 the laws covering boiler and pressure vessels used throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania were changed, which has placed a considerable burden on the part of industry and has caused all companies involved in the use and handling of unfired pressure vessels to register complaints with the State concerning these changes.

"Prior to the change in the law, for your information, if a company had a system which involved a series of pressure vessels, such as compressed gas cylinders, the entire system was inspected as a unit and certified under one certificate under operation for $2. The law has now been changed that if there is more than one pressure vessel involved in this system each individual pressure cylinder must be certified at a cost of $3 per certificate.

"The inspection of such systems by our insurance carriers' engineers is the same regardless whether there is one certificate for the entire system or one certificate for each individual cylinder. Therefore, the change of this law does not increase the safety or protection of the equipment, but only involves an additional fee and burden on the part of industry to pay more revenue to the State government. For example, during 1960 the invoice issued to (blank) for operating certificate fees were $30.00, the invoice we received as of May 12, 1961 increased to $1,356. This is an increase of 4,500 per cent for certificate fees."

I ask you, is this what we are doing to industry in order to obtain more money to put more boiler inspectors to work? Departmental inspectors have never seen the operation about which I speak. All the inspection is done by the industrial insurance carrier and certified to the department, which in turn, issues certificate at $3 each.

The invoice of May 12, 1961 was a consolidated invoice for 452 pressure vessels at $3 each, instead of for ten systems.

But in November 1961, when this same company received its invoice from the Department of Labor and Industry, instead of it being a consolidated statement for 452 vessels, they received 452 separate invoices in duplicate for $3 each, the processing of which by the company cost more than the amount of the invoice. In addition, instead of receiving ten certificates to frame under glass and hang over each of ten systems, the company received 452 certificates, each one of which they must frame under glass and hang in the rooms where the systems are operating. The walls of the rooms are scarcely big enough on which to hang all the certificates.

Just how absurd and oppressive can some of the interpretation and enforcement of our laws become? We know and have statistics on the number of new industries brought into the State and the number of new jobs created, but we have no information and no statistics on the number of industries which move out of the State and the number of jobs lost. We do not seem to have any information as to where we stand on balance as to industry and jobs. I certainly hope there are not many instances in this State where charges have been increased by 4500 per cent.

Let us take a look at another instance. I have in my possession a receipt from the division of escheats dated September 26, 1960 for $1,825.23 paid into the Commonwealth for the escheat of certain items.

I also have in my possession a petition acknowledged under date of November 10, 1961, by Charles M. Dougherty, Secretary of Revenue, and presented to the courts under date of December 28, 1961, wherein the Commonwealth seeks to escheat $1,261.13 of items already included in the item of $1,825.23 escheated to the Commonwealth under date of September 10, 1960, more than one year before.

How much did it cost to have this petition for escheats prepared by a bureau of escheats? How much will the court costs and counsel fees be for handling this proceedings? How many more employees will such proceedings require on the payroll? How much will it cost the innocent defendant in these proceedings to have his answer prepared and filed, to say nothing of the useless harassment to which it is subjected? How long, how long will the people of this great Commonwealth be subjected to such governmental treatment? At the start of this discourse I quoted Michelangelo on the subject of trifles and perfection. I want to close with a paraphrase of that quote. "Trifles make absurdities and oppression, and absurdities and oppression are no trifles." I thank you.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Auker.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I rise to speak on this particular bill and, with the permission of the members, also to explain my vote on all the appropriation measures before us to save the time of the House and so that I may take the floor on each particular appropriation bill on which I propose to cast some negative votes on some of these bills. I may be the only negative vote on some of them.

Let me start off, Mr. Speaker, by saying I have before me the figures of the budget. If you break down this budget month by month and compare it with the thirteen-month budget under which we are presently working and overlap it on to a twelve-month budget and what has held the line on no additional expenditures, we would not be in excess of $52 million—which everybody recognizes and knows—but we would have been in excess of $83 million. Now, taking off that the deficiency appropriations which we passed, we would still have had an over-estimate if we had held the line for twelve months of $77 million.

Mr. Speaker, I have had members in my district, householders, heads of houses and households, housewives, people in industry who are running corporations, and they say to me, "Do you know what we have to do when we do not have the money? We have to cut back, and when we do have an excess, we lay it aside for a rainy day."

Now we are spending all this excess $52 million. If we would have held the line we would have had $77 million, as I just pointed out.

Allowing some millions for opening a couple of extra institutions, which we have to open—and by the way, may I say here that five years ago, official statistics from the Department of Welfare showed that 2,000 retarded children needed hospitalization. Now, the sum of five years has risen to 3,000 who have to have institutional care. Five or six years ago the official statistics from the health department on our mental hospitals, showed that the incoming and outgoing patients were equal in number. Now, all at once we have 2,000 more patients that need hospitalization. I, for one, do not know where they are getting them. They must be picking them off a tree. I am not satisfied that they are there.

Further, Mr. Speaker, the number one problem in this State—and I am not even taking a backstep to education—is unemployment. We still have 446,000 people in this State who are unemployed, and that is reflected in your drop in sales tax, because the people who are unemployed do not buy very much stuff on which very much sales tax, if any, is paid. You know that and I know that.

If we would have cut back to industry the tax on industry and made this still a more competitive State for industry to come in here and for industry to stay here and develop rather than have a lot of industries moving out, you would have a much more favorable economic and industrial climate in this State than we have today. We would possibly then have a chance to go in the right direction, attacking the problem on the fundamental basis in the fundamental manner of trying to get these people back to work, these 445,000, or as many of them as possible who are able to work.

We say, set up retraining programs. Retraining for what? In Pennsylvania we retrain them for what? We do not have the employment opportunities in Pennsylvania to employ the people even if we were able to retrain them. And I am in favor of a retraining program.

So I say that I will try to hold the line. My vote this afternoon on these appropriation bills will be with that idea in mind. I feel that that is the sentiment in my district, and I am representing that district, and that is the way I propose to vote. I still say that instead of spending all this money, if you would have said to industry, we are going to cut taxes on your business so that you have a more economic and a better economic and industrial climate here in Pennsylvania, you would have been attacking a very, very fundamental problem in this State in the right manner, which you are not doing under this budget. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I am not going to take up very much time. I think that we all have had a pretty good look at this budget and we have gone through it pretty thoroughly.

I do, however, want to correct a couple of statements made. I am not sure but I believe that the gentleman from Cameron was criticizing the administration for not putting the two dollars into effect for the payment under public assistance for those under or between a certain age bracket, eighteen and sixty-five. He was criticizing us for not putting it in and, at the same time, he was criticizing us for putting in the increase in salaries on the cost-of-living increase.

Now, let me say this. In both cases, in the Governor's message and in the budget, these amounts were included; they were known at all the hearings. In the last session I was interrogated, why was not this five percent in there. Everyone knew that House bill 808 carried it.

Now, the executor did put it into effect by making it on the anniversary date. So it was put into effect in a perfectly legal manner and there was no money used from any other fund. It was used from the very fund of governmental operations that it was put in there for.

Now, so far as the two dollars. It was in there. But, I think the administration had acted wisely when they did not put it into effect until they knew there was enough money to carry the entire relief program through without a deficiency.

One other thing. It is mentioned about the $52 million increase. That is true. I roughly took these figures off, $31 million of it goes to Education, and 90 percent of that is mandated. Six million dollars is for salary increases; $7 million is for items not in the previous budget, which this General Assembly passed and sent to the Governor and he signed it. That leaves about $8 million. The greater part of that is for the new positions in the new institutions, and I think that it runs about 2,000 in positions.

Now, Mr. Speaker, I think this is the tightest budget that I have ever seen. I believe it is a sound budget and I hope you will support it.

I want to say one thing about industry. I cannot give the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Auker, the breakdown, but I will say this: The number of industries coming into Pennsylvania is far, far greater than the industries that are leaving. In fact, some of the industries that have left are coming back, and industry, in general, recognizes that we have the best corporate tax climate of any State in the Union. That is why we have been so successful in bringing new industry into Pennsylvania. I will be glad if the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins, will give me the data concerning which he read, or if he wants, he can send it directly to the Department of Labor and Industry, but it certainly should be looked into, and I will be happy to look into it for him. On the questions of the chiefs, I recall at the hearing I suggested that he turn it over to the Revenue Department for investigation. I would ask all the members of this House to support House bill 1.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY MAJORITY LEADER

Mr. McCANN. I want to notify the members that have been asking about the hotel check-out.

Mr. Speaker, the managers of the two hotels, the Penn-Harris Hotel and Harrisburger Hotel, have indicated their kind cooperation in permitting the check-out time to be extended much later than normal, without any additional charge.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 13, entitled:

An act making an appropriation to the Department of Military Affairs for veterans' assistance.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Messrs. ZIMMERMAN, GEORGE, FULMER and OGILVIE asked unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendment will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 1, page 1, line 1, by striking out "six hundred fifty thousand dollars ($650,000)* and inserting: seven hundred thousand dollars ($700,000)

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of an amendment at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Juniata, Mr. Zimmerman.

Mr. ZIMMERMAN. Mr. Speaker, some of the things I have to say may be repetitious to some of the members here; to others, perhaps, it will be informative.

The present amount of funds that the Veterans Commission in the Department of Military Affairs is operating with is $705,000 for a 13-month period, or $678,000 for a 12-month period. They have asked for a $700,000 appropriation. This was cut by somebody to $650,000. I am asking to increase that to the original request made by the Veterans Commission, increasing the amount to $700,000.

The reason I am asking for that is this: We find that presently the Veterans Commission is curtailing its activities. They are presently giving sustenance allotments for a two-month period rather than the three-month period for which these allotments are intended. Furthermore, there is a backlog of applications for war orphans to the various colleges throughout the Commonwealth because of lack of funds. We have an obligation to pay these tuitions under certain circumstances.

In addition to this, the hospital costs, food, heat, rent and tuitions are increasing. The costs are increasing. The Veterans Administration estimates that these demands will continue to increase for the next four or five years.

Now to those few who may be opposed to this proposal, I would suggest that we do not belabor the much abused phrase "fiscal irresponsibility." Let us appropriate this money for the less fortunate who perhaps lack adequate influence in certain circles.

Mr. Speaker, I ask for a roll call.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Juniata.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Juniata permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ZIMMERMAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, was I correct when I understood that this also concerns the tuition of the veterans' orphans?

Mr. ZIMMERMAN. I am told so.

Mr. POLEN. Thank you, Mr. Zimmerman.

Now, Mr. Speaker, there is a separate appropriation for veterans' orphans, for the education of veterans' orphans.

Now I might say in connection with this appropriation this year, when this matter was before the Appropriations Committee, I distinctly asked the question, if the amount appropriated in the budget was sufficient. The answer was, yes.

Now, last year a group of veterans' organizations who felt that the amount in the budget, which was considerably less than this, was not sufficient, and I have made an increase to take care of it. In this case, I received no request from any veterans' organization. The military affairs and the veterans' commission okayed this and told me in a public hearing that it was okay. Let me say that as far as the tuition is concerned, it is not in this appropriation. It is a separate appropriation under military affairs. The amount contained in this appropriation is for assistance, their emergency assistance, and I am told, and in writing, that the amount is sufficient. Inasmuch as we have had no requests from any veterans' organizations to consider any increase, and the Department of Military Affairs and the Veterans' Commission say that the amount is sufficient, and again that the revenues are not available, I would ask the members to vote no.

Mr. ZIMMERMAN. Mr. Speaker, that being the case, then it would only be appropriate to ask why they are only giving two months' emergency sustenance allotments.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman desire to interrogate the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen?

Mr. ZIMMERMAN. Yes.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Washington permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. POLEN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ZIMMERMAN. Asking the same question, why is it necessary to cut back these ration allowances?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, it is my understanding that each case is handled on an individual basis. Some may be for 30 days; some may be for 60 days; some may be for 90 days. It is not the intention of this appropriation—I do not think it ever was—that we would handle it as a matter of assistance, of public assistance. I have always been against that and I spoke against it at the hearings. This is an emergency fund to tide a veteran over. It might be only for two weeks; it might be for 30 days; it may be, in certain cases, set for 60 days. But, nevertheless, the amount is exactly what they say is sufficient.

Mr. ZIMMERMAN. Could I further ask where we would find the appropriation for tuition?

Mr. POLEN. I would have to look it up. It is right in the budget. I think it is the next item.

Mr. ZIMMERMAN. If you would, please.

That is all, Mr. Speaker.

Will the House agree to the amendment?

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

PERMISSION TO ADD ADDITIONAL SPONSORS

Mr. FULMER asked and obtained unanimous consent to add additional sponsors to amendments to be introduced by him.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 15 entitled:

A Supplement to the act of April 1, 1863 (P. L. 213), entitled "An act to accept the grant of Public Lands by the United States to the several states for the endowment of Agricultural Colleges" making an appropriation for carrying the same into effect.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Messrs. FULMER, WHITTAKER, KISTLER, PURSLEY, KNECHT, MILLER, J. H. ANDERSON, MARSH, PRICE, BOSSERT, SNARE, FOOR, McCANDLESS, O'DELL, GEORGE, A. D. WILLIAMS, JR., ESHBACK, ROYER, WOOD, AUKER, HOLLIDAY, J. H. GOLDSTEIN, ADAMS, PIPER, ZEMBER, EDWARDS, WEIDNER and ZIMMERMAN asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, lines 4 and 5, by striking out "twenty million dollars ($20,000,000)" and inserting: twenty-two million, five hundred thousand dollars ($22,500,000).

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 15, by inserting after "Athletics:" at University Park and the Commonwealth campuses located at Allentown, Altoona, Erie, DuBois, Hazleton, McKeesport, New Kensington, Ogontz, Pottsville, Scranton, Wilkes Barre, Wyomissing and York.

Amend Sec. 1, page 3, lines 2 and 3, by striking out "nineteen million seven hundred and seven thousand seven hundred dollars ($19,707,700)" and inserting: twenty-one million, seven hundred seven thousand, seven hundred dollars ($21,707,700).

Amend Sec. 1, page 5, by inserting after line 13:

(10) For the maintenance and support of research and experimental investigations on problems related to the treatment of detergents in municipal sewage treatment plants, the sum of two hundred thousand dollars ($200,000).

(11) For the use of the College of Mineral Industries for applied research for the elimination of or control of smoke and air pollution caused by burning coal culm banks, the sum of two hundred thousand dollars ($200,000).

(12) For basic and applied research to discover methods to eliminate and or control pollution of our streams caused by coal acids, the sum of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000).

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Centre, Mr. Fulmer.

Mr. FULMER. Mr. Speaker, members of the House, these amendments amend what is known as the Penn State appropriation bill, and the total increase in the appropriation would amount to $2,500.000.

I would like to explain just briefly these increases, how these monies will be spent.

Two million dollars would be spent for the maintenance and the operation of the university at University Park and also the Commonwealth campuses located at Allentown, Altoona, Erie, Dubois, Hazleton, McKeesport, New Kensington, Ogontz, Pottsville, Scranton, Wilkes-Barre, Wyomissing and York. The reason I mention this particular list is because some people are of the opinion that the Pennsylvania State University is located only at University Park, but this will define the locations of the various Commonwealth campuses.

Secondly, we will appropriate $500,000 for research projects, namely three: The first would be for the maintenance and support of reasearch and experimental investigations and problems related to the treatment of detergents in municipal sewage treatment plants, the sum of $200,000.

I am sure many of you are aware that we do have a problem of treating the detergents which flow through the municipal sewage plants. It is these detergents which are causing a pollution problem in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. We believe that the time has come when we must assume the responsibility of conducting research to take the plant nutrient elements out of the sewage which goes through the sewage system.

The second project would be for the use of the College of Mineral Industries for applied research for the elimination of, or control of, smoke and air pollution caused by burning coal culm banks, the sum of $200,000. I am sure that most of you are aware that we do have a problem both in the anthracite and in the bituminous areas of the burning coal culm piles and these burning coal culm piles are a health hazard; they are safety hazards and certainly do not lend themselves to the economic development of these particular areas. We believe that the time is long past when we should assume the responsibility of finding methods of removing the material from these coal culm piles which are combustible and sell those and to use the non-combustible materials in projects like road building and other construction projects.

The third research project would be for basic and applied research to discover methods to eliminate and/or control pollution of our streams caused by coal acids, in the sum of $100,000.

All of you who were present last year heard a great deal mentioned by the conservationists and the sportsmen about the mine acids which were causing the pollution in our streams. We believe the Pennsylvania State University could well use the $100,000 to good advantage to find methods by which we could reduce the pollution of our streams by mine acids.

This, then, would be the way that the $2,500,000 additional monies would be spent.

Now I know that the question will be asked, where are we going to get the money? I admit this is a legitimate question and I am sure that Mr. Polen will be in a position to tell us that the monies are not available. Earlier he mentioned about the attrition rate of our State employees being down almost to zero. We think it is commendable that they have reduced it almost to zero because in order to find this $2.5 million all we have to consider is almost zero in attrition. That is one percent of the 60,000 regular State employes on the State payroll. Only one percent of the 60,000 regular employees. I am not talking about the 22,000 that are on a per diem basis. That will give you 600 employees, and Mr. Baldwin, in the Governor's office, said the average salary can be figured to be $5,000 per year, and there would be $3 million that could be saved by just those vacancies which exist day by day. On any given day on the State payroll there is one percent that is not filled, and therefore you can see that is $3 million, so, therefore, there would be $500,000 left over for a pet project of Mr. McCann or Mr. Polen.

Thank you very much. I said I was going to keep within two and a half or three minutes. I hope I did it.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, just a moment ago we voted on the executive budget, the general appropriations bill, House bill 1. The vote was 205 to 0 for which I am very grateful. I am sure the gentleman from Centre County, Mr. Fulmer, held the same position when he voted "aye" because he did so vote.

I think if he attended the hearings—he attended some of the hearings of the Appropriations Committee—he knows that these positions were worked across many months. Some would be filled one month, some the other month, and so forth, and this has all been calculated very carefully in an effort to handle this budget as tightly as possible.

Mr. Speaker, I say he knows quite well that we do not have the $2.5 million additional money for this appropriation. I asked him earlier what cuts he would propose to support the $2.5 million. He told me that he would inform me when he offered the amendments, so I guess the problem has been presented as he sees it. I ask that the membership vote "no" on the amendments offered by the gentleman from Centre County, Mr. Fulmer, which would give to Penn State University an additional $2.5 million. Basically, I do not beileve the sincerity is here in the offer of these amendments because of the situation we would be in this fiscal period of trying to give this additional $2.5 million.

Therefore, I say, please vote "no" and vote "no" on these amendments which we will not be able to pay for and which will again thrust this fiscal responsibility, which we speak of, out the window.

Mr. FULMER. Mr. Speaker, I would just like to make one short comment.

I thoroughly respect the majority leader's right to find fault with my judgment and error of my thinking, but I would somewhat question, at least in my own framework of thinking, how he could evaluate my sincerity or insincerity in proposing these amendments.

Again, I do not want to get into a quibble about this, but I am sure that each of us is entitled to his own opinion, and if I have erred in saying that there would be $2.5 million available through attrition, this is fine. I think he is entitled to it. If you think, for example, this is not the place to find the money and I should have proposed a tax for it, I think he is entitled to that opinion, but I would certainly beg leave of the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, that he do not challenge my sincerity when I offer these amendments.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I apologize to the gentleman if, in my remarks, I questioned his sincerity on the amendments he is offering. If I worded it in that manner, that he offered these amendments and was not sincere in the offer, I publicly apologize. I did not mean it in that respect in any way, shape or form. I am sure that any member who offers an amendment is sincerely offering it because this is what he believes should be done. I apologize to the gentleman.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman from Centre desire a roll call on the amendment?

Mr. FULMER. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Lacakawanna, Mr. Wargo.

Mr. WARGO. Thank you. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Centre, Mr. Fulmer, would have us allocate $200,000 to Penn State University to study the problem of air pollution from burning dumps. I am well familiar with the problems of burning dumps. We have many in our area. However, at a conference with Dr. Chambury of Penn State, it is my understanding at this time that he would have what you would call a machine that would separate the combustible material from the rock and so forth and eliminate future burning dumps. As of now there is no known way, at least to my knowledge, of extinguishing these dumps.

However, we have the Administrative Code of 1929, we have the Air Pollution Act of last session, whereby the Department of Health can act, and I would say this: we can take these companies into court and if they want to act in good faith I will say that they could come up with the $200,000 as their contribution to eliminate this problem.

In the meantime, if there is no known method of eliminating these fires, then I do not think we should spend $200,000 of the State's money.

Mr. FULMER. Mr. Speaker, I certainly want to thank the gentleman from Lacakawanna, Mr. Wargo, for helping Mr. Polen find $200,000.

Mr. WARGO. I said right now. Maybe the gentleman from Centre misunderstood my remarks. I would say that to the coal companies involved, if there is a fire in your back yard, the local Department of Health can say, "Put it out" and you put it out or pay. These are cases where the coal companies have tons and tons in my area, $2.5 million of burning dumps. I say if they are acting in good faith, let them put up the $200,000 and send it to Penn State. Let them experiment with the coal companies' money. They are responsible for this problem.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

NOT VOTING—6

Cooley,	McKeever,	Taylor,	Willard,
Gallagher,	Needham,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 18, entitled:

An Act making appropriations to the Trustees of Temple University at Philadelphia Pennsylvania for the general maintenance and operation of the University and for the School of Medicine.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WILLAREDT asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend title, page 1, last line of title, by inserting after "Medicine" the following: and for loans for educational purposes

Amend Sec. 1, page 1, lines 1 and 2, by striking out "four million two hundred nine thousand three hundred ninety-five dollars ($4,209,395)" and inserting in lieu thereof: three million four hundred nine thousand three hundred ninety-five dollars ($3,409,395)

Amend bill, page 2, by inserting between lines 4 and 5, the following:

Section 2. The sum of eight hundred thousand dollars ($800,000) is hereby specifically appropriated to the Trustees of Temple University at Philadelphia for the establishment of a fund, the principal and interest of which is to be used solely for loans for educational purposes to be made on such terms and conditions as the trustees may require to students who are (i) residents of the Commonwealth; (ii) enrolled full time in satisfactory standing or accepted for full-time enrollment; and (iii) require financial assistance.

Amend Sec. 2, page 2, line 5, by striking out "2" and inserting in lieu thereof: 3

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Willaredt.

Mr. WILLAREDT. Mr. Speaker, this amendment would in no way reduce the present appropriation to Temple University. It would, however, establish a revolving fund of $800,000 to be loaned to deserving students of the university who otherwise might drop out of school. The original plan of Temple for this additional money was to cut the tuition of all Pennsylvania students at Temple by $100 across the board regardless of need or aptitude for further education. This amendment will, in my estimation, do something on a common sense basis by helping students who really need help and not give to students who may have resources from their families and are not in need of help. I ask your support for this amendment.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Eilberg.

Mr. EILBERG. Mr. Speaker, I rise in opposition to the amendment just offered. I hope that in a matter of this importance, in the area of higher education, the members of this House can be nonpolitical, because the matter of higher education and Temple University in Philadelphia is certainly a bipartisan matter or, better still, a matter that arises above politics.

The gentleman has suggested that we have a loan program. I do not see how any member of the House could object to this idea. If the proposal were to have a loan program in addition to a reduction in tuition, I would say, wonderful, let us all climb aboard and be for it. But the issue presented here today by this amendment is not loans in addition to a tuition reduction, but loans as opposed to a tuition reduction. This issue should be examined in the light of the State's problems in encouraging more of its qualified youth to go to college and to finish their college program, and in light of the program, further, that we and future legislators must meet with the coming explosion involving the field of higher education.

The facts are these. In Philadelphia alone, 7,500 of last years' qualified high school graduates did not enroll in college in September. For the State as a whole, the percentage of qualified high school graduates entering college is only 21 percent as compared with the national average of about 46 percent. We in Pennsylvania who pride ourselves in the field of education are only about two-thirds of the national average as far as admissions to colleges are concerned.

At Temple University, in particular, about 50 percent of the undergraduate students, 50 percent, come from homes in which income is under $6,000. Over 50 percent of the youngsters going to college at Temple have to find part-time employment to cover their expenses.

I say to you, Mr. Speaker, that the $800,000 in loans would not do nearly as much good as a reduction in the tuition from $880 to $780.

In my own district, I venture to say that there are a great many—and I speak with conviction and feeling because many of them have come to me for scholarship assistance—youngsters who come from families where the income is between $5,000 and $6,000.

Some members may ask, well, it is only a $100 but ask a father who is earning $5,000 what $100 a year means to him. This is one of the greatest things that has happened in Pennsylvania in recent years, one of the greatest opportunities that we have to encourage more youngsters to go to a college, which is rapidly becoming known as a poor man's school—providing higher educational opportunities for so many of our youngsters.

I say, Mr. Speaker, that Temple faces a great possibility. I have gone over the facts and figures with them, and without the kind of help that we are proposing in our budget, there is a possibility, not of a decrease in tuition, but the possibility of an increase in tuition.

I say in conclusion, Mr. Speaker, that in my humble opinion a vote for the amendments is a vote against Temple University and higher education. Please vote the amendments down.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Willaredt.

Mr. WILLAREDT. Mr. Speaker, I hate to get into controversy with my good friend, Mr. Eilberg, from Philadelphia, but, in my estimation, this would not only help Temple University and help the boys who need the money because they are restricted to $100 of help but under this revolving plan they could get most any amount within reason to help them get through school, but they would have to deserve it. And it would not be given on a $100 across-the-board method.

I think these amendments have good common sense to them. Thank you.

So the question was determined in the negative and the amendments were not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Berks, Mr. Adams, desires to interrogate the gentleman from Washington. Will the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. POLEN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I ask Mr. Polen how will this reduction in the tuition fees at Temple affect the non-resident students as compared to the resident students?

Mr. POLEN. The agreement, covered by a letter from Temple University, provides a reduction of $100, from $750 to $650 in the tuition for Pennsylvania students. For the out-of-State students the tuition will be $850, so there will be a differential of $200 between Pennsylvania students and out-of-State students.

Mr. ADAMS. And you have letters on file to that effect? Thank you.

Mr. POLEN. Accompanying the budget request, Mr. Speaker, was a copy of the letter written. It is a memo of agreement telling the Commonwealth what they will do if we will give this appropriation. It also provides, by the way, for taking 900 additional students.

To clarify it, Mr. Speaker, if I may, I might say, at the same time Temple is raising the tuition of out-of-State students from $750 to $850, it will be reducing it from $750 to $650 for Pennsylvania students, thus creating a differential of $200 per student.

Mr. ADAMS. I thank the gentleman. That answers my question. I wanted to have it on the record and I am going to vote for the bill with the understanding that taxpayers' money is not going to be spent out-of-State.

On the question recurring,

Cooley,	Murray,	Taylor,	Willard,
McKeever,	Needham,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 66, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Public Instruction for payment into The State School Fund of Pennsylvania for assisting public school districts and state teachers' colleges to comply with required safety standards in certain cases.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. PIPER asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 1, page 1, lines 1 and 2, by striking out "one million two hundred fifty-two thousand six hundred and five dollars ($1,252,605.00)" and inserting: one million, two hundred fifty-five thousand five hundred forty-six dollars ($1,255,546)

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, by inserting between lines 11 and 12:

The sum of two thousand, nine hundred forty-one dollars ($2,941) shall be paid from this appropriation to the Wernersville School District in Berks County to be used for the purposes stated in the above cited sections of the Public School Code of 1949.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. PIPER. I will be short, explicit, and try to explain these amendments very simply.

I heard a lot of talk today about millions, tens of thousands, and so on, but I am only going to ask for $2,941. This will not upset the budget. It is to be used to reimburse the Wernersville school district for fire repairs they were ordered by the Department of Labor and Industry to make. Thank you.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Berks County, Mr. Piper, permit himself to interrogated?

Mr. PIPER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman inform the House when the Wernersville School District completed their fire and panic order changes?

Mr. PIPER. They were ordered on June 16, 1959 to have the work completed by September. This was at the instruction of the Department of Labor and Industry. Architects submitted plans to the bureau of school buildings July 25, 1959. The school building authority turned down this district for the simple reason that they had not first approved these plans.

This school district went ahead with the plans, thinking they were doing the right thing, trying to get the school building into condition before school opened again and for this they are penalized.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman very kindly.

Mr. Speaker, I see by the list of projects returned as ineligible that this was work completed before the plans were approved and it lists Exeter township and Wernersville, Berks County, coming to a total of $5,882, so I assume that the Wernersville project is $2,941. Mr. Speaker, this, in conjunction with many others, we hope eventually to review and to reimburse. We agreed that we would keep up currently each year, as we have, a bill on the calendar providing $1,200,000 for the projects completed from the last General Assembly session to the present one.

May I say to you that there will be time, and I hope that it will be next year, when some of these projects will be picked up for reimbursement, which were completed before the plans were approved and declared ineligible, this being one of a good many school districts.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I have to ask the membership to vote "no" on this amendment. I could no more open the door and permit Wernersville to go in than I could under the same conditions permit the entire total, which comes to a total of $1 million and some for all the school districts.

Mr. PIPER. May I explain to the majority leader that he is misled when he includes Exeter Township in this figure of $5,882. No figure appeared alongside the Exeter Township school district. The $5,882 was for the Wernersville school district. This money was actually spent under the percentage formula the department uses. They say they would be entitled to 50 percent. I hope that clears the situation as far as the two school districts are concerned.

Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the majority leader?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Greene permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. PIPER. Mr. Speaker, will the majority leader tell us where the money comes from to make these necessary repairs?

Mr. McCANN. Well, as the members of the House know quite well, the local school district awards, by proper advertisement, the complete project. Of course, the project is submitted to the Department of Public Instruction for approval; then it is put out on bid; then in some cases they do the work themselves; then they pay the bills completely. The school district does this. Then the following year, as we are providing in our other bill here, we reimburse the school district on the same basis you spoke of, their proportionate share.

Mr. PIPER. I believe the majority leader misunderstood, Mr. Speaker. Where does the State obtain the money for these repairs?

Mr. McCANN. From the general tax revenue.

Mr. PIPER. I believe this money, at least I have been informed, is coming from the escheat fund and some other funds. Back in 1949 they passed this legislation to put this money into the fund of the Department of Public Instruction. When a big fire happened in one of the other States, there was over $1 million worth of damage and some lives lost. The State of Pennsylvania recognized the fact that maybe their schools should be inspected by the Department of Labor and Industry. This money is not coming from general funds, I understand, but from some other fund that the Department of Instruction has available. If this is so, it is not going to upset this budget and for $2,941, I believe it is, it will help this school district, which was one of the first districts to try to follow the instructions as mandated by the Department of Labor and Industry. Why? Because the plutocrats in the Department of Instruction say, no, you did not let us approve any plans first, therefore we are not going to approve them, and they cannot receive this money.

Gentlemen, I am going to ask everyone in this House to give this school district, which is direly in need of funds, this $2,941. Thank you.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, just to clear the record, when we first appropriated money for this very item, it was from that fund. In fact, if I remember correctly, we used about $4 million. There is no more money in that fund and has not been any more to take this money and use it for that purpose. In fact, if I remember correctly, in the present fiscal year that we are in now, we appropriated $989,650 for the very item, and on your calendar you will find a bill that will appropriate $1,200,000. This is from the general fund, not from the escheats fund. That money has long since expired, and how I wish there were another one for four or five million.

Just for the purpose of the record, I say I realize the gentleman is discussing a particularly small appropriation. I still have to ask the membership to vote "no" on the amendment offered by the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Piper.

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Washington permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. POLEN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker, this is just a question for my clarification, and I hope for the rest of the gentlemen. When a school district makes application for reimbursement for the repairs which have been ordered by the Department of Labor and Industry and sends in an estimate of how much they need, how does the department determine how much that school district receives as opposed to any other school district?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, in the first place you have to have the plans approved by the Department of Public Instruction.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Let us assume that the plans are approved.

Mr. POLEN. The plans are approved. The formula is set out, I believe in the 1959 act, under which they approve it. There is a formula which they use. I might say in connection with these, the ones that have not been paid are those that did not get approval, and we are trying to work something out on that.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Mr. Speaker, do I understand that the amount paid back to the school districts is based on what their reimbursement fraction is?

Mr. POLEN. Yes, it is not on their regular reimbursement fraction but it is on a reimbursement fraction which is used for this purpose as set out in a specific formula.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. So that if two districts request approximately the same amount but not different amounts it would be because their fraction was different based on this formula?

Mr. POLEN. That would be correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Did we decide the formula or is that an administrative formula?

Mr. POLEN. We decided the formula, but it was the one that the State Council adopted.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. And does it vary, based on average market values?

Mr. POLEN. Would you repeat the question please?

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. Is it based on average market values? Does the state tax equalization board have anything to do with these figures?

Mr. POLEN. No, they do not.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. I thank the gentleman.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

THE SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) IN THE CHAIR.

STATEMENT BY SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. I trust the House will continue its splendid cooperation with the Chair so far exhibited. I want to say that I have never seen, on a prolonged legislative session such admirable decorum. And we have had a high level of debate. We can shorten procedure in this manner.

The high vote was 205. We will use that as a base. The clerk will not read the full title; he will simply say, "An act." The Chair will say, "This bill has been read three times in this House and is now upon final passage. Are there any negative votes? No negative votes, the clerk will record the vote." Now we cannot play that to an empty House. If the members leave, the play is over. Some of these bills would require, if any member so demanded, 140 votes, and we have to play to a rather full House. But if you come along I think we will shorten the procedure.

Are you ready along that line, Mr. Chief Clerk?

The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I wonder if your calendar indicates that the very last bill on the calendar, House bill 82, is subject to amendment at this time? Mr. Holliday has the amendments.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would ask the gentleman from Armstrong to come to the desk and handle this amended bill.

Mr. HELM IN THE CHAIR

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 82 entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Commerce for promoting the One-hundredth Anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg and Lincoln's Gettysburg Address subject to certain conditions.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Messrs. HOLLIDAY, MILLER and AUKER asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendments will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Title, page 1, last line of Title by inserting after "Address" and the One Hundredth Anniversary of the War Governors Meeting

Amend Bill, page 2, by inserting between lines 7 and 8

Section 2. The sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000), or as much thereof as may be necessary, is appropriated to the Department of Commerce for promoting and celebrating the One Hundredth Anniversary of the War Governors Meeting held in Blair County in 1862. This appropriation is contingent upon the County of Blair or any responsible voluntary organization or group raising, through public or private subscriptions, an equal sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000) for promoting and defraying the expense of said celebration. A certification evidencing such paid subscriptions shall be submitted by the County of Blair or the voyuntary organization or group raising the same to the Auditor General.

Amend Sec. 2, page 2, line 8 by striking out "2" and inserting: 3

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. HOLLIDAY. Mr. Speaker, on September 24, 1962, the county of Blair and the city of Altoona will celebrate the 100th anniversary of the meeting of the 13 War Governors in the city of Altoona to develop plans for carrying on the Civil War.

Now, in this Gettysburg centennial appropriation, the State has appropriated $100,000 for that centennial and the Lincoln's Day Address.

My amendments would increase this appropriation by $10,000, and Blair county will match that with another $10,000, the same as the Gettysburg centennial is matching the $100,000 in the appropriation.

We plan about a three-day celebration with a military ball and we are asking the Governor of Pennsylvania, the Honorable David Lawrence, to invite to Altoona the 13 Governors of the States which were at that original meeting. I believe the plan is to have them dressed in the costume of that time and sit around the original table which the original 13 War Governors sat around in 1862.

Now, we have been talking millions here today for all sorts of appropriations. I think in our budget of $1 million and some hundred thousands, particularly with the $100,000 appropriation for the Gettysburg centennial, it should be possible to find $10,000 for the city of Altoona and the county of Blair for a historical event of this type. I ask everybody to support the amendments as offered. Thank you.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I, of course, am well aware of the amendments that the gentleman, Mr. Holliday, is offering because of discussion which we had perhaps an hour or two ago. I wish to state that a meeting is being held next week of all the parties involved in this 100th centennial program in the Appropriations Committee office and, of course, he asked to offer these amendments here to help this situation. I informed him then, and I will ask the membership to vote "no" on the amendments, even though it will present the opportunity for this amendment to be considered in another area, that is out of the $100,000, when the meeting is held on Tuesday. I cannot say that they will necessarily grant it because this will be their first meeting dealing with this particular amount of money. The meeting will be held next week, I think Mr. Polen told me Tuesday of next week, in the Appropriations Committee rooms.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I ask that the membership do vote "no" and I think it is a most worthy cause the gentleman presented, which is a part of the centennial program.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

So the question was determined in the negative and the amendments were not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to question the chairman of the Appropriations Committee on this bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. POLEN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, this $100,000 appropriation is contingent upon the public or private subscription in a like amount being raised, is that correct?

Mr. POLEN. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. Is there assurance that they are going to raise at least $100,000 from these other sources?

Mr. POLEN. We hope to develop that information at an informal meeting we expect to hold next week.

Mr. McCORMACK. The reason I am questioning that is because of the draftmanship of this bill. If they were only to raise, say, $90,000, it seems to me then that this appropriation would still fall. I am wondering whether or not that is what we want. It seems to me, further, if they raise $75,000, then we should contribute a like amount. Does this bill do that?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I am assured that there is no question about raising the $100,000. I believe what the gentleman says here is correct. After our meeting, if it needs any amendment, we can do so in the Senate.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. STITELER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. STITELER. Mr. Speaker, I presume that is on the bill that I asked to be recorded as voting aye.

The SPEAKER. You can state for the record what your wishes were.

Mr. STITELER. Well, I wish to be recorded as voting "aye" and they have already wrapped the bill up. So I apologize for being recognized.

The SPEAKER. On House bill 82 it should be placed in the record that that is the way he would have voted if the bill had not escaped his attention.

Mr. STITELER. Thank you, sir.

Cooley,	Needham,	Taylor,	Willard,
McKeever,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 47, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the City of Harrisburg Pennsylvania.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Farabaugh.

Mr. FARABAUGH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. POLEN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FARABAUGH. Mr. Speaker, this bill reads that the sum of $2,500, or as much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated for the protection, the extinguishing of fires, and so on.

I would like to know, first, if there was any type of hearing held on this appropriation pertaining to what need there is for this money?

Mr. POLEN. There was no request for any hearing, so we did not hold one.

Mr. FARABAUGH. You held hearings on all other appropriations, I believe?

Mr. POLEN. We had hearings on all the governmental units of the State administration and on the larger appropriations, but on the small appropriations, unless someone asked for a hearing, we did not have a hearing. It has never been the custom. In fact, to the best of my knowledge, there has never been a hearing on any bills of this type. But if any member of the committee asked for a hearing on any appropriation, we held a hearing.

Mr. FARABAUGH. Do you have any information to show what use has been made of this money in the past?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, this is following an ancient act. The Commonwealth does not maintain fire equipment or a fire-fighting force to take care of the millions of dollars of capitol buildings in Harrisburg. Long before my time an appropriation was made to the city of Harrisburg, or to the fire department, as I understand, only a token appropriation to assist in the payment of the expenses of the Harrisburg fire department.

Mr. FARABAUGH. Have you any knowledge of any appropriations to any other place in Pennsylvania where there are State buildings or institutions?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to answer that question in two parts. The situation in Harrisburg, because of the large number of buildings, is a little different than in other places. However, we do not make any direct appropriation to any other fire department in any community, but in those communities it is my understanding that such institutions can and do make arrangements to pay certain sums for fire protection.

Mr. FARABAUGH. I am sorry, I did not hear the answer to that question.

Mr. POLEN. It is my understanding that in certain—

Mr. FARABAUGH. Just the last statement.

Mr. POLEN. It is my understanding that an institution can arrange for fire protection and pay for it out of their funds if they feel it is necessary. That is the average case. However, we had a hearing a few years ago on a bill—it was an informal hearing with a group of volunteer firemen—on a bill which did appropriate, I believe, $1,000 to each of the state teachers colleges for payment for fire protection. The general feeling is that fire protection is a local responsibility and should be met in the same manner as the other items of municipal and county governments are met. But in this particular instance, the bill that we are talking about provides for the specific responsibility of the Commonwealth to either provide their fire protection for the hundreds of millions of dollars of buildings they have or make a nominal token payment, which they do.

It is my understanding that if we would have our own fire department operated by the Commonwealth it would be a very expensive proposition.

Mr. FARABAUGH. Would you say it is any more the responsibility of the State to protect the buildings in Harrisburg than it is in any other place where they have institutions with people in them?

Mr. POLEN. Yes, I believe that there is a difference because this is the capitol of the Commonwealth, with hundreds of millions of dollars worth of buildings and equipment. While in every community it is the duty of the local municipal government to provide all the facilities, not only to the Commonwealth buildings, but to their own municipal buildings, to non-profit corporations and hospitals, as well as the individuals. That is the basis upon which we have operated. That is why, in the past, all bills of this nature for other institutions have been turned down, because we felt it is the responsibility of local government. The responsibility of fire protection is one that has never been assumed by the Commonwealth throughout the Commonwealth. If it had been, it would be necessary in every county where there is a highway shed or an institution to furnish fire protection. It is the feeling that fire protection is a matter for local municipal government to furnish. It should be furnished to the State buildings, if there are any in the community, the same as to all other buildings, public and private.

Mr. FARABAUGH. Well, if that is the case, that it is the responsibility of the local government, then, that should apply here the same as anywhere else?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I think there is a difference, as I stated before, with an isolated building, an isolated institution, in one case against all of the Commonwealth's property here in the capitol.

It would appear to me that the nominal payment which we made is very inexpensive when we consider that there are bills, I believe, at the present time that would call for $1,000 for each state teachers college. Certainly, when we pay a total of $2,500 for the protection of all these buildings, if we were doing it on a comparable basis and the Commonwealth were going to assume that responsibility, it certainly would not be a relationship of $1,000 to $2,500 which we are paying here.

I might say that I did not start this appropriation, it was started about a hundred years ago. It has been followed by every administration regardless of political affiliation. Again I reiterate that at this hearing we had several years ago it was brought out that fire protection is a local responsibility which the Commonwealth has never assumed.

Mr. FARABAUGH. Then again I ask if you have any information as to how this money has been used in recent years?

Mr. POLEN. The money has been used by the Harrisburg fire department. As to each specific item they spent it on, I do not have that information.

Mr. FARABAUGH. Has any of it been used on state buildings?

Mr. POLEN. The city of Harrisburg fire department furnished fire protection to all of the state buildings. So, in effect, we would say it has been used for the benefit of all the state buildings in Harrisburg.

Mr. FARABAUGH. Yes, but that still does not answer my question. The volunteer fire companies all over the State are protecting other state buildings, but what difference is there here?

Mr. POLEN. I believe the main difference is the one I have stated before, that while we have an isolated building or an isolated institution in the other counties or in the other districts, here in Harrisburg is the State Capitol with hundreds of millions of dollars worth of property. Fire protection is furnished by the city of Harrisburg. We make a contribution of $2,500 for that fire protection.

Mr. FARABAUGH. I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Farabaugh.

Mr. FARABAUGH. It seems very queer to me that just because a practice was started some years ago of a donation to one particular fire company by somebody, and I do not know who started it, without any evidence of need for it in the way of help to that fire company for the protection of the buildings in this area, that it should be continued. There is no more reason for it, in my opinion and mind, than any other district where there are State institutions, unless it was actually used for that purpose, and even that is not provided in any other districts. There is not anything just to it. It is simply a handout and I disagree with it.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

NAYS—1

Worley,

NOT VOTING—5

Cooley,	Needham,	Taylor,	Willard,
McKeever,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative; the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

THE SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) IN THE CHAIR.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks Mr. Helm for presiding.

STATEMENT BY SPEAKER

The members of this House do not realize on what thin ice they have been skating. If the majority leader asked the members to stay, any two members could have demanded and obtained a roll call, and a roll call would have made it necessary to stay proceedings until the sergeant-at-arms had produced a quorum. I think that if I had been a member of the House, on the floor, I would have done just exactly that. Because I am Speaker I have obligations to the leadership that I would not have if I was on the floor. Nothing has been said, but I say any two members—such as the enthusiastic gentleman from Cambria—could have stopped us cold. But he did not do it. I thank them.

The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I just might say the members left because of the high integrity of everybody and knowing that nobody would do the thing that you suggest, the members quietly left, not en masse but quietly.

The SPEAKER. One by one they left.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. There is honor amongst all of us I am glad to say.

The SPEAKER. And they left us at the mercy of anybody that wanted to force a quorum call.

BIRTHDAY

The SPEAKER. Now we have Doctor Dengler and the gentleman from Philadelphia. This is a birthday of Arthur Rubin, and we ought to have a song.

Mr. DENGLER. Mr. Speaker, I hope that all the good singers have remained because we have this birthday. Let us sing, "Happy birthday, dear Arthur.

(Members joined in singing "Happy Birthday."

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Rubin.

Mr. RUBIN. Mr. Speaker, I wish to thank the members for their kind wishes on my birthday. Thank you.

PERMISSION TO ADD ADDITIONAL SPONSORS

Mr. BACHMAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to add additional sponsors to a resolution to be introduced by him.

RESOLUTION

COMMEMORATION

Messrs. BACHMAN, MEHOLCHICK, MUSTO, FILO and TOMASCIK asked and obtained unanimous consent to offer a resolution and for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 6, 1962.

St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church in Hazleton, Pennsylvania is the oldest Slovak Roman Catholic Church in the Western Hemisphere.

The Rev. Ignatius Jaskovich, who arrived in this country in 1882 as the first Slovak Catholic priest in America, blessed the cornerstone of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church on June 29, 1885, the Feast of SS. Peter and Paul and the first Holy Mass was offered up in the new church on the Feast of St. Nicholas, December 6, 1885; therefore be it

Resolved, That because of the great historical significance of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church as the first Slovak Roman Catholic Church in the Western Hemisphere, the House of Representatives hereby recommends and urges that the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission place a historical marker at this site setting forth the pertinent facts; and be it further Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the Executive Director of the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission and to St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church, Hazelton, Pennsylvania.

RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATIONS

Mr. FRY offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 6, 1962.

This year marks the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the Borough of Norristown, Montgomery County. Joy will ring out through the borough and the inhabitants will be proud as they celebrate their sesquicentennial during a week set aside for the festivities in the month of May.

Originally Norristown was a dusty Indian trail consisting of a few log huts. Today there is a marked change that has been brought about through progress and foresight on the part of the people of the community. Its population of 38,925 makes Norristown the largest borough in the entire United States. When their first charter was granted on March 31, 1812, no one realized that such a thriving metropolis as Norristown is today, would result.

We here in the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are proud of the people of Norristown and congratulations are in order. therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania offer their sincere congratulations to the Borough of Norristown upon their sesquicentennial; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Honorable Alfred Taxis, the chairman of the sesquicentennial committee.

RESOLUTION

Mr. J. H. ANDERSON offered a resolution which was filed with the clerk under the rules.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. A. W. JOHNSON, BOWMAN, A. M. LEE and SELTZER. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 28.

In the House of Representatives, February 6, 1962.

In recent years the Governor has presented to the General Assembly a new type of budget. This format is commonly known as a Program Budget having the commendable objective of clearly defining each purpose and program for which the General Assembly is asked to provide funds. It has been hoped that by such presentation the General Assembly would be able to make intelligent decisions on the types of programs which it authorizes and the amounts of money required to be appropriated to carry out such programs.

A fair-minded appraisal of the form and content of recent budgets submitted to the General Assembly indicates that despite this commendable objective, budget documents are inadequate as intelligible instruments through which the members of the Legislature may make a reasonable analysis of budgeted programs and reach ultimate decisions on appropriations. Under the Constitution of our Commonwealth, such actions are the legal responsibility of the General Assembly. Among the existing deficiencies in the format of the budget, three may be mentioned as of primary concern:

(1) Appropriations are requested in lump sums for some departments and departmental units with no clear identification of the purpose (except in broadly stated terms) for which the funds requested are to be used. Little or no information is provided which would permit appraisal or justification of the amounts requested. As an illustration of this point, and with no intention of singleing out any specific department or suggesting that the amount requested may not be entirely appropriate, the 1962-63 budget requests appropriations in this manner:

Auditor General, Executive and General Administration	$4.3	Million
Department of Treasury, Executive and General Administration	$1.07	Million
Department of Forests and Waters:
Water Resources—Maintenance and Regulation	$1.34	Million
Forest and Park Services—Maintenance	$4.87	Million
Department of Health:
Executive and General Administration	$1.75	Million
Preventive Disease Services	$3.58	Million
Environmental Health Services	$3.12	Million

(2) While a few instances (such as in the appropriations requested for the Legislature and the Judiciary) the budget identifies the purpose and amounts of the appropriations requested by what is commonly termed "objects of expenditure," the budget document generally fails to reflect the portions of the appropriations requested which are required for different objects of expenditure, i.e., personal services, contractual services, materials and supplies, etc. The new classification and budget formats recently established through the Department of Internal Affairs for use by Pennsylvania municipalities may be indicative of the type of information and basis for appropriation which might be reflected in the budgets of the Commonwealth.

(3) The budget provides little information, either in the basic document or appendices, of the magnitude of many programs or the basis for appropriations in terms of the numbers and types of personnel required, types of materials and services, and other objects of expenditure, which are essential for an understanding of programs and the adequacy or inadequacy of the appropriations requested to support such programs. While the General Assembly has the opportunity through its committees and through hearings to explore such questions, there is no orderly provision for the presentation of such vital information in conjunction with the budget, the financial document through which such programs are supported.

Other states, notably New York, have made significant progress in this field, providing to a much higher degree clear, concise and understandable information. This matter was referred by the 1961 Session of the Pennsylvania General Assembly to the Joint State Government Commission for possible study but no specific Task Force assignment has been made to date.

In recognition of the need for a budget document which adequately informs the General Assembly, as well as the general public, of the bases for the appropriations requested of the General Assembly, in recognition of the fact that a number of technical and administrative problems may be involved in expanding the content of the present budget format, and in view of the fact that a legislative mandate is desirable to insure appropriate action; therefore be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That the Joint State Government Commission evaluate the format in which the Budgets of the Commonwealth are presented to the General Assembly for adoption, and present to the General Assembly and the Governor its conclusions and such recommendations as may appear desirable for expanding the content of the budgets in order to more adequately inform the General Assembly of the bases for the appropriations requested, and any changes which may appear desirable in the form of the appropriations themselves, including such recommendations for changes in over-all accounting procedures as might be required to facilitate such presentation; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission engage such consultants or technical advisors as may be necessary and feasible within the general appropriations of the Commission to assist in such evaluation; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission make a report of its conclusions and recommendations as promptly as possible, but in no event later than January 15, 1963.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. DAVIS, A. W. JOHNSON, RENWICK, J. H. GOLDSTEIN and GRAMLICH.

(Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 29.

In the House of Representatives, February 6, 1962.

A press story published in a metropolitan city newspaper, recognized for reliable editorial policies, reports: "With the building of the Kinzua Dam . . . a move has developed to transfer a large part of the (Allegheny National) Forest to the National Park Service."

The Allegheny National Forest, early in this century, was set up and continued under the administration of the National Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture.

Transfer of the Allegheny National Forest, or of any sizeable part thereof, to the National Park Service, United States Department of the Interior, could well visit upon the four-county region of the forest (the counties of Forest, Elk, McKean and Warren) a serious economic set-back, threatening the presently well and competently administered fields of forest activities outlined hereinafter:

(1) Hunting. Park areas under the National Park Service usually are closed to hunting. Upward of 50,000 deer hunters and 35,000 small game hunters now hunt in the Allegheny National Forest. Barred from the forest, these hunters would dangerously over-crowd adjoining hunting territories.

(2) Timber cutting for thinning is good forest practice, and for game, winter feeding and shelter are presently beneficial to game and furnish wood products for upward of 30 sawmills and veneer firms and pulpwood to 3 paper manufacturing plants—all northwestern Pennsylvania enterprises. Eventually the annual forest output will total 25,000,000 board feet of saw-timber and 147,000 cords of pulpwood.

(3) Trout streams in the forest total 260 miles, stocked and managed by the Forest Service, attracting the visits of 200,000 anglers per year.

(4) The forest now abounds with competently administered facilities for camping, picnicing, swimming and other forms of outdoor recreation.

(5) Many important and far-reaching forest management and research projects, studies and plans would stand in danger of being scrapped.

True, the construction of the Kinzua Dam logically calls for adapting adjacent areas in ways which will dovetail into the recreational use of the Kinzua Dam Reservoir.

But, the National Forest Service enjoys an established record in setting up and administering facilities of this nature.

Such a development adjacent to the Kinzua Dam Reservoir can be accomplished by the National Forest Service without the economic dislocation to the northwestern region plainly discernible if the Park Service were to take over the Allegheny National Forest, or any appreciable part thereof; therefore, be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memorialize the Congress of the United States to take the steps necessary toward the retention of the administration of the Allegheny National Forest under the National Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture, uninterrupted and intact; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the presiding officers of each House of the Congress of the United States and to each Senator and Representative from Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I will reiterate that this House will meet next Tuesday, February 13th, at 4 p.m. At that time Dr. Dengler will have the chorus from his school here. Also in the House will be, I believe, Dr.

Stevens, of the Historical Commission, for the Abraham Lincoln program. There will be no political speeches of any kind.

The SPEAKER. What will we have at that session besides music? Will we have a calendar?

Mr. McCANN. No calendar, no printing costs, nothing.

INTERROGATION

Mr. TOMPKINS. I did want to bring one matter to the attention of the majority leader, which he asked me to do, and see if he can get an answer for me by the time we come back next Tuesday. I had a party who had a driver's license in this State for 1960. In the year 1961 they went out of the Country and they did not get it renewed. They have now sent in their application to get it renewed, and they are informed that they have got to pay a four-dollar fee for it, and the license will only be good for one year instead of two years.

I am wondering if they intended by that legislation that in circumstances of that kind you have to pay four dollars for an operator's license for one year. I would appreciate it very much if the majority leader would check into that matter because just yesterday I checked with the department and they said that is so. She will have to pay the four dollars for the one-year license. I would like to know whether or not he really intended to have a situation of that kind develop.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I will check into it, as the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins, has indicated. I will give him a report. I hope that I have it correctly.

I will check the facts just as you state them on the record and will have a reply for you regarding that situation.

STATEMENT BY MINORITY LEADER

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I just want to observe that we had a good day today. The Democrats did pretty well. They had 105 in their seats. In other words, all those bills today passed with 105 Democratic votes. What does that mean? We Republicans passed the Governor's budget with that extra vote that you needed. If it had not been for that, you would still be in trouble today.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to thank the gentleman for providing that one, single vote.

The SPEAKER. Your good works are received as evidence of belated but nevertheless sincere repentance.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I said I wanted to have the last word.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. HOLL. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Tuesday, February 13, 1962, at 4 p. m., e.s.t.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 6:46 p. m., e.s.t.) the House adjourned.

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 7, 1962

The Senate met at 10:00 a.m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Harry E. Seyler) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. RUSSELL C. LAWRY, Pastor of The Dallas Methodist Church, Dallas, offered the following prayer:

May we all be in the attitude and spirit of prayer?

Dear Lord, we realize as we pause for prayer that Thou hast promised all who would seek after Thee that Thou would never forsake them. Because of the experiences of these past days, we know that this has been true and we are indeed grateful.

On behalf of these Senators, we ask that they may be enlightened on the path they shall take and the decisions which they shall make in the noble purposes to which they have been committed. May the legislation which they may enact be practical and destined for the common good of all the people and organizations within this Commonwealth.

As we gather here today, may we be aware of the grave and vexing problems facing all of us and we pray, O Lord, that Thou will give us courage to face them each day as brave and righteous leaders.

May our minds and hearts be open and receptive to the needs, desires and hopes of the people in this State who look to us for leadership in the field of government. May we feel the spiritual strength which Thou canst give flowing freely into our lives, day by day.

May it be the prayer and desire of each Senator that they may be worthy public servants and upright statesmen not only in Pennsylvania, but in this beloved Nation of ours.

Again we pray for all these favors and blessings in the name of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. Amen.

REMARKS BY REVEREND RUSSELL C. LAWRY

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair now recognizes the Chaplain of the Senate, Revered Russell C. Lawry.

Reverend LAWRY. Members of the Senate, I would like to take this opportunity of expressing my deep appreciation for the privilege of being your Chaplain this week. It has been a wonderful experience for me. You have been so kind and considerate of me that I am sure I will go back to my home with a deep gratitude for this privilege. I hope I shall have this honor and privilege again to be the Chaplain in this Senate. It has been wonderful.

I also appreciate the kindness of Senator Flack in presenting my name.

I pray that God will be good and kind to you, if and when you are up for re-election. Maybe some day I will also run for Senator.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I am glad that the Chaplain of the Senate prayed that God would be kind to us. However, we also hope that the voters will be kind to us in order for us to return here.

We are also happy that the Chaplin has not only remained aloof in the ways of religious people or people who move in that area, but has received a little something from the Members of the Senate, as well. He makes very fine speeches and we will be very happy to have him in the Senate if he chooses to come here. I am not so sure on which side I would like him to sit at the moment, but I would be very happy to talk to him privately.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDING OFFICER. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. WEINER and Mr. DONOLOW, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

BIRTHDAY FELICITATIONS EXTENDED TO SENATOR WILLIAM J. LANE

Mr. WARE. Mr. President, may I direct the attention of the Senate this morning to a notable event which has occurred to one of our distinguished colleagues? I understand that Senator Lane has now attained the age of thirty-nine. He has taken the position that he is going to maintain that age for some years to come.

I am sure all of us join in wishing him a happy birthday. I would offer to lead the singing of "Happy Birthday," but my colleagues would threaten me with my life if I were to do so.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair appreciates the gentleman's reticence in leading us in singing, but joins him in congratulating Senator Lane on the attaiment of the ripe, old age of thirty-nine. I hope he will have many happy returns of that same birthday.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I am very happy indeed to be thirty-nine. As a matter of fact, I am just a few years from that age. As of today, I must admit to the age of fifty-seven years old. As you know, it is often said that life begins at forty and, therefore, I am quite a young buck, so to speak.

I must say, however, that even at fifty-seven, I feel pretty good. I hope all of the other Members of the Senate will feel as well as I do when they read the age of fifty-seven years. I see quite a number of the young fellows over on the other side who I know very well will not be in the condition I am in when they reach the age of fifty-seven years if they do not quit their dissipating. As the years go by, you learn that the best thing to do is to occasionally get your rest. When you get your rest, then you feel pretty good. I know, once in awhile, I have felt just a little bit dozy when I got on the floor. However, generally speaking, when Senator Pechan, Senator Berger. Senator Bell and some more of the speech-makers over there get up on the floor and start to harangue everyone, and no one in particular, the result is that I become alert as to what is going on. Of course, I always listen with great pleasure to some of the distinguished Members. when they make their speeches. Generally speaking, I am usually working on legislation about that particular time. However, I still like to hear the sound of their voices.

Thank you very much, gentlemen, and I hope to have perhaps fifty-seven more birthdays.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I am so happy that Bill has reached the age of fifty-seven. I thought he was much, much younger because of all that fighting spirit that he has.

I did not know they were discussing Bill's birthday. However, from the second team over here, I want to wish Senator Lane a very happy birthday. I consider him one of my very close friends, even though he and I, at times, do get into a political debate.

Here we are, trying to be nice to Bill and congratulate him, and he gets up and makes a speech and then blames us for doing likewise. Therefore, I want to congratulate the gentleman for being a good speech-maker too.

CALENDAR

SENATE RESOLUTIONS

CONDOLENCE OF THE SENATE EXTENDED TO THE FAMILY OF THE LATE MRS. ARINDA C. GARLOCK, MOTHER OF SENATE LIBRARIAN

Messrs. WEINER and BERGER, on behalf of the entire Membership of the Senate, by unanimous consent, offered the following resolution (Serial No. 15), which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, February 7, 1962.

On February 6, 1962, Mrs. Arinda C. Garlock, mother of Senate Librarian, Marl H. Garlock, passed away.

Mrs. Garlock was born in October 1870 at Saxton, Huntingdon County, Pennsylvania, was married to Lewis Garlock in 1903 and was the mother of three children, Veda Bollinger, Mary Stevens and Marl H. Garlock, who survive her.

In the past, she had been very active in civic, social and church affairs and was a member of the Church of God.

In their loss, Mr. Garlock and his sisters can find solace and comfort in the knowledge that their mother lived a complete and full life; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania extends heartfelt sympathies upon the death of Mrs. Arinda C. Garlock; and be it further

RESOLVED, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to Marl H. Garlock.

REQUESTING THAT THE JOINT STATE GOVERNMENT COMMISSION MAKE A STUDY AS TO THE NECESSITY OF ESTABLISHING A STATE MEDICAL SCHOOL

Messrs. ROONEY and VAN SANT, by unanimous consent, offered the following resolution (Serial No. 16), which was read and referred to the Committee on Rules:

In the Senate, February 7, 1962.

The lack of doctors and the facilities to train them is becoming more serious every day. With the advent of new drugs and advanced medical procedures, more and more medical educational sites are needed in the Commonwealth.

There are hundreds of men and women in Pennsylvania who would make excellent doctors yet they are denied the opportunity to further their education in this line because of the lack of space in our already overcrowded medical schools. If more medical schools are not provided, the time may come when there will be an acute shortage of doctors to adminster aid to our ever-increasing population.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania should establish a State medical school to train the men and women of our State. Such an institution would be a credit to all the citizens of Pennsylvania and an asset to our ever-growing higher educational system.

Such a medical school would be ideally located in the Lehigh Valley. Here it could serve the entire State without imposing any additional burdens on the facilities of our present State schools. Located in the Lehigh Valley is the new Muhlenberg Medical Center. There is a great area of land surrounding the center. This site would be perfect because the medical school could draw upon the facilities of the medical center and thereby save expenses.

In order to build this medical school a study should be made of its need; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Joint State Government Commission make a study as to the necessity of establishing such a State medical school; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Joint State Government Commission make recommendations for proper legislation for the establishment of a school of this type as well as recommendations as to its financing; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Joint State Government Commission report to this body as soon as possible.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF MEETING OF COMMITTEE ON APPROPRIATIONS

Mr. WEIMER. Mr. President, I have been instructed by the Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations to announce that now that all of the bills are here from the House, there will be a meeting of the Committee on Appropriations on Tuesday, February 13, 1962, in the Appropriations Committee Room, at 12:30 p.m. We ask that everyone who is a member of that committee attend at that time. All of the bills will be taken up.

It is our intention to convene the Session on that day at 2:30 p.m. If the committee has not completed its work, we will go into Session and recess until that committee has completed its work.

I would respectfully advise everyone in the Senate to have a look at these bills because they will be before the committee. I do not know what action the committee will take. However, I would like everyone to be informed on these measures so that we can properly discuss them and intelligently deal with them. All of the bills introduced in the House are now in the Senate. If I am incorrect, I wish the Chair would correct me. The committee intends to take up these bills at that time. This is the advice given to me by the chairman and the co-chairman of that committee.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend HAROLD E. TOWNE, Rector of Fox Chapel Community Church, Episcopal Diocese of Pittsburgh, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

O God, our heavenly Father, Thou Who wast the guide and heritage of our forefathers, and Who inspired and sustained them in their quest for democratic freedom, we ask Thy blessing upon this great Commonwealth of ours and, particularly, upon this most excellent Body, the Senate, now assembled here this day.

Make these children of Thine even mindful of their duty to serve this people in Thy fear. Send down Thy heavenly wisdom from above to guide and direct them in their deliberations. Grant that they, always having Thy fear even before their eyes, may lay aside all private interests, prejudices and partial affections, so that the results of their consultations may be to the glory and to the maintenance of justice and safety and the honor of our Commonwealth. May they ever be mindful of the public good and so knit and unite together the hearts of all persons within this State in true love and charity toward one another.

We give Thee hearty thanks for this good fellowship in freedom, and may this prayer be but a small portion of our undying gratitude to Thee Who makest all things possible. Glory be to Thee, O most wonderful God. Amen.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. SILVERT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, within the past month, the Members of the Appropriations Committees of both the Senate and the House met in numerous Sessions to discuss the budget and appropriation bills. May I say that it was the consensus of at least a majority of both committees that the Governor's budget and the appropriations suggested to carry out his budget were—may I read the following in quotes— " . . . a unique combination of social responsibility with fiscal responsibility, and of compassion with soundness." I say that I read this in quotes because these are not my words. They happen to be the words used by one of our great United States Senators in connection with his comment on the State of the Union Message which was delivered by President Kennedy. This happened to have been said by Senator Clark.

Mr. President, in the course of these discussions, the question of the Pennsylvania Milk Control Commission came up for considerable discussion. There were some who felt that the Milk Control Commission is doing a splendid job for the farmers, the dealers and consumers. There were some on the committee who felt that the Milk Control Commission may be doing a good job for the dealers, but they were not so sure about the farmers. They were particularly critical of what good it is to the consumers.

I am not taking sides with either of the arguments. The point I am arriving at is that our Milk Control Commission, which was set up quite a few years ago, is today a $500,000,000 industry in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Notwithstanding that, the license fees collected for the policing of this commission are not nearly sufficient to pay the costs of the operation of the commission.

Therefore, in this year's budget there appears an appropriation calling for $200,000 to the Milk Control Commission, which all of the taxpayers of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania have to pay. No member of either committee could understand why the license fees should not be sufficiently high so that the State will not have to contribute to the policing of an apparently prosperous industry.

Therefore, Mr. President, I am introducing this bill to increase the license fees paid by dealers so that the Commission can pay its own way without additional contributions from the taxpayers.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. SILVERT presented to the Chair SB 27, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 28, 1937 (P. L. 417), entitled "Milk Control Law," increasing the annual license fees on milk dealers.

Which was committed to the Committee on Legislation.

GUESTS OF SENATOR HAROLD E. FLACK PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. FLACK. Mr. President, I would like to present to the Senate of Pennsylvania thirty-five young ladies from Luzerne County. Some of them are representing the West Side Council of Republican Women, whose President is Mrs. Rose Bartholemas. Others are from the Republican Club of Wyoming, under the leadership of Mrs. McCracken, and the Luzerne Council of Republican Women, under the leadership of Mrs. John Dobranski. The leader of this group who brought these young ladies to Harrisburg is Mrs. Remo Mascioli.

I would like to now present this group to the Senate of Pennsylvania.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the guests just presented to the Senate by Senator Flack please rise?

On behalf of the Members of the Senate, the Chair is pleased and privileged to welcome you to the halls of the Senate where you will have the opportunity to observe the Legislature, particularly the Senate, in action. We are happy to have you and we sincerely hope that you will enjoy your visit with us. Good health to you.

CEREMONY IN COMMERATION OF THE BIRTHDAY OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN

The PRESIDING OFFICER. This being the day and the hour agreed upon to commemorate the birthday of Abraham Lincoln, the Senate will please come to order.

The Chair now recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Stiefel.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate, since I have been designated to preside over these proceedings, I am going to compress my remarks to about five minutes, and leave the bulk of the proceedings to my very worthy and erudite colleague from Adams County, Senator Hawbaker.

Five minutes will be sufficient for all that I have to say. As they say, if a presiding officer cannot strike oil within five minutes, he should stop boring.

Pennsylvania, undoubtedly, played the greatest role in the rise of Lincoln. First, it was Joseph J. Lewis, the publisher of the Chester County Times in West Chester,—Senator Ware's District—who printed in his newspaper, on February 11, 1860, the first published biography of Abraham Lincoln. It was avidly read in Pennsylvania, and attracted the attention of Pennsylvania voters to the fitness of Lincoln in those days of tragedy. Sure enough, when the contest developed during the Presidential Convention between the United States Senator from Pennsylvania, Simon Cameron, and other candidates, many of the delegrates were unsympathetic to Cameron and intended to follow the lead of Governor Andrew Gregg Curtin and David Wilmont, both from Pennsylvania.

On the first ballot, Pennsylvania gave Cameron forty-seven and one-half votes, and to Lincoln only four. Since it was obvious that Cameron could not be nominated, there was considerable maneuvering before the second ballot. A promise by David Davis, one of Lincoln's Illinois friends, that Cameron would receive a position in Lincoln's cabinet if he were elected, swung the Pennsylvania delegation in favor of Lincoln. On the second ballot, Pennsylvania gave forty-eight votes to Lincoln. This, in the opinion of Professor Rhinehart, did more than anything else to tip the scales in favor of Lincoln.

You can write books about Pennsylvania and Lincoln. However, this is not the time for me to extend or present to you the story of Abraham Lincoln and Pennsylvania.

Later on today, a resolution will be introduced in the Senate on behalf of Senator Mallery, Senator Chapman, Senator Lane and myself, paying tribute to Governor Curtin for calling the Altoona Conference on September 22, 1862, which was a great help to President Lincoln.

In my opinion, the best description of Lincoln is the expression by the immortal Russian classic writer, Count Tolstoi, who said that Lincoln is Christ in miniature. If you want to compress the Decalogue to one word, if you want to compress Christ's teachings to one word, and if you want to compress the views of Lincoln to one word, the word is "decency," decency in life, and this is what Lincoln advocated. Corollary to this view of decency in life, it was the attitude of Lincoln of being humble, sympathetic, decent, tolerant and understanding. It was only because of these qualities of a true Christian that Lincoln succeeded in the trying days of the Civil War to collate the different rash of opinions with which he was beset, and therein lies his greatness.

There is no doubt that we ought to do something in the State Capitol to commemorate Lincoln. Undoubtedly, we should emulate the example of the University of Oxford, in England, where, on a certain plaque of beautiful bronze, is presented the Gettysburg Address. The Gettysburg Address was uttered from the lowly soil of Pennsylvania, and here in the State Capitol, in the future, there should be a bold reproduction of such a plaque, spelling out the greatest masterpiece of the English language. I hope this will be done in the not too distant future.

Mr. President, I now yield to my colleague, Senator Hawbaker.

Mr. HAWBAKER. Mr. President, first of all, permit me to express my thanks to my distinguished colleague from Philadelphia, Senator Stiefel.

I think it is entirely appropriate that the Senate of Pennsylvania should pause at this time to pay tribute to Abraham Lincoln, the man who is regarded as one of America's greatest. I would also like to say that I am honored to have been given the assignment of participating in this program.

It occurs to me that the more we learn of this man Lincoln, the more we are amazed and inspired by his unusual and outstanding life and career. We are amazed that from such an humble background he could ever arise to be President of the United States, and to be such a distinguished figure in history.

Mr. Lincoln had no credentials by present day standards and he had no qualifications. Mr. Lincoln was not handsome, and he was not photogenic. He had no social status or family background. He had no academic background. He was not rich nor was he a rich man's son, and he had never even written a book. Yet, he became one of the greatest men of our time and we are prone to ask ourselves the question, why? What is it that made this man of such an humble background and with so little qualification such a tremendous personality in American history?

If we take a look at the life and legend of Abraham Lincoln, we will immediately discover that Mr. Lincoln had some very intangible qualifications. Mr. Lincoln was trustworthy; he was loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean and reverent. This, it seems to me, would commend just about anyone for recognition. In light of the above qualifications, it is pretty obvious that Mr. Lincoln would have made an excellent Scoutmaster.

Mr. Lincoln was a man of purpose, and he was dedicated to the cause of human freedom. He had very deep convictions on this subject, and he had the courage of his convictions. Certainly, he was a statesman of the highest order.

I think it is fair to say that this rail splitter from Illinois had much in common with another great champion of human freedom, who was known as the carpenter from Galilee. Both of these great men had an humble beginning. Neither appeared to have any claim to fame, and both knew the hardships and problems of the common man. Both of these men attracted much attention and became the subject of considerable controversy.

Also, both of these men were adept at telling stories to illustrate a point. In connection with stories, the stories that were told by Abraham Lincoln were innumerable. I would like to repeat just one at this point. He told this story at a time just after he was inaugurated as President for his first term, when he was besieged by a vast number of his friends seeking public employment.

It seems there was a king in ancient times who enjoyed going out into the fields for hunting. In order to insure that he would have fair weather on the day he went hunting, he employed a court astrologer to make weather predictions. On a certain day they were out hunting, and they came upon a farmer driving a donkey. The farmer said to the king: "I am surprised you are hunting today, because it is going to rain this afternoon."

The king said: "Oh no, it can't rain. The astrologer has assured me that we would have fair weather."

Along about midafternoon, it did rain, and the entire hunting party got soaking wet. When they returned to the palace, the king summoned the astrologer and ordered that he be beheaded. Whereupon, he sent for the farmer and advised him that henceforth, he would be the prognosticator in the king's court.

The farmer said: "No, I don't think you want me. You want my donkey, because it is not I but my donkey who forecasts the weather."

So, the donkey was admitted to the king's court. According to Mr. Lincoln, this was the greatest mistake the king ever made, because immediately all of the donkeys in the country beat a path to the royal palace seeking employment.

I do not know whether this story has anything to do with the innumerable amount of donkeys that I see perched atop desks around Harrisburg today.

The rail splitter from Illinois and the carpenter from Galilee both met violent deaths because they pursued purpose, and it may or may not be coincidence that Abraham Lincoln was assassinated on Good Friday of 1865.

The similarity does not stop there. Each of these men has become a symbol of human freedom and a legend that will live forever. Perhaps more volumes have been written about the lives of these two men than any other two men in the history of the world.

Both of these great emancipators must be distressed today as they look down upon this earth from their mansions on high and observe the fact that once again a large portion of the world's population is living in human bondage. Millions of people today are living in slavery; not the kind of slavery that Abraham Lincoln knew, but slavery just the same. Millions of people throughout the world today have become slaves to their government. One cannot help but wonder what Mr. Lincoln would do if he were called upon to cope with this situation.

Perhaps we can get some idea of what Mr. Lincoln would do by recalling some of the things that he has said. Many of Mr. Lincoln's quotations, incidentally, might very well have been uttered only yesterday. For example, Mr. Lincoln said on one occasion: "In times like the present, men should utter nothing for which they would not willingly be responsible through time and eternity." This leaves little room for shadowboxing or empty phrases.

Another of Mr. Lincoln's quotations: "Those who deny freedom to others deserve it not for themselves."

Still another: "No man is good enough to govern another without that other's consent."

Still another quotation from Mr. Lincoln, which is equally appropriate today: "No oppressed people will fight and endure, as our fathers did, without the promise of something more than a mere change of masters."

Perhaps one of the most significant of Mr. Lincoln's quotations, as it applies to our present day situation, is the very famous one: "A House divided against itself cannot stand. I believe this government cannot endure permanently half slave and half free."

I would like to pause at this point, if I may, to impress upon all of us the significance of this particular phrase in our present day life. "I believe this government cannot endure permanently half slave and half free." As I indicated a moment ago, we have in this present day world two opposing ideologies those of us in the west espouse the name of freedom and behind the iron curtain, we have government-dominated slavery.

I, personally, am somewhat concerned with the American ideal that is fast gaining recognition, to the effect that we should compromise somewhere in between; that we should abandon the free principles and the heritage upon which this Country was founded and adopt some of the paternalistic ideas of the enslaved people of the east. I would again remind you in this connection of Mr. Lincoln's quotation that government cannot survive permanently half slave and half free. It seems to me that with freedom, there is no such thing as a compromise.

I am wondering what Mr. Lincoln would do about this situation of a world that is half free and half slave. I do not recall that Mr. Lincoln ever mentioned anything about peaceful coexistence with slavery. I do not recall that Mr. Lincoln ever mentioned anything about the containment of slavery. What he did say was this, and again I quote:

"Our defense is in the preservation of the spirit which prizes liberty as the heritage of all men, in all lands everywhere. Destroy this spirit, and you have planted the seeds of despotism around your own door."

Again, he said: "In giving freedom to the slave, we assure freedom to the free—honorable alike in what we give and what we preserve."

I wonder what Mr. Lincoln would have done about some of the crises that have faced the world in recent days. If Mr. Lincoln had been President of the United States, I am quite sure there woud have been no wall in Berlin, and I am quite sure there would have been no Cuban fiasco. Indeed, I am quite sure there would have been no Berlin crisis in the first place, because he would have had no part of a city that is half slave and half free.

We have people who say today that this is all well and good, but how are you going to get it accomplished? They say that we have to take halfway measures in the interest of expediency. Again, Mr. Lincoln had something to say in this connection when we ask ourselves how we are going to do it. Mr. Lincoln said, and again I quote: "Determine that the thing can and shall be done, and then we shall find a way."

Today, we are not containing slavery. Today, slavery is growing all around us. Our own freedom is being threatened. Indeed, our own freedom is slowly slipping away from us. Of course, we are not about to have a revolution whereby we will lose our freedom in one giant step. However, I, personally, am very much concerned about the tendency to lose our freedom by means of evolution.

I would like to borrow a phrase from Mr. Lincoln's book at this point, and relate a story which may or may not have originated with Mr. Lincoln. However, it certainly illustrates the point. This is the story of the bullfrog.

You know, if you catch a live bullfrog and you dump him into a pan of boiling water, he will jump so high that he will bounce off the ceiling. Yet, you can catch that same bullfrog and put him in a pan of lukeware water, put him on the stove, turn up the gas, and he will blissfully sit there until he is stewed well enough to eat.

This is not one of Mr. Lincoln's stories, but it illustrates what I am talking about. It should give us considerable cause for concern.

It seems to me that we need men today in public life who are dedicated to the cause of freedom, and have the courage of Lincoln to pursue the cause of freedom to a successful conclusion. It occurs to me that if we have such men today, this world may yet have a new birth of freedom and government of the people, for the people and by the people may yet survive on this earth.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I wish to express my appreciation to our colleague, the Honorable Israel Stiefel, the historian of the Senate, for affording me the privilege of signing the resolution which he will later present.

While I am on the floor, Mr. President, I also wish to call to mind an important historical event during the Civil War which occurred in the city of my birth, the city of Altoona, 100 years ago this coming September 24. Andrew Curtin was then Governor of Pennsylvania and the war was then running against the North. Governor Curtin conceived the idea of having a meeting of the loyal Governors of the sixteen northern States. The loyal Governors met in the Logan House, in Altoona. The Logan House was one of Pennsylvania's outstanding hotels of that day and adjoined the Pennsylvania Railroad Station at Altoona. The Governors, at their meeting, resolved to extend their efforts in the successful promotion of the war, and it is generally recognized that the meeting was the beginning of a renewed war effort in favor of the North, which resulted in keeping, as one grand Nation, all of the States of the Union.

Mr. MULLIN. Mr. President, I was very much interested in the donkey being able to see what lay ahead of him and advised about it, in contrast to the elephant who looked backwards and never forgot.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I would like to say further that Governor Lawrence has been invited to attend the meeting on September 24, 1962 in celebration of the 100th Anniversary of the Meeting of the War Governors on September 24, 1862. As I understand it, he has invited the present Governors of the sixteen States.

I wish to now invite all of the Members of the Senate to come to Altoona to join with us in celebrating this historic event. Altoonans are noted for their hospitality, and I pledge to you that you will enjoy your visit to one of the most hospitable cities in the Commonwealth.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, not unlike Cato who used to rise in the Senate of Rome and thunder that Carthage must be destroyed, I am again repeating that so far as the celebration of the Centennial of the Battle of Gettysburg is concerned, we have not done anything spectacular. Time is moving and, like they say in Latin, "tempus fugit."

It is just about a year before the celebration of the centennial of the victory of Gettysburg. Knowing of Senator Weiner's energy, I do hope he will at least stimulate some action. So far, no action has been seen and we will be behind all of the other States in celebrating this great event.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, there is in the Capitol the choir of the Upper Darby High School, from Delaware County. With the consent of the Senate, I would like to present the choir to the Senate as a part of these ceremonies.

May the Senate be at ease?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, it is fitting that Lincoln's birthday should fall during Boy Scout Week. In connection therewith, I have a resolution which I think every Senator will want to join in. However, before presenting it, I would like to obtain permission to make a few remarks concerning the resolution.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is this particular resolution which you wish to present in connection with the Lincoln Day Commemorative Ceremony or does it pertain to some other matter?

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, it pertains to Boy Scout Week and I wanted to speak upon the significance of the fact that this is the last day of the week. It runs from the 7th of February to the 13th of February.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Mahady, delay the presentation of that resolution until we get to the order of business known as resolutions?

Mr. MAHADY. I will, Mr. President.

CONCERT CHOIR OF UPPER DARBY HIGH SCHOOL, DELAWARE COUNTY, PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I am greatly honored today to present to my colleagues of the Senate of Pennsylvania the Choir of Upper Darby High School, under the very able supervision of the Honorable Clyde R. Dengler, Member of the House of Representatives, from the county of Delaware.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Bell, presents to the Senate the Concert Choir of Upper Darby High School, which will participate in this Lincoln Day Commemorative Ceremony by entertaining us with a few choral renditions, under the direction of Clyde R. Dengler, Member of the House of Representatives from Delaware County.

The Chair now recognizes Representative Clyde R. Dengler.

Mr. DENGLER. Mr. President, Senator Bell and Members of the Senate, this is an unexpected pleasure for us. We came here to sing for the House at 4:30 p.m. I was told that you were having a special Lincoln Day Celebration and we are certainly honored that you have invited us to come and sing for you.

In the House, we have a piano. I do not know why you do not have one in the Senate. I presented a resolution about three months ago and we got one. Therefore, we will have to sing a cappella. We are going to sing a number by Sigmund Romberg, entitled "Your Land and My Land." We will then sing "Deep in my Heart" and "Stouthearted Men."

(The above renditions were then presented by the Concert Choir of Upper Darby High School.)

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair wishes to thank the members of the choral group from the Upper Darby High School, under the direction of Representative Clyde R. Dengler, for participating in this ceremony commemorating the birthday of Abraham Lincoln. The renditions were beautiful. Thank you.

Are there any further remarks? If not, the Chair now declares this special ceremony concluded.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE ON EXECUTIVE NOMINATIONS

FORMER SENATOR JOSEPH M. BARR PRESENTED TO SENATE

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair now recognizes one of our former collegues, the Honorable Joseph M. Barr, a former Member of the Senate and now Mayor of the city of Pittsburgh.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, Members of the Senate, the President pro tempore, wherever he might be, and "Harve": This is the first time I have had the opportunity to be up here while the Senate is in Session since I left, after completing twenty years. In coming here, one almost comes with mixed emotions. The twenty years I spent in the Senate I think were perhaps the happiest twenty years of my life. I think I formed friendships during that time which I will keep and cherish forever.

Some of the gentlemen on my left say that I now and then used to have a firey temper. However, it only lasted for a few moments and today, as I did then, I consider each and every one of them as my personal friends.

The new job which I have undertaken out in Pittsburgh is a challenging one and a very rewarding one. I will say that being Mayor of a metropolitan city is not a job you can do by the clock. It is a job which takes about seven days and seven nights a week. Nevertheless, to be in politics you have to love people. That I do, and that part of it does not worry or bother me one bit.

I would like to compliment the Members of the Senate on the tremendous job which I think they did during the Session of 1961. I received most of the reports, as I do, from the newspapers. Sometimes they used to say that they did not report the news properly, but at least I got the gist of what was going on.

I understand that this year there is going to be an election of a Governor in Pennsylvania. I ran into some of my Republican friends last week and they said: "I guess you are laughing at us." I told them that I was not laughing at all because they may be having the last laugh; I do not know. Nevertheless, that is a part of the American system. We will shortly choose up sides and all be friends during the Primary Campaign and we will then go to it after the Primary is over.

I do not have any gems of wisdom to give you today, other than I came up here in order to renew friendships. I intend to get around and visit with most of you. Since I came here today, I understand that one of the most able and fair Members of the Senate is not going to run again. I am referring to Senator Stevenson. He was Chairman of the Local Government Committee and the Commission and he did a tremendous job for all the municipalities of this Commonwealth, whether they were cities, boroughs or first or second class townships, whatever they may have been.

If the report that Senator Stevenson is leaving the Senate is true, I would say: "Come and join us because it is a lot of fun." Come out to Pittsburgh and you and I will entertain one another. I know he will miss the Senate for awhile because there is a certain nostalgia after you do once leave.

I just want to say to all of you now, God love you all and bless you with good health. We will have some fun before the day is over.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Thank you very much, Mayor Barr. God love you and good health to you.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, on behalf of my colleagues on this side, I want to welcome back Joe Barr. I guess occasionally we did not agree. We understand that Joe is doing a fine job in Pittsburgh as Mayor. We wish him well.

We also understand—and he made reference to this awhile ago—this is the American way of doing things, and that perhaps they will have the last laugh because of the controversy that we are having. I want Joe not to get too confident and too cocky over the fact that he has twenty-five Republican Senators on this side who are his friends, but in case we do get into a little bit of battle he should not depend on any support from this side in his candidacy for the Governorship.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I wonder if the gentlemen would take an amendment. We are not depending on that support; we are counting on it.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. McGINNIS, by unanimous consent, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported, as committed, SB 17, HB 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 68, 72, 73, 80 and 82; as amended, HB 1 and 50.

RECESS

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I request a five minute recess of the Senate for the purpose of holding a meeting of the Committee on Legislation, to be held in the President pro tempore's office, and also a meeting of the Committee on Judiciary General, to be held in Senator Berger's office.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any objections? The Chair hears no objection, and declares a five minute recess of the Senate.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

BILLS REREFERRED

Mr. LANE, by unanimous consent, from the Committee on Legislation, returned to the Senate, SB 19 and 20, which were rereferred to the Committee on Constitutional Changes and Federal Relations.

He also, by unanimous consent, from the Committee on Legislation, returned to the Senate, SB 21 and 22, which were rereferred to the Committee on Finance.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Ripp, please approach the rostrum to preside?

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Joseph D. Ripp) in the Chair.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

WEEKLY ADJOURNMENT

Mr. HAYS, on behalf of Mr. RIPP, offered the following resolution, which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, February 13, 1962.

RESOLVED (the House of Representatives concurring), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene Monday, February 19, 1962 at a time to be fixed by the Senate; and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene Monday, February 19, 1962 at a time to be fixed by the House of Representatives.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STIEFEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, during my remarks on the occasion of the Lincoln celebration, I alluded to a resolution which would be introduced concerning the Altoona Conference. This is a resolution paying tribute to Governor Curtin, Governor of Pennsylvania during the Civil War, who, in the darkest moments of our history when the fortunes of war were against the North, summoned the loyal Governors and held a conference in Altoona, which strengthened the hands of President Lincoln.

I offer this resolution and ask for its immediate adoption.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

COMMEMORATING THE 100TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE ALTOONA CONFERENCE

Messrs. STIEFEL, CHAPMAN, MALLERY and LANE offered the following resolution (Serial No. 104), which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, February 13, 1962.

The conference of governors of loyal states held at Altoona, Pennsylvania, September 24 and 25, 1862, on the initiative of Governor Andrew Gregg Curtin of Pennsylvania, was of major importance in the eventual success of the Union cause because it showed clearly and unmistakably that the people of the northern States were determined to preserve the nation from disruption and secession.

The Altoon Conference took measures for more active support of the federal government and pledged its full backing to President Abraham Lincoln in the struggle to restore and perpetuate the authority of this government and the life of the Nation.

The Governors, assembled at Altoona, asked that even greater demands be made upon the people of the loyal States to insure the preservation of the nation, and urged that the President call at least 100,000 more volunteers for the armed forces.

The address of the Loyal Governors delivered to President Lincoln in Washington, D. C., on September 26, 1862, pledged that the loyal States and their people would uphold him in vigorous measures to preserve the Republic and the hope of humanity.

In this 100th year since the Altoona Conference took place, it is well to remember its great contribution toward Union victory; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania (the House of Representatives concurring), hereby calls attention to the 100th anniversary of the Altoona Conference on September 24 and 25, 1962, and urges that appropriate exercises and ceremonies be held by the schools of the Commonwealth and by civic, patriotic, and historical organizations to commemorate this important event.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. MAHADY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, two weeks ago, I came home feeling a little glum. When my wife asked me what was wrong, I referred in gentlemanlike fashion to a certain individual who is a self-styled politician and who has been referring to me in my District as a Boy Scout. When I had finished my meal, my wife said: "You go down to the rumpus room, and I think you will take a different attitude."

I went down to the rumpus room, and I found that the senior patrol leaders and two patrols were having a meeting of the Boy Scouts in the basement. Incidentally, this troop was sponsored by the Presbyterian Church. The senior patrol leader's name was Morretti. Another patrol leader's name was Ohenock. Another patrol leader's name was Myers, and so on, covering the whole gamut of breeds and nationalities.

I sat back in the easy chair and listened to their meeting of one hour and a half. They put in hours on end, which keeps them out of mischief.

Connected with that, in the thirty-nine districts of Pennsylvania, there are councils of individuals who give equal numbers of hours freely to the development of leadership for the future.

Every year, ending on Lincoln's Birthday, we celebrate Boy Scout Week. It is an incentive to honor this time and effort that is given by these people to create the leadership of tomorrow. It is a proud thing to have been a Boy Scout and what it represents. It is also with pride that we view the unselfish contributions of these many individuals who serve in these thirty-nine councils in Pennsylvania.

In the resolution, I am about to offer, the forwarding of copies to each of the councils has not been included. I wish to incorporate, by reference, that suggestion to the Secretary of the Senate.

SENATE RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATIONS OF THE SENATE EXTENDED TO THE BOY SCOUTS DURING NATIONAL BOY SCOUT WEEK

Messrs. MAHADY, YATRON, SCOTT, MURRAY, HALUSKA, STAISEY, ROONEY, HAYS, MULLIN and SESLER offered the following resolution (Serial No. 17), which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, February 13, 1962.

This week the people of the United States are honoring the Boy Scouts of America, by designating it as National Boy Scout Week. We in Pennsylvania are proud of the thirty-nine scout councils in the Commonwealth. It is through these councils and the hundreds of scout troops represented thereby that the great character-building activities of scouting are brought to the boys of our Commonwealth. Without the Boy Scouts, our future leaders would be missing a great deal of training that is necessary for good citizenship.

The Boy Scout movement was started in 1908 for the purpose of training boys in the essentials of good citizenship. It had its beginning in the British Isles, but spread rapidly until today it is to be found in every civilized country in the world. The scope of scouting is unlimited by class, creed, color or political distinctions. The movement is non-military, non-political, non-class and interdenominational.

The Senate of Pennsylvania is proud of the work the men and boys in scouting have done; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania offer its congratulations to the Boy Scouts during National Boy Scout Week; and be it further

RESOLVED, That they continue to do the great work and achieve the goals they desire thorughout the year.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WEINER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, for many years in this Commonwealth and in the United States many youngsters were born and subsequently either went blind or had eye deficiencies. It has now been found, from numerous studies which have been made throughout the Country and throughout the world, there are general metabolic disorders in newborn babies which destroy brain tissue and lead eventually to mental retardation. This disease is known as phenylketonuria.

There are certain corrective devices that can be taken at an early stage when the baby is born if these tests were made. It is similar to the silver nitrate that is used as soon as the baby is born. This is put into the baby's eyes when he is just minutes old. This has helped in cutting down the amount of eye damage and blindness which has resulted as the result of various acids when a youngster is first born.

The feeling has been that there ought to be the same kind of test made in regard to this disease. All of us I think have known persons, or may have it in our own families, and know what tragedy a mentally retarded youngster can mean. For a long time people thought that this had something to do with the family background. It has been brought to our attention by many scientists and many doctors that this is not the case, and that if appropriate studies were made at the right time and appropriate action taken at the right time, this could be resolved. This heartache and the resultant problem to the Commonwealth could be resolved. All of us know of the amount of money that appears in the budget every year to work on this problem and of the great number of funds that go into the budget not only to take care of the initial problem, but the long range problem either of institutionalizing these children or in trying to educate those that prove to be educable.

This is a situation which I think the Commonwealth ought to look into and, if it is appropriate, I think we ought to do something about passing appropriate legislation to make it mandatory that the action be taken by the physician or by the hospital when these children are born in order to prevent this tragedy and this waste of human life and human resources.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION,

DIRECTING THE JOINT STATE GOVERNMENT COMMISSION TO STUDY THE DESIRABILITY OF LAWS MAKING TESTS FOR PHENYLKETONURIA MANDATORY FOR ALL NEWBORN BABIES

Messrs. WEINER, SARRAF and CHAPMAN offered the following resolution (Serial No. 105), which was read and referred to the Committee on Rules:

In the Senate, February 13, 1962.

Phenylketonuria is an organic defect described as a "general metabolic disorder" in newborn babies, which destroys brain tissue and leads to mental retardation. If, however, this condition is diagnosed early enough, it can be kept in check and a child can live a normal life. With this fact in mind, the President's panel on mental retardation has moved to seek mandatory testing of all newborn babies. The panel has recommended that each State enact a law making phenylketonuria tests mandatory at birth; therefore, be it

RESOLVED (the House of Representatives concurring), That the Joint State Government Commission be directed to study the desirability of laws making tests for phenylketonuria mandatory for all newborn babies within this Commonwealth; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That the Joint State Government Commission make a report of its findings and recommendations, together with drafts of legislation necessary to carry its recommendations into effect, to the General Assembly as soon as possible.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. SESLER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. SESLER. Mr. President, it was my intention to introduce a resolution this afternoon. However, it has not arrived on the floor, as yet. I would like to make these comments on it today, because I believe that tomorrow we will have more business before the Senate.

The subject of this resolution, which will be introduced by myself, Senator Rooney and others, is of some moment and concern to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

A number of weeks ago, an article appeared in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, as well as other newspapers in the State of Ohio, making a comparison of their Interstate Highway 90 System with our Interstate Highway 90 System in Pennsylvania. The comparison was unfavorable, and referred to the fact that the standards set for Highway 90 in Pennsylvania did not compare to those in Ohio. A difference did exist. However, this is due to the fact that our Highway System 90 in Pennsylvania was planned as a turnpike before it became part of the Interstate System.

This led us to the statement that was made by our Secretary of Highways, the Honorable Park Martin, which brings forth a number of facts that I think are worthy of some explanation. It appears that in the present fiscal year, the State of Ohio's apportionment for the interstate highway construction was $141,068,812 as compared to an apportionment to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania of $88,314,000, or a net difference in favor of the State of Ohio of $52,754,812. It now appears that commencing with the fiscal year of 1963, the Federal Government will give to the State of Ohio $163,000,000 for construction of its new Interstate Highway System, which is $53,000,000, gentlemen, more than the $107,000,000 that will be apportioned to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the same period.

Moreover, it appears that with the exception of respective turnpikes in the two States, the State of Pennsylvania has proposed the construction of approximately 1,218 miles of interstate highway, which is over 400 miles more than that proposed for construction in the State of Ohio.

Moreover, it is quite apparent that the construction of our 1,218 miles, much of which goes over mountainous terrain, is much more difficult and much more expensive to construct than the terrain found in the State of Ohio.

Thirdly, it appears that this apportionment made by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads was based on the original highway needs study of 1954, which was subsequently revised in 1956, and gain in 1959 or 1960. It seems to me—assuming that the State of Pennsylvania and the State of Ohio will continue to construct their interstate highways according to the same prescribed standards which are set forth by that Bureau—that in view of the fact that we have over 400 miles more of highway than does the State of Ohio, and in view of the fact that our terrain is such as would normally dictate more expensive construction costs, I wish to introduce a resolution, directed to the Federal Administrator of the United States Public Roads, to give an explanation to the Secretary of Highways, the Honorable Park Martin, and to the Chairman of the Committee on Highways of this Senate, as to why there is such a great difference and a great inequity, it appears to me, between the Federal-aid which had been apportioned and which will be apportioned to the respective States.

This difference of $50,000,000 is a tremendous sum of money. It seems to me that we deserve an explanation. Secretary Martin has told me himself that he requested an explanation in the past and he had not received any reasonable reason. He had not received any adequate reason as to why this difference has come into existence.

We are going to respectfully request an explanation of this. There may be a possibility of an explanation, although it certainly is not apparent on the surface. Moreover, we are going to ask that the Federal Administrator give to us a schedule of proposed apportionments for the years that may be planned from now on until 1970.

I think it is important that we take this into consideration in order to determine whether or not Pennsylvania is, in fact, receiving its fair share of interstate highway funds.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. BELL, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 28, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 15, 1961 (P. L. 373), entitled "Inheritance and Estate Tax Act of 1961," providing an optional valuation date for stocks, bonds and other securities.

Which was committed to the Committee on Legislation.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Mr. LANE. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I think every Member of the Senate today enjoyed the Lincoln Day Ceremonies. We heard a very scholarly speech by Senator Stiefel, from Philadelphia, and we also heard a very scholarly address from Senator Hawbaker, from Adams County. I might say, Mr. President, that during the discourse of the gentleman from Adams, he appeared to take advantage of a situation here in this Senate by making inferences against the National Administration, which is Democratic, and I think the State Administration, which is also Democratic.

Mr. President, I firmly believe that if Abraham Lincoln were on the floor of this Senate, he would have been shocked by the expressions made by the distinguished gentleman from Adams County. I do not believe that he really believes that we of the Democratic Party will be a party to peaceful coexistence, that we will be soft on Communism, or that we will back up when the Russian bear barks. I do not believe that even the gentleman from Adams thinks those things.

In my opinion, Mr. President, this expression here today was in very poor taste. When we hold these ceremonies here in this Senate, we forget politics. We do not care anything about politics when we are discussing things of this nature because, after all, we are honoring a great man here in the Senate; a man whom I believe every Democrat and every Republican admires. I do not think we should adjust ourselves to miring ourselves in dirty politics or inferences when we are having such a program. As a matter of fact, I, myself, am shocked that such a condition existed and such a condition occurred today. In my opinion, it is so wrong.

If we continue along this line, Mr. President, every time we have the commemoration of a great public official, be he Republican or be he Democrat, we are going to be confronted not only with some person on the other side, but probably Members on this side of the aisle taking a political position on the background of great men.

I am very sorry that I must make this statement, but I feel it is for the good of the Senate of Pennsylvania. I hope that things like this do not happen again.

Mr. HAWBAKER. Mr. President, for the information of my good colleague from Washington County, let me simply say that my remarks this afternoon were intended to be factual and in no way political. If my remarks were construed to be political, the gentleman has my apologies. If, however, my simple relation of facts tended to embarrass anyone, I can simply say that if the shoe fits, you will have to wear it.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend David R. Hoover, offered the following prayer:

O God of everlasting bounty, with the recognition that every good and perfect gift cometh from Thee, we turn to Thee in confidence that the faith which Thou hast to bestow will enable us to stand the test of trial and temptation. O Father, grant to us the knowledge that we walk by faith and not by sight, bring us in humility bowing in Thy presence, and send us forth to show Thy love to our fellowmen: through Jesus Christ, Thy Son our Lord. Amen.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Ladies and gentlemen, today being the day on which we have the program for Abraham Lincoln, Dr. Stevens, who is presently the director of the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission, will address us. Dr. Stevens has served as the state historian or executive director since 1937. He taught history at Penn State for 10 years prior to the time he came with the Historical and Museum Commission and is a native of Potter County.

Dr. Stevens has earned degrees from Penn State and Columbia University and holds an honorary degree from both Lebanon Valley College and Susquehanna University. He has written widely on Pennsylvania and American history and is one of the founders and presently a member of the editorial board and the board of directors of "The American Heritage" magazine.

He has served as an officer in many state and national historical organizations.

Dr. Stevens' subject of address will be "Pennsylvania's Washington and Lincoln Heritage." Ladies and gentlemen, Dr. Stevens.

ADDRESS BY DR. S. K. STEVENS

Mr. Speaker, Mr. McCann, honorable members of this House, officials of this House and guests: It is indeed a great honor and a very real privilege to be invited by Speaker Andrews to address this body. There are many of you who have indicated in a variety of ways in the past your interest in the great heritage of our Commonwealth.

The House of Representatives, as the parent body of the General Assembly set up by the Quaker Founder, William Penn, is in itself a historic body.

This occasion, incidentally, is a return to a historical tradition of earlier years. At one time the General Assembly customarily every year took time out from its sober deliberations to commemorate with suitable speeches and ceremonies the birthdays of both Lincoln and Washington. The speeches were long and they were eloquent, probably longer and more eloquent than what I shall have to say today.

Nothing indicates more clearly the depth or the breadth of the historical heritage of Pennsylvania than the fact that we as a Commonwealth share in the careers of not only the Father of our Country, but the men who served it from disunion, namely, George Washington and Abraham Lincoln.

George Washington was, of course, a Virginian by birth. But in terms of the number and the significance of the years he spent in deeds which entered into the pages of American history, he was as much a Pennsylvanian as a Virginian.

We can never forget in our Commonwealth that the first heroic public service rendered by George Washington took him through the wilderness of western Pennsylvania, all the way from colonial Williamsburg to French Fort LeBoeuf at the site of present-day Waterford near Erie. That journey took place in 1753. France and England were then contending for the control of the Ohio Valley and western Pennsylvania. Colonial Americans and Britishers were to fight side for side for about 10 years to keep Pennsylvania and North America British. Should France have won this epic struggle of the French and Indian War days, the civilization of all of North America would have been French in origin. George Washington, when he undertook this historic mission in 1753, was just voting age. He was 21. He left Williamsburg in October. He was at the site of present Pittsburgh at the forks of the Ohio on November 23 and incidentally noticed that this would be a good place for a fort to defend this region. He was at present Franklin on December 4, and on the 11th of December in 1753 he arrived at Fort LeBoeuf. The French listened to what he had to say, but they told him to return to Williamsburg with a message, that the French did not intend to leave Pennsylvania. On his way back he nearly lost his life on two different occasions. Once he was shot at by hostile Indians, and on a second occasion his boat overturned in the icy waters of the Allegheny River and he nearly drowned.

That was the beginning and only a beginning of George Washington's great public service on the soil of Pennsylvania.

The cold war between France and England quickly became a shooting war. In 1754 Washington was back in western Pennsylvania with Virginia militia to protect an English fort to be built at the forks of the Ohio. On May 28, 1754, Washington fired the first shot of the French and Indian War at Jumonville glen near present Uniontown. He was unsuccessful, however, in defeating the French, and on July 3 he was forced to capitulate and surrender his army at Fort Necessity.

That again was not the end of Washington's role in early Pennsylvania history, particularly in the western part of the State. He was back with Braddock in 1755 as a volunteer aide. He saw Braddock shot down. Washington himself could point to no less than four bullet holes in his clothing and the fact that a horse was shot from under him as evidence of his participation in that ill-fated expedition. A Divine Providence spared him, however, and he accompanied General Forbes to victory at Fort Duquesne in November 1758. It was at the site of French Fort Duquesne in 1758 that George Washington saw Forbes write the letters which gave Pittsburgh its name.

But there was to be no peace or rest from the labors of George Washington. In 1775 this now middle-aged Virginian was in Philadelphia to assume the command of an army, the Continental Army, that would finally win American independence under his inspired leadership. Declaring independence and winning it were two different things. It took nearly a decade of hard fighting and near defeat for the ragged Continentals to bring to their knees the powerful forces of Great Britain.

In between, in 1776, there is a story of a desperate campaign in which Washington was chased from Long Island all the way across New Jersey by the British. Washington crossed the Delaware into Pennsylvania early in the winter of 1776 with not more than about 4,000 ill-equipped and half-starved Continental soldiers. It was from this particular location in Pennsylvania that he used that famous phrase, "These are times that try men's souls." But Washington rallied to cross the Delaware on Christmas night and to win a decisive victory over the British and the Hessians at Trenton and a little later to win again at Princeton in New Jersey. That was in early 1776.

That was the same year that the British moved to capture Philadelphia, political and economic capital of the Revolution. Washington was forced into the Battle of the Brandywine at the location which is now Brandywine State Park. There he met defeat and he was forced to retreat. He spent the winter at Valley Forge, and no one needs to be told of the heroism, the hardships which are connected with the story of Valley Forge. Those were the blackest hours of the American Revolution, but out of that darkness at Valley Forge came the first signs of victory.

It was while Washington and his Continental troops were at Valley Forge that word was received of the alliance with France. It was here that Baron Von Steuben came from Germany to rule and to discipline the Continental soldiers. Fresh troops were raised by General Mifflin of Pennsylvania. In June of 1778 George Washington was able to march out of Valley Forge and to continue campaigns which finally brought victory and independence at Yorktown in October of 1781.

That was quite a career in Pennsylvania but that was not the end for George Washington. His acquaintance with western Pennsylvania during the French and Indian War periods had led to his acquisition of several thousands of acres in what is today Fayette, Washington and Westmoreland Counties.

The Scotch-Irish pioneers in that section, however, had little respect for land titles owned by someone in far away Virginia. Washington had a good deal of difficulty with these lands and in September of 1784 he made another trip into western Pennsylvania, this time to see what he could do about confirming his title to these lands. That, however, was pretty much of a personal visit.

His next visit to Pennsylvania was on another mission of great public service. He was a Virginia delegate to the Constitutional Convention in 1787 and he was its presiding officer. His prestige and his influence as presiding officer had a determining influence, in the minds of most historians, on the successful completion of the Convention's labors and the final ratification of our Federal Constitution.

From 1790 until 1800 Philadelphia was the Nation's capital and here Washington spent a portion of his two terms as President of the United States. It was while he was here in 1794 that he took part in what was a somewhat more unpleasant expedition. He came to Carlisle in 1794 to march with the troops which had been raised for the suppression of the Whiskey Insurrection in Pennsylvania, and he marched them into Bedford. Although that service might be one of the most luminous episodes in the history of Pennsylvania, nevertheless it had a great deal to do with establishing the authority of the Federal Government in the very early days of the Republic.

Now this Union of the States consummated at Philadelphia in 1787, and for which Washington had fought so long and valiantly, was threatened, of course, with disunity in 1861.

The man who saved the day was Abraham Lincoln. Few people, I am sure—and probably a few among you—think of Lincoln as having any special connection with Pennsylvania. Actually, Abraham Lincoln was descended directly from what was originally Quaker stock in Berks and Lancaster Counties. Lincoln's grandfather was named Abraham Lincoln, and he was born in Pennsylvania in 1744. The Lincoln homestead, by the way, is still standing down in Berks County and it is, perhaps, a historical shrine which we some day should acquire for State administration.

The Lincolns moved from this locality in Pennsylvania, down the Cumberland and Shenandoah Valley, and of course you know the rest of the Lincoln story.

There are some who think that it was this strain of Quakerism in the blood of Abraham Lincoln which was the foundation of his opposition to the institution of slavery. Be that as it may, Abraham Lincoln very probably would have never been nominated and elected to the Presidency of the United States had it not been for influences from Pennsylvania.

Lincoln was very much of a dark horse candidate for the Presidency. Few people knew anything about him. In 1860 it was a Chester County newspaper editor and publisher who prepared and printed in his paper the first printed biography of Abraham Lincoln. People were asking all over the Nation, Who is this man Lincoln? And they could find no satisfactory answers to their questions until this Chester County newspaper published this biography. It was reprinted in newspapers in Chicago and New York and all over the Nation, and is credited by historians with having a tremendous influence on making Abraham Lincoln known to the general public.

Better known of course was the story of Simon Cameron. Simon Cameron was the favorite son of Pennsylvania in the Republican convention in 1860. He, however, on the second ballot in that convention threw the Pennsylvania delegation's vote entirely to Abraham Lincoln. That changed the tide in the Republican convention and was the factor which led directly to Lincoln's nomination on the third ballot in that convention in Chicago in 1860. Of course Pennsylvania supported Lincoln in the election. The election of Governor Curtin for the governorship in October, because we had our gubernatorial election in October at that time, gave a tremendous boost to the Lincoln campaign. Consequently, it may be said that Pennsylvania had much to do with the fact that a man named Abraham Lincoln became President of the United States in 1861.

Of course, there is also the story, some of which we reviewed last year in our presentation of Lincoln's coming to Harrisburg, of the support which he received from Governor Andrew Gregg Curtin, the great war Governor of the period, and of the assurances which he received from the General Assembly of the full faith and credit of Pennsylvania back of Lincoln and the cause of the Union.

Certainly, no State played a more important part during the period of the Civil War in upholding the cause of union and in supporting Abraham Lincoln.

So much, for these few highlights in the lives of these two men and the relationship which they have to Pennsylvania.

Now, history, in my opinion, has little use unless it has lessons from which we can profit. This year, as possibly never before in recent years, because of the peculiar crises which America faces in its affairs, particularly abroad, people are asking anew the question about both Washington and Lincoln, What was it that made these men great? And they are also asking this question: What would Washington or Lincoln have done in the face of today's critical times? Well, I think there are some answers to both of those questions which can be drawn from the lives of these men and which should be a source of inspiration to all of us.

First among the elements which I think should be put down as a basis for the greatness of both Washington and Lincoln was that somewhat intangible thing which we frequently speak of as character. Washington and Lincoln were men of character. They were men who always impressed the men above them with their strong character. They were not men most contemporaries would take lightly. Somehow they conveyed a sense of strength; they conveyed a sense of deep and sincere beliefs, of a willingness to make personal sacrifices for the things in which they believed. They possessed great honesty; they possessed great integrity. They stood above the crowd of ordinary and average men in their time. They were not interested in self glory; they were not interested in an easy life because both of them gave the last full measure of devotion to their Country. Those are intangible things, but I think they are things which stamp men like Lincoln and Washington as men of character.

I think another thing which these two gentlemen have in common which made them great was a certain sense of deep religious feeling. Now, when I say that I say that they had deep religious feeling not possibly in the sense in which some ministers or priests would interpret that term. Lincoln himself, for example, was not a member, at least a good member of any established church, and I am afraid he was not very good at going to church. But, who can gainsay from reading the speeches and listening to the observations and reading letters of Abraham Lincoln that he was not one of the most devout and deeply religious persons who ever occupied the Presidency of the United States.

I think the same thing is true of George Washington. There is of course that legend of Washington's prayer at Valley Forge. We do not know and it cannot be proven whether Washington actually got down on his knees and prayed at Valley Forge; but if he did not do it physically, he certainly did it in his mind, because over and over again he was calling upon Divine Providence as the great guide to assist him in his deliberations and to see him through the trials and tribulations which confronted him.

I think the third element which I should like to call your attention to in this connection is the fact that both of these men were humble men, and they were tolerant men. I think the art of being humble, the art of being tolerant, are the most basic ingredients in the greatness of these two men as it undoubtedly is in the greatness of most men.

Washington at the end of the revolution—and I cite this as an example of his tolerance and his breadth of thinking, his humbleness—could very easily have been a king of the United States. There were plenty of people when the revolution ended, in view of the chaotic conditions which existed for some time thereafter, who said, "Well this business of a Democracy and a Republic is a lot of rubbish, we don't want that." Despite the fact that we voted against it, we would be better off if we had a king in this country. And George Washington was actually approached by people who suggested to him that he might well become perhaps George the First of this new Nation. Washington would have nothing whatsoever to do with that.

Now what would these men have done today if they could have met today's problems? That is purely a conjectural problem. No person can answer it in any other way than by measuring the temper and the character of these men against the type of problem, the type of crises, which confront this Country today.

I would say—and this is purely a personal judgment—that if we had George Washington or Abraham Lincoln with us today and they were faced with the same type of problems which face this Nation at the present time, judging from their character and from their lives, that they would have been men of what we might call moderation. I am sure that neither one of them would have had any sympathy at all for what is coming to be known as the "thunder on the right." They were not extreme conservatives. On the other hand, I am sure that you would not have found any of them guilty of being characterized as either pink or red. They were not radicals. Somewhere between the extreme of the right and the extreme of the left, the extreme of the arguments of their day, these two men found their way down the middle to accomplish their objectives, and I think you will find that this is exactly the same thing that these men would have been doing today. They would have taken a stand on these critical issues, but it would have been a stand in between these extremes. They would have been broadly tolerant of conflicting views as to the course of our Nation. They would have steered between tolerance and humility and sought a common course which would insure the protection of our rights on the international front and a policy of freedom and justice for all at home regardless of race, color, or religious faith. They would have worked hard to advance the ideals of human liberty which are inherent in the Declaration of Independence, and to insure that government of the people, by the people, for the people shall not perish from this earth.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Dr. Stevens, we thank you very kindly. I am sure all the members of the House have enjoyed immensely your presentation today regarding "Pennsylvania's Washington and Lincoln Heritage."

Dr. Stevens has asked to be excused because he must leave for another appointment. We thank him very kindly.

RESOLUTION

COMMEMORATION OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY

Mrs. S. A. ANDERSON offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and unanimously adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 13, 1962.

Yesterday, February 12, 1962, marked the one hundred and fifty-third anniversary of the birth of Abraham Lincoln.

Born in the mountains of Kentucky of poor pioneers he rose from a log cabin to a residence in the White House in Washington, D. C.

No other man in the history of our Country has ever better illustrated that equality of opportunity, which is our proud boast, nor the heights that are accessible to every youth; no one has ever so inspired those who followed him, and no one has ever been more worthy of emulation.

Of all that has been written of Abraham Lincoln, nothing better describes this "man who matched the mountains" than the words of Edwin Markham, in his poem on "Lincoln The Man of the People":

"The color of the ground was in him, the red earth
The tang and odor of the primal things—
The rectitude and patience of the rocks;
The gladness of the wind that shakes the corn;
The courage of the bird that dares the sea;
The justice of the rain that loves all leaves;
The pity of the snow that hides all sears;
The loving-kindness of the wayside well;
The Tolerance and equity of light."

Study and contemplation of the life of Lincoln, especially during the progress of the war that saved the Nation, cannot help but aid and guide us in the performance of our duties; therefore be it

Resolved, That we, as Members of this House, shall strive to follow the course that he blazed, that in our Legislative work we forget place, and power and preference, that we throw away envy and jealousy and petiness and that we emulate the courage and the rectitude and the justice and tolerance and equity that were his.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Members of the House, we have as the guests of the House today the Upper Darby Senior Choir under the direction of Dr. Dengler and its secretary, Eva A. Pantellas.

Mr. DENGLER. We are very honored that you are allowing us to come here today and sing for you. This is the Concert Choir of the Upper Darby High School, the school in which I teach when I do not legislate here, and we are dedicating this program today to our Speaker, the Honorable Hiram Andrews. We are making a record of it and after we have the recording made we are going to present him with this recording.

I hope you will enjoy our little program. It will take about 15 to 18 minutes, and we will start with "God Bless America."

A choral program was presented to the members under the direction of Mr. Dengler.

BIRTHDAYS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Members of the House, today's birthdays are those of the Honorable Joshua Eilberg, February 12, the Honorable Adam T. Bower, February 11, the Honorable Charles D. Heavey, February 10, and the Honorable James C. Simmons, February 13.

(Mr. Dengler led the assembly in singing "Happy Birthday")

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Ladies and gentlemen, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, Mr. Andrews.

ADDRESS BY THE SPEAKER

Mr. ANDREWS. Don't we all feel just a little cleaner, don't we all have a deeper appreciation of the beautiful things of life for having been washed by the strains of music that have actually changed the mood and temper of this House? In my opinion, civilization began when the first primitive mother first crooned to her newborn child, and civilization has been continued wherever men have learned to sing for the sheer joy of it. Because it is the noblest of our accomplishments, music can elevate just as the misuse of it can debase.

The sweetest poetry ever written has been enshrined in our songs. If we want to arouse men to valiant endeavor, we create a martial air. A nation marched to the strains of The Marseillaise. If we want to incite our people to patriotic endeavor we sing "God Bless America."

Music expresses every noble aspiration of the human heart, and I was glad to hear Dr. Dengler say that these young people, to whom we have been privileged to listen, appreciate good music, because they will be in the very forefront of the crusade to drive the music that debases from the air waves of our Nation.

We have had a magnificent demonstration of what can be done by and through music, with music by young people who not only have their heart in it, but the art of it as well.

In the name of music, in the name of a strengthened public, in the name of a purer life, I welcome these young people to this chamber. I thank them on the part of all the members of this House and hope they will come again.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Members of the House, that was the Concert Choir of the Upper Darby Senior High School, Upper Darby, Pennsylvania, under the direction of Dr. Dengler.

On behalf of the House of Representatives, of whom you were the guests here today, we thank you very kindly.

RESOLUTION

GREETINGS AND COMMENDATIONS ON PERPETUATING SPIRIT OF COOPERATION MADE TO PRESIDENT LINCOLN

Messrs. AUKER, MILLER and HOLLIDAY offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 13, 1962.

September 24, 1962 will mark the centennial anniversary of the Loyal War Governors' Conference at the Logan House in Altoona, Pennsylvania, where, during the original conference, thirteen northern Governors pledged united support to President Abraham Lincoln in the conduct of the Civil War.

The Blair County Pennsylvania Historical Society, in cooperation with the Altoona, Pennsylvania Chamber of Commerce, is sponsoring a commemorative celebration to be held in Altoona, Pennsylvania during 1962, with invitations to be extended to the Governors of the states represented at the original conference; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives extends its greetings and felicitations to the City of Altoona, Pennsylvania, on the occasion of the centennial anniversary of the Loyal War Governors' Conference to be commemorated in such city during 1962, and hereby commends the people of such city for their efforts in keeping alive the memory of the spirit of cooperation evidenced by the pledge of united support made to President Lincoln in 1862, which pledge of united support played an important part in the conduct of the Civil War, and be it further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to Honorable Robert F. Thompson, Mayor of the City of Altoona.

REPORT ON PENNSYLVANIA COLUMBUS DAY CELEBRATION PRESENTED

Mr. DOUGHERTY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to offer at this time a report by the Honorable Mary A. Varallo, a former member of this House and majority whip, who is reporting on the Pennsylvania Columbus Day celebration, and ask that it be incorporated in the record.

COLUMBUS DAY CELEBRATIONS
Report from
COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

STATE CHAIRMAN
HONORABLE MARY A. VARALLO

1961
COLUMBUS DAY REPORT

For the fifth successive year I had the honor and privilege of serving as State Chairman of Pennsylvania Columbus Day Celebrations, by appointment of Governor David L. Lawrence. During Governor George M. Leader's term of office he appointed me Chairman of Pennsylvania Columbus Day Celebrations, and it was a pleasure to have worked with him and his staff. I greatly appreciate the confidence of both Governors in re-appointing me each year to this most important Chairmanship.

Under the tireless and inspiring leadership of Governor Lawrence, a State-wide Columbus Day Program was again developed. I had at my disposal the use of every facility and help that the State could offer.

Under this genuine spirit of co-operation and guidance a great and enthusiastic interest was aroused. Governor Lawrence issued a State-wide proclamation in October 1961, commemorating Christopher Columbus and proclaiming October 12, 1961, as a State-wide holiday.

Contacts were made with every mayor in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Previous to the year 1961 there were only 100 mayors, and of the remaining communities the executors were known as "Burgess." Today, with an act of the legislature recently passed, the "Burgesses" were re-designated as "Mayors."

There are now close to 1000 mayors, and every one of them was contacted, and the message of Columbus Day including an actual reproduction of the Governor's Proclamation, and other suggestions such as a "Leader's Guide" gave them full information which Columbus Day Chairmen could use in formulating their programs.

This data was immediately dispatched to every radio, television station, and to the press which included large and small local and foreign language newspapers. The result of this planning was that Columbus Day Celebrations in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania received more publicity than ever before.

The response was most gratifying. Numerous calls and replies advising me as Chairman, of contemplated plans were received. Also copies of local proclamations and approaches to preliminary public relations for the observances were sent, apprising me of the plans being made in the various localities for the Columbus Day Celebrations.

Governor Lawrence's enthusiasm and interest remained throughout our program. The Governor made himself available for every activity in pursuance of our State Columbus Day Program.

I would certainly feel remiss if I were not to mention the splendid work and co-operation contributed by the Governor's Staff, Miss Isabelle Allias Executive Assistant to the Governor and Richard R. Haratine Press Secretary to the Governor.

Again a most gratifying aspect of this program was the tremendous success of an essay contest which the Columbus Day Committee sponsored and conducted.

The Department of Public Instruction of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania sent notices and details of the contest to public, private and parochial schools throughout the Commonwealth.

The principals of these schools were advised that the writers of the best essays on the subject "COLUMBUS DAY—A CHALLENGE TO AMERICAN YOUTH," would be awarded scholarships, typewriters and certificates of merit.

Notices on the essay contest were given excellent publicity by the Legislative Correspondents' Association (State Capitol Press Corps).

As Chairman, I want to express my personal appreciation and that of our Committee for the splendid co-operation of the Press throughout the State.

The contest resulted in a deluge of over three thousand five hundred entries creating a tremendous job of classification, grading and selection.

Much of this burdensome task was assumed by experts in the Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction.

My sincere thanks to Dr. Charles H. Boehm Superintendent of the Department of Public Instruction of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania who endorsed the contest by signing the letter which went to all school administrators; also to the following members of his staff: Dr. Harold F. Common Pleas Court No. 4 in Philadelphia and Grand Venerable of Pennsylvania Sons of Italy in America, who undertook the assignment of Chairman of the panel for the past four years was to officiate again. The praise and respect that we heard for Columbus this year was an exemplary demonstration of a civic consciousness, affording hope that the years ahead will bring even greater realization of the accomplishments of the Genoese Explorer, and appreciation of his legacy of inimitable courage and foresight.

I am most confident that Pennsylvania will continue to stimulate and support Columbus Day Celebrations. A successful start was made by former Governor Leader and successfully continued with the boundless encouragement of Governor Lawrence.

To the many Chairman, their Committees, representatives, civic groups, guest speakers and to all those who contributed in any measure, my deep gratitude. May I also extend my thanks to James J. Dougherty, Majority Whip, House of Representatives, who gave invaluable assistance through his office staff, co-ordinating the work of Columbus Day Activities. Without their interest and co-operation my task as Chairman would not have been as successful and rewarding.

May I thank all of you for your help and support, and for making it possible to write the above comprehensive report to Governor David L. Lawrence.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. YETTER, MULLEN, J. H. ANDERSON, WOOD, OGILVIE and POLEN. RESOLUTION No. 30.

In the House of Representatives, February 6, 1962.

The Federal Highway Law presently prohibits the construction or location of commercial establishments or facilities of any nature on the rights-of-way of the Interstate Highway System.

The purpose of this prohibition is highly commendable, as it is intended to protect the traveling public from dangers and distractions caused by such establishments and also to protect the scenic beauty of the countryside.

A minor exception to this provision in the Federal law, however, appears both desirable and necessary; that exception being authorization for the erection, at certain intervals, of public telephones.

The ready availablility of public telephones along these highways would make possible the immediate reporting of any accident or other emergency. Such telephones would also add greatly to the convenience of travelers and would not be unsightly; therefore be it

Ressolved, That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memorialize the Congress of the United States to make necessary amendments to the Federal Highway Law in order to permit the erection of public telephones within the rights-of-way of the Interstate Highway System; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the presiding officers of each house of the Congress of the United States and to each Senator and Representative from Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

REMARKS BY MINORITY LEADER

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I cannot help but observe that this is a trial run for the candidate for Lieutenant Governor of Pennsylvania. I think the gentleman has presided very well today and, on the eve of the slatemaking tomorrow, I think he has conducted himself very well and I think he will go in with a shoo-in.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. That sounded like a left-handed endorsement from the Republican Party.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Adams, Mr. Worley.

Mr. WORLEY. Mr. Speaker, before I adjourn this House, I want to state that there are eight fine constituents of mine from Adams County in the rear of the House.

INTERROGATION

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Filo.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, could you give us an idea of just what the coming weeks have in store for us? Are we going to be here next week for one day, two days or three days?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Members of the House, all the bills in this fiscal session in the House of Representatives have been completed. We are biding time waiting for communications from the Senate. It is my understanding that today all the bills came out of the Senate Appropriations Committee. I hope they shall all pass next week, and the following week this session shall come to sine die adjournment.

If that be the case, the schedule for the House will be tentatively one day, Monday, February 19th, awaiting action by the Senate.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. WORLEY. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Monday, February 19, 1962, at 3:30 p.m., e.s.t.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 5:14 p.m., e.s.t.) the House adjourned.

Let us pray.

O God, the Lord of power and the Giver of grace and wisdom, we commend to Thee all who are engaged in the government of this Commonwealth and particularly this Body, the Senate. Grant to us all restlessness of heart and make us seekers after that which can never fully be found. Draw us from base content and set our eyes on far-off goals. Open our minds to the needs of all men, and grant us patience with one another. Direct us, O Lord, in all our endeavors and further us with Thy most gracious favor and ready assistance that all our works may begin, continue and end with Thee.

May Thy Fatherly hand ever be over us and help us to lead men from strength to strength in the pursuit of life and liberty, all of which we ask in Thy name. Amen.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

HOUSE MESSAGE

HOUSE CONCURS IN SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, informed the Senate that the House has concurred in resolution from the Senate, entitled:

Weekly Adjournment

SENATE RESOLUTION

DIRECTING THE JOINT STATE GOVERNMENT COMMISSION TO STUDY CERTAIN ASPECTS OF PROJECT 70

Mr. FLACK offered the following resolution (Serial No. 18), which was read and referred to the Committee on Rules:

In the Senate, February 14, 1962.

A great deal of interest has been expressed in Governor Lawrence's Project 70, especially so in the northeast section of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. We have in this section some of the most beautiful landscapes within the State. The following is a partial record of the game lands in this section:

Luzerne County—32,782 acres, Columbia County—14,624 acres, Wyoming County—28,123 acres, Sullivan County—48,853 acres, Monroe County—32,722 acres, Schuylkill County—13,610 acres, Lackawanna County—4,307 acres.

Also within this section are four State parks having a total of 29,061 acres.

Governor Lawrence is requesting a grant of $70,000,000 for the purpose of furthering this so-called Project 70. It would further appear that the Commonwealth has nothing of the kind at the present time, but that is questionable and we certainly want to avoid duplication of effort; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Joint State Government Commission shall make a study of the existence of this problem in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the possible solutions which may be applied to eliminate it; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That the Joint State Government Commission, upon completing its study of this problem by July 1, 1962, shall request the Legislative Reference Bureau to draft the necessary legislation and by January 15, 1963 present to the General Assembly its findings, recommendations and a draft of the legislation that may be necessary to remedy the situation if duplication of effort appears.

BILL ON THIRD READING, OVER IN ORDER

SB 8—Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I request that Senate Bill No. 8, Printer's No. 23, go over in its order.

Mr. President, I would like to state at this time that we are going to work on this bill on Monday. At that time, the Senate will have to take action on it one way or another.

I am very happy that Senator Flack introduced his resolution in this regard. I think he will have an opportunity to vote on Senate Bill No. 8 before the Joint State Government Commission makes any more reports in regard to this matter. There have been a number of reports made on it and there is a great deal of material on it. If anybody wants any material or wants any discussion on it, if they will see me I will be glad to give them complete information.

Every Member of the Senate received a booklet which is known as Project 70. I did not notice this week, but I am sure the display is still in the Capitol rotunda regarding Project 70 and what it means. I am certain that the Members of the Senate are pretty well informed on this subject. If some of the gentlemen wish to talk to them about it before they vote or take action, I would respectfully suggest that they do so.

There are also members of the Department of Forests and Waters and people on the Planning Board who are well advised on this matter, and I believe if we would consult with them they should have all the necessary information. This is one of the first bills reported out of committee and I expect that we will take action on this matter on Monday.

Mr. FLACK. Mr. President, in answer to the gentleman from Philadelphia, I had nothing else in mind except to try and co-ordinate the Fish Commission, the Game Commission and also the Department of Forests and Waters.

We have had a beautiful program put on by the Department of Forests and Waters over a period of years in Pennsylvania, and it is being built up. I expect to vote for this bill on Second Reading and on Third Reading. However, I feel that we have the Game Commission, the Fish Commission and the Department of Forests and Waters which have bought ponds and lakes in the course of developing. I think there should be more co-operation between the three departments in order to spread out these recreational lands in Pennsylvania, particularly, might I say, in the Game Commission where we use them three or four months a year for certain game lands. Surely, there must be more recreational areas in which we could do that. However, it was simply to try to bring the three departments together in order to see whether they could work more closely on the development of our playgrounds and the recreational lands of Pennsylvania.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There being no objection, the bill will go over in its order.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, some weeks ago, Senator Kromer and I introduced a resolution relative to Curtiss-Wright in Quehanna. That resolution was referred to the Committee on Rules, and I do not think much has been done about it. I feel very strongly that this resolution should be reported from committee, and that a committee should be appointed to investigate this matter.

As I have said before, nobody wants to punish anybody. We do not want to punish the State for allowing the land to go to Curtiss-Wright, nor do we want to chastise Curtiss-Wright. Very frankly, Curtiss-Wright was a shot in the arm to the Clearfield area. They have helped the economy, I would say, to the extent of at least $50,000,000 or $60,000,000 while they were there.

However, each day I get letters from sportsmen and people in that area. We have spent some money up there for highways. Certainly, the people of Clearfield are happy about it because they would not have had the roads had it not been for Curtiss-Wright coming there. I think Senator Hays said something about it and read an editorial from one of the papers indicating that it has been good for the economy.

On the other hand, I think we ought to look into this and, if at all possible, perhaps help them to dispose of these holdings. Perhaps the State will take it over or it will be turned over to these sportsmen.

I would like to read a sample letter. This is a letter I received today from a boy from my area. He is not a boy, but is the secretary of a union back home. However, he is writing to me in that capacity. The letter reads as follows:

"Dear Senator:

"I am writing to you at this time as just a plain hunter and fisherman who agrees with you wholeheartedly on your stand concerning the land the State of Pennsylvania gave to the Curtiss-Wright Aircraft Company. I feel you are 100% correct in your position wherein you state the ground should either be used as it was intended to be used or it should be returned to the people of Pennsylvania.

"Many of my friends that owned camps on this property willingly gave them up because they felt that if it meant a steady job for some citizen, it would be a small sacrifice on their part. To have the ground used as it is now being used, that is as a private hunting and fishing ground for a select few,"—and I do not know whether this is true anymore; I understand they have opened up that area—"is a betrayal against the sportsmen and the citizens of the State of Pennsylvania.

"I hope you are successful in your fight to expose this situation and bring it to a just conclusion, and if I can help in any way I will only be glad to be of whatever assistance I can.

"With best wishes and kindest regards, I remain

"Yours truly,
"Robert Carpen,
"Rd D. #1, Box 144-C
"Leechburg, Pa."

Mr. President, I get letters from the Clearfield area and I get letters from my area because many of the sportsmen had camps there for many, many years. However, I am sure that those people do not care about that ground if those buildings are going to be utilized.

Never throughout the entire procedure since 1955 has the place employed more than 1,000 people. I think 1,100 would be the very highest figure. When we sold the ground to them, we were made to understand that 7,000 or 8,000 people would be employed.

I want to commend Governor Lawrence. I think he has tried to do something with the Federal Government by trying to get some contracts for Curtiss-Wright. However, nothing has happened, and I do feel that this committee should be appointed to find out and make an honest effort to report—not only to the Legislature but to the people of Pennsylvania—the facts as they presently are.

I heard just the other day—and I do not know how true this is—that many of the young engineers who were given $5,000 to $6,000 bonuses to leave their places of employment to come to work for Curtiss-Wright in Quehanna bought homes that Curtiss-Wright built. I just heard the other day that Curtiss-Wright has relieved these people of that mortgage, and paid off the mortgage with the exception of the down payment which usually was the $5,000 or $6,000 bonus which they gave these men to come there.

These points and many other things must be considered. It is not fair, I do not think, to the industry because sometimes it may imply that we are getting tough on industry. That certainly is not our purpose. What we want to do is help Curtiss-Wright, we want to help that area, and we want to help the sportsmen. What we want to do is try to get the facts.

The reason I am bringing this up today is that next week I am going to have to ask for a leave of absence. I will not be here. I would like to get the attention of the Majority Leader and I hope that sometime next week he can get the Rules Committee together and perhaps report this resolution from committee.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Joseph D. Ripp) in the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Senator Mahady having relinquished the Chair to Senator Ripp, the Chair now recognizes the gentleman from Westmoreland, Senator Mahady.

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, I think for the benefit of Senator Pechan, there should be a few remarks placed upon the record. Senator Pechan does not distinguish between the purchased area and the leased area. The greatest area that Curtiss-Wright has is the leased area under the ninety-nine year lease. This was formerly open to hunters and fishermen, until they started their restricted work under the government. However, since that work has decreased, Curtiss-Wright has opened great portions of the ninety-nine year leased area to hunting and fishing.

I have received a number of inquiries—just as Senator Pechan did—by letter, by phone and by personal contact with the sportsmen. However, in the past six months, in checking on these inquiries that were made, I was informed that certain areas are open. It is true that they are patrolled areas. They are supervised areas. There is nothing wrong with a supervised area for hunting as contrasted to one that is not supervised. If a man wants to go in there and commit wanton destruction and act like he feels, as he did when the State owned it, that is one question.

I have been informed that it has been opened, and each person I have informed has gone up there to hunt and fish. That is on the leased area alone. On the area that was sold, I agree with Senator Pechan to the extent that efforts should be made. I also say to him that my check reveals that efforts are being made and they are constantly attempting to have this done.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, yesterday, I secured, from somebody who should know, the telephone number of somebody who we all know at Curtiss-Wright in Washington. I wanted him to obtain some facts. However, I found that the gentleman had gone to San Francisco. The fact that I will not be here next week is the reason I brought it to the attention of the Senate today.

As Senator Mahady said, he has checked into some of these things. However, there are so many rumors and I thought that perhaps this committee could obtain the facts at a one-day hearing. As I said, I will be very happy, if I am appointed to that committee, to serve for free. However, I think we should consolidate all of our facts and make a presentation to the Members of the Legislature and to the people of the Commonwealth.

I just want to read one small statement, for instance, which the Secretary of Highways, Park Martin, made some time ago. It reads as follows:

> "Highway Secretary Park H. Martin said yesterday that 'the rumor' "—I do not mean "yesterday" being February 13 since this article is from a newspaper which was written some time last year
> " 'of what's happening up there create enough uncertainty for us to proceed with caution' regarding construction of another three-mile access link.
> "However, Martin agreed that 'we'll have to do something about it' in view of prior commitments."

It has the entire area up there in a mix-up. I think we should sit down and consolidate our facts and make a presentation on a nonpartisan basis. This is not a partisan matter. I am hoping that some other industry will buy it and employ a couple of thousand people. During the discussion regarding strip mining, we were told how severe unemployment is in the Clearfield area. This certainly would be a shot in the arm if we could get our facts together and make a real presentation.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Paul W. Mahady) in the Chair.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, some days ago,—I believe it was January 25, 1962—together with seventeen other Senators, I co-sponsored and introduced a bill to restore to the merchants their two per cent collection fee of the sales tax. During the debate, which debate should not have occurred but did, reference was made to the fact that the merchants should be happy to perform the service free of charge. It was stated that this was similar to collecting other taxes such as social security, unemployment and the withholding tax.

I would like to call the attention of the Senate to some of the duties imposed by the Commonwealth on the merchants. I have in my possession Bulletin No. 502-A of the Department of Revenue, entitled "Rules and Regulations." Gentlemen, it is many pages in length and this is only one section. I would like to remind the Senators about some of the things which a merchant has to do when he collects this sales tax. I am convinced that we are being unfair to the merchants of Pennsylvania to impose on them the duty of collecting the tax without reimbursing them for the tremendous amount of work they must perform with respect to the collection.

There is a section on page 4 of this change in regulations which says, with respect to sales, the following:

> "Records must be maintained for each store or other outlet showing gross sales made on each day during each tax reporting period, with the totals divided as to cash sales and credit sales."

Then further in these regulations,—and I am going to summarize them rather than read them—there is a regulation that there be a memorandum kept of every single sale; that a memorandum be kept of every single sale which is exempt and every one which is taxable. The regulations of the Department of Revenue are very detailed as to what these merchants have to keep. Gentlemen, this is a very hard duty on the merchants. I believe that this Chamber, if they cannot find relief for the marchants in this Session,—and I believe they can find relief for the merchants in this Session—should give very serious consideration to reimbursing these 200,000 people of our Commonwealth for what they are doing as free tax collectors for the Commonwealth.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I am delighted that this gentleman has come around to the problem as we spoke about it back in 1953. If he will go back and refer to the Journal, he will find that this is the very thing we were telling the Members on the other side at that time when they were enacting the sales tax. This is a difficult tax to collect. It was also a difficult tax to impose upon the people. However, that seemed to be the only type of tax they could pass.

I do not want to go back over ancient history, but at that time it was somewhat similar to an election year like this one. They were trying to get out of a dilemma in which they had found themselves, thereby coming up with this sales tax. Who imposed this tax on the marchants to begin with? Who made it difficult for them to collect it? Who continued to cause this problem which we are now facing? We have discussed this many times and have gone over this very some ground. I can well understand Senator Bell's concern for the merchant. I have the same concern for him. I realize that he is loaded down with all kinds of taxes to collect and all kinds of regulations. This is one of the penalties a man has for being in business. However, this is part of the free enterprise system.

I believe, if the Senator will go back and say that he does not want a sales tax and that he will sponsor some other sort of tax, I will be delighted to join with him as other people will, if he will get the votes to raise it. As a matter of fact, we did go into another area of taxation during the last Session and found great reluctance for anybody to move in that direction, even for the area of education. Therefore, when many of the Members on the other side find themselves in the area where their schools are being hurt and where they are finding that they are not doing the kind of job that should be done, because of their reluctance to vote for these taxes, they are complaining. I do not blame them for complaining; it is justified. However, they should put the complaint where it belongs, under the thumb of the people who did not do what they were supposed to do at the time when this matter was before us.

I agree with you that the merchant is hurt. I also agree that it is a harsh thing for him to do. However, bear in mind that no one said that he was happy or that he should be happy. I do not think you will find that anywhere in the record. You will find, however, that we did say at that time that the merchant does collect social security, collects unemployment compensation, collects workmen's compensation and collects all these other things which have grown up over the years in order to protect people who work for a living. Nobody ever pays him for that. He receives no payment at all. He must keep accurate records on those items. He must not only keep the man's name, but his social security number, the date he started working and how long he works during each quarter. If he does not pay it on time, there is a penalty imposed on him, plus interest on top of that. These are the things which are a part of keeping records and a part of doing business. The larger the business is, the greater the complexity.

There used to be a time when a man could make out his own income tax report. That day is past. There is not a businessman alive today who does not consult either an accountant or somebody else who is skilled in this field. We have arrived at the age of specialization. This is a hardship on any wage earner or anybody who operates a small business because he must pay an accountant to prepare these forms for him. This is an extra business expense. He is harassed by the Federal Government if he does not keep accurate records. If he claims too much as an expense item, they will come back and assess him. However, this is all a part of doing business and all a part of living in a democracy, where you must raise money in order to take care of certain problems. They have gone on at great length in their letters to me to point out that there will be a surplus next year. I write back and tell them, as businessmen, that if they have a surplus, it will be used next year to balance the budget.

The gentleman from Delaware voted for all these programs and he knows that certain programs are mandated. As each year goes by, this increase continues and will continue. The money must come from some place. He and I realize that in the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the Governor cannot spend one penny unless he has another one coming in. He is not permitted to do it. If he does do it, it is unconstitutional. The Democratic Administration and the Governor have tried, in balancing the budget, to say: "I am not going to sign these bills unless I have the revenue to do so." He said that last Session. This is what has been going on ever since.

I share the gentleman's concern for the merchant and I wish I could do something to help in this situation. However, this is not a problem of our making. This is a problem of your making. It has persisted with us and we have to live with it. We cannot get people to be realistic and look at this tax picture in a realistic fashion and do a real job—the kind which needs doing— with our whole tax structure. Every year, all the institutions come in and ask for more money, whether they be hospitals or schools. All of us want to do something to help them. If the gentleman will tell me of somewhere else we can get this money, I will be delighted to join with him in remitting this tax.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, frankly, I am amazed at the Majority Leader's statement. He blames the Republicans for the sales tax and he blames the Republicans for everything. Does this mean that the position of the Gentleman's Party is that they want a State wage tax?

Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Weiner.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Phiadelphia, Mr. Weiner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEINER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, does the Majority Leader, by the statement he just put in the record, indicate that it is the position of his Party—the Democratic Party—that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania should have a State wage tax?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, if the gentleman will tell me when or where I made that statement which he attributes to me, I will be happy to ownup to it. I never said that we should have a sales tax, a wage tax, an income tax or any other kind of a tax. If I wanted to say that, I would have said it on my own and not under interrogation. I will be very happy to stand up and take a position, which I have always done in this Senate. However, at no time have I ever said that. If that is the gentleman's position and he is interested in that, I think he should present it to us and we will be delighted to discuss it here.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, that is not my position. Perhaps, I should rephrase the question.

Mr. President, does the Majority Leader, on behalf of the Democratic Party, agree that the Party and the Administration which is in power has the responsibility to place to the people of Pennsylvania a tax program?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, not only is that our position, but we have faced up to that position and have presented our programs. As a matter of fact, if the gentleman will go back into the record, he will find that we not only faced up to the programs and presented them here, but we stated that if they did not like our programs, they should present their programs and we would work on that. That was never done during the last Session or any Session previous to that.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, will the Majority Leader, on behalf of the Democratic Party, state, if the Democratic Party is not satisfied with the sales tax, what type of tax program they are in favor of?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would be delighted to discuss this subject with the gentleman. However, we have been living with the sales tax. As the gentleman knows, I cannot pass any bill in this Senate unless I get one vote from the Republican side. Therefore, I am afraid the gentlemen will have to tell me what bill they will give me a vote for and I will be glad to tell them what programs I am interested in. For me to put out programs and for them to vote them down, or give me no votes, is a waste of my time. I certainly do not want to waste the time of this Senate.

Mr. BELL. Thank you, Senator Weiner.

Mr. President, I regret very much that the gentleman from Philadelphia did not tell us what his Party's alternate to the sales tax would be. In the Legislative Journal, which will show today's remarks, he has condemned the sales tax. However, he has not come up and given us an alternate tax program which would meet the fiscal requirements of the Commonwealth, even though for seven years—and this is the eighth—his Party has been spending the money. I regret that this subject, which does not at all pertain to my original remarks, came into the conversation.

Last summer, Mr. President, the Democratic Party took away from the merchants payments which they had been enjoying for some six years; namely, the two per cent sales tax collection fee. The duties which have been imposed on these merchants by the Commonwealth have been onerous.

I am also going to look into another subject. I did not want to bring this up at this point, but these same regulations, which became effective January 1, 1960, state on the face of the regulations that they were filed August 22, 1960. In other words, almost eight months after they were effective, these regulations were filed. I am not prepared to state what that word "filed" means. However, I have run into other regulations on Capitol Hill during the past year which became effective months before they were ever distributed to the public. I am running down a situation where, in the same bureau, regulations became effective months before they were distributed to the public. I am trying to ascertain whether that is the case here. That, also, is not along the same subject of the harassment of our merchants.

When the merchants are working for the Commonwealth, doing hours and hours and hours of work, and have thousands and hundreds of thousands of transactions which they have to keep memoranda on, it is far different from collecting wage taxes and social security taxes from a few employees or even hundreds of employees. If you have hundreds of employees who are selling, you have to make millions of entries and memoranda to collect the tax for the Commonwealth. Again, gentlemen, I say it is unfair.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I believe the gentleman has made an error in stating what my conclusions were. To correct this error, I want to state what my own conclusions are and not what the gentleman thinks they are.

I have not condemned the sales tax. All I have stated, as I have stated many times on this floor, is that it is a difficult tax to collect and a difficult tax to impose. Those are the reasons they are having this problem with it.

I also want to point out to the gentleman that these regulations—because it is a difficult tax and because it is difficult to put into language exactly what you want to do, and that is one of the reasons it becomes a difficult tax—are one of the problems that you are having. There is a problem of getting the regulations into the language people can understand so that there will not be the problem of semantics whereby people can say: "Did you mean so-and-so or did you mean something else?"

One other point I would like to add is that any big merchant or any big store records every sale they make. Therefore, all they need do is merely set down every sale and the amount of tax paid. This is a burden and it is a problem. However, I know of no other way to continue to have the sales tax than to collect this money.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, I feel that Senator Weiner has amply answered the problem raised by Senator Bell.

I am just going to take a brief moment to say to Senator Bell that he raised this question about two weeks ago and, at that time, we told him that the $8,000,000 that he is trying to take out of the budget now is included in the 1962-1963 budget, and if we pass this bill—as justifiable as he might think it is—we will have to find another area from which to raise this $8,000,000. We do not want to depend on a prognostication of increased revenues, because that can be too misleading.

I want to call to Senator Bell's attention the fact that the cry and argument of the Republican Party for years has been a balanced budget. Governor Lawrence has succeeded in doing something that had not been done for fourteen years, and that is give the people of Pennsylvania a balanced budget. Unless Senator Bell can suggest an area of taxation where we can replace this $8,000,000, we would have to knock down some of the appropriations that we have made in order to balance the budget.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, this again is repeating what was said on the floor two weeks ago. I am not satisfied that the revenue estimates used by the Administration are accurate. I believe they were based on experience factors. They were gathered together prior to a report that reached our desks last week which showed for the month of January an increased corporate net income return to the Commonwealth of approximately fifty-some per cent over what the estimates were.

We are today experiencing tax incomes that are going along with the increased Federal spending and the increased business activity that resulted from the limited national emergency which was declared July 25, 1961 by the President. Our sales tax, corporate net income tax, and other taxes are taxes that are closely tied in to the business economy. Every indication is that the business atmosphere in the State of Pennsylvania during the next year—and this year starts not now, but it starts in the summer—is going to be far healthier than the experience factors which apparently were used for the revenue estimates. I believe it should be proper to forecast the revenue estimates based on this factor.

I said this last August, and the Majority Party said I was wrong. I said it two weeks ago and they said I was wrong. Yet regarding that report which reached our desks last week or the increased income, especially from the corporate net income tax, let me remind you, gentlemen, that that income return did not reflect the greatly increased sales and profits made in December, 1961. That will come in during the next few months.

Therefore, I urge the Majority Party to re-estimate what revenues are coming in that could give relief to the 200,000 merchants of Pennsylvania.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, may I add to what I said before that we have requests today—and legitimate requests—for more money for public education. May I call to Senator Bell's attention that House Bill No. 51, which passed Second Reading today, contains an amendment and a provision that if our estimates of revenue are incorrect and we receive more moneys than anticipated, then the excess of revenue under this amendment is to be distributed amongst all—and not just a number of the school districts—of the school districts of Pennsylvania in accordance with the fraction presently in use.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, last Session I think I took the floor several times with reference, I believe, to House Bill No. 95, which would take away from the merchant the two per cent commission that he was receiving for collecting the tax. I felt very strongly then that that commission should not be taken away from them. I feel just as strongly, and perhaps more so now.

As I said, many of the investigators from the sales tax bureau were going to these very small stores and telling the merchants that they should buy a certain type of cash register so that they could have a better check on the amount of sales tax that the merchants collected. Many of these people went out and spent $1,000 to $1,500 for a new cash register on the pretext, or the promise or the premise that they were going to continue to receive this two per cent. Better than that, when the law was passed, we promised the merchant two per cent if he would go out and co-operate and help us to collect this sales tax.

Mind you, at that time the Republicans—I do not want to and I am not going to say it. I am not going to say it because somebody will accuse me of injecting politics into it, and this is not the day for Pechan. However, I do want to say, very frankly, that when the tax was just one-half of one per cent, we promised that merchant a two per cent commission on the collection of those taxes.

What we are doing is driving the little businessman out of business. As Senator Weiner has said, he has to collect the unemployment compensation tax,—if he is a small businessman, he does not have much unemployment to collect—and he has to collect the social security tax and so forth. We are so stifling the little fellow that he has to get out of business.

Somebody awhile ago mentioned that we are going to have a surplus of $9,000,000. The figure was not mentioned, but it has been bandied around. I want to say that in my own home, if I have a surplus or my wife does not spend all of her budget, that does not mean that she is going to go out and buy a new coat or a new dress that she does not need. We use that money to help pay off the car by making two payments instead of one. Therefore, just because we have a $9,000,000 surplus does not mean that we are going to have to go out and spend it.

I want to say that I do not think we have kept good faith with the small business people by taking away from them the two per cent commission which they received for collection.

I know that Senator Mallery, during the last Session, mentioned one department store in his area and stated that it cost them $10,000 to collect the sales tax for the State of Pennsylvania. I do not think it is fair. Not only is it not fair, but we are not keeping our promises, because when we passed the sales tax provision with our revenue measures, we promised those people that we were going to pay them two per cent.

The same thing goes, my friends, over in the Department of Public Instruction. They went out and told all of these school districts: "Close those one-room schools down and we are going to give you a $200 bonus." Those budgets were predicated on the income that the State was going to give these districts for closing down these schools. Now that these districts have accomplished these consolidations, we want to take that away from them. Consequently, that means they are going to have to raise more money at home, and it is creating quite a problem.

I am saying no more about it. I am through for the day.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, it has been called to my attention that the bill which makes provision for all revenues in excess of estimates to go to education is House Bill No. 1, which is on Third Reading. I said it was House Bill No. 51. I wish to correct the record. It is House Bill No. 1.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The record will be so corrected.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I have listened very attentively to all of the debate here, and it seems to me that the Republican Party on the other side is crying crocodile tears to start with, because you only have so much of a melon to slice. We know that over in the House, there was a lot of hullabaloo about Public Instruction and public education.

Mr. President, we have in House Bill No. 1 an amendment which I think is very meritorious. If we are to reimburse the merchants with the two per cent commission, we will be taking moneys away—if there is a surplus and for the sake of argument, let us assume that there might be a surplus—from education by so taking the position that the merchants should be reimbursed by two per cent for the collection of the sales tax here in Pennsylvania.

I am not opposed to the merchants not having the two per cent commission. However, I do not believe at this particular time that we should work both sides of the street. The Members of the Senate should not work both sides of the street on this subject. I can agree with the Department of Public Instruction and I can agree with the local school directors that there is a crying need for additional funds for public education. I, for one, am disappointed that we do not have the money at this particular time.

If we are going to have any excess funds to use, I, for one, take the position that it should go for public education. I feel that probably quite a number of the Members on the Republican side feel the same way.

I was quite reluctant to go along and take the commission away from the merchants, because they do have a responsibility. I live with those people in my area who are in business, and I know their problems. I know it costs them money. There is no argument about that. However, if we are to decide between the merchants and their two per cent commission and public education, I feel sure that the Membership here will agree that it should go for the education of our children.

HB 11 (Pr. No. 119)—Read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Messrs. CONFAIR, KELLER, TAYLOR, STEVENSON and STROUP, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendment:

> Amend Sec. 1, page 2, lines 1 and 2, by striking out "four million fifty-eight thousand thirty-eight dollars ($4,058,038)" and inserting: six million eight hundred thousand dollars ($6,800,000)

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. CONFAIR. Mr. President, I would like to amend House Bill No. 11 and I would also like to say a few words regarding the amendment.

Mr. President, when this legislation was originally passed, the understanding was that the communities, under the Clean Streams Program, would receive two per cent each year from the Commonwealth. However, in the last several years, it has been reduced to 1.19 per cent. The bill which is before us today gives 1.19 per cent. The sponsors of this amendment and I feel that it is only fair that the people who come under the Clean Streams Act, and who put in the utilities which were necessary, should receive the two per cent from the Commonwealth of Pensylvania.

These different communities have spent $258,000,000, compared with Pennsylvania's only $16,000,000 and the Federal Government spending $11,600,000.

This amendment would restore the amount up to two percent, which I believe the communities should have. I think we have double crossed the communities by having them put in these installations, thinking they were going to receive two percent and then the State turns around and only gives them 1.19 percent.

Therefore, Mr. President, I hope the Members of the Senate sanction this amendment, which will return the two percent to the communities.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Northumberland, Senator Confair.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Northumberland, Mr. Confair, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CONFAIR. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, will the gentleman please advise us what year the Commonwealth paid two percent under this program?

Mr. CONFAIR. It says in the bill up to two percent, when it went through originally.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, would the gentleman please advise us as to what year the Commonwealth paid two percent to any community which qualified under this program?

Mr. CONFAIR. Mr. President, I understand that they have never been paid two percent. That is all the more reason why we should give them the two percent at this time.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, does the gentleman know what the highest amount is that the State has ever paid under this program?

Mr. CONFAIR. No, I do not.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I want to advise the gentleman that the Commonwealth paid 1.26 per cent and has been paying that amount. However, recently, because of the greater number of communities which have come under this program, we have had to lower the amount to 1.19 percent. I believe the gentleman has read in the leaflet which he has that the Commonwealth is paying this amount in order to cover everyone in it.

I would like to further ask the gentleman whether he has any idea of how much he is raising the budget in order to accomplish the purpose for which he has introduced this amendment.

Mr. CONFAIR. I think it is about $2,000,000.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, would the gentleman please advise us where we are going to get this $2,000,000 in order to pay for this program?

Mr. CONFAIR. Out of the surplus, Mr. President.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, will the gentleman tell us what surplus?

Mr. CONFAIR. Mr. President, the $9,000,000 surplus you expect.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, will the gentleman please advise us what surplus he is talking about and where this surplus is going to come from?

Mr. CONFAIR. From increased revenues, Mr. President.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, will the gentleman please advise us, if we are getting this alleged surplus,—and let us assume for the moment, from this discussion, that it does exist—how does he intend to balance the budget next year?

Mr. CONFAIR. I am talking about this particular bill, Mr. President, which the people deserve right now. I am not worried about balancing the budget next year. I think these people need this money and they should have it.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I have been trying to keep this discussion at a level where we will discuss just the budget at the moment, rather than making campaign promises and election results.

I merely want the gentleman to tell me, if we take this surplus that we have, which we will use next year to balance the budget, where is he going to make up this $2,000,000 difference?

Mr. CONFAIR. Mr. President, I believe there is enough money in the budget for it. That is what I believe right now and that is the reason why I proposed the amendment.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I wish to thank the gentleman.

Mr. President and Members of the Senate, the original bill, which is now before us, has $4,058,030 in it. The proposal made by this gentleman is $6,800,000. If you will look at that very carefully, even the way I do arithmetic, it amounts to close to $2,700,000. Therefore, we are not talking about $2,000,000, but we are talking about close to $3,000,000. I do not see how we can have that and still balance the budget. I believe the gentleman knows the meaning of fiscal responsibility and what we are trying to accomplish by this. I believe he will also note, if he looks into this matter, that the Commonwealth has never paid two percent. The highest we have ever paid is 1.26 percent and we have been paying 1.19 percent up to this point. If this amendment is put in, I will assure the gentleman that there will be no way of passing this measure or getting it through. This will throw the budget out by almost $3,000,000.

I want to also inform the gentleman that I will insist that the Members of the House take this measure up. If you want to kill this program and feel that this is not the kind of program we should have, that is another story. This may be a good way of doing it. I do not know.

I also want to point out to the gentleman that he is raising the amount of money, which was put in the budget originally by the Governor for this program, by fifty percent. You started off with $4,000,000 and the gentleman is raising it to $6,800,000. I think that is a pretty sizeable increase for any program.

Therefore, Mr. President, I ask my colleagues to vote "no" on this amendment.

Mr. CONFAIR. Mr. President, I desire to have a roll call on the amendment.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. CONFAIR and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—25

GUESTS OF SENATOR JOHN T. VAN SANT PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, we have here in the halls of the Senate today a distinguished visitor from The Netherlands. She is Miss Truus Prins, who is here on a United Nations Fellowship with the National Bureau of Child Welfare, studying how our child welfare organization functions. Miss Prins is in Harrisburg today and tomorrow in connection with the meeting of the Governor's Committee on Children and Youth.

It is my pleasure to present to you Miss Truus Prins, of The Netherlands.

The PRESIDENT. Certainly, the Senate welcomes you very happily. We hope that you will get the information that you want, and enjoy your visit to this Country.

THIRD READING CALENDAR

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

SB 8 (Pr. No. 23)—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, it seems to me that the purposes of Senate Bill No. 8 are most worthy. However, I have to take exception to the method of financing this proposal.

Last week, in this Senate Chamber, under the able leadership of Senator Stiefel, supported by Senator Hawbaker, we had a celebration in memory of Abraham Lincoln. I would just like to read from some of Lincoln's experiences in the General Assembly of Illinois, when he was a Representative there:

> "The Legislature, of which Mr. Lincoln thus became a member, was one that will never be forgotten in Illinois. Its legislation in aid of the so-called internal improvement system was significantly reckless and unwise. The gigantic and stupendous operations of the scheme dazzled the eyes of nearly everybody, but in the end it rolled up a debt so enormous as to impede the otherwise marvelous progress of Illinois. The burdens imposed by this Legislature under the guise of improvements became so monumental in size it is little wonder that at intervals for years thereafter the monster of repudiation often showed its hideous face above the waves of popular indignation."

This system of internal improvements provided for:

> ". . . a gridiron of railroads. The extreme points of the State, east and west, north and south, were to be brought together by thirteen hundred miles of iron rails. Every river and stream of the least importance was to be widened, deepened, and made navigable. A canal to connect the Illinois River and Lake Michigan was to be dug, and thus the great system was to be made 'commensurate with the wants of the people.' To effect all these great ends, a loan of twelve million dollars"—parenthetically, that was a large sum of money in those days—"was authorized before the session closed. Work on all these gigantic enterprises was to begin at the earliest practicable moment; cities were to spring up everywhere; capital from abroad was to come pouring in; attracted by the glowing reports of marvelous progress and great internal wealth, people were to come swarming in by colonies, until in the end Illinois was to outstrip all the others and herself become the Empire State of the Union."

Ten years later, the Governor, at that time Thomas Ford, wrote in his memoirs something that I think is significant to the Members of this body. He said:

> "The means used in the Legislature to pass the system deserve some notice for the instruction of posterity. First, a large portion of the people were interested in the success of the canal, which was threatened if other sections of the State were denied the improvements demanded by them; and, thus, the friends of the canal were forced to logroll for that work by supporting others which were to be ruinous to the country. Roads and improvements were proposed everywhere to enlist every section of the State."

I am skipping a great deal here, Mr. President. However, I am just trying to pick out the significant points.

Lincoln was called down to Vandalia—then the seat of government for Illinois—in the summer of 1837 by a Special Session of the Legislature. The magnificent schemes of the foregoing winter required some repairing. The system had utterly failed. There was nothing to do but repeal it and stop work upon the visionary roads, and endeavor to invent some means of paying the enormous debt.

So it goes. That was Lincoln's experience with a system of internal improvements. The resemblance to Project 70 is very similar to that proposal.

I have here a map which I found on my desk this afternoon, showing the Congressional Districts of Pennsylvania. This map of the Commonwealth is just about ten inches across, and what I like to call the creeping shadow of the Commonwealth can be evidenced if you draw a line vertically one inch from the western boundary of Pennsylvania. That represents approximately the amount of State-owned land today by the Department of Forests and Waters and the Fish and Game Commission. Twenty years ago, that represented probably three per cent of the area. Each year, as we meet here in Session, it seems to me this shadow—this line—is growing larger and larger, and spreading more and more across the State.

In his report on Project 70, the Governor himself admits, on page 45 of the printed booklet, that the acreage now owned in some of the counties which will not be affected by this bill amounts to over 2,000,000 acres. If you prorate that acreage, you net a total of over 3,000,000 acres already owned for recreational purposes. That does not include the State's holdings for its various office buildings, its State Colleges, or its other State institutions and hospitals.

One difficulty, it seems to me, on this bill, is that this shadow of the Commonwealth is going to keep creeping. The increasing proportion of the land owned by the Commonwealth and taken away from productive purposes or tax means is going to be alarming as this proposal progresses and goes into effect. I think we should keep this in mind. The enabling legislation, if this amendment to the Constitution should pass, will require, I am sure, the obtaining of land by the Commonwealth through the means of eminent domain, which means that the desires of individual property owners are simply thrust aside for the so-called benefit of all.

The other thing that disturbs me, Mr. President, is the mounting debt in the Commonwealth. Let me preface these figures by this statement: That the debt of the Commonwealth is a claim on every individual piece of private property above and beyond the due process of authorized taxation. Debt is just like an unpaid tax bill. The larger the debt, the less real equity the individuals have in what is thought to be private property.

Too many of us do not realize that we think we have paid off our property when we clean off the mortgage. However, that is not true so long as the Commonwealth has debts which can be charged, and which are holdings against individual private property.

I would just like to give some figures, if I may. The actual full face and credit bonds outstanding of the Commonwealth, as of the end of 1961, were $321,000,000. In addition to that, we had G.S.A. Bonds outstanding of $371,096,000, with an additional four hundred thirty-nine million and some hundred thousand dollars authorized. The Highway and Bridge Authority had $70,809,000 of bonded indebtedness outstanding, with another $300,000,000 authorized by this last Session of the General Assembly. The Pennsylvania Turnpike indebtedness—from funds which are to be paid, of course, by tolls but which may, depending on developments, become the obligation of the Commonwealth—amounts to $371,300,000. The Pennsylvania State School Building Authority—again, not a full face and credit bond, but still a moral obligation of the Commonwealth—amounts to $276,839,000. This totals up to $1,411,044,000. However, it does not include the debts of the local school authorities, which the Commonwealth, under law, is obligated to pay in certain proportions, depending on their reimbursement fraction. The gross cost of these school projects up to date in borrowed money is one billion, five hundred sixty-three million and some odd hundred thousand dollars, and the anticipated increase for 1962-1963 is expected to be another $100,000,000 making the total of gross cost anticipated reimbursable during 1962-1963, $1,653,000,000.

If you add those figures to the $1,400,000,000, which I cited before, you get a total of about $3,000,000,000 of debt, not all of which, I admit, are direct full face and credit bonds, but all of which the Commonwealth is morally obliged to pay for.

It seems to me that the provisions of this bill permit a little bit of skulduggery also. If the Commonwealth is going to be able to take land in these various areas by eminent domain, there is a great possibility that the land taken could be that of a favored few who own property in certain areas and they would receive fairly good prices for property which otherwise might not bring too much.

The Governor says that Project 70 will require prudent expenditures at all levels of government. To me, this spells taxes and more taxes. The Federal Parks and many of the reservoirs will be financed by Congress through regular appropriations. Congress does not have any money to spend, unless it takes it away from us first. Local programs must be paid out of community funds. That is more taxes. At the State level, two kinds of expenditures are called for. That is more taxes again. Development costs are going to come out of the capital budget.

Just today, we passed finally House Bill No. 51, which provides almost $1,000,000—between $800,000 and $1,000,000—for capital improvements in our State Parks.

I am going to vote against this bill, even though I realize that more green areas around the urbanized districts may be desirable. I am going to vote against it because I do not believe the Commonwealth should go further in debt, especially for recreational purposes. We are going to increase our annual costs, not only for debt service but for development and capital costs, and we are going to have maintenance costs piled on top of these other costs, because you cannot expect these so-called green areas or recreational areas to run themselves.

I doubt very much the claim of the Governor that this so-called Project will bring new industry into Pennsylvania. He says that it is going to provide jobs. I cannot see any jobs being provided beyond those to prepare the parks themselves or the areas themselves. Industry is not going to come into Pennsylvania just because we have nice parks and facilities for recreation. There are many more important things that industry looks at first before it will consider that.

This bill, to me, is another move toward statism, where sooner or later all of the land of the Commonwealth is going to be owned by the Commonwealth, and none left for private individuals.

I am sorry I feel that I cannot support this legislation. I would like to see local efforts develop these green areas if and when they are required, and not depend on the Commonwealth and the Federal Government to do it for us.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, the gentleman's position, if followed through to its logical conclusion, would leave us, in Pennsylvania and in many other areas, waiting until we actually had the funds to do all the things which have been done in Pennsylvania. I believe the gentleman will agree with me—having earned his livelihood in the business world—and remembers occasions when the most judiciously run corporations went into debt, thereby creating assets. In other words, no one in this Country, unless he used extreme wisdom in choosing his parents and was left a lot of money, could ever buy a home, a car or even tools with which to do his work, unless he created some debt. As a matter of fact, our bookkeeping systems are set up on debits and credits. Anything you ever buy becomes not only a debit, but a credit because it must be worth something or else you would not obtain it in the first instance.

We, in Pennsylvania, face many problems. One of the very serious problems is that many of the resources of our Commonwealth, such as coal, iron, steel and others, are all going into a time which has passed, in the sense that we no longer look to these materials as providing the only assets which this State has. At one time, the railroads of Pennsylvania were a very big asset. This is no longer the case. The same applies to other heavy industries which we thought would always be with us. However, they are also passing from the scene. Therefore, we must move to new areas and new fields of endeavor in order for us to provide not only for the welfare of our own people, but for the economic welfare of our Commonwealth as well.

We must move into the tourist area. We are finding ourselves spending more and more money on tourism and for providing these kinds of areas. On top of all this, our people are finding themselves with more leisure time. In New York State,—and I am not here to debate whether this is good or bad—one of the unions just completed a contract whereby they will only work twenty-five hours a week. These people will have a lot of time on their hands. They will have a lot of recreation time which will be available to them. As automation comes in to more and more of our industries, which is a very serious problem, we will have more and more people with more time available and people who will be forced to retire at an earlier age. Provisions must be made for these people of this Commonwealth and for this Country.

There have been articles in many of the newspapers of Pennsylvania, many of which are certainly not organs of the Democratic Party and many of which are very conservative in their points of view. For example, the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin has had a number of articles regarding Project 70 and the Park Program. They have editorialized in this area and have gone on at great length to point out what this would mean to the Commonwealth were it not to go through or were it not to become a part of the over-all program of what we are doing. Many of the conservative organizations—those which are not usually in the realm or the forefront of progressiveness—are supporting this program and are asking that we support it.

Today, we are merely passing a measure that has to pass again next Session before it can appear on the ballot. If the people either choose or do not choose to go along with it, the matter will be decided at that point. Thereafter, we will begin to write the legislation. At no time, will this cost us any more than $5,000,000 to $6,000,000 a year to support. We are not going to spend $70,000,000 all in one year. We are not going to do all of this at one time. You must bear in mind that the Veterans' Bonus of World War II is coming to an end. This also applies to the Veterans' Bonus of the Korean War. Therefore, the wealth of the Commonwealth will go behind these projects to support them.

You must remember that we cannot just take away from the Commonwealth and not give anything back. This is a wealthy State and a great deal of revenue is produced here. We must use this in order to create other assets and other areas wherein we must move. If we continue to wait, the home builder, the developer, all of whom must constantly create, will be moving into other areas. Many of the open areas which are now available will no longer be available to us in times to come.

For example, in the city of Philadelphia, about which I am somewhat familiar, there are no more building lots remaining. There are no more areas in which to expand or to build. Here is a city of two or more millions of people which does not have, within the city itself, an area for the people to go to and use as a recreational area. Therefore, they must look around them. The gentleman from Montgomery County will tell you that the county built a park up there in which, unless the people live in that county and pay taxes in that county, others may not even sit on the benches in that park. This is a rather tough situation and probably they are correct in their outlook. Maybe they want to take care of their own taxpayers. However, it just so happens that all of these people who live in America happen to be Americans. They also happen to want to use the various communities. They do not need a passport to go from one county to another, nor from one State to another. It is pretty difficult to say to a human being, who comes from the city of Philadelphia, that he cannot sit on the benches because he does not live in that county. I think that is drawing the line pretty fine.

I think it is time for the Commonwealth and other people who are now in a position to do something about it, before it is too late, to conserve our resources and act now.

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, after listening to Senator Kessler, I think we should make a very distinct cleavage in our thinking here.

This is not an enabling act. This is a proposed amendment to the Constitution which must pass two Sessions of the Legislature. It is true that the present Constitution of Pennsylvania is highly criticized. They have tried to put provisions into it which amount to legislation.

Mr. Buchanan, an eminent authority on constitutional law, pointed out and described the Constitution of Pennsylvania as being one of the great pieces of legislation, but certainly a very poor Constitution. Therefore, when we draw up a constitutional amendment, we do not try to put into it the enabling factors. The bogey of debt which was drawn before this Assembly, for that reason alone, is not applicable.

That story of the bogey of debt reminds me of Walter Lippman's little fantasy of the "Shadows on the Rocks," where the aborigines were sitting around the fire. The closer they got to the fire, their shadows increased in length on the canyon wall. Therefore, the more they feared, the closer to the fire they crouched and their shadows became larger. They feared these shadows as real and existing spirits.

So it is if you analyze the figures, and I tell you that Senator Kessler is an able man. The Turnpike figures, alone, are given for a self-liquidating debt, a debt which is now many years ahead of its time in being paid off from the tolls. The School Authority and so on down a number of the items are self-liquidating debts, for which provisions are made.

Let us look to the acquisition of land. I went to Allentown to give a talk to one of the service groups up there. One of the things they showed me was 1,300 acres of land which was left by General Trexler many years ago. You can go to New York City and see Central Park. The man who prevented them from taking Central Park from the poor people of New York was broken. They labeled him a Tammany leader. However, who, today, will question the wisdom of his holding onto that park for the poor people of New York? If you were to talk in terms of debt and how destructive it is, I say in Allentown or in Central Park, New York, if you subdivide it today, you would receive many, many times the value that was invested by the civic people who invested in it originally.

The acquisition of land—and it is not all out in some desolate area. There are many towns where there is not breathing space. We talk about juvenile delinquency. Yes, we even talk about adult delinquency. However, people who have things to do, hobbies to follow and things to spend their leisure time applying themselves to, are not in trouble and are not in jails.

After all, the statement was made: "How does this add to industry?" First, it creates a recreation industry but, secondly, no industry goes anywhere today without looking toward the intangibles. Any industry that wants to come into your district will inquire as to the type of schools there are, whether or not they are good, what the recreational facilities are, what the social facilities are and what is offered the families. When you start a new plant and bring in new skills, particularly the top skills, the people who affect the decisions ask about what is offered by the community. You must be able to offer more than anyone else and you must be able to offer a program which is sound. Land is the only single commodity which tomorrow will be worth more in terms of bread and beans, in view of our increasing population, than any other single commodity. Regardless of the value in dollars and cents, land is the only commodity which is worth more in beans and bacon tomorrow than it is today.

Therefore, Mr. President, I respectfully say that this is a bill which will permit and authorize this. It is not the enabling act. How much we will spend, how far we will go, how we will do it and what we will limit it to is a question only of the enabling act. The bogey of debt is but a shadow on the rock, an hallucination arising from fear. We are told that fear is the biggest thing that man has. A man's fears are sometimes worse, as Shakespeare said, than horrible imaginings. We can fear anything; we can suppose anything. However, what are the facts?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, Senator Kessler did a very fine job. As I heard those figures, very frankly, I was thinking to myself as to the dollars and cents progress or advantages which we might receive from this legislation.

Senator Mahady talked about it being a Constitutional amendment, which is true. This legislation must go before the people on a referendum and the people will decide. However, I am taking the position, Mr. President, that if you are standing still, you are going backwards.

As a matter of fact, we had a Congressional Reapportionment Bill passed here not long ago, which was due primarily to the fact that we have lost population here in Pennsylvania. Who is to blame? Frankly, I do not think any of us, individually or collectively, are to blame, but it is due to circumstances. We have passed, in this Legislature, legislation which set up an Area Redevelopment Act, which is doing a good job because we must life the face of a great portion of Pennsylvania. We had the Pittsburgh renaissance, which is doing a job and is paying off, I believe, in the dollars and cents investment.

I must admit that I am a little worried about the debt of the Commonwealth. I know that my grandchildren are probably going to pay off a portion of that debt. However, there is nothing else we can do. We have to take these steps forward. If we make a mistake, we must answer to the people. I am not crazy about legislation which will permit condemnation of private property. However, that legislation has been on the statute books for years, Mr. President, and I believe that in most cases it has been used rather wisely. There may be abuses, but, nevertheless, we cannot sit here in this Senate of Pennsylvania and do nothing.

I recall a story about the Chairman of the Chamber of Commerce in the city of Washington. A few years ago, I attended their meeting, and we had sitting around at that meeting probably about fifty millions of dollars. The Chairman of the Committee looked up and said:

"Gentlemen, here we are. We have fifty millions of dollars sitting out here before us, and the city of Washington looks like a pigsty, because you people will not spend your money. I want you to do something. Build a building or tear it down, or paint the building or burn it down. Do something for the progress of our area."

Now here we are, Members of this Senate, about to vote on a very important piece of legislation. If we vote "no," I feel that we are making a mistake, because we do not know what the future holds for us. However, I am hoping that if this legislation is passed and if we are here at the next Session, we should observe with a microscope all enabling legislation which goes into the Act. In so doing, I think we can protect the interest of the people of Pennsylvania.

Do not reject this just because it is going to mean an obligation upon the Commonwealth, and it is going to mean a huge obligation. The debt service on $70,000,000 is a lot of money. At the same time, we must look at it from the over-all picture. If we do not do this, are we going to continue to lose population in Pennsylvania? I do not know, and I do not think anyone else does. However, we have to do something.

In my opinion, I believe that a nice atmosphere and pleasant conditions are great assets to Pennsylvania. I do believe that they will bring industry into Pennsylvania. For that reason, and that reason alone, I am going to vote for this legislation because I feel we must do something.

Mr. SESLER. Mr. President, I have read about Project 70. In fact, I was so enthused about it, I became one of the sponsors. I think one of the greatest arguments in favor of it, to me, was a visit I made the other day out to my own Presque Isle Park. We, in Erie, are particularly blessed by having a very large State Park, and a very fine one, near one of the largest centers of population. This is not true in most areas of Pennsylvania. However, we, in Erie, are blessed in this regard.

I went out with my family on a Sunday, the week before last. You think of a park as not being used in wintertime, and we went out there to see. Do you realize that we had over 50,000 visitors to our park that Sunday? The ice on the end of the bay was frozen, and there were literally hundreds and hundreds of people out there ice fishing, iceboating and ice skating. I realized just what a tremendous asset it was to have that park in Erie.

I was thinking to myself that if only the Legislature had appropriated $10,000,000, say, in 1900, what a tremendous saving and what a tremendous boom it would have been if we could have had the foresight.

Now when I think that our population is going to accelerate regardless of whether we want it to or not, gentlemen, and as we go forward and become a tremendously urbanized, highly technical society, it will be necessary that we have room to breathe. I know well, in my heart, that every dollar we spend on this program will be well justified in the years when you and I are gone. We will have left a heritage for the people of Pennsylvania.

And the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, may we be at ease?

The PRESIDENT. The Senate will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

The PRESIDENT. While we are at ease, may I read to the Senate a telegram which I received this afternoon? This is a communication from your Lieutenant Governor as General Chairman of the Citizens Committee for the Governor's Prayer Breakfast:

> "We are asking that the Senate respond to the formal invitation to the Governor's Prayer Breakfast, scheduled for February 27th. There are still fifteen Senators who have not responded. We would like very much to have that response as early as possible so that the committee may finalize their plans."

Remember, the breakfast is February 27th, this month, just a few days from now. I cannot stress the need for your immediate response more clearly than that. Thank you.

The Senate will remain at ease.

(The Senate remained at ease.)

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

RECESS

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I now request a ten minute recess of the Senate for the purpose of holding a Republican Caucus, to be held in my office at the rear of the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. Are there any objections? The Chair hears no objection, and declares a ten minute recess of the Senate.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

(During the calling of the roll, the following occurred:)

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, being in the hall of the Senate and not hearing my name called, I wish to be recorded as voting "aye."

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman will be so recorded.

HB 15 CALLED UP

HB 15 (Pr. No. 156)—Without objection, the bill, which previously went over in its order temporarily, was called up from page 3 of the Third Reading Calendar by Mr. WEINER.

APPROPRIATION BILL ON THIRD READING AMENDED

HB 15 (Pr. No. 156)—Read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. HAYS, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendment:

> Amend Bill, page 5, by inserting after line 11:
> Section 2 Eight per centum (8%) of all General Fund Revenues actually received during the fiscal period 1961-62 in excess of the estimated total General Fund Revenues available for appropriation for the said fiscal period amounting to one billion twenty-three million eight hundred fifty-four thousand dollars ($1,023,854,000.00) as certified by the Secretary of Revenue on September 12 1961 according to law are hereby specifically appropriated to the trustees of the Pennsylvania State University for the fiscal year July 1 1962 to June 30 1963 for the purposes provided in subsection (1) of Section 1 of this act not to exceed however the sum of $1,500,000.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, this is an amendment to House Bill No. 15, the so-called Penn State appropriation bill. Starting with Abraham Lincoln, as Senator Kessler earlier did, I could give some well chosen words on the history and purpose of Penn State. This I shall not do at this time, unless there is a great demand for this kind of a treatise. However, I have not discovered any such sentiment.

I would point out, however, that there is, as a part of the record of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, an eleven-page opinion of an Attorney General which I also could read, if there were to be a great demand but I do not think there is. This had to do with whether or not a couple of institutions were State institutions.

I shall just read a brief portion of this opinion:

> "The question whether the tax shall be paid by The Pennsylvania State College depends upon whether it is a State institution. The determination of this question necessitates an examination of the history of the institution and its relation to the State."

Then in legal terms, for some seven or eight pages, the Attorney General comes to the following conclusion:

> "I, therefore, advise you that under the provisions of May 20, 1921, Act No. 368, no tax should be collected or paid upon gasoline purchased and used by The Pennsylvania State College."

This is legal justification for the fact that The Pennsylvania State University has now, and has always had, a different relationship to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania than any other college or university, with the exception of the fourteen State Colleges. This has had a closer relationship, I say.

Now, I would like to explain the amendment which I have just offered.

Last September, in this Senate, based largely on the recommendations of the Governor's Committee on Education. I suppose, we debated legislation to provide more funds for public education in Pennsylvania. In this proposal,—which was a proposal for a new tax, as you all know—the receipts from this tax were to go largely to two sources. There were also other sources, such as the Teachers' Colleges and some for the Department of Public Instruction. However, the public schools were to receive some $18,000,000, plus, and Pennsylvania State University was to receive 1.5 million dollars. This was largely the recommendation of the Governor's Committee on Education. The House passed such legislation and we were unable to pass it in the Senate.

Therefore, Mr. President, we submit this amendment and take its roots from last September. I might say that if this amendment passes, of course, there will have to be a companion amendment to House Bill No. 1. In House Bill No. 1, with the Printer's Number which is before us, it provides that 100 per cent of the tax moneys received this year above the estimates shall be distributed to the school districts of the State on the basis of their reimbursement fractions. This amendment would remove eight per cent of that amount out of that category and give it to The Pennsylvania State University. There is also the proviso that this shall not be in excess of $1,500,000. It seems to me that since it was fair and equitable during most of last year, I see nothing that has happened during the last four, five or six months to change this. It would seem to me that we should be able to get a unanimous vote on this question. As I recall, we were able to obtain twenty-five votes to pass the tax and we were able to get twenty-five votes to pass the appropriation for Pennsylvania State University, last September 1.

Therefore, Mr. President, this proposal would combine both features of this by saying that any excess tax moneys above those estimated by the Secretary of Revenue, as written into this bill on July 1, would be distributed in this manner. I, therefore, ask the Members of the Senate to give fair consideration to this bill, and I trust that all of my colleagues will be able to vote for this amendment to House Bill No. 15.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, we have heard a great deal in the last several days about fiscal responsibility, a term which certainly is a dignified and very fine expression. We like it, but a number of these amendments, such as this one, would begin to cause people to wonder just whether it is fiscal responsibility or a little bit of fiscal fakery.

Now on page 38 of House Bill No. 1, we have a provision somewhat similar to this which takes all of the surplus—if there is going to be one—and appropriates it to the public schools in the proportion that their subsidiary reimbursement requires. This amendment would take eight per cent of that possible surplus and appropriate it to the Trustees of The Pennsylvania State University.

Now, Mr. President, well and good, but I understand that it is absolutely impossible to increase any appropriation because it would throw the budget out of balance, and that fiscal responsibility forbids us doing any such thing. If that is the case, Mr. President, how in the world do they expect to have anybody trapped into feeling that they are going to get something out of what they say is nothing? I understand, Mr. President, there will be some amendments offered which will recognize that probably there will be a surplus and, therefore, we are going to appropriate some of that for the benefit of our school districts and for Penn State. However, to say in one breath that there is no such thing and then in the next breath to say we are going to appropriate all of it to the public schools, and then take away eight per cent from the public schools and give it to The Pennsylvania State University out of a surplus which is nonexistent, according to all of our fiscal experts over there, begins to look just a little bit phony to me, Mr. President.

Therefore, Mr. President, I say if there is going to be a surplus,—and we believe firmly there is going to be one—let us appropriate some money to these institutions which need it. If there is not going to be a surplus, then let us get these people who are trying to get off the hook back on solid ground and forget about this type of amendment which says: "If we have any money left over, you are welcome to it."

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, I always thought that Senator Berger was pretty good when it comes to fiscal matters, but apparently he thinks this amendment will throw aside fiscal responsibility. I think he is entirely mistaken. We have tried to stay within the budget. The Republican side has claimed that we underestimated receipts. We, in part, agreed because, as of the present, there is a $5,000,000 overage from estimates. This may grow a little larger.

The one area where we have not fulfilled our responsibility is in the battle of public education. Therefore, it was very wisely provided, by an amendment to House Bill No. 1, that all the money which came in over and above estimates should go to public education on the basis of allocating fractions to each school district.

We want to look at the picture in its entirety. Pennsylvania State University felt highly disappointed in that they did not receive a larger appropriation, and justifiably so. Pennsylvania State University, under bills passed here last fall, was to receive, if we had passed the tax measure, an additional $1,500,000 and our school systems would get an additional something like $18,500,000. Now to maintain the same philosophy and in fairness, if there is additional money to go toward education, we say we should divide all the overage in equal proportion, and give eight per cent to The Pennsylvania State University, which is the same percentage which it would have received if we would have passed the legislation to provide the $23,000,000 for education and which failed to pass because we could not get a single Republican vote. We say that we should give them the same percentages of the moneys that come in over and above estimates; that is, give eight percent of it to The Pennsylvania State University and ninety-two percent of it to our public schools. We, in this amendment, are merely carrying out what we tried to do during the last Session by bills we had submitted here and for which the Republican side was ready to vote until it came to the question of taxes. Then, the entire program fell.

Therefore, Mr. President, I think that this amendment is a fair one and in no way does it destroy, Senator Berger, our fiscal responsibility. Our fiscal responsibility will remain because we will still have a balanced budget.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I do not believe there is any fiscal irresponsibility here. We actually do not know if we are going to have any money.

Senator Silvert says that we will have $5,000,000 over and above our estimates. That I do not know. What Senator Hays is trying to do is do the best he can for Penn State.

What we have actually done is taken a page out of the book of the operations over in the House, because we feel that if there is a possibility that we will have any money, we would like a percentage of it to go to Penn State University because we realize they need the money. We realize, too, that at Penn State we have a lot of students who do not have the wherewithal, so to speak, to finance their education. If we can help out at Penn State, we want to do that job, not only for the institution but for the students also. We feel that possibly we can keep the costs down a bit if we have a greater appropriation.

We are not fiscally irresponsible. We do not know for sure—and I do not think anyone else does—whether we are going to have a surplus or not. However, if we do have a surplus, we would like to have eight percent—and not exceeding $1,500,000—go to Penn State. There is nothing wrong with this amendment. If we do not have the money, Penn State will not get the money. That is all there is to it.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I will have to speak from recollection. It occurs to me, from Senator Silvert's remarks, that possibly his recollection is no better than mine might be in some respects.

As I recall it, Mr. President, what Senator Silvert is complaining about is that the Republicans did not vote for a certain tax, which they said would produce a certain amount of money, on the calculation that the revenues which would be raised by the then existing taxes made it unnecessary to vote for such a tax, and it would still be possible to appropriate to Pennsylvania State University and to the public schools certain millions of dollars which would assist them in their operations and which, in the case of Pennsylvania State University, I believe, would have gone to the remuneration of faculty members for the most part.

That bill, Mr. President,—and this is where I speak from recollection—was either voted down by the Democrats, or was recommitted by the Democrats, or dropped from the Calendar by the Democrats. The Republicans voted for that appropriation and they voted against the tax. Present history shows that our calculations were more nearly correct than theirs, with all the aid of the planners and the budget experts that they had in making their calculations.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I think the record ought to be correct. It is absolutely correct that we dropped the bill from the Calendar,—and I believe my recollection is accurate—but this was only done after we had stated that this would be our action; that we could not send to the Governor any bills asking that moneys be spent which were not available to him. We were not going to do any deficit financing. As a result of that, we are here today with a balanced budget. This was stated twice. It was stated once when we voted for the bills. The second time,—and it is in the record—I stated here that if we were not going to pass any taxes to raise the money to pay for these items, we were going to drop these bills from the Calendar.

We then voted against the bill, not giving it the necessary twenty-six votes. I believe I am correct in saying that twenty-five of those votes were provided by the Democrats on this side, and the bills were dropped from the Calendar.

I do not want to get into that. That is ancient history at the moment. We will have other times to go into that area. The only thing I would like to say here is this. If there is going to be a surplus,—and I have no way of knowing whether there will be or not because the present indication is that the budget is balanced and that there is no more money in the till—and if by chance there is a windfall to this big corporation and if the executive officers or the board of directors, which is the Senate, feel there will be a windfall and we will win some cases since we have better lawyers now than we used to have, or that there will be some other money coming in, then eight percent of this can be used for Penn State. I see nothing inconsistent with that and a balanced budget, because if there is no money, Penn State or any other institution will not get anything.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I thank the gentleman for having an accurate recollection. I agree with him that that is exactly what happened, and they did drop the bill from the Calendar. It was after the tax bill was defeated, and it was in conformity with what they said they would do. They said they would drop the education appropriation bills from the Calendar, and they did it. However, it was on the basis of their revenue estimates, and not on the basis of the calculations which we thought were correct; that there would be more money available, and without that tax. That is exactly what has happened, Mr. President. There cannot be any question about it.

You can talk about a balanced budget as much as you want to and above there being no balanced budget for fourteen years. That, I may say, Mr. President, is a little questionable. I recall there were some surpluses in our fiscal history within the fourteen year period. Neverthless, I am not going to go into that.

The fact remains, Mr. President, that the money became available. It was not appropriated. The institutions did not get it and the schools did not get it.

Mr. President, at this time we say that if you can raise your sights as many millions of dollars as the Governor did in order to obtain a balanced budget, you can raise them because we think you are going to have the money to provide for these schools and for this university.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, there is an old expression that you cannot teach an old dog new tricks. I do not claim to be an old dog, but I have learned a new trick today.

First of all, there are a lot of people in Pennsylvania who are real mad at the Administration because the feeling back in the home districts is that a number of the public school districts have been shortchanged. Therefore, the Democratic Party in the House of Representatives, in House Bill No. 1, on page 38, has come up with a formula whereby they are going to give 100 percent of all surplus to the public schools. That takes care of the public schools.

Then there are a lot of people who are associated with Penn State who are mad at the Administration. Therefore, we take care of them by giving them eight percent.

Gentleman, this is the first time in my brief lifetime that I learned there can be 108 percent of a whole.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I have no desire to participate in this debate. May I just point out to Senator Bell that Senator Hays stated quite plainly, for anyone who was listening and had the ability to understand, that he was also going to offer an amendment to another bill, which would make the total 100 per cent? Senator Hays' arithmetic also is reliable. If Senator Bell did not hear it,

I regret it. However, I think it is my duty to inform him and set the record straight.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I am very happy that the gentleman from York, Mr. Seyler, has set the Senate straight, including myself, that this eight percent is being taken away from the public schools.

Mr. WARE. Mr. President, I believe the Majority Leader said that our revenues might be augmented above expectations because there are now better lawyers representing the Commonwealth. I guess there is a difference of opinion on that subject. I will agree with him, however, that there are more lawyers and, indeed, there are more of all kinds of employees on the public payroll.

Since we have gone back to the last Session, we might return to one other point made in the last Session; namely, that we could have plenty of money for public education, Penn State, and a lot of other things if we did not have so many political employees on the public payroll.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I must say that of all the speakers who have spoken about the budget, the last speaker knows more about money matters than anybody here.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

(During the calling of the roll, the following occurred:)

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, I desire to be recorded as voted "no."

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman will be so recorded.

The roll was called and resulted as follows:

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, may we be at ease a moment? I believe the Printer's Number is wrong. The new Printer's Number is 156. We would like to check it.

The PRESIDENT. The Senate will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which the amendment, offered by Senator Hays, was adopted.

The PRESIDENT. Senator Weiner, we have another amendment before us.

Mr. WEINER. There has been no action taken on that amendment, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. Senator Flack, will you withdraw your amendment for the time being until we act on Senator Weiner's motion?

Mr. FLACK. Mr. President, I will withdraw the amendment at this time.

The roll was called and resulted as follows:

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

Mr. FLACK. Mr. President, I will not offer my amendment until tomorrow, at which time I shall have the proper Printer's Number.

Mr. HAYS, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendment:

> Amend Section 1, page 3, line 3, by striking out "($19,707,700)", and inserting in lieu thereof: ($21,207,700)

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, may the Senate be at ease for a moment?

The PRESIDENT. The Senate will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President, I would like to speak very briefly on the amendment. Before I do, however, I would like to preface my remarks, regarding the theme song I am singing about Penn State, by saying that I am not now and have never been a full-time employee of Penn State. Penn State belongs to all the people of Pennsylvania. I am making this second effort, and I am somewhat reminded of a golfing story which my friend from Philadelphia, Senator Silvert, an inveterate golfer, might appreciate.

It seems this particular golfer was golfiing with his best friend. His best friend died on the golf course. He came back and told his wife, saying: "Mary, an awful thing happened. John Brown died with me on the golf course today." She said: "That is too bad." He said: "I had an awful day on the course. First, I hit the ball and then I dragged John. Then, I hit the ball and again I dragged John. Again, I hit the ball and dragged John. It was a long, tired afternoon."

Mr. President, this amendment would increase the existing House Bill No. 15 by $1,500,000. Of course, the first amendment which passed provided a similar amount. However, the first was based on projected income above that now estimated. This amendment does not take that view of the matter and, unless I make some suggestions, I am sure that I will be branded as being fiscally irresponsible.

I would point out that the schools which have the closest relationship to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania —namely, the State Colleges, Pennsylvania State University and now Temple University, and maybe some others but not very many of them—have a tuition differential for in- and out-of-State students. This was discussed in the Appropriations Committee the other day and I was surprised, from the almost unanimous, informal poll that was taken, that everyone thought that Pennsylvania should not subsidize out-of-State students. This has nothing to do with parochialism now. This is not saying that the number of out-of-State students should be limited. This simply says that the out-of-State students should pay at these other State-aided institutions somewhat in the same manner as at the fourteen State Colleges, Penn State and as is going to be the case at Temple University.

I will not spend a great deal of time on this. I have some data here which I could give you in detail. For example, we appropriated $54,000 to Dickinson Law School this afternoon. I understand they have about 180 students. This means that we are giving each student a scholarship of about $300 a year. I do not know the number of out-of-State students at these various institutions. I just rounded out a number like fifteen per cent. If this fifteen per cent of students at the Dickinson Law School were out-of-State students, if there are that many, this would net $7,500. This is the smallest one that I figured. With due respect to my friends at the University of Pennsylvania, I think their's would be even larger. We subsidize students at the University of Pennsylvania to the extent of about $570 a year. Fifteen per cent—I think perhaps it is more than that, although I just more or less arbitrarily took fifteen per cent—in a year, I think, would net some $800,000 that the State could achieve not by taxing Pennsylvanians a penny, but by taxing out-of-State people.

Of course, Mr. President, this is only a suggestion that I am making to the Administration, if it would care to approach it this way. I made a table of all the major schools which now receive State money and I find that if we were to apply this rule, the Commonwealth could pick up about $2,000,000 this way.

Therefore, it is on these grounds that I am suggesting that the $1,500,000 could be achieved in this manner. I trust that all Members of the Senate will support this amendment.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, Pennsylvania is one of eight States which gives money to universities and colleges. I am very happy to say that we do this, and I am happy to say that it is part of our responsibility to do it. Unfortunately, where we do have fiscal responsibility—and I hope our friends on the other side do not get tired of hearing it—and where we are in a position to actually give money away without providing it, I must ask my colleagues to vote "no."

I know this means differing with a man who has been an educator all of his life, and who I know is genuinely interested in doing a fine job for a State university. However, unfortunately, many times—and this was a problem we discussed last Session—this will not be able to be accomplished unless we meet our responsibilities. One of those responsibilities is to see that we have enough money to run this Commonwealth and operate in all areas.

Therefore, I ask my colleagues to vote "no" on this amendment.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I am beginning to be intrigued by this little amending session we are having here; intrigued because of this factor which seems to become apparent now. First of all, Senator Hays' amendment provided for eight per cent of any surplus that might be produced to be appropriated to Penn State University.

His next amendment provides that the appropriation should not be in excess of X millions of dollars, but up to $1,500,000.

I did some hasty mental arithmetic—and I admit my fallibility on that—and it would indicate that eight per cent would produce about $1,500,000. Therefore, if you run that out to 100 percent, you would have something in the neighborhood of $18,500,000, I think. Consequently, you have got a pretty magic figure there somewhere, Mr. President. There must be an anticipation that somewhere along the line there is going to be $18,000,000.

There, again, I say we do not have the benefit of a battery of fiscal experts and budgeteers. Nevertheless, as in the past, we believe that our calculations might reasonably be expected to be somewhat correct in anticipation of some surplus.

Mr. President, I recognize the necessity for skirting this thing around and hiding behind the barrel, so to speak. However, I will not name the kind of a barrel. At the same time, we believe, Mr. President, that there will be money available for the public schools and that there will be some money available to bring up the appropriation to Pennsylvania State University. I believe it is pretty apparent now that Senator Flack and Senator Kromer are going to offer some amendments which will spell out specific amounts of money for this purpose, and while it may be denied under the guise of fiscal responsibility,—and I do like the term, Senator Weiner—nevertheless, we believe, and firmly believe, that the money is going to be available, that the sights can be raised, and with justification.

Therefore, I am going to ask my colleagues to vote against this amendment, the same as they voted against the other one, so that we can get some concrete appropriating done pretty soon.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. DONOLOW. Mr. President, may we be at ease a moment?

The PRESIDENT. The Senate will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

The roll was called and resulted as follows:

Mr. VAN SANT, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendment:

Amend Sec. 2, page 17 by inserting between lines 17 and 18:

Which was committed to the Committee on Legislation.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. VAN SANT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, the resolution I am about to offer is self-explanatory. I think, after it is read, that you will plan to be with us on this occasion.

SENATE RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATING THE CITY OF ALLENTOWN UPON ITS BICENTENNIAL

Mr. VAN SANT offered the following resolution (Serial No. 19), which was read as follows:

In the Senate, February 19, 1962.

The year 1962 marks the Two Hundredth Anniversary of the city of Allentown, the Queen City of the Lehigh Valley. The founder of Allentown, William Allen, acquired this area from Thomas Penn after a survey in 1739 and in 1762 the town was laid out and officially given the name "Northampton." At the end of that year, the assessment list named thirteen persons as residents, a far cry from the large population living in and about Allentown today.

From the very beginning, Allentown was a center of religious and educational activities. Within the first year, two log churches were built. The oldest is Zion Reformed, which is famous for providing a haven for the Liberty Bell while the British occupied Philadelphia. Today, a shrine is being constructed in this church to house a replica of the Liberty Bell. In 1848, Muhlenberg College was founded and shortly thereafter Cedar Crest College came into being. Today, both of these colleges are considered excellent institutions of higher learning.

Industrially, Allentown has grown so that today it boasts of many large manufacturing plants. Its shopping center is one that attracts people from all over the eastern part of the Country. The people of Allentown are also proud of their beautiful park system. No other city of its size in the entire county can present a park and recreation system that would come close to that in operation in Allentown.

All in all, the people of Allentown are proud of their city and upon this bicentennial the citizens of Allentown should be congratulated. If it was not for their hard work and ever-constant efforts, the city, celebrating its Two Hundredth Anniversary, would be nothing like it is today. All of the people of Pennsylvania should be aware of the great strides Allentown has taken; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania takes this opportunity to offer their sincere congratulations to the city of Allentown upon its bicentennial; and be it further

Resolved, That we give our heartfelt thanks to the people of Allentown and those who preceded them for their efforts in making Allentown a great city in our State; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Mayor, the Honorable John T. Gross, and to the Bicentennial Committee at its headquarters on Hamilton Street in Allentown.

The PRESIDENT. This is purely a personal matter, but I happen to live on Allen's Lane, in Philadelphia, and I understood that the house on the corner was occupied by the Mayor of Philadelphia, whose name was Allen. Now is this the same Allen just migrating a little further west?

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, I do not know if it is the same Allen or not. The only thing that I could suggest is that we plan to include the Allen family in the Liberty Bell Shrine. If I can get that $2,500 for the Liberty Bell Shrine, I definitely will find out for you.

The PRESIDENT. Thank you very much, Senator Van Sant.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

The resolution was adopted.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. MAHADY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, this is Pennsylvania Brotherhood Week and if we refer to one of the greatest books written,—I am particularly referring to the New Testament—you will find there is a parable about a lawyer who asked the Master: "And who is my neighbor?" He gave him the parable of the man who went down to Jericho and fell among thieves, and the good Samaritan, an outcast among his own people, took the time to feed him and to guarantee the pay for his treatment, showing that our neighbor is everyone.

Our neighbor is the man in trouble, the man in need, the man next to us and the man far away from us. He is every man who exists under the sun, no matter where he exists in what part of the globe.

The PRESIDENT. Thank you, Senator Mahady. That was very beautifully said.

SENATE RESOLUTION

PENNSYLVANIA BROTHERHOOD WEEK

Mr. MAHADY, on behalf of the entire Senate Membership, offered the following resolution (Serial No. 20), which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, February 19, 1962.

The week of February 19th is Pennsylvania Brotherhood Week. This week marks the time of the year for all of us to renew faith in our fellow men.

Brotherhood is something that we should practice throughout the entire year. If more people would act like brothers toward each other, the great tensions that confront the world today would be eased.

This week is set aside in order to promote better understanding and equality of opportunity for all racial, religious and nationality groups. We, in the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, are anxious to assist in such a promotion; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Senate of Pennsylvania takes this opportunity to join with millions of Pennsylvanians throughout the Commonwealth in observing Pennsylvania Brotherhood Week.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. BACHMAN, TOMASCIK, KRAMER and FILO. HOUSE BILL No. 96.

An Act amending "The Realty Transfer Tax Act," approved December 27, 1951 (P. L. 1742), providing that the exclusion from the tax of certain transfers from industrial development agencies is applicable to such transfers occurring both before and after this amending act.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. GALLAGHER, A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. and Mrs. KOOKER. RESOLUTION No. 31.

In the House of Representatives
February 13, 1962

In September of 1957, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania conveyed to the County of Bucks a tract of approximately seventy-eight acres in Bristol Borough and Township containing Silver Lake. The deed of conveyance from the Commonwealth contained a clause providing that unless the premises are exclusively maintained and used as a public lake, fishing and recreation area or place, the title thereto, at the option of the Pennsylvania Fish Commission, shall revert to the Commonwealth.

Unknown to all parties at the time of the conveyance, a small triangular piece of the tract conveyed, which piece is approximately 400 ft. x 250 ft. x 200 ft., lies on the opposite side of the road from the main tract and lake. This small tract became isolated from the main tract due to a relocation of the road after the preparation of the description contained in the deed from the Commonwealth. This small triangle adjoins the property of Bristol Borough on which its well field is located. Bristol Borough finds it desirable to lease most of its well field to a private corporation which will build and operate recreational facilities thereon. This corporation requires a right-of-way over the small triangular tract which the county obtained from the Commonwealth.

Bucks County desires to purchase two and one-half acres of the well field property from Bristol Borough as the site for a County Health Department building adjacent to the premises of Lower Bucks Hospital and Bristol Borough is willing to sell the two and one-half acres to the county if the county will grant the right-of-way over said small triangular tract.

It is understood that if the Pennsylvania Fish Commission will adopt a resolution acquiescing in the use of said small triangular tract for the proposed right-of-way, both of the aforementioned transactions may be consummated successfully thereby greatly benefiting the entire community; therefore be it

Resolved, That since the isolation of this small triangular tract has rendered it unsuitable for use in furthering the original purposes of the grant and since the recreational facilities of the community will be promoted if the County of Bucks grants a right-of-way or easement over said tract, and believing that it in no way violates the terms of the conveyance from the Commonwealth to the County of Bucks, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby urges the Pennsylvania Fish Commission to acquiesce in the use of said tract of land for the proposed right-of-way or easement by adopting an appropriate resolution or whatever other action may be found necessary; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Executive Director of the Pennsylvania Fish Commission.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. GREENLEE and GREMMINGER.
RESOLUTION No. 32.

In the House of Representatives
February 13, 1962

The State of Pennsylvania is in desperate need of new job opportunities which will reduce the number of our unemployed.

The lumber industry has always been important to our State and our vast forest reserves provide immense potential for increased employment.

Pennsylvania State University has in the past proved very successful in studying and developing new and improved methods and processes for use in agriculture and related products of the earth; therefore be it

Resolved, That Pennsylvania State University be requested and urged to undertake a study of the lumber industry with a view to developing more efficient methods of logging and of converting logs into lumber, and of developing or discovering new uses for lumber particularly for low grade wood.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. GREENLEE and GREMMINGER.
RESOLUTION No. 33.

In the House of Representatives
February 13, 1962

Concern for the present condition of the coal industry has caused various persons, bodies, groups and institutions to study and inquire into the possibility of discovering new uses for coal including processes for the direct extraction of energy from coal, new processes for mining coal, and the availability of new markets for coal.

Considering the importance of the coal industry to Pennsylvania, appropriate action on the part of our State is imperative; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission be directed to inquire into and collect all of the information available relating to the coal industry with particular reference to plans or suggestions for new uses of coal including the direct extraction of energy from it, new mining methods, and the availability of new markets for coal; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission make a report of its study to the next General Assembly.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. FILO and BOIES. RESOLUTION No. 34.

In the House of Representatives
February 13, 1962

Whereas, The Nuclear Science and Engineering Corporation, a corporation duly qualified to do business under the laws of this Commonwealth, maintains its principal place of business in West Mifflin Borough of the County of Allegheny; and

Whereas, Said corporation has been a pioneer in the development of applications of nuclear energy for peaceful purposes; and

Whereas, This development has resulted in a better way of life for the citizens of this Commonwealth and of the nation; and

Whereas, the pre-eminence of said corporation has been established and contributes to the position of this Commonwealth as the leading state in nuclear research and industry; and

Whereas, Said corporation shall dedicate new nuclear laboratories on February 28, 1962 in the Borough of West Mifflin of the County of Allegheny; therefore be it

Resolved, That the members of the House of Representatives, meeting in Harrisburg on this thirteenth day of February, 1962, by means of this citation express the due and proper recognition of the Nuclear Science and Engineering Corporation for its role in the development of the nuclear industry in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr., ESLER, MANBECK, ELVEY and ZEMBER. RESOLUTION No. 35.

In the House of Representatives
February 13, 1962

On January 19, 1962 Deputy Attorney General Marvin D. Weintraub, chief counsel for the Pennsylvania Milk Commission, was suspended by Attorney General David Stahl for allegedly receiving four hundred fifty dollars in checks from a Western Pennsylvania milk dealer.

Weintraub became counsel of the milk commission October 19, 1958 with the backing of Congressman William J. Green, Jr. of Philadelphia. The full facts of the case have not been made public by the Justice Department.

A State fuel tax inspector, an employe in the Department of Revenue, Carmel M. Legory of Cecil, was arrested by two agents of the State Department of Justice on October 21, 1961 on charges of bribery and extortion of a Bridgeville contractor, Carl C. Nardei. Legory was charged with taking six hundred dollars in cash for changing an audit on unpaid diesel fuel taxes. The contractor, Nardei, testified at a hearing before Alderman Alfred B. Bostrum of Mt. Lebanon that Legory, the State fuel tax inspector, told him that none of the six hundred dollar bribe money was going to him, Legory, but that it was going to people other than himself.

If the State fuel tax inspector was getting none of the bribe money himself, the question arises: who was supposed to get it? Was Legory acting on his own, or was he part of a large shakedown and extortion ring? The public is entitled to get the answers to these questions.

On August 11, 1961 Samuel Braid of Philadelphia was dismissed as Director of Procurement in the Department of Public Welfare on charges of attempting to defraud the Commonwealth. Braid's dismissal was preceded by a Justice Department investigation.

On September 21, 1961, an employe of the State Insurance Department, William Madenfort of Harrisburg, was suspended for allegedly giving out answers to agent examinations some two weeks before the tests were given. The case was turned over to the Department of Justice for further investigation.

On February 1, 1962 Madenfort was dismissed by Insurance Commissioner Francis R. Smith for supplying test questions and answers to an insurance company in July, 1961. Was Madenfort acting on his own in this case, or was he part of a larger payola operation? The Justice Department could supply the answer to that question, if it were so inclined.

On July 11, 1961, Assistant Attorney General George Schroeck was dismissed as counsel for the Bureau of Professional Licensing on unspecified charges. On July 6, 1961, William J. Kilroy was dismissed as chief administrative officer of the Bureau of Professional Licensing by Dr. Charles H. Boehm, Superintendent of Public Instruction, for interfering with licensing procedures. Dr. Boehm failed to make the charges against Kilroy specific. Was Kilroy acting on his own, or was he part of a larger shakedown operation involving the sale of State licenses?

On July 12, 1961, an editorial in the Philadelphia Inquirer stated: "The Department of Public Instruction is making itself the Department of Public Obstruction by firing a few people on vague charges and suppressing the rest of the story."

On July 16, 1961, former Attorney General Anne I. Alpern stated: "We have new information in our investigation which I can't go into at this time. When it's all over we will show that it has been an honest and complete investigation. All the facts have been revealed and nothing will be hidden."

Former Attorney General Anne I. Alpern failed to make good on her promise. Nothing has been heard from her successor, Attorney General David Stahl, despite requests for the full story of wrongdoing in the Bureau of Professional Licensing, and other State departments and agencies.

It is obvious that the Lawrence administration wants the public to forget the scandals in Harrisburg and Philadelphia.

Dismissing a few minor State employes on unspecified charges has not and will not convince the public that the Lawrence administration has cleaned its own house.

It is high time that the Lawrence administration decided to reveal all the facts, as former Attorney General Anne X. Alpern promised: therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives call upon the Attorney General to make a full disclosure of all facts contained in the foregoing cases, together with the specific reasons for dismissal of those State employes, and be it further

Resolved, That the Attorney General inform the public concerning what steps have been taken to eliminate corruption within the Bureau of Professional Licensing and of any improper influence upon the licensing boards leading to the granting or withholding of licenses, and to announce when those involved will be prosecuted, and be it further

Resolved, That the Attorney General make public all actions it has taken to eliminate corruption in any other department of State government of which it has information, and be it further

Resolved, That the Department of Justice recommend to the General Assembly any legislation it may consider necessary or desirable to help insure the integrity of the various administrative departments of State government.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

RESOLUTION

CONDOLENCE

Messrs. PETROSKY, SAKULSKY, JIM, MILLS and MAXWELL offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read by the clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives,
February 19, 1962.

The House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania notes with much sadness the passing of one of its former members, James E. Lovett, who died in Trafford, Pennsylvania, February 14, 1962 and was buried in Gettysburg cemetery February 17, 1962. He was a member of this body from 1932 to 1958 and at one time was majority whip.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Grace Swope Lovett, two daughters and a son, who resides at 521 Gilmore Avenue, Trafford, Pennsylvania.

He was an able and conscientious member of this body and his untimely passing is hereby noted by all the members of this body. He was noted for his unceasing interest in the common people of his district and this Commonwealth and his untiring efforts on their behalf; therefore be it

Resolved, That this body extends condolences to his widow, two daughters and son on the great loss sustained by them, and post humously commend Honorable James E. Lovett as an honest, conscientious public servant; and be it further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to Mrs. Grace Swope Lovett, at her address 521 Gilmore Avenue, Trafford, Pennsylvania.

On the question,
Will the House adopt the resolution?
It was unanimously adopted by a rising vote.

RESOLUTION

Mr. TOMPKINS offered a resolution which was filed with the clerk under the rules.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) IN THE CHAIR

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the minority leader for presiding.

Does either the chairman of the Rules Committee or Mr. Tompkins have a resolution to offer at this time?

The chairman of the Rules Committee offers the following resolution which will be read by the clerk in full. The Chair desires the attention of the House.

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION No. 47

REVIEW OF ADMINISTRATIVE AGENCIES' RULES AND REGULATIONS

Messrs. ANDREWS, TOMPKINS, McCANN, A. W. JOHNSON, KAMYK, DOUGHERTY, HELM, EILBERG and PETROSKY offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read by the clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives,
February 19, 1962.

Many rules and regulations issued by administrative agencies of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania have the force of law in their effect on individuals and business as fully as the statute law.

Since almost all administrative rule-making authority is legislative in nature and its exercise by administrative agencies is derived from the General Assembly, adequate review over the exercise of this authority is an important phase of the lawmaking function of the General Assembly; therefore be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That each administrative department, board and commission (except the Public Utility Commission), is hereby directed to file within sixty (60) days with the Legislative Reference Bureau a copy of all rules and regulations issued by their respective agencies which are now in force, together with the citation of the statutory authority for the rule or regulation; and be it further

Resolved, That the Legislative Reference Bureau, with such additional technical assistance as may be required, is hereby instructed to codify by department, board and commission:

(a) All formal rules and regulations issued and required by law to be filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth;

(b) All formal rules and regulations issued but not required by law to be filed with the Secretary of the Commonwealth;

(c) All formal and informal rules, regulations and administrative rules issued under the authority of and pursuant to any statute; and be it further

Resolved, That the Legislative Reference Bureau report to the General Assembly not later than the first day of its 1963 Session.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

Ordered, that the clerk present the same to the Senate for its concurrence.

RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATIONS

Messrs. STIMMEL, BACKENSTOE, Mrs. MARKLEY and Mr. STECKEL offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives,
February 19, 1962.

The year 1962 marks the Two Hundredth Anniversary of the City of Allentown, the Queen City of the Lehigh Valley. The founder of Allentown, William Allen, acquired this area from Thomas Penn after a survey in 1739 and in 1762, the town was laid out and officially given the name "Northampton." At the end of that year the assessment list named thirteen persons as residents, a far cry from the large population living in and about Allentown today.

From the very beginning, Allentown was a center of religious and educational activities. Within the first year, two log churches were built. The oldest is Zion Reformed which is famous for providing a haven for the Liberty Bell while the British occupied Philadelphia. Today a shrine is being constructed in this church to house a replica of the Liberty Bell. In 1848 Muhlenberg College was founded and shortly thereafter Cedar Crest College came into being. Today both of these colleges are considered excellent institutions of higher learning.

Industrially, Allentown has grown so that today it boasts of many large manufacturing plants. It's shopping center is one that attracts people from all over the eastern part of the country. The people of Allentown are also proud of their beautiful park system. No other city of its size in the entire county can present a park and recreation system that would come close to that in operation in Allentown.

All in all, the people of Allentown are proud of their city and upon this bicentennial the citizens of Allentown should be congratulated. If it wasn't for their hard work and ever-constant efforts, the city celebrating its Two Hundredth Anniversary would be nothing like it is today. All of the people of Pennsylvania should be aware of the great strides Allentown has taken; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania take this opportunity to offer their sincere congratulations to the City of Allentown upon its bicentennial; and be it further

Resolved, That we give our heartfelt thanks to the people of Allentown and those who preceded them for their efforts in making Allentown a great city in our State; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Mayor, the Honorable John T. Gross and to the bicentennial committee at its headquarters on Hamilton Street in Allentown.

The SPEAKER. While we have a considerable number of members present, does the majority leader desire to explain his plans for next week?

The Chair recognizes the majority leader who will explain our schedule for next week.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY MAJORITY LEADER

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, next week the House will be in session Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. We are waiting now for four House bills from the Senate, even though we will adjourn today. The bills have been amended for concurrence. They will appear on our Monday's calendar.

The Appropriations Committee will hold a meeting early Monday before session to report Senate bill 17 from its committee.

The resolution dealing with Project 70, which will pass the Senate today, will also be reported on Monday by the committee, and the House will then be in session three days, completing the action on concurrence in the bills that have been amended in the Senate. Senate bill 17 will be voted on three days here in the House, and Project 70 will move through the House.

The sine die resolution will be offered by the House on Wednesday for sine die adjournment on Wednesday. This session then would come to a close on Wednesday afternoon of next week.

Therefore, there will definitely be three days of session of this House, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mr. Speaker, where does the Project 70 resolution go to when it is received?

The SPEAKER. It goes to the Rules Committee.

Mr. McCANN. The Rules Committee. There will be a meeting of the Rules Committee from the floor of the House.

INTERROGATION

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the majority leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the majority leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, would you please re-state that? Would there be some concurrences for us next week on House bills that have been sent to the Senate?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, there will be, on Monday's calendar in the House, House bills that will be voted on tonight and tomorrow in the Senate for concurrence in the amendments in the House for next Monday.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Could you state with particularity what bills they would be?

Mr. McCANN. House bill 1 on the Senate calendar; it is now print No. 154; when it left here it was No. 132.

House bill 2, which is now print No. 114; House bill 5, which is now print No. 115; House bill 6, which is now print No. 116, and I think House bill No. 8. In addition, House bill 50, on page 8 of the Senate calendar, dealing with appropriations to certain hospitals. Does the gentleman have those?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Yes. I thank the gentleman.

You say then that there will be amendments to House bill No. 1, the general appropriation bill. Does the gentleman know what the contemplated amendments are to House bill 1 in the Senate?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I cannot say which of these amendments will pass, but I will give it to you in a layman's language.

House bill 15 is the Penn State University bill. One set of amendments will be offered to that giving them $2.5 million. One set of amendments will offer $1.5 million. Another set of amendments will give them 8 percent of all additional revenue that was given in House bill 1 for the public school system—8 percent would go to Penn State University. On the amendments offered to House bill 1—92 percent would go to the public schools and 8 percent to Penn State. This is what the whole set of amendments would do.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Another question, Mr. Speaker. I note you did not read off House bill 57. I take it your information is that House bill 57 will be passed by the Senate in the same form it went over from the House. Is that correct?

Mr. McCANN. That is the information I have at this point, as of today. That will be on a vote in the Senate for Tuesday, February 20, tomorrow.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. A further question, Mr. Speaker. If House bill 57 passes the Senate, and we, on next Wednesday, transmit it to the Governor, if he exercises a line veto of the school appropriations out of that bill, he would do it then after we had adjourned sine die. Is that correct?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, there is no question as to what will happen to the amendment to House bill 57. If this is the situation, House bill 1 will come first, House bill 57 second, but the section on that would be vetoed.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I did not get that last statement.

Mr. McCANN. The amendment in House bill 57 about which the gentleman is speaking, Mr. Speaker, will be vetoed.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. It will be vetoed. Then we will not have an opportunity, if we adjourn sine die on Wednesday, to attempt to pass, or rescind, or override the Governor's veto of this $9 million. Is that correct?

Mr. McCANN. I did not know it was the intention, Mr. Speaker, of the members of the Republican Party to attempt to override the veto. This is my first knowledge of it, but if we adjourn sine die on Wednesday, February 28, certainly you would not have that opportunity.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Well, that answers the question.

In answer to your query, I am not saying that we will move to override it, but it seems that it should be incumbent upon us to attempt to do that. If we adjourn sine die on Wednesday, we will be assassinating any power we might have in that regard. Is that true?

Mr. McCANN. You would be assassinating any power that you have, I assume that would be right, if this is what you intend to do. An attempt to override a veto can only be done while the House is in session.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I thank the gentleman.

STATEMENT BY MINORITY LEADER

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the minority leader for a brief statement.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, we are not against the principle of adjourning this session of the General Assembly as soon as we have finished our work, but I want to say that we will go against adjourning sine die on Wednesday. We will have to caucus on that matter in a Republican caucus.

Of course, you will have to have the required simple majority, as I understand it, to adjourn sine die, and you will have the votes to pass a sine die resolution. However, a different situation would prevail in the Senate. Perhaps the Lieutenant Governor could cast the deciding vote on adjournment sine die, but I think it is something that I would like to take up with the Republican side of the Senate before we say we will go along on a sine die next Wednesday, with the question of these very important school amendments hanging in the air.

Mr. McCANN. I hope that the gentleman will have his conference with the Republican leadership in the Senate some time this week, so that he may inform us in sufficient time, if you oppose sine die on Wednesday.

We are notifying our members at the end of this week in the letter that I normally send to them that I am expecting and requesting all Democratic members to be here next week on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday for all the amendments and to vote on the bills as well as the sine die resolution. If this is going to be opposed by the Republican Party, I would appreciate very kindly if their policy would be determined no later than Thursday afternoon of this week if at all possible.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, we did not plan to caucus on it until next Monday. Your members are legally obliged to be here whether we are going to have important business or not, so it is a moot question really whether we advise you Thursday or Monday.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. I would like to ask, Mr. Speaker, does it take a constitutional or a simple majority to adjourn sine die?

The SPEAKER. A simple majority.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Therefore, the gentleman's problem is not too great, Mr. Speaker, in reply to the query. I do not see how we can give the gentleman an answer until we caucus next Monday.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

The SPEAKER. Does the minority leader desire to announce the time of the Monday caucus?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I understand we will convene at 3:30 p.m. on Monday. Therefore, I would like to call a Republican caucus for 3 p.m., one-half hour before the session. I believe a half-hour caucus will be sufficient.

DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, for the benefit of the members on the Democratic side of the House, there will be a Democratic caucus in the new House caucus room on Monday beginning at 2:30 p.m. The session will be at 3:30 p.m. I do ask that all the members please plan accordingly to be here next week at the scheduled hours and dates.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Session 1962. 146th of the General Assembly.

Vol. 39. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1962. No. 17.

SENATE

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY, 20, 1962.

The Senate met at 11:00 a. m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor John Morgan Davis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. RALPH B. SNYDER, Pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Lebanon, offered the following prayer.

Let us pray.

Almighty God, our Father, Ruler of all people of the earth, grant to the Officers and Members of this Senate a sacred moment of quiet ere they take up the duties of this day. Bestow upon them understanding minds, discerning spirits, steadfast wills and compassionate hearts. Give them strength to carry the burdens and responsibilities of their office, wisdom to make decisions aright, and courage to do Thy will. As pressures are brought to bear upon them from every side, keep their ears attuned for Thy still, small voice. Where there is criticism of their actions, help them to profit from that which is worthy, and to forgive what is unjust and unkind. Cause them ever to remember that they act not only before men, but always under the scrutiny of God. Defend them from temptation and enable them to speak and act that all may be inspired and uplifted. Empower them to do the right as they see the right, and then to commit the rest into Thy keeping.

In this day of change and fast moving events, may we all rededicate ourselves to the eternal verities of life, through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

OBSERVANCE OF MOMENT OF SILENCE IN DEFERENCE TO ORBITAL FLIGHT OF LIEUTENANT COLONEL JOHN H. GLENN, JR.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I think it would be most appropriate if the Members of the Senate would observe a moment of silence in deference to John Glenn's orbit around the earth, in the hope that he has a safe journey and that he lands safely on our soil.

I think it would be very proper if the Chair would recommend a moment of silence.

The PRESIDENT. Senator Lane, I think that is a very excellent suggestion. Will the gentlemen please stand?

(Moment of silence was then observed.)

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. WEINER and Mr. LANE, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

NOMINATION BY THE GOVERNOR REFERRED TO COMMITTEE

The Secretary of the Governor being introduced, presented communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows, and referred to the Committee on Executive Nominations:

MEMBER OF THE STATE BOARD OF CHIROPODY EXAMINERS

February 19, 1962.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

In conformity with law, I have the honor hereby to nominate for the advice and consent of the Senate Edward Lee Cercone, 1175 Balmoral Drive, Pittsburgh 37, Allegheny County, for appointment as a member of the State Board of Chiropody Examiners, for the term of four years, and until his successor shall have been appointed and qualified, vice Dr. Charles Dana Bossart, Pittsburgh, whose term expired.

DAVID L. LAWRENCE

HOUSE MESSAGE

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION REFERRED TO COMMITTEE

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented for concurrence House Concurrent Resolution No. 37, which was referred to the Committee on Rules.

GUESTS OF SENATOR GUS YATRON PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. YATRON. Mr. President, I would like to request that the Chair acknowledge the presence of a group of students from the Governor Mifflin Junior High School, in Shillington. This group represents the Historical Club of that school.

They are here under the guidance and direction of Mr. E. Dallas Leininger, their teacher, with whom I had gone to Kutztown State Teachers' College years ago.

I do not know whether I am in order or not, but I would like to say that Mr. Leininger is our Republican County Chairman from Berks County.

I would like the Chair to please acknowledge their presence here in the Capitol today.

The PRESIDENT. Mr. Leininger, do you have any protest over the announcement? If you do not, the Chair will take it as gospel.

Certainly, on behalf of the Members of the Senate, I would like to greet you. Will you all rise in order for the Senate to greet you?

Having been reared in Berks County,—in Reading, to be exact—I am very happy to greet even the Republican County Chairman from Berks County. However, I am also particularly interested in greeting the young men and women from the Governor Mifflin Junior High School.

You have a fine community there and I am sure you have a very excellent high school. We hope you will find your visit to the Senate and to the other parts of the Capitol very interesting and of help to you in your civic classes.

Thank you very much for coming to be with us.

GUESTS OF SENATOR CHARLES R. WEINER PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, we also have with us today three distinguished guests from the Republic of China. They could not have come here at a more appropriate time. They are auditors and deal with budgets and budget affairs. As our friends on the other side often refer to them, they could probably be called budgeteers.

I take pleasure in introducing to the Senate Mr. Tseng, Mr. Cheng and Mr. Su, who are visiting us here today.

The PRESIDENT. On behalf of the Members of the Senate, may I say to you that you are indeed very welcome. We hope you will find your visit here to the Capitol of Pennsylvania a very helpful one. We do wish your Country the best of everything.

RECESS

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, at this time, I request a thirty minute recess of the Senate for the purpose of holding a Republican Caucus.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I also request a thirty minute recess of the Senate for the purpose of holding a Democratic Caucus.

The PRESIDENT. Are there any objections? The Chair hears no objection, and declares a thirty minute recess of the Senate.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Robert D. Fleming) in the Chair.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. MAHADY, from the Committee on Constitutional Changes and Federal Relations, reported, as committed, SB 29.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT GRANTED FOR IMMEDIATE CONSIDERATION OF THE CALENDAR

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I request unanimous consent that we now proceed to the consideration of today's calendar.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There being no objection, the Senate will proceed with consideration of today's Calendar.

CALENDAR

THIRD READING CALENDAR

HB 82 CALLED UP OUT OF ORDER

HB 82 (Pr. No. 185)—Without objection, the bill was called up out of order, from page 2 of the Third Reading Calendar, by Mr. WEINER.

APPROPRIATION BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

HB 82 (Pr. No. 185)—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I hope that this bill, upon its passage, will usher in a better day for the preparation of the Centennial of the Battle of Gettysburg in Pennsylvania.

So far, Pennsylvania has been far behind other States in planning for the celebration of the Centennial of the Civil War. It is interesting that the State of Alabama recently appropriated the sum of $250,000 for this purpose. I do not know whether it is to mark their defeat or what. Nevertheless, they did it. Pennsylvania, so far, has not accomplished much.

Senator Weiner, the Majority Leader of the Senate, is a member of that committee. I hope he will convey to the membership of the committee the desire of Pennsylvanians to expedite matters. There is no doubt that from all over the world, people will be streaming to Gettysburg in July of 1963. I hope that our joy will be marked and noticed. I also hope that the committee will do a good job with the passage of this appropriation.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

HB 28 CALLED UP OUT OF ORDER

HB 28 (Pr. No. 182)—Without objection, the bill was called up out of order, from page 1 of the Third Reading Calendar, by Mr. WEINER.

APROPRIATION BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

HB 28 (Pr. No. 182)—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. PROPERT. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Majority Leader, Senator Weiner.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEINER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. PROPERT. Mr. President, I notice that this bill was amended yesterday to increase the appropriation from $35,000 to $50,000. Will the Majority Leader give me some information about this?

Mr. WEINER. Yes sir, I will be very happy to.

This school is located in Philadelphia. It primarily deals with youngsters who have not finished high school and who have gone out to work for some reason or other, either because they are financially unable to continue in high school, or the family needs their income, or there has been a loss of a member of the family. The school is a vocational school which not only helps these people get their credits for high school, but it also teaches them a trade like sewing and other kinds of trades.

They are primarily dealing with certain elements in the city. The school is made up principally of Puerto Ricans, many of whom do not speak English. They have come to the city and settled in that area, and they need help or they would end up on our relief rolls. Many of them are young Negro students who have not finished school. They go out to work and find out that unless they have some further technological skill, they will never rise above a laborer. Many of them have lost their laboring jobs because of automation.

The school has sewing machines, and they have been teaching these people to sew. They also have secretarial courses. They have been catering to the element in the city that could not afford otherwise to get an education.

This school has been receiving State aid since 1905. Some of the board members are presidents of banks.

Senator, if you think that the appropriation they are getting is too high, I will be glad to talk to you about it.

Mr. PROPERT. Mr. President, will the Majority Leader inform me where he got this $15,000 additional?

Mr. WEINER. Senator, you are absolutely correct. I have not gotten it from any place. All I can say to you is that every Session when money has been added, the Governor has stricken it out, and probably this will fare no better. I thought this was a small sum, and if the Governor felt he wanted to strike it out, he could or he could give them part of the money and not give them the rest of it if it is not used up during the year.

Mr. PROPERT. Senator Weiner, could you tell me how much, including this $15,000, the General Fund Budget is now over the recommended amount in the Governor's Budget?

Mr. WEINER. With the amounts that we put in, if you will wait just one minute, I will give you the addition.

Mr. President, the budget is over the original request in the amount of $85,000.

Mr. PROPERT. That includes everything that has been added to date?

Mr. WEINER. Yes sir.

Mr. PROPERT. It is over $85,000, including this $15,000?

Mr. WEINER. That is correct, sir.

Mr. PROPERT. I thank the gentleman.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

GUESTS OF SENATOR GEORGE N. WADE PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, with apologies for interrupting the Calendar at this point and also with appreciation to you for the opportunity, I would like to introduce a very fine group of eighty-five seniors from the Newport High School, in Newport, Pennsylvania, led by their two teachers, Mr. Kipp and Mr. Steinwalt.

If you will in your usual, genteel custom present the young folks to this Body, I will appreciate it.

The PRESIDENT. Thank you, Senator Wade.

Will the young ladies and young gentlemen from the Newport High School rise to be greeted by the Senate?

I had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Kipp and several of your group this morning at the foot of the stairway in the Capitol, and I was very much impressed. I hope you are finding your visit to the Capitol a very interesting one. We are very happy that you stopped in to see your Senate in session.

THIRD READING CALENDAR

HB 15 CALLED UP OUT OF ORDER

HB 15 (Pr. No. 181)—Without objection, the bill was called up out of order, from page 1 of the Third Reading Calendar, by Mr. WEINER.

APPROPRIATION BILL ON THIRD READING AMENDED, OVER IN ORDER TEMPORARILY

HB 15 (Pr. No. 181)—Read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Messrs. BERGER, FLACK and KROMER, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendments:

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, lines 4 and 5, by striking out "twenty million dollars ($20,000,000)" and inserting: twenty-two million dollars ($22,000,000)

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 15, by inserting after "Athletics"; at University Park and the Commonwealth campuses located at Allentown Altoona Erie DuBois Hazleton McKeesport New Kensington Ogontz Pottsville Scranton Wilkes-Barre Wyomissing and York

Amend Sec. 1, page 3, lines 2 and 3, by striking out "nineteen million seven hundred and seven thousand seven" in line 2, all of line 3, and inserting: twenty-one million seven hundred seven thousand seven hundred dollars ($21,707,700)

Amend Sec. 2, page 5, lines 12 to 19; page 6, lines 1 to 6, by striking out all of said lines.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, these amendments would add to the appropriation of The Pennsylvania State University the sum of $2,000,000. In stating a concrete amount additional to the appropriation to The Pennsylvania State University, we believe that the needs of the university will be well-defined and that the amount of money that they will receive for the necessary purposes of the administration of that institution will be enhanced so that they may make proper plans for disposition of their funds.

Mr. President, the previous amendment to this bill, which was offered yesterday, left that proposition pretty well out in never-never land, with the thought that if there ever should be any money Penn State should get eight per cent of any surplus that might accrue.

We believe, Mr. President, that the thought behind that amendment clearly indicates that there will be available funds. We are convinced of that, and we firmly believe that the amount should be defined in the bill in order that it is not a haphazard way of appropriating the State's money, and that the institution should know what it has to operate with and not speculate that if at the end of a certain time there should be some money, they might get it.

For that reason, Mr. President, we believe this amendment is a reasonable and proper amendment to The Pennsylvania State University appropriation, and one which should receive the support of all Members of this Body who are interested in the future and the proper operation of that great institution at State College.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, on behalf of these amendments, and the series of amendments that will be presented here today, I think it ought to be very carefully explained and the record ought to very carefully show exactly what is being done in this field.

We went along yesterday—the Democratic Members of the Senate and other Members—in increasing by eight per cent the amount that Penn State will get over and above the balanced budget. I have heard various Members on the other side speak of from $5,000,000 to $9,000,000 in surplus. If that be the case, and I am sure all of you can do the arithmetic as well as I can, and if it is $5,000,000 they will get $400,000, and if it is $9,000,000 they will get $720,000.

There is also—and I do not think that I am violating a confidence—about $300,000 that Penn State will get out of the G.S.A. in furnishings for many of their buildings. So, I think they are doing pretty well in this area. It is not as much money as we would like to give them. We would like to give them more money.

However, we now find—if we will look over the record very carefully, and I would like to read this to you and you can come to your own conclusion—that in the biennium of 1953-1955, Penn State received $20,500,000. That would be about $10,250,000 a year. We now come to 1962-1963, and Penn State is getting for this year $20,000,000, plus the eight percent that they have been promised, plus an additional $300,000 which they will get under G.S.A.

Let us take any one of the other universities. Take Pitt, for instance. They got $6,780,000 back in 1953-1955, which would be roughly around $3,390,000 or $3,400,000 a year. This year, Pitt is getting $4,170,618 for the year. If you will look at the differential on the amount, you will see that Penn State is getting the greater share.

Bear in mind one other thing. The State pays social security, retirement and other fringe benefits for Penn State, which we do for no other university. I do not say this in criticism and I do not say it in apology. I am just putting the facts on the record. When you add that to the $20,000,000 plus what they will receive this year, it is a rather sizeable sum. Bear in mind that we are one of only eight States which supports any kind of university the way this State does.

Also, bear in mind that we do not have a State university in the sense that Michigan or some other States have. This is merely a land-grant institution. I am for supporting them. I am for doing everything that we possibly can to help them.

There are also many programs that exist at Penn State today which we support with money and they, in a sense, are fiction because many of the things they will do in those areas will not redound to the economic benefit of the State, even though they are moving in that direction, and I am sure their intentions are correct. However, I do not think there is one man in this room, who knows anything about the State of Pennsylvania, who ever feels that coal will be one of the big industries in this State, or who feels that slate will be one of the big industries in this State. We even expended money to try to build roads out of coal products, and it just did not work out. This was after money was spent on research.

We even put an additional $25,000 into a mastitis program that is being conducted at Penn State. I have no objection. I think this is a good thing. However, actually that is a medical problem and it should be handled as a medical problem, as similar problems are being handled as well by the Veterinary School at the University of Pennsylvania.

This is to help Penn State, and I am for doing everything I possibly can. However, gentlemen, last Session when we talked about giving additional money to Penn State, and we asked for a vote in regard to providing tax money to do it, we could not get one single vote even when we ran the bills twice. I told you we would drop the bills from the Calendar unless the money was actually put out or implemented. No one saw fit to do it. Here we come to an election year this year, when it is the right thing to do, when it is popular and when it reads well when you talk about, and everybody is now worried about education and everybody is worried about Penn State. Where were you last year when we needed you?

I think we ought to be honest with each other. I think when we go to spend the taxpayers' money, I think we ought to be honest with them as well. Nobody has worked harder on education than myself, Jo Hays, and Harry Seyler, people who have been in the education field, and other Members of the Senate on both sides of the aisle. Then when it was time to stand up and be counted, only the fellows on this side of the aisle stood up and were counted.

I am going to talk about all the amendments that will be offered. One amendment here is for $200,000 additional for Penn State to study the elimination or control of smoke and air pollution caused by burning coal. There is another amendment, appropriating $200,000 for the investigation and research of carbons or other treatment of detergents in municipal sewage treatment systems. Here is another one for research to discover methods to eliminate or control pollution of our streams.

Gentlemen, I do not know whether you read your mail, and I do not know whether you look at the booklets that come to your desk. However, if you want to come down to my office, I will show you about eight or ten booklets of studies that have been compiled over the last ten years on every one of these subjects. They have not only been done superficially, but in depth. If you need further material, there are thirty or forty different commissions not only in this State, but in Washington that will send you all of the details that you want.

If you want to give Penn State an additional $500,000, that is one problem. However, if you want to use this subterfuge to do it, I think it is pretty disgraceful, and I think it is a horrible way to do it, because you are holding out bait for them to go out and get personnel to set up laboratories and set up these investigations when there is really nothing for them to investigate. All they have to do is look at the current literature, and they will have all that they need. If you do not have enough here, I am sure that the Joint State Government Commission can supply you with quite a bit of detail in this very same area.

There is a book on air pollution, which I read on this floor when the resolution dealing with hydrocarbons was introduced. It was about one and a half inches thick, and there has been more material on that. If you write to any of the companies that make any of these products or research them, they will send you a lot of material dealing not only with their own products, but with the general subject.

I think to spend money, using this as a subterfuge to do it, is pretty disgraceful. I am sure you will get a booklet from Penn State telling what they did on this study, because they are an honest institution and they are honest people who want to do a decent job. What are we going to do with these booklets when we get them? What are we going to do with this research program after we get it? Who is going to act on it? We cannot even agree to confirming an Air Pollution Commission in this State. Actually, we do have the machinery to do it, but we cannot put it into force. So, what good will one more study do in any of these areas?

I am sure, as far as detergents and streams are concerned, if you will walk over to the Department of Health or walk over to the Fish Commission or Game Commission, those people will give you all of the research studies made over the last twenty years,—not the last ten years—and those are a mile high.

Therefore, I think we ought to be honest with each other. I think we are all old enough to be candid with one another, and I think we ought to call a spade a spade. To use this subterfuge, I think is pretty disgraceful.

Mr. BERGER. Very briefly, Mr. President, there must be considerable merit to the amendments in order to arouse the indignation of the Majority Leader to the point that he has just demonstrated. Ordinarily, he does not get quite that excited about these things.

However, Mr. President, no matter how beautiful the refrain may be, it begins to get a little bit tedious after it has been played so many, many times. Yesterday, we listened to the same dissertation on the subject of who voted for what. I tried to make the record very clear to indicate that, yes, the Republicans did vote against the imposition of a tax upon the income of various classes of people, which was intended to raise about $8,000,000 to $9,000,000. The Republicans did vote, however,—and I want to make this very clear—against the motion to drop from the Calendar the additional appropriation to The Pennsylvania State University. On that measure, the Democrats voted to drop it from the Calendar. That record is clear and needs no repetition.

Again, Mr. President, I want to say that the action on that vote has been vindicated by present day knowledge. What we anticipated at that time has become a fact. Consequently, Mr. President, I believe that the adoption of the amendment, increasing the appropriation to the Pennsylvania State University for the purpose of meeting their increased administrative costs, is certainly justified at this time.

Furthermore, Mr. President, to compare the cost of Penn State and to use the fact that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania pays social security and retirement charges and so forth for the employees and the faculty of Penn State is certainly begging the question. Pennsylvania State University is a wholly supported State university. That is not true of the University of Pittsburgh, the University of Philadelphia or Temple University. It is unique with Pennsylvania State University and, consequently, the comparison has no weight and no bearing on this subject.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to make the record very clear.

This year, we are giving to The Pennsylvania State University $20,000,000, plus. We are giving to Pittsburgh University $4,170,000; we are giving Temple University $5,668,000; we are giving to the University of Pennsylvania $5,732,000. Penn State's appropriation amounts to four to five times the amount that we are giving to any one of these universities. In other words, at the other three universities which receive support from us, we give them one-fourth or one-fifth of what we give to Penn State. We certainly do feel a certain obligation to Penn State and we are meeting that obligation. If we did not feel that way, we surely would give more to the other universities or, at least, give them some of the fringe benefits that the State University now enjoys.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Weiner.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEINER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I would ask the Majority Leader whether he would be able to state the over-all cost of operation of the University of Pittsburgh.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I do not have that figure in front of me. However, I can tell you that we, in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, make up between ten to twelve percent of their budget. Therefore, if you do the multiplication of the figure which I gave, I am sure you will come to the conclusion or the answer that would normally come from their over-all budget.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, in my weak mental way, as far as arithmetic is concerned, I would say, at the minimum, that would amount to about $40,000,000. We are paying the entire cost of the operation of Pennsylvania State University. By these amendments, we are asking to increase that appropriation to $22,000,000.

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, the distinguished gentleman from Philadelphia shifts his ground as he deems necessary to meet certain exigencies. Yesterday, I sat here and listened to his plea, and those of others on the other side, for Project 70 on the grounds of progress, on the grounds of looking ahead, and on the grounds of the necessity to even create a debt so that we could progress. Today, the gentleman now castigates the appropriation of approximately $500.000 for research, science and study at The Pennsylvania State University.

I think we should remember that this whole matter hit a tempest yesterday when Senator Hays introduced his amendment to this bill, attempting to provide $1,500,000 to The Pennsylvania State University, which was the intention of the Select Committee on Education last fall. Much has been said by Senator Weiner on the floor of this Senate concerning those who stood up to be counted on the two percent tax bill. While this is history, nevertheless, I think the allegations which are made be Senator Weiner should be responded to appropriately.

It should be remembered, Mr. President, that the "freeze" bill was vetoed by the Administration. That "freeze" bill would have provided approximately $12,000,000 to our distressed schools. It also should be remembered that this would have furnished an additional $12,000,000 to the General Fund, which that fund had paid out in the preceding year to our distressed schools, and they lost that money. Then, it should be remembered that the two percent tax would have raised $18,500,000 for our schools. This meant a net—understand this—to our schools of $6,000,000. That is all they would have been receiving by the tax. The General Fund of the Administration was swollen by that amount.

It is not any wonder, therefore, that we on this side refused to be trapped into voting for a two percent tax. That is the reason why we stood up to be counted. Certainly, we were in favor of finding money for our schools. On this floor, we continually hammered away that there were adequate funds in the budget, and there would be adequate funds to take care of appropriations to the schools. We plead with the opposition at no time to bury those subsidy bills or the other bills, which were a part of the educational program. Nevertheless, by ruthless methods, the opposition buried those bills and there was nothing we could do about it.

As a consequence of the entire thing, we came back in this, a fiscal Session, to try to help Penn State. However, Mr. President, at what cost? At the cost of our school districts. You will see in these amendments—and I speak upon them as a series because Senator Weiner has spoken upon them as a series—that the last amendment elimates this eight percent cut from the surplus in House Bill No. 1, which is in there and which also was cut yesterday by an amendment. That money will be provided, therefore, to Penn State, under the present situation, by reason of the amendment of yesterday, at the expense of our third and fourth class school districts, particularly. These school districts so desperately need the funds. It is a regrettable thing that the opposition should attempt to provide money for The Pennsylvania State University at the expense and the cost of our distressed school districts, which are clamoring, throughout the Commonwealth, for aid and help from the Administration.

Therefore, Mr. President, if you refuse to accept these amendments, in lieu of that which was offered yesterday, you are doing so at the expense of subsidy for our public schools and you say so to all the public schools throughout the Commonwealth.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I just want to correct one misimpression that might have been left here.

Pennsylvania State University, this year, is receiving close to $3,000,000 more than it got last year. Last year, their appropriation, on a thirteen-month basis, was $18,517,00. This year, as I said before, they are receiving over $20,000,000. The other appropriation was based on thirteen months. This is on a twelve-month basis. Therefore, they are receiving an additional amout of close to $3,000,000.

If I might, I would like to correct a statement made by Senator Berger. Although we provide only about ten percent or twelve percent of the budget of the other universities, we have always given Penn State anywhere between twenty-five to thirty-three and one-third percent support. The rest of the money they receive is from Federal grants, small endowments, tuitions and so forth.
